Charlevoix home to first baby New Year

BY MARCI SINGER
NEWS-REVIEW

439-9348 - msinger@petoskeynews.com

The first baby born in Charlevoix County was in no hurry to ring in the new year.

Weighing nine pounds and with a length of 22 inches, Patrick Timothy McClure was born at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 3 at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Proud parents, Timothy and Kristen, both 35, welcomed their first child after 14 and a half hours of labor.

"He was very comfortable right where he was in his mother's belly," Kristen said.

"We are happy and really surprised," Timothy said, adding after four and a half hours of pushing, the birth was completely natural.

"My wife is nuts. We are really proud of her. I can't believe she did it."

"Natural childbirth is not nearly as hard as it seems," Kristen said. "It takes focus and dedication and the end result is well worth it."

The couple recently moved to Charlevoix from the Detroit area.

Shopowners: Holiday sales pretty good, but not great

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

While shoppers may not have spent as much at area shops this holiday season, other businesses are reporting their best numbers in years.

For many Charlevoix businesses, the holidays are a time to make up for a lackluster summer and fall.

It also helps set the stage for a successful 2010.

Ray and Tami Bier of the Bier Art Gallery and Pottery Studio just south of Charlevoix, have seen the ups and downs of the local economy after nearly 30 years of business.

"The number of people coming in this holiday season was a little more flat than previous years," said owner Ray Bier. "But we did have a lot of people call in for orders. Many of those orders were from people that saw something in the store over the summer and wanted to order it for Christmas."

Bier said his wife Tami's nativity sets were a popular item this season.

Pam Acharya, owner of Esperance, a gourmet wine and food shop, said edible items were popular gifts this season.

"Consumables were by far the number one thing," said

Acharya. "People definitely bought a good amount of wine and food."

Acharya said his holiday sales were a little softer than he had hoped, but steady.

While shops saw steady numbers, those in the restaurant and lodging industry saw an increase in numbers.

Tom Pfeifle, General Manager of the Weathervane Terrace Inn and Suites said the stretch between Christmas and the New Year was an unexpected surprise.

"We did much better than the last two years for Christmas week," said Pfeifle. "I was pleasantly surprised. I think it helped that we got snow kind of at the last minute."

Pfeifle said many guests waited until the last few days before Christmas to make their holiday reservations.

"I think our location really was a deciding factor," explained Pfeifle. "We're close to snowmobile trails, close to ski hills, and customers realized they could get a suite with a fireplace here at the Weathervane for the same price they could at a hotel close to the ski hills. They would just have to

Many area restaurants, bars and coffee shops also reported high numbers for the week.

Meet the new boss; not same as the old boss

Not your typical newsman, news editor Jeremy McBain stepped into role of News-Review editor
Jan. 1

CHRISTINA ROHN
NEWS-REVIEW
439-9398 - crohn@petoskeynews.com

Jeremy McBain is anything but conventional.

The 34-year-old Charlevoix resident, who wears kilts and carries 450-pound boulders around for fun as a Highland athlete, has been named editor of the Petoskey News-Review.

For the past two years, he's managed the newsroom as news editor, and on Jan. 1, he will officially step into the shoes of retired editor Kendall P. Stanley.

"He's certainly ready to take that step forward," Stanley said.

Doug Caldwell, publisher of the News-Review, said he believes this transition will be seamless.

"(McBain's) been doing the day-to-day operations for the newsroom for the past year, that's been kind of his training without the title," Caldwell said. "I'm a big believer in promoting from within ... and Jeremy's tackled every project that I've set in front of him — I see his strength, his attention to detail and his passion for this business. 'I don't think there's anyone who's as passionate in that newsroom.'"

Though McBain's road to the news desk has been full of twists, turns and crash landings, he said he feels that he's positioned himself at the right spot in history.

The Gladwin native didn't always want to go into news; in fact, his initial passion was flying.

"I was always fascinated with flying," he said. "I wanted to be a fighter pilot when I was a kid, or an astronaut."

Fresh out of high school, in 1993, McBain traveled to Traverse City and enrolled in Northwestern Michigan College, hoping to become a pilot. But his dreams were soon dashed when he realized that his poor eyesight would prevent him from reaching the cockpit.

This forced McBain to contemplate another career, so he switched his major to English, and then to history. He now had his sights set on attending Central Michigan University's teaching college.

Before attending the university, McBain decided to get some experience under his belt, so he "shadowed" a teacher's English composition class in Traverse City.

This didn't turn out quite as he expected.

"I learned that I didn't like teaching," he said.

Nevertheless, McBain went on to attend Central, but as an history major.

It was during his orientation that he noticed journalism for the first time.

"I was looking over the list of majors at CMU during the orientation, and I saw journalism on there," he said. "I thought, 'I thought, this might be interesting as a minor.'"

This interest soon turned into an undeniable passion for McBain.

At the urging of a professor, he began writing for the campus newspaper, Central Michigan Life, and things fell into place.

"The first story I took was about drunk driving," he said. "As I'm interviewing the sheriff, it just clicked — this is what I want to do. I just loved it."

McBain said he realized that being a journalist would allow him to be a part of history.

"I felt like I was on the front lines of history, and I was seeing it happen and recording it for future people," he said. "It made me feel like I was actually doing something important."

McBain worked tirelessly from 1996 to 1998 at Central Michigan Life, and acted as managing editor for two summer semesters. He also branched off by working in the paste-up room for the Morning Sun in Mount Pleasant.

"I wanted to learn everything I could about newspapers," he said.

Toward the end of his college career, McBain took an internship as a business writer with Hometown Newspapers out of Howell, which led to a full-time position as a beat reporter in Novi.

McBain said getting job wasn't easy — he had to fight for it.

"At the end of my internship I was a fill-in reporter for a woman on maternity leave, and she ended up not coming back ... I begged and pleaded for that spot," he said. "I clearly wasn't (editor Mike Malott's) first choice, but he took a chance on me ... I learned a ton from him."

McBain worked for two years in Novi, writing about education, local government and police, as well as trying his hand at investigative journalism.

In the end, McBain said he was ready to move on.

"To be honest, I didn't like Detroit so much — I didn't like the traffic, I missed the country," he said. "Some of the stuff I was reporting was wearing on me."

Toward the end-of 1999, McBain began job search and saw an opportunity to become an editor of a small-town newspaper in Charlevoix.

He jumped at the chance. In December 1999, McBain began his five-year run as editor of the Charlevoix Courier.

The position, he said, taught him more about journalism than he ever expected.

"I came up here with the attitude that I came from a big city, and I'd done investigations — I got schooled really quick," he said. "You have to learn the community; that's the most important thing."

"I had so many hits and misses there — it was like going through five more years of school."

Before transitioning to the News-Review as a beat reporter and special sections editor, McBain said he reflected on his time at the Courier, and was proud of what he had accomplished.

"I helped increase circulation by 23 percent in the first three years, we started doing investigations ... I tried to make it the best weekly newspaper in Northern Michigan ... that was my goal," he said. "When I looked at the community, and saw just how high the caliber of people were there, I felt like they deserved the best paper."

In November 2004, McBain stepped back into the role of a reporter for the News-Review, but soon found that he was yearning for more of a challenge.

"After a year, I started asking for more assignments, and Kendall Stanley, who was managing editor at the time, gave me The Graphic, and then I was (helping edit the News-Review)," he said.

McBain said once the Schaller family sold the News-Review to Schurz Communications in 2006, he was basically on the fast track to becoming an editor.

"I cannot say enough good things about the staff. They have literally provided blood, sweat and tears to this product," McBain said what has kept him interested in this business for so long is being able to inform the public about issues affecting them in a fair and honest manner.

"When somebody tells me they read something in our newspaper that they didn't know before, or that they completely disagree with us, but they thought we handled it fairly — those two things keep me passionate," he said.

"I wanted to provide the residents of Charlevoix and Emmet counties a newspaper they could be proud of — an all-around newspaper that had a little something for everyone in it," he said. "A newspaper that's fair, trustworthy and tells it like it is and is worth the cost they pay for."

As he steps into the role of editor, McBain said these goals will remain a priority, as well as increasing the paper's online presence, something which Caldwell said he believes will be one of McBain's challenges.

"We need to continue to grow our print and digital presence in the marketplace; our readership right now is the largest we've ever had, and our digital product continues to grow substantially month-after-month," Caldwell said. "We are now the most popular Web site in Northern Michigan, and Jeremy will have a lot to say about that."

McBain acknowledges that the economy has been a challenge to the News-Review, and has had an effect on his staff, but he refuses to let that slow him down.

"We've got a smaller staff, but we've got to make sure our quality continues to go up," he said. "I'm nervous because this community expects so much, and they deserve the best; I'm excited that I'm going to have the opportunity to helm a newspaper that has so much history; and I'm confident with the staff and the people in this community."

"I cannot say enough good things about the staff. They have literally provided blood, sweat and tears to this product," McBain said what has kept him interested in this business for so long is being able to inform the public about issues affecting them in a fair and honest manner.

"When somebody tells me they read something in our newspaper that they didn't know before, or that they completely disagree with us, but they thought we handled it fairly — those two things keep me passionate," he said.

Stanley said he believes McBain is ready to continue the legacy that has been set in place by the three editors (Jim Doherty, Ken Winter and Stanley) before him.

"He's got a good journalistic sense, and he likes good stories — what we do is tell good stories," Stanley said. "I'm utterly convinced that no one provides better and more thorough information on our communities than we do ... and I know (McBain) will continue to aggressively watch what government units and schools are doing, we will continue to get breaking news out to our readers as quickly as possible, and he'll continue to encourage reporters to find those special people and special stories that exist in all of our communities."

"That's what you need to make your legacy, to continue the efforts of those who've gone before you ... he's now the 'voice of the News-Review.'"

McBain is married to his wife of 11 years, Valerie, and has a 5-year-old daughter, Kiera.

Wii are not as fit as Wii once thought

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

We have acquired a family Christmas gift, not so family friendly. It needs a just-right-left is left, forward is back and back is forward. To clear up any confusion the family gift I am referring to is the widely publicized and very popular Wii.

It's pronounced the same as the French word oui. No similarity other than when you ask kids if they want to play it, they usually respond with yes.

More adjustments made to its program and we are ready to take on the adventures and challenges displayed on the TV screen.

Carefully aligning the furniture for safety purposes, we stretch out our arms and swing to and fro to be certain we won't hurt anything or each other.

The contraptions are now quietly on the same square my husband had just solemnly stepped off of. I was ready to be sized up physically.

I knew we were ready for the 'Fit' portion.

Our long walks, house cleaning and shoveling snow prepared us to be able to handle what lay ahead.

My teal colored yoga mat showed wear from years of use. Multi-colored stretch bands now half their size from snapping in two from constant pulling and stretching.

Yes, we were ready.

My husband went first. He stood on the one foot square of white plastic as it scanned his body, height, weight and balance.

Ms. Wii announced he was as fit as a 75-year-old.

I squealed with laughter. My husband wasn't joining me in the giggling. Now it was my turn.

Ms. Wii told me to stand quietly on the same square my husband had just solemnly stepped off of. I was ready to be sized up physically.

I stood at attention and oh so ready because I knew in my heart the news would be good.

A minute passed, I continued to patiently stand still on the smart form of ivory.

It scanned my body mass and was about to announce that surely I was as fit as a 30 year old. I was certain it would announce half my age.

Time passed slowly and like the Cheshire cat I was ready to say, "See I told you so."

The speaker came on.

A crackle and then the computerized voice announced much too loudly, "You are as fit as a 71 year old."

"What!" I exclaimed, "You need to fix this thing. It needs some calibrating."

Not even certain that was the correct term but it brought my esteem up a notch making me feel smart-er.

We spent the next hour going through the motions of various body contortions and balancing acts.

We both worked hard on the assignments presented and after an exhausting workout we felt our mission was accomplished; we are on a roll.

It was time to get some sleep, both of us feeling fit and ready to show Ms. Wii that we could handle whatever she dished out.

By morning neither of us wanted to rise and face the dark morning.

The dog let out a bark.

That was his brief message telling us it's time to get up and go for a walk.

"My feet," I moaned while shuffling across the hallway to find any ointment that smells like my grandpa's house.

Walking the dog is usually a delightful task but now we are both begging off as our very flat feet are aching due to the balancing act on the one foot square piece of hard and unforgiving equipment. Next time, if there is a next time, sturdy foot ware is in order.

Today you'll find this otherwise energetic couple spending time in the living room.

He, displayed on the couch a victim of defeat connected to a long and winding electric cord that's attached to a

She, resting peacefully, wrapped in her favorite soft pastel robe, Ibuprofen within reach as well as the remote.

We are not a good look for a fitness program but took more like an ad for a senior housing development.

Nursing home residents involved in cheering each other on while bowling from the comfort of their wheel-chairs do better than we do at this new family and friend's game.

We are welcoming the New Year quietly and slowly feeling every bit of 75 and 71 respectively.

I, however, am holding out that the machine has a learning problem and read the numbers backwards.

Gayle Gennett's column appears twice monthly.

Columnist says 'Come meet your mystery date'

The popularity of computer-based entertainment has spawned an epidemic of young couch potatoes, known as Tater Tots.

In an attempt to lure kids into a vertical position, there is even a televised plea on ESPN suggesting that children dedicate "at least 60 minutes a day" to outdoor play.

Is this a desperate hedge against a future populated by myopic, socially awkward mole people who have spent their formative years in dreary urban settings inhabited by virtual vampires and ear thieves? Probably.

But for me this dilemma has been usurped by my recent concern that with the advent of on-line dating, adolescence may extend into retirement.

Online dating could arguably be considered the romantic equivalent of cyber-gaming. A few bucks a month provides electronic entertainment with an ever-changing cast of characters. I suddenly know lots of people who are giving it a go and when they mention it, I am rapt.

"Tell me all about it and start at the beginning," I say, assuming a lotus position by their chair. "What made you decide to do it in the first place?"

Curiosity is the overwhelming response, but there seems to be more to it than they are, at first, willing to spill. I sense the thrill of the prom.

"More wine?" I ask, filling their glass to the rim. "Go on..."

"Well," my friend Carla said, "one man told me 10 minutes after we met for coffee that he currently has restraining orders placed on him by two different women. That was interesting."

I agree that if someone has to lead with that, it could only be downhill from there. Anyone else?

"Oh, sure. But everybody lies.

Another guy told me that I was the first woman he'd met who used a recent picture," Carla waves her wine glass, sloshing my sock.

"So you meet and his first reaction is disappointment?"

W h e y would you do that?"

Christine Gwidt

Carla has been a member of one popular dating site for a month and she likens it to being the star of her own personal reality show. It's time-consuming to isolate the choice bachelors and then follow up, but she wants to see the flesh and blood version of her matches.

Conversely, Bob has been on another site for almost two years. "How many women have you met face-to-face?" I ask, interrupting his BlackBerry slide-show of contenders. He's ruffling through his harem, sharing the photos like a new grandma with a brag book.

"None. They're too far away - California, Maine, Texas..."

He scrolls through a few more. "But we talk on the phone and text."

"So basically, you're just trolling?" I thought the question might offend him, but he smiled and nodded.

"Yea, basically."

So what's the objective? Everyone I spoke to professed that the hoped-for result is a soul mate situation, but the majority aren't in much of a hurry to pick just one. With the daily influx of candidates delivered to their inbox, they are seduced by the idea that they may inadvertently settle just before they hit the jackpot. They want to see what else is in the hopper.

"What is it about a person that makes you respond?" I ask.

Looks. That's number one. Bob has vetoed women for reasons ranging from sturdy thighs to thin lips. Carla goes for a full head of hair and a minimum height of six feet.

The second most important criterion is the way they've answered their questionnaire.

"For instance," Bob prods his BlackBerry screen for the info, "this is Katie from Colorado."

list of personality-revealing platitudes fills the tiny screen, beginning with a declaration citing family as the most important thing in her life. This eye-opener is followed by admissions of a hankering to walk on the beach, eat good food and travel. Katie adds a love of reading to her startling exposé. Her picture is of a pretty girl with a disco hair-cut in a "Relax" tee shirt, cutoffs and platform shoes. Her age is listed as 42.

"She looks a lot younger than 42," I say.

"Yea, she's a vegetarian," Bob flirts through more bios that say pretty much the same things. If these admissions are accurate, there must not be a deserted stretch of coastline left on the planet.

So, I'm thinking about online dating. Not about participating, as I've already snagged a catch with zero restraining orders. I'm just wondering how it will end for my friends. Will they find what they're looking for or simply find themselves addicted to virtual cruising? Any hope for recovery would have to begin with a pledge to play outside for at least an hour every day.

LETTERS to the editor

THANKS SUPPORTERS

Editor:

On behalf of the parish of Christ Episcopal Church, Charlevoix, I wish to thank all who contributed in some way and/or attended our recent Advent Tea & Auction.

We are so appreciative of your continued support, not only for our tea but the ministries that benefited as a result of your generosity.

Proceeds this year will go to the Charlevoix Ministerial Association and the Charlevoix Community Food Pantry.

Lynn Carson, Chairperson
Advent Tea & Auction

STUDENT PHILANTHROPISTS

Editor:

The Community Food Pantry would like to thank the students and staff of the Charlevoix Middle School and the Charlevoix High School for their generous support this holiday season.

We received over 2000 grocery items from the middle school food drive as well as a generous amount of money.

The students worked hard for several weeks to make this food drive a success.

Charlevoix High School staff gave the food pantry a monetary donation and the football team sponsored a food drive at Oleson's Grocery Store on Dec. 19.

Again, the Community Food Pantry reaped tremendous benefits from their efforts. Thanks to these donations, we will be able to provide emergency food for those in need for several weeks this winter.

XMAS PROGRAM CONTINUES TO GROW

Editor:

To the people of Charlevoix: In the 1980s the Charlevoix Community Christmas Project was formed to help children in the Charlevoix school district have a Merry Christmas. That year several ladies at the Congregational Church (food pantry girls) asked the people of Charlevoix for help and they responded by helping 13 families with food, clothes and toys. This year, 2009, the Christmas project asked the people of Charlevoix for help and wow - 245 families, 530 children and their parents received food, and the children received mittens, hats, socks, clothes and toys. Thank you Charlevoix.

Fourteen churches and their congregations, Charlevoix Schools, business people, service organizations, neighbors, friends and strangers came forward, bought food, clothes, toys and donated time and money to help Charlevoix kids have a merry Christmas. It was truly a blessing to work on the Christmas Project this year.

We expected a real challenge because of the high rate of unemployment and rough economy, but you showed us how neighbors help neighbors.

Everywhere we looked we saw a helping hand and everyone we asked said yes.

Charlevoix, you are amazing. Thanks to all of you and a special thanks to Bethany Lutheran for the use of their great facility, the Toys for Tots marines who helped pick up and deliver toys, all of you who helped put things together that last week, and the special people who serve on the Committee.

May God bless all of you in 2010.

Bev Boss
Chairman of the Charlevoix community Christmas Project.

Camp Daggett pays it forward

In a tradition begun in 2008, the year-round staff at Camp Daggett once again paid it forward for the common good. Last year, volunteer efforts by the Camp Daggett staff supported Operation Thanksgiving in Petoskey and the Community Christmas Program in Charlevoix. In 2009, on Dec. 19, the staff contributed a day of volunteerism to The Nehemiah Project House in Petoskey. Staff assembled donated beds, sorted and organized food pantry goods, and bagged and delivered clothing to a nearby community service distribution site. Camp Daggett continues to help children by giving a $50 discount off the price of the first summer camp of the year. Call 347-9742 for more information or go to www.campdaggett.com. Pictured above are staff Karen Marietti and Jennifer Tarquini.

Jeff Winegard named top of top of MI trails

The Top of Michigan Trails Council has hired Jeff Winegard of Petoskey as executive director.

Jeff is a native of North Canton, Ohio, and a graduate of Mount Union College of Alliance, Ohio, and Ohio Northern Law School.

He also has a master's degree in environmental policy from the University of Michigan. Jeff has served as planned giving officer of the Nature Conservancy based in Arlington, Virginia, and director of planned giving and legal counsel for the American Farmland Trust based in Washington, D.C.

Most recently, Jeff and his wife, Julie, have worked as fundraising consultants in Petoskey for a variety of clients including the Maine Coast Heritage Trust, National Park Trust, Florida Stewardship Foundation, Northwest Michigan Horticultural Research Foundation and the Manna Food Project.

Winegard

Jeff is also an avid runner with experience on trails across the country. "Jeff's experience with conservation easements and fundraising will help the Trails Council immensely in its work advocating for the development of trails in northern Michigan," said Charlie MacInnis, president of the trails council.

"My experience working with farmers, townships and other community leaders taught me to listen and try to help with the consensus-building process," said Winegard. "I believe trails can be a major part of the economic engine to power communities in northern Michigan."

Tourism is king here and trails help give a community its identity. The Trails Council was formed in 1994 by Horace "Huffy" Huffman, retired chairman of the Huffy Corporation of Dayton, Ohio, and a group of community leaders to facilitate the establishment of a multi-use, year-round, safe recreational trail system in Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties.

Today, the Trails Council serves as a primary advocate for trails in eight counties, the initial three plus Presque Isle, Alpena, Otsego, Antrim and Montmorency.

Kirtland Community College announces fall president's, dean's lists honorees

Officials at Kirtland Community College recently recognized students for their academic achievements during the recent 2009-10 fall semester that earned them placement on the college's dean's and president's lists.

To qualify for the president's list, candidates must be full-time students who earn a grade-point average between 3.8 and 4.0. Dean's list candidates must have a grade-point average of 3.4 to 3.799.

About 3,200 students attend KCC on an annual basis to study in the more than 80 certificate and two-year degree programs offered at Kirtland's three locations – the main campus near Roscommon, the Michigan Technical Education Center (M-TEC) in Gaylord and in West Branch – with the college's service area including all or parts of Crawford, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Roscommon, Otsego, Kalkaska, Missaukee, Gladwin and Alcona counties, and the surrounding areas.

Open mic night

Open Mic Winter Nights are back at 6:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Public Library one Wednesday each month. Open Mic Winter Nights celebrates local musicians and their original music. A 40-minute performance will be followed by a "Music-in-the-Round" jam session. Bring your instruments and jam with the featured local musician and enjoy a chance in the spotlight. The performers always need an audience, so feel free to attend to watch and listen if you prefer. On Jan. 6, Gordon Howie, a retired educator, will play his baritone and soprano ukuleles. His interests lie in folk, old timey, '50s music and novelty tunes. On Feb. 10 Zonni, a guitar player who knows her way around drums and percussion as well as woodwinds, brass and strings, celebrates her voice through lyrics about life's ins and outs. On March 3, Sandy Blumenfeld will be featured. Sandy began playing guitar while attending NMC in 1963 and has been playing ever since. Influenced mostly by the early folk days of the '50s and '60s and especially the Delta blues players that were "rediscovered" during that era. On April 14, Acoustic Stew will delight the library crowd with their folk and rock music. Pictured are (from left) Acoustic Stew and Gordon Howie.

OBITUARIES

Doyle Dawson Way: July 10, 1930 - Dec. 28, 2009

Doyle Dawson Way was born July 10, 1930, and passed away Monday, Dec. 28, 2009.

Dawson married Joan Elizabeth Brumm on July 14, 1951, giving them 58 years of happiness together.

Dawson was born and raised in Detroit until he was 16, and then moved to Charlevoix with his parents and brothers, Doug and Dick.

Clarence, Dawson's father, remained in Detroit for a few years working for a tire manufacturer until they could get the family farm in order, thus making Dawson the "man of the family farm."

He attended Charlevoix High school where he met Joan, also nicknamed "Pickles," and that's where it all began.

Upon graduation and a wedding to Joan, Dawson spent a short time at Ferris State College, and a two-year enlistment with the US Army during the Korean War.

Dawson was able to arrange to have Joan brought overseas to France where they lived and served for a

Upon their return home they purchased their own farm on Barnard Road and farmed that until Dawson had an opportunity to join the Farm Bureau Insurance Company.

He worked his way from an Insurance Salesman to District Manager, developing the largest Michigan

District in the company covering the entire "tip of the mitt" from Traverse City to Alpena and the entire Upper Peninsula.

At the age of 45, Dawson chose to retire from Farm Bureau to pursue some development opportunities in the Charlevoix area, including Sugar Bush Knoll and Sugar Bush Meadows in Petoskey.

During this time, he volunteered a year to be the building project manager for the Charlevoix Assembly of God church located on M-66, "the church in the pines."

Dawson was always active in some type of venture. He assisted Barney and his wife Kris (Goff) Way with Dry Harbour Marina and also

The Way family, including his parents Clarence and Ruth, and his brothers, were charter members of this Assembly.

Dawson's other siblings were Bob Way, Assemblies of God Pastor and World Missionary, who preceded Dawson to the Heavenly Gates 10 years ago and his Sister Geraldine Koehler of Grosse Pointe and Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

It was not too long after this that Dawson and his son Barney, with the help of his daughter Sandy and husband Wayne Boss of Boss Engineering of Charlevoix, purchased and ran Charlevoix Garbage Service and Charlevoix County Landfill.

They successfully ran and grew this business for eight years before selling the service and landfill to Waste Management.

Dawson and Joan retired again and purchased a winter home in Lakeland, Fla.

Dawson was always active in some type of venture.

He assisted Barney and his wife Kris (Goff) Way with Dry Harbour Marina and also his son Mike and his wife Chris (Davenport) Way in the establishment of Pine River Inc, the home of e-log.

Daughters Sue and husband Mike Boss of Boss Engineering live in Howell, and Stacy and husband Don Armbruster of Action Fabricators live in Grand Rapids.

Dawson is survived by his wife Joan and their 5 children, 21 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren, with one more on the way.

They enjoyed traveling and family time in Charlevoix on Way Bay.

Both of their passions were family, church and their strong Christian Faith.

Viewing was Wednesday Dec. 30, 2009, with a funeral on Thursday, Dec. 31.

Visitation and service will be at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

Officiating the service will be Mike Way, Pastor of the Charlevoix Assembly, Dawson's eldest son.

Memorial gifts are asked to be made out to the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church "Dawson Way Memorial Fund" in lieu of flowers.

Robert E. Beznitz, 83, of Charlevoix, died suddenly on Monday, Dec. 28, 2009.

He was born on March 10, 1926 in Scranton, Pennsylvania. He was a veteran of the U.S. Navy serving during World War II.

Robert is survived by his children, Cynthia Kacin (James) of Lake Leelanau, Laurel Marinetti (Daryl) of West Bloomfield, Robert Beznitz (Melissa) of Waterford, Rebecca Buchanan (Jeffrey) of Whitmore Lake, nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Phyllis, in 1992.

Robert lived and worked as an aerospace and automotive engineer in the Detroit area while living in Farmington, MI.

He moved to Charlevoix in 1996. He was an active member of his community and St. Mary's Catholic Church.

He did volunteer work and fund raising for Habitat for Humanity.

He was proud of his community and helped with the spring petunia plant.

He loved up north living and was an avid golfer, swimmer, painter, and walker, always enjoying the outdoors.

Condolences can be sent to Cindy Kacin, 3100 S. Candace Lane, Lake Leelanau, MI 49653.

Charitable contributions will be accepted for Habitat for Humanity and St. Mary Church.

A memorial open house to celebrate his life will be held from noon to 4 p.m. at his home at 5442 Beech Lane in Charlevoix on Jan. 10.

Condolences can be sent to Cindy Kacin, 3100 S. Candace Lane, Lake Leelanau, MI 49653.

Charitable contributions will be accepted for Habitat for Humanity and St. Mary Church.

Edgar Lantzer: Died Dec. 29, 2009

Edgar Lantzer, 77, of Petoskey, succumbed to cancer and passed from this life, in his sleep at Northern Michigan Regional Hospital in the early hours of Tuesday, Dec. 29, 2009.

Mr. Lantzer had been bravely fighting cancer for several years.

Ed Lantzer is the artist in marquetry whose unique work — 120 linear feet of four-by-eight-foot, wood mosaic panels depicting images from the life of Christ, had been on display at the Ed Lantzer Gallery on Mitchell Street in Petoskey for the past 18 months.

The "panels" are currently placed on display in the Washington Square of Evansville, Ind., respecting the positive spiritual impact the artist's work has had on the lives of its citizens.

Ed returned to Petoskey to spend his last days with friends.

The Panels will soon follow.

Plans are in place to celebrate Ed Lantzer's life at the gallery in Evansville, Ind. on Jan. 9.

The Board of Directors of My Father's Love Foundation will organize a very similar celebration here, in Petoskey later in January.

The location of that memorial service/celebration is yet to be announced.

Those who would like to make a tax-deductible contribution in memory of Ed Lantzer to the Foundation's efforts to continue to tour the My Father's Love exhibit may do so by designating their contributions to My Father's Love Foundation, P.O. Box 114, Elk Rapids, MI 49629 or by visiting the Web site at www.myfatherslove.info.

Seblo DeVries: Feb. 14, 1916 - Dec. 30, 2009

Seblo DeVries, 93, of Ellsworth, died Wednesday, Dec. 30, 2009 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

He was born Feb. 14, 1916 in Banks Township, the son of Paul and Sophia (Krist) DeVries who were bumped from the overbooked Titanic while emigrating from the Netherlands.

Seblo helped his family on the farm for a few years before marrying Faye Strange Burns on Jan. 17, 1953.

They made their home in Atwood for several years prior to moving to Ellsworth.

Seblo worked for Hodgkiss and Douma on road construction and later sold World Book Encyclopedias.

He sold Electrolux vacuum cleaners for 20 years.

He enjoyed table games, listening to gospel music, being with people, and going to church with his family. Seblo was a member of the Atwood Christian Reformed Church.

Surviving are his children Mareia (Dan) Mort of Clarksville, Tenn., and Roy (Marilyn) DeVries of Cananda, N.Y.; eight grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; nieces and nephews.

He was preceded by his wife Faye, daughter Sonia Vanniman, sisters Pearl Alward and Grace VanderSlik, and his brother Rink DeVries.

The funeral service were at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 2, at the Atwood Christian Reformed Church with the Rev. David Kroon officiating.

Burial will be in Atwood Cemetery.

Arrangements were made by Hastings Funeral Home in Ellsworth.

Court reverses tax decision

ED WHITE, ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

DETROIT (AP) — A dispute over a modest home in northern Michigan could have significant consequences statewide after an appeals court says Charlevoix illegally raised the property's taxable value when a co-owner died.

Taxes more than tripled after the death of James Klooster (KLOW'-ster) in 2005. The Michigan Court of Appeals says it was wrong to raise the taxable value when there still was a co-owner, Klooster's son Nathan.

Since 1994, the taxable value of a Michigan home can't go up much unless there's a new owner, typically through a sale.

The appeals court, in a Dec. 15 decision, said Klooster's death didn't trigger a transfer of ownership.

Nathan Klooster's lawyer says the ruling could have a "bigger ripple" throughout the state. Charlevoix hasn't said whether it will appeal.

Outlaws debut at Sno-Blast

RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Organizers hope a new event will help attract a younger and larger crowd at this year's East Jordan Sno-Blast.

The Outlaw Sled Show is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 16 at the East Jordan Sno-Mobile Club.

The show will feature a number of sleds that aren't typically seen in other area snowmobile shows.

"I know a lot of people who have sleds they don't always take out on the trail, but they want to get them out and show them off," said Gerry Argetsinger, the Vice President of the East Jordan Sno-Mobiles Club.

Argetsinger and Connie Massey, the club's secretary, came up with the idea for the show while attending a 2010 Sno-Blast planning meeting.

"We had been throwing the idea around for awhile," said Massey. "It just seemed like it would be a fun event to host."

Argetsinger added, "Together we hashed it out and thought it would help bring in more people to the event. We have an antique sled show at the same time and figured it would be fun to have a variety of sleds to show off."

The sleds that will be featured in the Outlaw Sled Show will have flashy decals, bigger motors, and some fancy paint jobs.

For more than 40 years, the East Jordan Sno-Mobiles Club has served as a non-profit organization that promotes the snowmobiling for the entire family.

Their clubhouse is located at the beginning of the Jordan Valley Trail System.

"The Antique Sled show has been going on for about 10 years now," said Massey.

"Our hope is that the Outlaw Sled Show is just as successful."

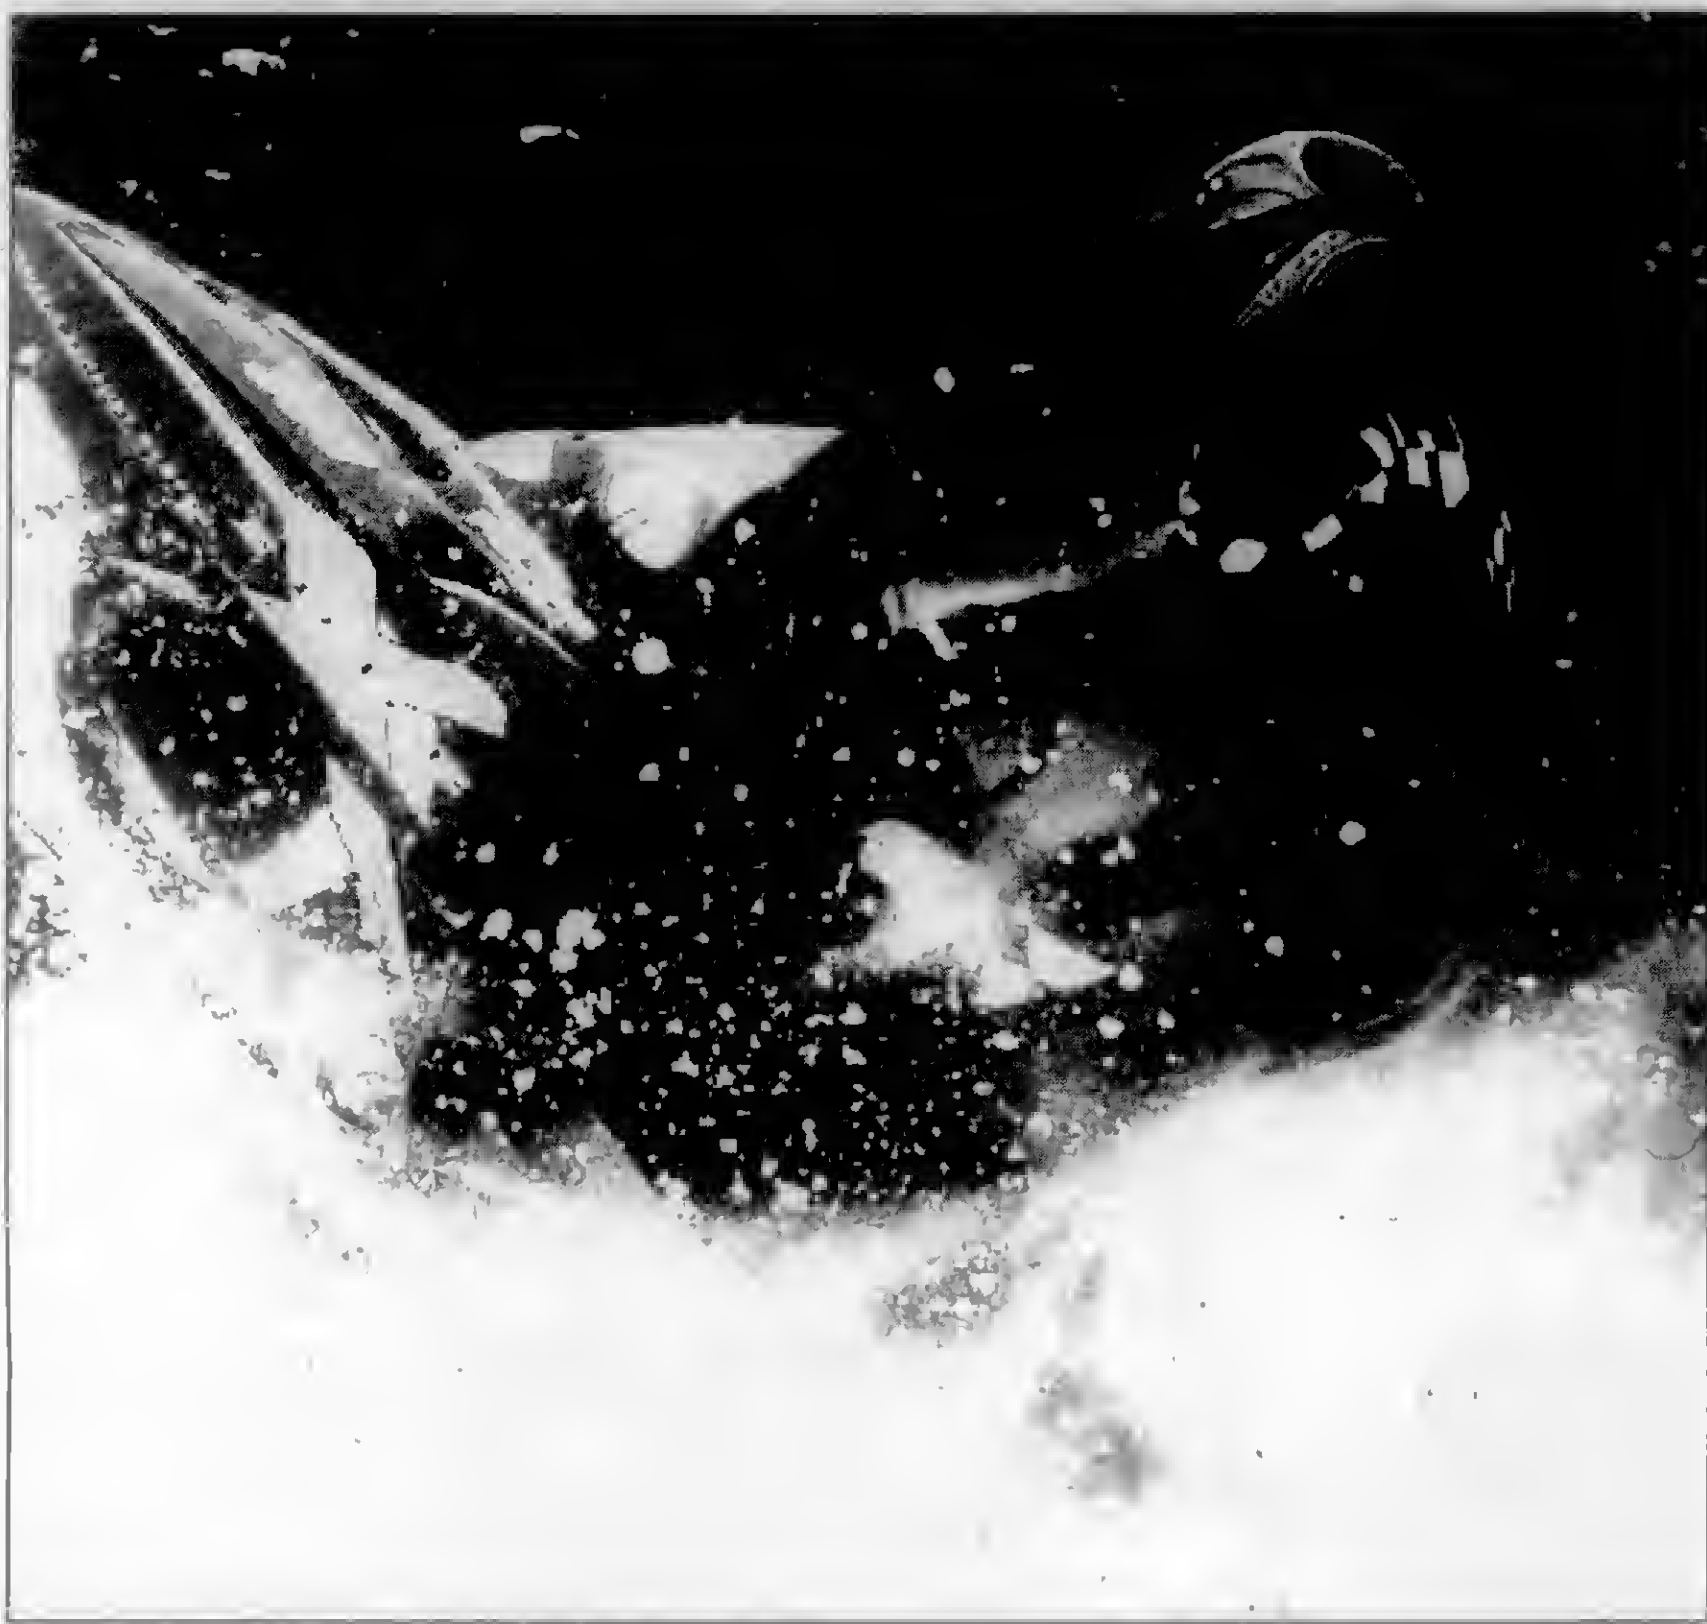

"We're kind of just learning as we go along in the planning," said Argetsinger.

"But I'm sure there are people out there that work hard on their sled and would like to show it off." The Outlaw Sled Show is just one of several events at the 2010 East Jordan Sno-Blast.

For more information on the show, or to enter your sled, contact Gerry Argetsinger at 582-7970.

Time to Make New Year's Financial Resolutions

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

Like many people, you may make some New Year's resolutions. Perhaps you've promised yourself that you'll visit the gym more often or learn a new language or reconnect with a long-lost friend. All of these are worthy goals, of course, and if you achieve them, you may add new dimensions to your life. But if you want to accomplish other major milestones you may have envisioned — a new home, college for your kids, a comfortable retirement and so on — you may need to set some New Year's financial resolutions.

What type of financial resolutions should you make? Here are a few ideas to consider:

• Contribute as much as you can afford to your 401(k). Take full advantage of your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan. Your contributions are typically tax deductible and your earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis. Every time you get a boost in salary, try to increase the amount going into your 401(k), but at the very least, contribute enough to earn the employer's match, if one is offered. In 2010, the contribution limit for 401(k) plans is $16,500, or $22,000 if you're age 50 or over, although both these limits may increase if they are indexed for inflation.

• "Max out" on your IRA. Even if you have a 401(k), you're probably still eligible to contribute to an IRA. A traditional IRA grows tax deferred, while a Roth IRA's earnings are tax free, provided you've had your account at least five years and don't start taking withdrawals until you're 59 1/2. (Your ability to contribute to a Roth IRA is based on your income.) You can fund your IRA with virtually any type of investment. In 2010, you can put in up to $5,000 to your IRA, or $6,000 if you're age 50 or older, although, as was the case with your 401(k), these limits may go higher if they're indexed for inflation.

• Rebalance your investments as needed. Over time, your goals and risk tolerance can change. That's why it's a good idea to review and rebalance your portfolio at least once a year, possibly with the help of a professional financial advisor who is familiar with your situation.

• Avoid "emotional" investing. Don't make decisions based on emotional reactions to what's happening with your investments. For example, just because the price of an investment may have dropped significantly, it doesn't mean you should rush to sell it. Despite the price drop, it may still have good prospects and it might be an important part of your investment strategy. Consider all factors before making "buy" or "sell" decisions.

• Keep sufficient cash in your portfolio. During the long bear market of 2008 and early 2009, many investors discovered that they lacked enough cash in their portfolios. Of course, you need enough cash on hand to meet unexpected expenses without dipping into long-term investments. But beyond that, the presence of cash and short-term, more liquid investments can help reduce the volatility in a portfolio that may sometimes be battered by both the stock and bond markets.

These financial resolutions, like all types of New Year's resolutions, may not be easy to keep. But if you can stick with them, you may have many happy new years in the future.

Getting it together for the new year

Getting it together for the New Year: Top resolutions

A new year provides a fresh start on things left undone and a starting point for changes that are difficult to make but deeply desired.

Talking to people of all walks of life, it becomes clear that they are all a great deal more alike than they may realize.

People apparently have many of the same goals and difficulties.

"Joining a gym sets you up to meet new people and makes you accountable. You can get in shape anywhere but it's a better place to get in shape because you have a support system," said Dean Spenceley owner of the South Side Gym. "If people want me to train them, I'm a big fan of hitting hard, resistance training, cardiac conditioning and eating habits."

Suggestions for getting into shape include:

- Eating right
- Don't spot train, work your whole body.
- Drink lots of water.
- Stick with it.

"It's a lifestyle change. It's not something you can do for 3 months and it's good," Spenceley said. "It didn't take one night to get you where you are and it's going to take a while to fix it."

According to Sue Stallard, a Weight Watchers meeting leader:

"I think we all need support and to be accountable, you can't do it on your own," she said. "Make out a plan, how you are going to do it and what you are going to do, set goals."

Stallard said it is important to stock your pantry with good foods.

"Get rid of the aftermath of the holidays," she said. "Set short-term goals as well as a long-term goal and reward yourself along the way."

Stallard holds meetings at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays at the Evangelical Lutheran church in East Jordan.

To help monitor your health for the new year Kathy Jacobsen with Charlevoix Area Hospital will be hosting "Wellness Wednesdays."

Everyone is welcome to have their blood glucose levels, cholesterol, body fat percentage and BMI checked for free by registered nurses.

Walk in or make an appointment.

The Wellness Wednesdays are scheduled for the following times and dates 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Jan. 6, March 3, May 5, June 2, July 7 and Aug. 4 in the hospital's solarium.

Another avenue of getting in shape for the new year can be provided by Steven V. Thomas, MD and Christopher C. Jeffries, MD two of this region's most respected plastic surgeons.

Facial aesthetics, body contouring and breast reconstruction is now available through the Charlevoix Area Hospital, 321-929-7700.

Quitting smoking. According to Michelle Hines, facilitator of the "Freedom from smoking clinic" hosted by the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"In light of the statewide smoking ban that will soon take effect, this is a great time for people to quit smoking," she said.

Hines said it is important to prepare psychologically to quit, set a quit date and get a support system in place for the rough times.

This free clinic began Jan. 4 and lasts eight weeks.

Call 547-8672 or e-mail hmhines@cah.org to register.

For those struggling with drugs and alcohol, there is help.

A 24-hour Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous hotline can be reached at (231) 348-5005.

Also, Dr. Gary Biggs of Landmark Baptist Church offers free counseling and can be reached at (231) 881-1435.

Biggs celebrated 30 years of sobriety this year and brings his first hand experience into the counseling sessions.

Getting Finances under control.

According to Benjamin Muladore of Edward Jones Investments.

"Markets have recovered very strongly on 2009," he said. "We hit a low in March but have experienced a good recovery."

Muladore's tips for fiscal fitness include spending less than you earn, saving for retirement and making sure you max out your IRA investment.

"Have an appropriate mix of stocks and bonds in your portfolio. Typically equities build more quickly so it might be time to shift some of your equity holdings over to fixed income," he said. "Make sure you hold quality investments so you can focus on long term financial goals."

Muladore can be reached at 237-0643.

Another source of financial counseling will be held at the Christian Reformed Church.

They will be playing the Dave Ramsey Financial Freedom videos starting Jan. 10.

Contact Jan Boss about this free, 13 week seminar at 547-9482.

Making your home a happier place

According to Pastor James Green, always think of others first, be honest, look to help before being asked, be on time and call if you are going to be late, keep all communications open and be loving and kind.

Green also advises spending money wisely, spending quality time with your family and going to church regularly.

Nine healthy steps to success

BY BRUCE WEISS, M.D.

1. Choose carefully. Make a potential list of resolutions. Choose one or two that you feel are most important. Can you see yourself succeeding? If not, you may want to re-evaluate your choice.
2. Take baby steps. Small changes over time can add up to big results. If healthier eating is the goal, eat a piece of fruit every day after work. If you're hoping to clear the clutter, set aside 15 minutes a day to organize your personal or work files.
3. Get it on paper. Jot down the steps you'll take to reach your resolution. Include a timeline.

4. Enlist a friend. This is very helpful when you're gearing up for exercise. Knowing that you're accountable to someone other than yourself for that morning walk can help keep you on track.

5. Complete the resolution in your mind's eye. Visualize your resolution coming to life. See the positive impact it will have.

6. Be patient. Making a major change, such as losing weight or breaking a bad habit will take time, energy and dedication.

7. Reward yourself for the resolutions you've kept. Treat yourself to something special, such as fresh flowers, a good book or a massage.

8. Look for ways to keep your resolutions fresh.

9. Focus on yourself. Remember, these are your resolutions. Make them first and foremost for yourself.

Patriots pen thoughts on their love of country

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

"Does patriotism still matter?"

ONE OF SEVERAL QUESTIONS ASKED OF PARTICIPANTS IN THE ANNUAL PATRIOT'S PEN ESSAY CONTEST

Noah Dvorcak, Montana Thompson and Harley Argetsinger were awarded the Patriots Pen award Jan. 4 by Pat Dillon, president of the VFW Women's Auxiliary and Jane Schmidt, Chairman of the local Patriots Pen Essay program.

Patriot's Pen is a youth-essay writing contest.

It is a nationwide competition that gives students in grades 6, 7 and 8 the opportunity to write essays expressing their views on democracy. Annually, more than 115,000 students participate in the contest.

The topic for the 2009 contest was "When is the right time to honor our military heroes?"

Although none of the Charlevoix contestants placed on the national level Dvorcak won first place for the Charlevoix post 1153 contest. Contestants wrote a 300-400 word essay based on an annual patriotic theme.

The national first-place winner receives a $10,000 savings bond and an all-expense-paid trip to Washington D.C.

Historically, the theme (chosen annually by the VFW commander-in-chief) is purposely kept broad in scope to allow the participant flexibility in interpretation to encourage originality.

"Only St. Marys has participated so far. We have tried to get the other schools involved but they haven't as of yet," said Schmidt.

The 2010-2011 theme is "Does Patriotism Still Matter?"

The entry deadline for this year's contest is Nov. 1, 2010.

The VFW also holds a competition at the high school level called "Voice of Democracy".

The 2010-2011 theme for the Voice of Democracy competition is "Does My Generation Have a Role in America's Future?"

The Voice of Democracy (VOD) scholarship program was created in 1947 and is an audio-essay contest for high school students in grades 9-12.

It provides more than $3 million in scholarships annually.

The first-place winner, who competes with all the first-place VFW Department winners, receives a $30,000 scholarship that is paid directly to the recipient's American university, college or vocational/technical school.

For more information on the Patriot's Pen or Voice of Democracy Essay contests contact your local VFW post.

working with her father, Jeffrey Ricks.

"We had to plan this boy around Kristen's school schedule," Timothy said.

"As soon as she was done with school, our plan was to move to Charlevoix and start our family."

Because the couple has been busy preparing the house and delivering the baby, they have not had time to make any new years resolutions.

"We didn't know if he would be a boy or girl. We are very pleasantly surprised. All we wanted was a healthy baby and he was perfect," Timothy said.

"We'd also like to thank the people at Charlevoix Area Hospital," he continued. "They did a fantastic job and we are very pleased and blessed that Dr. Bill Mosher brought this child into our lives."

2100 LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE
This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt. Any information obtained will be used for this purpose. If you are in the Military, please contact our office at the number listed below.

Notwithstanding, if the debt secured by this property was discharged in a Chapter 7 Bankruptcy proceeding, this notice is NOT an attempt to collect that debt. You are presently in default under your Mortgage Security Agreement, and the Mortgage Holder may be contemplating the commencement of foreclosure proceedings under the terms of that Agreement and Michigan law. You have no legal obligation to pay amounts due under the discharged note. A loan modification may not serve to revive the obligation. However, in the event you wish to explore options that may avert foreclosure, please contact our office at the number listed below.

Attention: The following notice shall apply only if the property encumbered by the mortgage described below is claimed as a principal residence exempt from tax under section 7c of the general property tax act, 1893 PA 206, MCL 211.7cc.

Attention: Michael J Balch and Rheanna D Balch, regarding the property at 203 East Mary St East Jordan, MI 49727.

You have the right to request a meeting with your mortgage holder or mortgage servicer. Potesivo & Associates, P.C. is the designee with authority to make agreements under MCL 600.3205b and MCL 600.3205c, and can be contacted at: 811 South Blvd., Suite 100 Rochester Hills, MI 48307 (248) 844-5123. You may also contact a housing counselor. For more information contact the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) by visiting www.michigan.gov/msghda or calling (866) 946-7432. If you request a meeting with Potesivo & Associates, P.C. within 14 days after the notice required under MCL 600.3205a(1) is mailed, then foreclosure proceedings will not commence until at least 90 days after the date said notice was mailed. If an agreement to modify the mortgage loan is reached and you abide by the terms of the agreement, the mortgage will not be foreclosed.

You have the right to contact an attorney and can obtain contact information through the State Bar of Michigan's Lawyer Referral Service at (800) 968-0738.

Dated: January 6, 2010.

CTAC jazz
The acclaimed 5-piece combo has headlined nearly every jazz festival, club and concert hall in southeastern Michigan as well as venues throughout the Midwest. Gypsy jazz, or gypsy "swing" as it is sometimes called, is a unique combination of energetic and engaging melodies, layered with a variety of instruments to add a gypsy flavor with a swing twist. The musicians have received rave reviews from the Detroit Free Press, Metro Times, Jazz Times and All About Jazz.

Hot Club of Detroit is led by guitarist Evan Perri, who formed the group while attending Wayne State University. Accordionist Julien Labro, soprano and tenor saxophonist Carl Cafagna, rhythm guitarist Paul Brady and bassist Andrew Kratz round out the group. The fibrous accordion tones of Labro, a native of Marseille, France, links the Detroit quintet to the French musette style from which gypsy jazz partially sprung, while Cafagna's robust saxophone work introduces bop and post-bop elements to gypsy jazz.

To see videos and learn more about the group, check out their Web site www.hotclubofdetroit.com.

The concert will be held at 8 p.m. at the Crooked Tree Arts Center, 461 E. Mitchell, Petoskey.

Tickets are $15 adult member, $20 adult non-member, $50 patron, $5 student member, $10 student non-member. For tickets: www.crookedtree.org or (231) 347-4337.

Crooked Tree Arts Center's Juried Photography 2010 Based on Watershed Awareness

The call for entries has been established for the Crooked Tree Arts Center's 29th Annual Photography Exhibition accepting works in early January 2010 with the theme set on watershed awareness. CTAC is working in cooperation with the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council based in Petoskey, the Leelanau Conservancy, and the Watershed Center of Grand Traverse Bay to create an exhibition with images taken solely on these watershed lands.

Northern Michigan waters define the character of our region and the way of life for its residents. Despite their beauty, our waters are quite fragile. The future of our waters ultimately depends on what we do today to protect and restore them. "By bringing attention to the cause of these watershed councils and focusing on the beauty as well as the fragility of the area in which we live, this exhibition hopes to honor and preserve our resources," explains Gail DeMeyer, Visual Arts/Education Director at CTAC.

Juror's for the 2010 Juried Photography exhibition are Todd and Brad Reed, the father and son outdoor photography team based in Ludington, Michigan. Todd Reed has been recording Michigan scenes for over 35 years, 23 of those years as a photojournalist for the Ludington Daily News where he has won dozens of awards. His son Brad's journey as a photographer started as a young boy and has followed in his father's footsteps achieving his own recognition as an artist.

The 29th Annual Juried Photography Exhibition is open to all Michigan photographers 18 years or older and/or members of the Crooked Tree Arts Center. Photograph drop off will be on January 8 and 9 from 12-4 p.m. Sponsors for the 2010 Juried Photography exhibition are Mitchell Graphics and Ollar Consulting. To obtain more information on the watershed councils and the view maps that highlight the regions in the exhibition you can go online to: the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council www.watershedcouncil.org, the Leelanau Conservancy www.leelanauconservancy.com, or the Watershed Center www.gbay.org.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center is located downtown Petoskey at 461 E. Mitchell St. For more information please call the Arts Center at 231-347-4337 or visit www.crookedtree.org. This program supported in part by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Charlevoix enters 'Race to the Top'

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education voted 4-2 during a Jan. 5 special meeting to tentatively participate in Race to the Top.

The hurried decision came as the eve of the state's Jan. 7 deadline for districts to apply for the new federal education reform program drew near.

"We did agree to sign a memorandum of understanding," said Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik. "We can later choose to withdraw from that."

Race to the Top is the education reform portion of President Barack Obama's American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, more commonly known as the "federal stimulus plan."

Of the $4.35 billion delegated to Race to the Top, Michigan is applying for a one-time lump sum payment of $400 million.

"There is no guarantee Michigan will even receive any funds," Janik said. "And there have been no specific details on how the money has to be spent."

If Michigan were awarded the $400 million and Charlevoix Public Schools were to receive their share of Title I funding — Title I is a category based on income which posits students of low incomes are more at risk of failing than others — they could receive nearly $68,000.

"In light of our $12 million budget, this is a drop in the bucket," Janik said. "And remember, we don't even know how we would be allowed to spend it. It could cost more to comply with new rules and regulations than we get in funding ... we just don't know."

Board of education members Larry Levensgood and Valerie Snyder were the lone "nay" votes. They down.

Kelly cited a need to focus on his full-time day job and desire to see someone else get the chance to serve the nonprofit organization.

"I was a board member in January 2004, then named management coordinator in 2005 ... where I just tried to help manage the corporation and try to get it back on stable ground," Kelly said. "Due to no fault of their own the previous management hit some tough times and I feel real good about the progress that has been made since then."

Replacing Kelly is retired train operator and restaurateur Richard O'Leary, also of Charlevoix.

"Scott has been the organization behind the organization ... and I am excited to get to work," said O'Leary, who will be overseeing the daily operation of the facility, coordinating volunteer efforts, meeting times, paying bills and spearheading fundraising ventures. "I have an in-depth knowledge of how the club operates and being retired makes me available to make this transition as smooth as possible."

Kelly said O'Leary, who served as chairman of the Alano's board for nearly five years, is the best man for the job.

"I know he will grab hold of things in the future and be a fantastic coordinator," Kelly said. "He has a unique set of skills in dealing with people and he is very community-minded."

Exotic plants not necessarily cure-alls

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

Every few months I stop by the local drug stores and health-food establishments to see whether there are any new ways that plants are being misused.

Plant misuse is a significant industry.

Hundreds of feet of shelf space are devoted to the mostly usual suspects.

There is Echinacea, which prevents colds, there is always St. John's Wort, which alleviates depression.

Everyone knows that Ginkgo biloba extracts enhance one's mental state.

And of course, Ginseng makes everything better.

In my latest foray, I counted more than 30 individual plant substances listed as having health-giving properties, including cinnamon in capsules.

Most of the claims for such plant extracts or capsules are much like the claim that snow shovels prevent elephants.

How often have you seen an elephant here in Northern Michigan, especially in the winter, when snow shovels are most prominent?

The makers of plant-based nutritional supplements (they cannot legally be claimed to cure disease of any kind) must be very careful in labeling their products, and reading the labels closely is often rewarding.

The Latin name of the plant involved is listed, and it is worth pursuing just what the plant is and where it comes from. Some of the newer extracts claim to contain exotic plants from the far corners of the world, with the near-magical properties we are likely to assign to exotic things.

Yohimbin is one of those, as is Stevia, which might even have some legitimate uses as an artificial sweetener.

There are almost always some new plant supplements that I had been unaware of before.

The world contains hundreds of thousands of plants and many of them could be claimed as healthful, or at least not harmful.

What was labeled as "Super Goatweed" was a new one to me.

As was "Acai," described as a super antioxidant.

Antioxidants as a group are very popular, and it just turns out that plants contain a lot of antioxidants.

Those substances are found in almost all plants, not just in those that have been dried, ground up and placed in capsules with a high price tag.

Even dried stinging nettle leaves are available in capsule form.

What to do about such blatant plant misuse?

My suggestion would be a high tax on plant-based nutritional supplements.

There is precedent.

Think of the high taxes on tobacco, a legal, plant-based product.

We could use the money accumulated to actually prevent disease or alleviate suffering.

And we might even succeed in reducing the misuse of innocent plants.

New year, same old Crying Towel

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

My New Year's resolution was to look younger and live longer.

But who can think about pipe dreams when your son just got his license to kill?

It was our second trip to the Secretary of State's office. He'd passed segment one, but didn't have enough papers, cards and certificates to prove citizenship.

A Caucasian 15-year-old in Charlevoix with a school picture ID, birth certificate and proof of driver's training doesn't cut it?

However, a decidedly Middle-Eastern cat with no green card, a one-way ticket to Detroit from Bombhagistan and a thong full of kill juice can board a passenger plane.

And all that after dude's father turned him in to the CIA.

We left in search of more documentation — each new piece ironically obtained by use of the previous pieces — and we returned with gold seal birth certificate, picture ID, bank statement, piece of mail, a hair sample, fingerprints, toeprints, elbow moldings and six baby teeth.

Don't get me wrong, the customer service is superb, but the barbed wire and German accents are a bit much.

The boy emerged with a smile and his ticket to ride.

The wife's expression was a cross between worry and gas — similar to our wedding photo.

All I could picture was the scene from "Planes, Trains & Automobiles" when John Candy and Steve Martin drive between two oncoming big rigs. They're both screaming and then Martin looks over at Candy who is now dressed in a red devil suit, waving a pitchfork and laughing maniacally.

The last time I let him behind the wheel he took out a headlight after using a snow bank to stop my old Cadillac.

The real bummer in this whole situation is that, at nearly 35, I don't feel old enough to have a kid behind the wheel.

"Oh, but you are" says the martyr-pants voice in my head. "You're middle-aged if you plan to see 70 — and we both know you won't see 70, Pork Chop."

My internal monologue is a self-loathing brute.

Here's the problem: If I give up food, then I have to give up beer, cuz beer makes me hungry.

If I give up beer then I have to give up work cuz work makes me want beer.

If I give up work I'll have to exercise more to fill time I once used snacking and drinking beer — no small feat.

"Did you say 'once' Pork Chop?"

The result will be an angrier, unemployed, slightly less bloated version of myself — and nobody wants that.

And besides, what am I going to do if I live to be 70, chase Abbott and Costello around a museum?

So what realistic changes can I make for the new year?

One of my brothers has given up cheese for 2010 — I know, he's a communist.

I've been trying to swear less, but I think the weird combinations of ordinary words are even more disturbing than the usual expletives.

Just this morning some guy cut me off in traffic and I screamed out, "Nice driving, idiot face!"

The kids laughed. The wife laughed. And the volcano of rage bubbled in my stomach.

"Watch that blood pressure there, Pork Chop."

Now, when the wife invites my wrath I just yell out "Beat!" or "Angry!" to which she tears with laughter and taunts me some more.

"Did you just make a domestic violence joke? Bad Pork Chop."

We'll see who's laughing when the police find me face down in a puddle of whiskey and the nylon shreds of the neighbor's formerly 8-foot inflatable snowman.

I've begun taking a baby aspirin a day in hopes the sausage gravy in my veins won't clot.

Brother sans cheese thought that was the funniest thing he'd ever heard; asked me if I planned to chase the neighborhood kids off my lawn with a rake his summer.

I just might and consider it my aerobics class.

consciousness and becomes the rhythm track of Cher's song, "Gypsies, Tramps and Thieves."

This happens without my permission and for a while, I fight it. I think about other things: my deadline, an old friend in California, an impending dental appointment.

"I hear it from the people in the town, they call us ..." my brain interrupts, in Cher's tenor vibrato.

I try to switch the channel, but my stride only seems to fit one tune.

"Gypsies, tramps and thieves ..."

But every night the men all come around ...

And lay their money down."

I glance around to make sure that I'm alone.

I feel ridiculous, but maybe if I give voice to this abomination, it will work like an exorcism and leave me in peace.

As far as I can see, it's just my dogs and me walking on the trail, and they have heard much worse.

"I was born in the wagon of a traveling show," I begin quietly, but with dramatic inflection.

"My mother used to dance for the money they'd throw ..."

I take a deep breath and scream the next verse in order to hit the high note.

"Papa'd do whatever he COOOOULDD!"

I've forgotten the next line, so I adlib, la-la-la-la-la-la, finishing with a throaty warble.

"Sell a couple bottles of Doctor Goodood."

Wow.

I nailed it.

"Did you hear that?" I ask Charnois, who wags her tail and looks at my treat pocket.

I oblige by reaching in and breaking bite-sized pieces from a stick of Pup-Peroni — one for Cham and one for Jersey.

I dispense them to my audience like autographed glossies.

"Thank-you, thank-you," I dust my hands together to prove that they're empty. "But I'm afraid that's all there is for now."

I feel unreasonably thrilled, like I just got some really good news.

Man, I sounded exactly like Cher!

I imagine myself embarking on a cabaret career, and for some reason this is enough to push my endorphins into hyper drive.

Why would something this absurd cause exhilaration on a lottery-winning level?

It's manic depression.

I probably have bipolar disorder.

Undiagnosed bipolar disorder.

Yes, of course.

This is the manic phase, which is all well and good, but what about when the pendulum swings back?

I know enough to be sure that this will involve a lifetime of medication and dizzying periods of excitability alternating with bouts of depression.

Well, I suppose it was just a matter of time.

I've been flirting with the edge for years, and now I've finally slipped over.

I picture myself falling off a cliff in my bulky snow pants, my arms and legs bent so that my body looks like a swastika spinning through the air.

Where have I seen this image

I think it was in an R. Crumb comic featuring one of his peripheral characters like Flakey Foot or Eggs Ackley.

"Eggs Ackley," I say it aloud and the verbal pun makes my tongue itch.

I forgot to get eggs.

I just went to the store yesterday, and I forgot the eggs.

I can stop and run in on my way home.

No I can't because I didn't bring any money.

I'll have to go home first and ... I picture eggs sprinkled with salt and pepper frying in a pan.

I'll have to go home and put salt in the water softener.

It's probably running on fumes.

I've been meaning to remember to do this for weeks.

I wonder if I stop and write it in the snow if that will be enough to jog my memory later?

I look around for a stick, but the snow has covered them all.

I take a piece of Pup-Peroni and write "SALT" in capital letters beside the trail, and then, for good measure, "EGGS."

The dogs are captivated.

I shake off the treat and divvy it up between them before continuing along the path, recalling when, during a trip to Mexico, I tried to buy eggs at a local tienda.

"Tiene huevos?" I asked the proprietor. "Si. Dos grande," he answered and roared with laughter.

Here on the ridge, the smell of winter is as clean and powerful as a shot of tequila.

"I was born in the wagon of a traveling show..."

I sound nothing at all like Cher.

LETTERS to the editor

Hidden angel Editor:

To whomever it was from:

Just before the Christmas season, I had an accident that completely devastated my way of life.

Compound fractures to the fibula, the tibia, and a completely shattered ankle, left me with three surgeries in 10 days with four plates, 12 pins and 24 screws later.

My Christmas was shot.

I could not drive, my son stayed in Indiana for the holidays, so I could heal. That was sad for him, as well.

But one day my girlfriend, who has been my angel of mercy throughout this whole ordeal, found an envelope, stuck in the jam of her doorway.

It was addressed: "To the young man with the broken leg — Merry Christmas."

I opened it up and found a very nice card, with a hand-written passage from the bible: John 16:33 and a clean and crisp brand new $100 bill.

What I did not find was who it was that sent this wonderful gesture to me.

It warms my heart to know that in this world of chaos and sadness, there are still people who care about other people enough to do awesome things like this.

About a week before my accident, I was laid-off from my job, and because of my injuries, I was considered ineligible for unemployment.

That has changed since then. But, at that time, the money was an extremely welcomed gift.

So to whoever it was, from the bottom of my heart, Thank-you so very much for your prayers, your love and generosity.

Randall Parsons Charlevoix

Community behind WRC Editor:

Entering the New Year provides the opportunity for reflection on the many ways the Northern Michigan community supports the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Inc. (WRC).

The WRC Harvest Food and Supply Drive, which benefits the Safe Home, once again brought forth an outpouring of donations of non-perishable food, household goods, and holiday gifts.

Through the generosity of local service groups, schools, churches, businesses, clubs, and individuals, the Safe Home pantry got a nice boost through the food and supplies received and many families in need received holiday gifts and cheer.

The WRC offers the only shelter for survivors of domestic abuse in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Otsego, and Antrim counties, providing emergency shelter 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Last year alone, 167 women and children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the danger of physical, emotional, and/or verbal abuse.

Over 8,100 complete meals were provided to residents in addition to clothing, toiletries, diapers, and all other daily needs.

Local support received from the community during the Harvest Food and Supply Drive, and throughout the year, plays a critical role in the WRC's ability to provide these vital services to survivors of domestic abuse and their children.

We are so grateful and fortunate to live in a community where people really care about their neighbors. Thank you for the generous support shown during the holiday season and all year long.

An unconventional lesson in how to be a better writer is proving to be a success for students at Ellsworth Community School.

"It's the first year we've done this project, and the kids are writing better than they ever have," said 5th grade teacher, Betsy Randall.

In her research, Randall came across a method called "Mentor Text" which helps students improve their writing skills.

"I have been taking a class at Michigan State University and doing some literacy training with the Char-Em district," said Randall. "The program has made a huge difference already."

Mentor Text uses a published piece of writing whose idea, structure, and written craft can be used to inspire students to write something original.

"It's basically looking at a book, and you rewrite what they've written," explained Randall.

Randall had her students use the book, "When I Was Young in the Mountains," by Cynthia Rylant to create their own story and illustrations.

Randall was overwhelmed with how well her students responded to the project. The students did so well that she took it upon herself to publish all of their books, including one book that she believed stood out above the rest.

Natacha Brodin wrote her interpretation entitled, "When I was Young at the Cabin."

"My instructor at MSU was so impressed with Natacha's book, she sent it off to the original author, Cynthia Rylant," said Randall.

"The project was really fun," said Natacha. "I enjoy making up stories."

Natacha said she really enjoyed reading Rylant's book, "When I Was Young in the Mountains," and that helped make the assignment more interesting.

"I liked making up the stories and it was fun to write and draw it," she added.

Natacha said she may like to write for a living when she's older, but in the meantime she hopes to tackle more Mentor Text projects in the classroom.

"Every teacher should do it because it's fun and different and you learn a lot," said Natacha.

"It really is a fabulous way to teach writing which is a subject that is always a challenge to teach," added Randall. "The kids love it and they're writing some amazing things compared to what they did before."

Natacha and Randall are anxiously awaiting to hear back on what the author, Cynthia Rylant, thought of Natacha's interpretation.

Charlevoix schools will not replace HR director

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

When Charlevoix Public Schools human resources director Kelly Yaroch finishes her last day of work on Jan. 20, the position will be no more.

According to Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik, the remaining administration will absorb Yaroch's duties.

"In our current financial situation we simply cannot afford to replace her," he said.

Yaroch

An employee contracted through the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will continue to act as finance assistant in charge of payroll.

CHARLEVOIX AG' REPORT

A MONTHLY LOOK AT THE TRENDS AND CHALLENGES FACING AREA FARMS AND FARMERS

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Norwood resident Doug Warner's 81-year-old family business is unique.

Part of what makes his nearly 500-acre dairy farm different is that it is one of several surviving in the area.

"There was a time when there was 32 dairy farms, but now there are only five left," said Warner, who has been in charge of the family farm for nearly 40 years.

Several forces work against the smaller family farms, a fact Warner said is responsible for most small farm closures.

"Well, it's a 24-7 job: if a cow is having a calf at midnight, you better be there to help her. If something breaks, you have to go out and fix it yourself—you're tied down pretty continuously," he said. "And then there is a cost. When I bought my first tractor it was $10,000. Now they cost anywhere from $60,000 to $100,000. The investment is tremendous."

The other major factor working against the family farm is the sheer lack of manpower.

"My father came from 14 brothers and sisters and mother came from nine," Warner said. "And I was an only child. The demographics of population has changed so that changes the number of people what stay on to farm."

He added, "Young people don't want to make this kind of investment. It's easier to go in and have a nine to five job with vacations."

Warner knows the shift in demographics all too well. His daughter has plans other than running the family farm.

"I'm the last generation of my family who will run this place," Warner said.

The culture of the corporate farm edging out family operations over the last few decades with use of lower cost foreign labor and raw materials has not escaped Warner's purview.

The 60-year-old farmer has had to turn his farm into a hybrid of old world skill and work ethic with new technology and procedures which save both time and money.

No longer counting milk bottles, ask Warner how much milk he produces and he's clacking away at the keyboard.

"Looks like 24,725 pounds of milk per cow and we have 139 cows," he said, looking up from his computer. "That's roughly 880 pounds of fat and 788 pounds of protein."

Looking to maintain his investment, Warner ensures the milk is immediately cooled refrigerated.

The milk is cooled to 38 degrees and accounted for being shipped out to one of several processing plants throughout the Midwest. Warner's farm is one of dozens which make up the conglomerate Dean's Dairy.

The milk is cooked at at least 145 degrees for nearly 30 minutes to sterilize the product.

One factor Warner has no control over is the price of milk.

Foreign producers' ability to provide dairy at a lower price makes for a volatile milk market.

"Milk was $20 per hundred pounds last year," Warner said. "Now it's at $11."

Milking the cows is but one part of Warner's job. In order to keep his herd happy and producing, Warner must farm hundreds of acres of alfalfa, corn and a type of pea specifically used for cow feed.

It is in the production of these feeds where Warner again distinguishes himself from some other farmers by attaining certification under the Michigan Agriculture Environmental Assurance Program.

"It's to try to get farms to comply to do the best job with their crops and keep records to make sure manure is being utilized properly," Warner said.

"Not putting too much manure on in some spots; avoiding drift ... which is where you

District business manager Shawn Biddle will handle duties including helping employees on insurance and contract issues.

Janik also plans to help by picking up miscellaneous tasks for which Yaroch was once responsible.

A temporary secretary will also continue as accounts payable duties for now.

Janik said he plans to operate this way for at least two months before evaluating its effectiveness.

Officials were not sure what they would see in savings by not replacing Yaroch.

However, Yaroch's yearly salary and benefits package totaled $80,960 with $58,367 constituting her salary.

Yaroch said she has enjoyed her time in the district but is ready for new challenges.

"I'm looking forward to getting back to a little bigger community," said the 32-year-old Charlevoix native. "It's been a pleasure working for Charlevoix Schools."

Yaroch added, "I'll miss the people the most."

Janik said he has mixed feelings about Yaroch's departure.

"We appreciate all her efforts," he said. "I'm glad she is taking on new duties and responsibilities, but I'm also sorry to see her leave. She was a valuable employee and I enjoyed working with her."

Yaroch began with the schools as a payroll clerk six-and-a-half years ago but spent more than five of those years in human resources.

Through a rigorous regimen of record keeping, good stewardship of the land and a genuine desire to protect the wildlife on his property, Warner has managed to receive certification for two three-year cycles in a row.

"You have to be very careful about what and where you put your product and how you handle waste," he said. "We've been here 80 years. We don't want to do anything that's going to hurt or destroy the land—this is where we make our living."

If you have an agricultural and farm related topic you would like to see covered, send an e-mail to news@charlevoix-courier.com or call 439-9309.

For the second time Norwood dairy farmer Doug Warner has been certified by the State of Michigan's Department of Agriculture as an environmentally friendly farm. Warner said this not only is good for the environment, but the steps he takes are also good for business.

Beat cabin fever with soup and pottery fundraiser

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

The Cabin Fever Artsy, Musical Soup Cook-Off.

Members of Northwest Academy's advanced band painted bowls Tuesday Jan. 5, at the Circle of Arts in preparation for a soup dinner fundraiser that will help them get to Washington D.C.

The bowls will be on sale at a soup cook-off for $12 a piece.

Northwest Academy's advanced band members have been working since July 4, 2009, to raise money for the trip.

The band has been involved in several paid performances over the summer bringing in $1,000 before the school year even started.

The Argonne restaurant allowed them the opportunity to raise money by selling two of their best selling specials and giving the band a major portion of each dinner sold.

At least 175 dinners were sold.

The students served dinner and bused tables at the event that brought in nearly $4,000.

They manned a bake sale booth at the Applefest and remained on hand afterward to help other booth owners break down and clean up for donations.

"I am so proud of these kids and their efforts to raise money to make their Washington D.C. trip a reality," said Laurie Hodgson, a parent volunteer.

Each student has paid for a portion of their trip and has been working with the school and parent volunteers on the fundraisers.

The soup dinner will be held downstairs at The Circle of Arts on Thurs. Jan. 21.

Twenty local Charlevoix and East Jordan restaurants have been invited to participate in a soup cook-off.

Guests will be given a ballot with their meal to vote for the best soup and Northwest Academy will present an award to the winner.

Northwest Academy's advanced band students will be playing during dinner, and student photography talent will be on display in the gallery.

"We are calling it The Cabin Fever Artsy, Musical Soup Cook-Off," said Hodgson. "We are hoping that not only Northwest Academy families will come but restaurant patrons as well as those interested in the arts."

Dinner by donation includes amenities other than soup.

A minimum of a $2 donation is suggested.

Rayders girls', boys' both clinch LMC win

BY BRIAN BEAUPIED
NEWS-REVIEW

Turnovers had been the common denominator in each of Charlevoix's five losses this season.

But it was the ability to force turnovers that helped the Rayders win their Lake Michigan Conference girls' basketball home-opener, 54-26, over Boyne City Friday night.

"We didn't seem to turn the ball over tonight as much as we have been," Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said. "We seemed to handle the ball really well and get into a better flow of the game than what we have been."

The Rayders started the game on a 19-4 run and held a 27-9 halftime lead.

Strong defense and knocking down open looks boosted Charlevoix's lead to as much as 20 points in the third and 25 points at one point in the fourth quarter.

"On our part tonight was a big lack of effort," Ramblers coach

Jim Brown said. "We were out of shape from the Christmas break and we really weren't focused on what we were doing. We knew what to expect coming in and we kind of dropped the ball."

Charlevoix, 2-5, 1-1 league, was led by junior forward Lynzie Gotshall with 14 points and seven rebounds, while senior guard Madison Way had 11 points, and senior center Sarah Potter had five points and a game-high 10 rebounds.

Boyne City, 2-4, 1-1, was led by senior Maddie Moeke with 10 points.

Erskine said he hopes the win will help right the ship.

"It's hard when you've only won one game," he said. "The girls have really been trying and practicing hard to get back in the winning ways."

"I knew coming off a long volleyball season and not picking a basketball in six months, that it would take some time to find a rhythm."

Elk Rapids 66, East Jordan 61
Olivia Morrison and Megan Gregorski combined to score 40 points and offset a career-best 29-point effort by East Jordan's Shaina Peters as the Elks claimed a Lake Michigan Conference victory.

Morrison finished with 21 points and Gregorski added 19. The duo combined to go a perfect 6-for-6 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter as Elk Rapids was 8-for-11 from the charity stripe in the stanza to hold off the Red Devils.

Elk Rapids improved to 4-2 overall, 2-0 league; East Jordan slipped to 2-4, 0-2.

Ellsworth 55, Alanson 41
Ellsworth, which defeated Alba on Monday and Wolverine on Wednesday, improved to 4-2 overall and 4-1 in the Northern Lakes. Alanson slipped to 2-5, 2-3.

BOYS' BASKETBALL
If you don't win your home league games, chances are you won't find yourself in contention for the Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball title.

That's what Charlevoix coach Keith Haske said following his team's 62-51 win over Boyne City in the Rayders' conference home-opener Friday night.

And Haske would know, having four league championships under his belt in his 13th season at Charlevoix.

"Usually if you lose a conference game at home you're not going to win the championship," Haske said. "We talked about that quite a bit before the game. You just have to take care of business at home."

The Rayders, 2-4 overall, 1-1 league, led 16-12 through one quarter, but turnovers and poor execution in the second helped Boyne City go on a 12-4 run to end the half, leading 27-24.

"I thought our first half was one of the worst offensively executed halves that I've seen in a long time," Haske said.

Ramblers coach Nick Redman said his team missed an opportunity despite leading at the break. "We missed some easy shots in the first half," he said. "Which really made a difference because we should have been up by more than three going into the half."

Keegan LeBlanc capped off the third by swiping the ball from a Rambler and dishing a no-look pass to Ben Myers for a layup as time expired.

Myers and LeBlanc led Charlevoix with 12 points apiece. "We like getting him the ball," Haske said of LeBlanc. "When he has it, he makes things happen for us."

Boyne City, 1-3, 0-2, was led by senior Nick Young with 15 points and sophomore Jay Redman with 11.

Senior center Bill Ivan added 11 points for the Rayders.

Elk Rapids 48, East Jordan 47
Luke Morrison hit a free throw with 3.9 seconds remaining to break a 47-47 tie as Elk Rapids remained unbeaten in handing the Red Devils a heartbreaking Lake Michigan Conference loss.

Doug Shomin scored 12 points and Morrison finished with 11 to lead the Elks, 4-0 overall, 2-0 league.

Michael Becker scored 13 points and grabbed six rebounds to lead East Jordan, 1-5, 0-2, while Teddy Snowden added 12 points and dished out seven assists.

East Jordan led by four points in the fourth quarter, but turned the ball over on three of its final four possessions, coach Darrin Weber said.

After Morrison's tie-breaking free throw, the Red Devils attempted a foul-line jumper at the buzzer that missed.

Brazilian student trades sun for skiing on Michigan's slopes

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

While growing up in Brazil, Guilherme Awada never set foot on skis.

That was until two years ago, when as a foreign exchange student, he made the Charlevoix Varsity Ski Team.

Now, Awada is back in Northern Michigan, helping coach some of the same friends that helped teach him to ski.

"Since I left I wanted to come back, I just didn't think it would be this soon," he said. "I really wanted to come back to ski and visit people."

Awada graduated from Charlevoix High School in 2008.

Awada has been visiting

"Coach Miller was awesome. She kept telling me to try this and try that. And she always told me I could do it."

GUI AWADA,

AVID SKIIER AND BRAZILIAN EXCHANGE STUDENT

the United States since he was young, he never experienced a true winter until he came to Charlevoix.

"He had never skied before, and decided it was something he wanted to do when he came to the states," said Sandy Malewitz, Awada's host mother. "He tried out for the ski team and fell in love with the sport and did really well."

Awada is currently on summer vacation from school in Brazil.

He decided since he had a couple free months, he'd return to Charlevoix to visit his friends and help out coaching the ski team.

"The people up here are so great, and I'm excited to be back," he said. "I had never skied until coming to Charlevoix, and my friends and coach Sue Miller are great and supportive. It's fun working with them all again."

Miller was a driving force behind helping Awada learn to ski.

"Coach Miller was awesome. She kept telling me to try this, and try that. And she always told me I could do it," he said. "And Northern Michigan was the best place to learn."

Awada is currently staying with his former host family, Jim and Sandy Malewitz.

"It's wonderful having him back," said Sandy. "He's real personable and it's like having a member of our family back with us."

Awada will help with the Charlevoix Ski Team until he returns home to Brazil later this month.

He'll then head back to college where he's studying business administration.

He hopes a career in business will allow him to eventually be transferred to the United States to work.

NOTICE
This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt. Any information obtained will be used for this purpose. If you are in the Military please contact our office at the number listed below.

Notwithstanding, if the debt secured by this property was discharged in a Chapter 7 Bankruptcy proceeding, this notice is NOT an attempt to collect that debt. You are presently in default under your Mortgage Security Agreement, and the Mortgage Holder may be contemplating the commencement of foreclosure proceedings under the terms of that Agreement and Michigan law. You have no legal obligation to pay amounts due under the discharged note. A loan modification may not serve to revive that obligation. However, in the event you wish to explore options that may be available, please contact our office at the number listed below.

Attention: The following notice shall apply only if the property encumbered by the mortgage described below is claimed as a principal residence exempt from tax under section 7cc of the general property tax act, 1893 PA 206, MCL 211.7cc.

Attention Roger A. Crain, regarding the property at 302 Crain Street Charlevoix, MI 49720.

You have the right to request a meeting with your mortgage holder or mortgage servicer. Northwestern Bank is your mortgage servicer, with authority to make agreements under MCL 600.3205b and MCL 600.3205c, and can be contacted at: 625 S. Garfield Ave Traverse City, MI 49686 (800) 968-4754.

You may also contact a housing counselor. For more information, contact the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) by visiting www.michigan.gov/mshda or calling (866) 946-7432.

If you request a meeting with Northwestern Bank within 14 days after the notice is received under MCL 600.3205a(1) is mailed, then foreclosure proceedings will not commence until at least 90 days after the date said notice was mailed. If an agreement to modify the mortgage is reached and you abide by the terms of the agreement, the mortgage will not be foreclosed.

You have the right to contact an attorney and can obtain contact information through the State Bar of Michigan's Lawyer Referral Service at (800) 968-0738.

City could cut over $500K

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Having faced reduced revenue due to rapidly deteriorating property values, Charlevoix City officials could cut their 2010-2011 budget by a half-million dollars.

Predominantly affecting those deemed nonessential services, city officials are nearly midway in the annual budgeting process.

"The half-million dollars is throughout the various city funds," said Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel. "We are looking at $300,000 out of the general fund and we're really concerned with making sure there's no deficit spending. The remaining cuts include cuts to the DDA (Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority) and enterprise funds electric, water and sewer." City officials are bracing for early projections which show residential values dropping by 19 percent, commercial values dropping by four percent and industrial values dropping by nine percent.

City council, Straebel, the city's treasurer Rick Brandi and nearly two dozen department heads met Wednesday Jan. 13 for a work session to discuss potential budget cuts.

Proposed items to be slashed from the budget include a reduction in part-time police officers for a savings of $32,000.

Following are some of the major items proposed to be cut from the general fund budget:

Contingency fund - $30,000
Repair golf clubhouse roof - $24,700

Looking to spend more time on family and personal interests, longtime educator Dick Swenor is stepping down.

The principal of Charlevoix Elementary School recently announced his impending retirement to staff.

"My wife retired this past year and we like to do things together and have lots of interests like outdoor activities and cross country skiing and camping and bicycling," Swenor said. "We just want to pursue time with our family — my oldest two daughters are pregnant, so we're going to be grandparents for the first time."

He added, "We would like to spend more time with the kids and do a bit of traveling."

Having served nearly 25 years with Charlevoix Public Schools alone, Swenor has a long history in the education business.

"I was a teacher in Adrian Michigan for four years and at St. Ignace I was a teacher for eight years and also their athletic director and basketball coach and assistant football coach," he said. "I was the assistant principal at the high school (in Charlevoix) for eight years from '85 to '93."

For the past 17 years, Swenor has served as the principal of Charlevoix Elementary School where he has delighted students by dressing as a mermaid, a dog and even kissing a pig.

Ellsworth Schools ranks in America's best

BY CAROL R. SULLIVAN
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Ellsworth Community School Named One of America's Best High Schools

In its third annual ranking of the Best High Schools in America, U.S. News and World Report has recognized Ellsworth Community School as one of the nation's best high schools.

Released in December and on newsstands nationwide, the study analyzes schools on a number of key criteria, primarily in the area of college readiness including enrollment, graduation rates, state and national test scores and demographics. Based on these and other factors, schools are designated as either bronze, silver or gold, with fewer than 10% of the nation's schools even obtaining a ranking.

Spearing

"We feel this is a very well deserved honor," said Ellsworth schools superintendent Lynn Spear. "We are in the bronze category, and as far as I can tell there are 55 schools in Michigan in that category and we are the only one in Antrim County."

Schools are compared based on student performance in Math and English, as well as participation in International Baccalaureate and Advanced Placement courses and other college readiness factors during the 2008-2009 school year.

Of the 21,700 high schools analyzed, 100 high schools were awarded the gold medal, including International Academy in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, and 461 high schools were conferred the honorable silver medal. Ellsworth Community School was among the 1,189 schools awarded the bronze medal.

"We are very pleased about our recent ranking by U.S. News and World Report," explained Superintendent Spear. "For a small school, we offer kids a very excellent opportunity for education, extra-curricular activities and personal growth and development, and this ranking only reinforces that message."

Congratulations to all of the students, administrators, parents and teachers at Ellsworth Community School for their hard work and commitment to of things to inspire the kids to read more," Swenor said. "And that usually ends up being something silly."

Swenor said his wackiest stunt to reward students for participating in March is Reading Month was either sliding down a shaving cream-filled slide into a pool of Jell-O or kissing a lip-stick-laden pig.

"Dick has a sense of humor," said Charlevoix Elementary School secretary Sue Gengle, who has worked with Swenor for 16-and-a-half of his 17 years at the elementary school. I have learned so much from him during these years. His priority at work is simply, 'kids first.' It sounds simple, but it is not always," she said. "He has the ability to see through the forest to the needs of the child. While other paths would have been easier, or benefited others or perhaps him, if it was not what was best for the child, then it did not happen."

Gengle added, "While most of us have that same intention, Dick had the vision to always make it happen."

Swenor said he will miss interaction with the students when he finishes in June.

"There are so many feel good moments here every day. I go in the lunchroom and the kindergartners and first-graders all want to give me hugs," he said. "I didn't think it would hit me like it did, but now I think this is the last year for all these hugs and smiling faces and it's tough."

Swenor said his approach to overseeing the elementary has always been to make the children feel cared for.

"I think we talk a lot about test scores and academics, but the best thing for elementary school is to have the kids feel loved and have an enjoyable experience along with getting the basics," he said. Then they will like school. And, when they go into the upper levels, they will be ready to be there and eager to learn."

Swenor said his staff has been a major factor in his success over the years.

"They just do an awesome job," he said.

Gengle said Swenor's unique approach on handling children made him a one-of-a-kind educator.

"The kids love him, even those he has had to be stern with. They love him because they know he has their back. They respect him because they know the respect is mutual," she said. "If a child has been sent to him for discipline, all he asks is that they tell him the truth. The child leaves Dick's office with their head held high, because they know they are not bad, they just made a wrong choice. They leave with self respect and the knowledge that they have control over their actions."

Swenor said he is thankful for the support of the parents over the years.

"It has just been a real privilege to get to work in Charlevoix with such a supportive community," he said.

Swenor and his wife have five grown children.

City EMS/fire proposal up in smoke

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Township officials have refused a City of Charlevoix plan which would have restructured the way Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and fire services fees were collected.

The city had offered fire, ambulance, emergency first responders and paramedic services as a packaged deal to all the townships it currently serves — Charlevoix Township, Marion, Eveline, Hayes and Norwood — in a six-year contract.

"I met with the townships last Friday (Jan. 15) and they had some concerns and issues with this plan and they are looking at exploring other options," said Charlevoix Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. "The short answer is there is no way they will do both fire and EMS together and not for six years."

Council then discussed whether they should simply focus offering their services to the city.

Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan said much of his equipment is geared toward use in the outlying townships.

"The city is 100 percent hydranted (enough fire hydrants to serve the area)," he said. "If we're only serving the city, then there is no use for a grass rig and tanker trucks."

However, Ivan said, should the city sell the equipment and the townships ever decide to again use the city's services, the cost to retool the fire department would be "mammoth."

The idea of spreading the cost of services more equitably across those who use the services began when Rob Straebel took over as city manager nearly two years ago.

It was then that Straebel noticed Charlevoix bearing the brunt of tax funded load over most of the townships it serves.

The city pays $394,127 currently for its own fire and EMS, with nearly $100,000 of that subsidizing some local townships' services.

Charlevoix Township pays $18,198 for EMS only.

Eveline pays $30,400; Norwood pays $24,700; Marion pays $41,345 and Hayes pays $6,030 for EMS alone.

Under the proposed call-based payment plan, the city would pay $296,476; Marion would pay $82,805; Norwood would pay $39,197; Eveline,

"If we demand they take both fire and EMS and a six-year contract, we might as well start cutting the fire department and selling equipment now."

NORMAN CARLSON JR.,
MAYOR OF CHARLEVOIX

the only township to see a decrease in rates, would pay $26,165; Hayes would pay $41,658 for both fire and EMS services, and Charlevoix Township would pay $28,499 annually for EMS only.

"All were in agreement that, instead of a call-based fee, they would like to see a mileage-based fee, knowing some townships would pick up the tab for others," Carlson said. "They also want the choice to choose one or both services and my personal opinion is if they take both services they would get a discount and if they take one or the other it would be slightly higher."

The city is already looking to cut more than $500,000 from the 2010-2011 budget and Carlson said they will likely need to cut as much next year.

"If we demand they take both fire and EMS and a six-year contract, we might as well start cutting the fire department and selling equipment now," he said.

Straebel said the refusal to accept the proposal is merely a part of the negotiation process.

"I don't think this is insurmountable," he said. "We boiled it down to what the issues are. The group now needs to collectively come together and decide what is a good-enough solution for everybody."

Relationships demand you follow your heart

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Follow your heart when it comes to relationships.

We read a book about them on face book and they shout at us from magazine covers in the grocery aisle.

We hear about them in the evening news.

Even a current TV show with polygamy as its theme is drawing attention of new viewers.

The sitcoms that hint of scandal receive higher ratings because someone's relationship is in the balance so the viewer returns again and again to see what will happen next. Maybe we get caught up in the drama of someone else's relationship because we feel ours is pretty boring in comparison or worse yet, so we don't have to look at our own.

I can remember as a child the neighbor ladies discussing the elements of who was doing what to whom in the latest soap opera.

It added a bit of excitement to the life of a stay-at-home housewife during the '50s. During this period of my childhood it was considered risqué to wear shorts out in public on a warm summer day.

So you can only imagine the excitement created between one and three o'clock when programs like these were on the air.

The life of a television character seemed real enough that some would even choose to copy the script in real life.

This venue of voyeurism was not available in our household as mom felt relationships and life were learned best first hand and not through the eyes of a sitcom screen writer.

Of course she was right, but I would take it upon myself to play near the backyard fence that adjoined the neighbor's yard in order to hear the daily gossip.

I was hidden by the freshly washed sheets that were swaying on the clothes line, enjoying the ladies in the sun dresses sharing tales that brought on a gaggle of giggles, and a few "oh my Lord's."

The curiosity of getting wrapped up in the lives of others has been and will continue to provide entertainment for the masses.

Television shows depict doctors playing doctor in the storeroom and others whose families are so complex a score card is needed to keep track.

Characters in scripts hide an illicit relationship as if it were dressing on the side.

There are countless talk shows that speak to whether someone is into you or not.

If we could bundle up the energy spent on trying to find the 'perfect someone' we could harness it and run turbines.

From Jon and Kate plus 8 to Tiger Woods, it's getting a bit old hearing about their lives but there is always an audience so the sagas continue.

"Relationships are work and I understand that there are situations that may prevent someone from staying with a particular person.

No one deserves abuse and misuse.

So that brings me to this burning question: "What do you admire about your partner that keeps you together? The ability to nurture? To show compassion?

The ability to listen? To offer strength or to give you support?

Maybe it's one or none listed.

What I do know is when you feel respected and listened to it will bring out the best in each of you.

In doing so you begin to enjoy each other more and feel a purpose in the relationship.

When counseling couples about relationships I've found that it's important to rewind the scene back to what attracted them to each other in the first place and go forward from there.

Though there are times I've pondered whether individuals with differing views can live together, I have also found it's important how they communicate those views.

It is healthier in all relationships to be able to be honest with one another.

Neither partner truly wishes to lie but may do so to protect the other.

How we handle hearing sensitive issues is what usually turns to deception.

Honesty is still the best policy in all relationships.

Compliments are also important in keeping a relationship alive.

No one likes to feel they are taken for granted so recognizing even the smallest of things your partner may have done brings you closer as a couple.

Televized viewing is not the benchmark for relationships.

Famous people are not always the best role models.

Seek out the qualities you are looking and your heart will tell you the rest of the story.

'To the moon, Alice' remembering life's non sequiturs

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwidt

Some days are better than others, but there have only been a handful that I could truly label horrible.

I don't include the big sorrows that tattoo themselves into the soul or the petty annoyances that itch around the edges. But if I had to pick just one day when the planets converged over me in a diabolical bowling pin formation and a celestial cannon ball blasted them out of the galaxy, I would have to go with July 10, 1983. That day had it all - broken bones, a bus ride during a Florida heat wave and a man.

First of all, he called me girly. I had never been addressed as girly before. In fact, the only time I'd ever heard anyone use the term was in film noir dialogue when a gumshoe was having it out with a wisecracking dame. Since he had initiated the conversation, there was no way that he could have known if I was a wisecracking dame or not. But clearly, he was determined to lead with a punch.

"Move over, girly. I paid my money just like everyone else."

I looked up from my book and into the rumpled face of Popeye. He had it all except for the pipe - Gristly whiskers, jutting chin and one eye squinted shut, granting the remaining orb an inordinate authority.

He swatted at my right foot with a folded newspaper. The foot that I'd stretched out onto the seat adjacent to the one I occupied by the Greyhound's window. The foot that was a shapeless hump under the gym sock covering my bare toes and the southern tip of a plaster cast that braced my limb from mid-arch all the way up to my knee.

I blinked and carefully adjusted my trespassing, trussed up gam on the seat in front of me. My ankle responded with a brutal jolt. "Cripes," I said, wincing in pain.

"Yea, well, cripes to you, too," my new seatmate informed me. "You don't own this bus, y'know."

I scanned the aisle and noted several single seats available next to other solitary travelers with two good legs.

"Excuse me," I began, thinking I might appeal to his sense of chivalry. "There are lots of other seats..."

"To the moon, Alice!"

It was actually a pretty good imitation of Ralph Kramden.

It had all of the rumbling resonance and impotent hostility of the original and it stopped me cold.

"What? To the...?" I whispered, incredulous.

"Moon. Alice. Haw, haw, haw!" His laughter surfered over me on a spicy flammable wave. I turned and pressed my forehead to the window, breathing through my mouth. He couldn't be nearly as dangerous as he was odiferous. I closed my eyes and wished myself far, far away.

Before I could even begin to negotiate the situation, he fell asleep. The available eye, bleached blue as moonlight and embedded in a complicated origami of flesh, gave me a final once-over, closed and his mouth grew slack. He listed slightly toward me and began to snore. His head rolled into the crack between our seats where it rested like a large lint-covered marble.

My companion twitched fitfully, interrupting his nasal sonata for five blessed seconds. Maybe he dreamed of chasing a rabbit.

No, it certainly hadn't been one of my better days. But I couldn't, in fairness, blame Popeye, or anyone else. Sometimes the glass really is half empty, but that doesn't mean that there won't be a refill. This opportunity for renewal is what makes bones knit and the memory of bus rides fade. I believe this. I may be wrong, but I yam what I yam.

E-mail Christine Gwidt at moreorlesschristine@gmail.com.

It was a six-hour ride to Marathon. We sailed through the night, but I didn't sleep. I wedged my body against the window and propped my heel atop the headrest of the seat in front of me, replaying the events that had conspired to consign me to this place and time.

The ill-conceived attempt to launch myself into a handstand during my nightly exercise routine, relying on the closed door of my motel room to prop me up, followed swiftly by the surprising discovery that the door was not only ajar, but also upon impact, capable of swinging wide without even a modicum of resistance. The subsequent back flip that sent me sprawling into the deserted courtyard naked, cracking my ankle against a concrete step during my downward trajectory, and the quick realization that vocal suffering would only draw witnesses.

My blossoming purple foot, the emergency room, the cast, my decision to trade in the rental car for a bus ticket and continue on to my vacation destination in as-is condition - All of this had been the result of decisions that reflected a questionable thought process.

Prevent bike path from becoming trail of tears

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

A column writer couldn't ask for better timing. I could have wished upon a star and not gotten such a beauteous response.

So why is Gohs reveling in the delicious-ness of I-told-you-so?

Because, I told you so. Here we have recent news that pharmaceutical giant Pfizer has decided - after convincing the government of New London, Conn. and the Supreme Court of the United States to let it steal private property - that it will not build an enormous research and development facility there.

Before I go further, I must confess that I am against eminent domain no matter the cause.

Don't tell me the greater good of the people outweighs my rights as an individual.

This is the 21st Century - the major roads are already built; there is plenty of vacant land upon which to build hospitals and schools; and we have plenty of military bases and missile silos.

What makes this case even more offensive is this land was taken from private citizens and given to other private citizens.

Sure, the owners got fair market value for their property. But, that does not make right the city of New London's decision to allow a business to have the personal property of others, regardless of the potential financial boon.

And that's what this all came down to: money. New London and Pfizer schemed to take the property in order to revitalize the area, create jobs and thereby contributing to the greater good.

This isn't the dark ages and this isn't Russia.

This is America.

When I buy property, I may pay rent in the form of taxes to my governmental landlord for the rest of my earthly days, but they have no right to take that land from me.

This all brings me to thinking about the newest exercise in conspicuous arrogance, but this time it is not pushed by a drug corporation, but by a handful of well-meaning citizens and their governmental counterparts.

Some would like to see a trail for biking and walking stretch from Charlevoix to Boyne City.

Hurdles include scrounging the hundreds of thousands of dollars to construct and maintain the path which will intrude, trample and pave over swaths of dozens of yards belonging to private citizens along the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not against the trail per se, though it is true to discuss the obvious benefits of such a project.

Too many laws enacted, too numerous the decisions made and too quickly "the greater good" is invoked when it comes to matters of liberty and property.

If only one landowner along the proposed trail site is trampled, then it is one too many. It will not matter the thousands of people enjoying the trail if one American is told what he cannot do with his property.

Those unable or unwilling to grasp the acrimony felt by those whose liberty is stifled do well to understand a trespass is a trespass.

Few things in this life are sacred to the putrid paw of governance.

Prohibition on what you may ingest, view, create, utter, bare, buy, sell and destroy leaves man with little actual freedom.

The road department may cut down the trees on your property's edge.

The building department may direct how you construct your shelter.

The health department may have you jailed for using the "wrong" septic system or fine you for allowing tobacco use in your business.

The environmental department tells you what you can't do with your mud puddles.

And so on and so on and so on and so on.

Whenever dastards gather to chop and burn the tree of liberty, they do so in the name of "the greater good."

If America is truly unique and great for its habit of holding liberty in great esteem, then no good comes from serving the greater good if even one man's liberty is denied.

I implore those in favor of this trail to go forward only with consent of every land owner, or risk forsaking the very fabric of these united states.

'Angels' make military blankets

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The Ladies Auxiliary to the American Legion Leslie T. Shapton #226 met Tues. to put together blankets for wounded soldiers in Afghanistan and Iraq.

"Almost everybody has somebody in the military and you just feel like you have to help," said Rosalyn Goldstick, auxiliary member.

Goldstick's father served in World War I, brother served in World War II, she had two sons who both served in Vietnam Nam and presently has grandchildren in the military.

"During the war I wanted to join myself," said Goldstick. She was not able to join because regulations require that you be at least five feet tall and weigh at least 100lbs.

The auxiliary heard about the project through an organization called Soldier's Angels, a volunteer-led, non-profit organization that provides aid and comfort to the men and women of all the branches of the United States military and their families.

To date, the organization that was founded by the mother of two American soldiers has sent hundreds of thousands of care packages.

ages and letters to deployed service members.

Blankets of Belief was one of thirty different projects the organization has going right now.

The hope of the volunteers is that the blankets will be a physical reminder that the soldiers are not alone and that they will know that somebody back home remembered them.

The auxiliary is also crocheting and knitting caps and mittens to be sent as well.

Each of the ladies donated $10 apiece and the remainder of the monies needed to purchase the fleece used in the no-sew blankets came from the Poppy Relief Fund.

"This is not much for us to be doing," said Charlene Novotny, Auxiliary member.

"This is a small token of appreciation."

The ladies auxiliary meets the first Tues. of each month and would like to invite any woman who is the wife, mother or sister of a veteran to join them.

The Craft class at the Charlevoix Senior Center is also working on Blankets of Belief.

Day care providers unite to hone skills

Pictured are a few of the daycare providers in the Charlevoix area who have begun meeting to improve services and network.

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Charlevoix Day Care Providers met together Tues. to discuss avenues of improvement and support.

Eight local Day Cares were represented at a meeting held to discuss ways of making their Day Cares better.

Brainstorming for fresh ideas in training and child development was the main thrust of the meeting.

"We want to make sure our local Day Care programs are up to date and current with the new developmental issues," said Melissa Swanson, Kids Under Construction Day Care.

The group intends to bring in speakers to address day care issues like how to conduct a good fire drill.

Sharing information, administration management, program planning literacy projects for children and the development of workshops are topics the group hopes to address at future meetings.

"I'm excited that we are able to network together and share ideas," said Debra Eisenmann, Aunt Debi's Day Care. "We want our daycares to be top notch."

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 9 at the Charlevoix Library.

Any Day Care Provider interested in attending can contact Becky Resch at j_bresch@hotmail.com.

Tree planting - $30,800

The most contentious item proposed to be cut was lifeguard service at all Charlevoix beaches for a savings of $30,600.

Both Straebel and Brandi

"It's common knowledge that the City of Charlevoix subsidizes many activities throughout the community. We think it's time ... we can make some of these non-essential services pay for themselves."

ROB STRAEDEL,
CHARLEVOIX CITY MANAGER

said it is legal for the city to operate beaches with no lifeguards and further that, since no revenue is generated by the beaches, it makes paying for added services more difficult.

"I'd try to cut something else. I've got a real problem with this one," Councilwoman Jill Picha said of the lifeguard issue.

"I think this is one of those issues where we have some differing opinions from city council and we will have to take a vote to see how council wants staff to proceed."

He added, "It's common knowledge that the City of Charlevoix subsidizes many activities throughout the community: the golf course, beaches, McSaub.

A proposal to charge for parking at Lake

Michigan Beach and Ferry Beach to pay for lifeguards at those two locations then ensued.

"We are going to be looking at charging for parking ... and using revenues to offset some of the costs of lifeguards at those two beaches," Straebel said following the meeting.

"I think this is one of those issues where we have some differing opinions from city council and we will have to take a vote to see how council wants staff to proceed."

He added, "It's common knowledge that the City of Charlevoix subsidizes many activities throughout the community: the golf course, beaches, McSaub.

We think it's time ... we can make some of these nonessential services pay for themselves."

Another $200,000 in cuts are being proposed in the enterprise funds in the following forms:

Cut city hall operations by one hour per day - $56,200

Eliminate spring cleanup - $42,000

Eliminate venetian contribution - $12,000

Negotiate contracts to eliminate two-percent raises for all employees - $44,000

Eliminate two-percent raises for non-union employees - $14,500

Eliminate human resources position - $40,800

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Feb. 15 at city hall.

"We invite the public to come out and give us some ideas on what we might do better and help us prioritize some cuts," Straebel said.

Webinar on wind power

Is your community ready for wind energy?

A Wind Energy Webinar will be viewable by local government officials and the public from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Friday, January 22 at the Charlevoix Public Library, Community Room A.

This webinar, entitled "Planning for Wind Energy: Best Practices for Updating Your Planning Documents", is being presented by staff from the Spicer Group and is hosted by the Michigan Association of Planning, a chapter of the American Planning Association. This presentation is being locally hosted by the Charlevoix County Planning Department.

Planning Staff from the Spicer Group will discuss the issues that should be considered in addressing wind energy systems in local government Zoning Ordinances and Master Plans.

This webinar will feature approximately one hour of presentations and a half-hour question and answer period. Topics to be addressed include:

Case Studies
Lessons learned from other areas

An overview of the inner workings and physics involved in wind turbine design

The overview of the inner workings and physics of wind turbine design will be presented by Christopher Schilling, Ph.D., Chair of Engineering, Saginaw Valley State University.

There is no charge for attending and participating in this webinar.

The session starts promptly at 1 p.m. We encourage those interested in attending to arrive before 1:00 p.m.

Should you have any questions, feel free to contact the Charlevoix County Planning Department at (231) 547-7234 or by email at planning@charlevoixcounty.org.

Warmer temperatures were credited with a large turnout to the East Jordan Sno-Blast last Saturday. This 1965 Polaris Super Pacer (below) was unique because it replaced the less functional Comet of 1964. The Super Pacer sported a rear power plant which could propel the machine to 20 mph. The snowmobile weighed 480 pounds. This clas-

Jack Sr. said his sled has run many races and won quite a few, too. This vintage Hus-Ski snowmobile (at right) was one of more than a dozen machines in the classic snowmobile show portion of the East Jordan SnoBlast. This machine was built in Canada in the early 1960s. It was actually two pieces hooked together. The engine and drive track composed the first component which pulled a metal sled behind it. While it may look like a child's toy, it could actually haul three adults.

New Year Means New Opportunities for Roth IRA Conversion

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

If you already have a Roth IRA, you're aware of its biggest benefit: Your earnings grow tax free, provided you meet certain conditions. If you don't have a Roth IRA, you may want to consider one — and it may be easier for you to do just that in 2010.

Before we get to the reasons why 2010 may be your year to open or convert to a Roth IRA, let's look at some differences between Roth and traditional IRAs. If you own a traditional IRA, your contributions may be tax-deductible, depending on your income level. But whether you can make deductible contributions or not, your earnings grow on a tax-deferred basis, which means your money can grow faster than it would if it were placed in an investment on which you paid taxes every year. On the other hand, Roth IRA contributions are never tax-deductible, but your earnings grow tax free, as long as you've held your account at least five years and you don't start taking withdrawals until you're at least age 59½.

Furthermore, unlike a traditional IRA, a Roth IRA does not require you to start taking distributions when you reach 70½. Consequently, you'll have more flexibility and freedom when it comes to making withdrawals.

If you have a traditional IRA, you might be thinking it's a good idea to convert to a Roth IRA because tax free sounds better than tax deferred — and, all things being equal, tax free would indeed be better. However, it's not quite that simple. If you convert your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA, you'll have to pay taxes on those traditional IRA earnings and contributions that had previously gone untaxed. If you do convert, you'll be better off if you use money held outside your IRA to pay the taxes. If you simply take money from your IRA, you'll obviously lower the value of your IRA — and, if you're under 59½, you may have to pay an additional 10% penalty on the amount you withdraw to pay the taxes.

In the past, many investors have been prohibited from converting their IRAs due to either their tax filing status or their income. Under previous rules, you could convert your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA only if you were married and filed a joint return or were a single filer, and your modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) was $100,000 or less. But starting in 2010, you can convert funds to a Roth IRA even if your MAGI is over $100,000. You will also be able to convert to a Roth if you are married and file separate tax returns.

And that's not the only piece of good news regarding your conversion ability. As mentioned above, you will have to pay taxes when you convert to a Roth IRA. A conversion is usually reported as income for the tax year the conversion takes place. However, in 2010 only, your conversion amount will be split and reported as income for tax years 2011 and 2012 unless you elect to report the entire conversion amount on your 2010 taxes. You may find that spreading the taxes over two years can make the conversion

In any case, consult with your tax advisor before converting from a traditional IRA to a Roth. If done correctly, such a conversion can potentially make a big difference in your ultimate retirement lifestyle.

City seeks relief from supreme court

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

When the State of Michigan Court of Appeals told Charlevoix's Nathan Klooster his family home's taxable value could remain capped, it seemed like a win.

However, the City of Charlevoix has every intention of preventing Klooster's case to set statewide precedent.

"We are in the process of filing of the application for leave to appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court," said city attorney Bryan Graham. "We're basically asking permission to appeal at the supreme court level."

Straebel

James and Dona Klooster acquired the house.

Through a series of quit-claims — when a person announces they no longer hold interest in a property — Dona deeded her interest to James who added his brother Charles to the title.

The timeline which resulted in Klooster's win back in mid-December 2009 began in 1959 when his parents

"It could have substantial negative impact, not only on Charlevoix, but ... governments throughout the state."

BRYAN GRAHAM,
CHARLEVOIX CITY ATTORNEY

In January 2005, James died, leaving the property to his son who had been added as a co-owner of the property in 2004.

According to the appeals court's ruling, "The Tax Tribunal affirmed the assessor's determination that there had been a transfer of ownership in 2005. In its view, James' death had caused the transfer of ownership and, thus, the taxable value of the property was properly uncapped."

The new taxes on the property are almost three times what they used to be, from approximately $1,200 annually to nearly $4,000 — and that is where this seemingly private matter became a statewide concern.

The appeals court disagreed with the tax tribu-nal's finding, but Graham said their decision could have long reaching effects.

"It could have substantial negative impact, not only on Charlevoix, but the potential is out there for it to have significant impact on governments throughout the state," Graham said.

"Our main source of governmental revenue is based on taxation."

Graham said if this case is allowed to stand as it is, it could create a loophole which would severely reduce the amount of money municipalities can collect.

Charlevoix City Manager said the case is so important that the Michigan State Tax Commission is paying for the city's costs to fight Klooster.

"The state has forwarded funds to pay for legal costs," Straebel said. "They have recognized the potential statewide implications for not only municipalities, but also for school districts everywhere."

He added, "I think the concern is this case could be setting precedent throughout the state."

Nathan could not be reached for comment by press time.

Be sure to test for preventable killer

JANUARY IS NATIONAL RADON ACTION MONTH

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is working with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in a nationwide campaign to educate Americans about the dangers of radon exposure and to encourage them to take action to protect their homes and families.

According to public health officials, radon was present at elevated levels in about 21 percent of homes that used radon test kits distributed through health department offices through 2007. Maps indicating EPA "action levels" for Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties are posted on the Health Department Web site www.nwhealth.org.

Scott Kendzierski, Director of Environmental Health Services, said the only way to know if you are exposed to elevated radon levels is to test your home. "Fortunately, testing for radon is easy and inexpensive."

Radon kits can be purchased at hardware or home improvement stores, as well as at Health Department offices in Bellaire, Charlevoix, Petoskey/Harbor Springs, and Gaylord. If homeowners discover a radon problem, Health Department Environmental Health staff can help them find a solution.

Radon is a naturally occurring, invisible, odorless, tasteless gas that is dispersed in outdoor air, but which can reach harmful levels when trapped in buildings. Scientists have long been concerned about the health risks of radon, but never has there been such overwhelming proof that exposure to elevated levels of radon causes lung cancer in humans.

EPA estimates that radon is responsible for more than 20,000 lung cancer deaths per year. Radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the U.S., after smoking, and the leading cause of lung cancer among non-smokers. "Since you can't see or smell radon, people can downplay its health effects," said Scott Kendzierski, Environmental Health Services Director for the Health Department.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties. Radon test kits are available for $15 at Health Department offices; bring your property tax identification number so results can be tracked.

For additional information about radon or radon testing, telephone Scott Johnston, Environmental Health Sanitarian, at (989) 732-1794 or visit www.epa.gov/radon.

Boyne Mountain partners with Chefs Challenge event

The Chef Challenge 2010 will be held Friday, April 23 through Sunday, April 25.

The Chefs Challenge is an extraordinary event featuring Michigan made products, foods, culinary, beers, wines, and spirits. Not only does the event benefit Challenge Mountain but promotes springtime tourism and Michigan products as well.

The event is in its third year. In 2009, the Chefs Challenge raised $11,000 for Challenge Mountain's adaptive recreation programs for people with special needs.

The funds raised from the event go directly to programs for people with special needs that include downhill skiing, adaptive downhill, snowboarding, adaptive snowboarding, and snowshoeing for the winter months. Summer brings day camp activities, wilderness camping, hiking, and much more. In 2009, more than 2500 people received crucial benefits from participating in these extraordinary activities.

A Meet and Greet is scheduled for chef teams, dignitaries, and celebrity chefs on Friday, April 23. The day starts off early on the 24th with seminars and vendors at 10 a.m. The culinary event begins at 11 a.m. and boasts 16 chef teams competing for the chance to be the best in the State at the evening's chef cook-off beginning at 6 p.m.

The teams competing are the best from north and south chosen by a group of celebrity judges and culinary school professors. Celebrities include Chef Michelle Bommarito and Chef Hermann Suhs. Chef teams are currently being sought.

Vendors who want to promote their Michigan products or businesses can contact Challenge Mountain as well. With over 500 people expected this year, the Chefs Challenge promises to be one of the "must attend" events of the year.

In July of 2009, the mastermind of the Chefs Challenge, Joe Breidenstein passed away from cancer. Challenge Mountain and all the Chefs Challenge team chose to carry on Joe's legacy and are working diligently toward making this year's event bigger, bolder, with more competitions and at a wonderful resort, Boyne Mountain.

Rob Towne, Challenge Mountain Board President said, "We are thrilled the Chefs Challenge will continue in Mr. Breidenstein's memory. With Boyne Mountain hosting the event will be the biggest and best yet. We cannot thank Boyne Mountain enough for partnering. The two organizations have a long history.

In 1984 Everett Kircher and his family donated the former Walloon Hills to the newly formed organization. Their gift has helped thousands upon thousands of individuals."

Anyone interested in how to register, attend, sponsor, or be one of the lucky 16 chef teams, please contact Sue Moody at (231) 582-1186 or by e-mail at cmski@challengemtn.org.

Information is also on the Challenge Mountain Web site at www.challengemtn.org and the Chefs Challenge Web site at www.chefs-challenge.com.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Boys', girls' Charlevoix-East Jordan skiing finish 10th and 12th

BY STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

First-year Petoskey coach Travis Hill got a good look at both of his teams Monday in the annual Harbor-Petoskey Ski Invitational.

Skiing in their first meet of the season, the Northmen couldn't match the firepower of both Traverse City Central teams however, as the Trojans swept the 11-team invitational on a near-perfect day for skiing at Boyne Highlands Resort.

T.C. Central easily captured the girls' title, finishing with 45 points. Defending Division II state champion Manistee was a distant second with 124, followed by Harbor Springs, 131; and the Northmen, 138.

In the boys' standings, T.C. Central used a strong afternoon performance in slalom to finish first with 66 points. T.C. West was second, 88; followed by T.C. St. Francis, 152; and Harbor Springs, 158. Petoskey was sixth with 197.

"It was a great litmus test for us," Hill said. "I'm excited about our teams, but we have a lot to work on. As far as the first race of the season goes, it was a fair litmus test. We found out where our consistencies and our inconsistencies lie."

Consistency was key for T.C. Central, as three Trojans earned the top four individual finishes. Maddie McLaughlin won the giant slalom in 1 minute, 15.76 seconds, while teammate Ellen Whiting claimed the slalom in 1:37.85. The Trojans' Clark Phelps won the boys' slalom in 1:22.82.

Harbor Springs junior Drake Doherty won the boys' GS in 1:10.95.

Doherty's finish was almost 1.2 seconds faster than that of Cadillac's Carter Marsh, who finished second.

"Drake Doherty had some issues last week and fell in GS, but this week he really pulled through," Harbor coach Jane Ramer said. "For him to hold his own against some tough Class A schools at an invitational this size was nice to see."

The Harbor girls, who last season finished fourth in the state meet, also held their own throughout the day in placing third.

Senior Andi Shepherd paced the Rams with a third-place finish in slalom and a fifth in GS, earning a pair of medals. The top 10 finishers in each race earned individual medals.

Also for the Rams, Abby Hackman was 18th in GS, 20th slalom; Meg Shepherd was 20th slalom, 21st GS; Rose Pellegrom, 19th GS; and Kaia Olson, 24th slalom, 27th GS.

"I'm really excited about the girls' finish because we have a lot of young freshmen on the team," Ramer said.

"They were going up against some tough teams in Manistee and Petoskey. I think this just goes to show we can compete with them, and that's pretty exciting."

"We have some depth on that team and some good competition amongst that team."

For the Petoskey girls, Sarah Shafer earned a pair of top 10 finishes as she was eighth in slalom and ninth in GS. Also for the Northmen girls, Megan Ling was 13th in slalom, 20th GS; Lindsey Reynolds, 15th GS; Halley Shaw, 16th GS; Rielly Philliben, 32nd GS; and Margaret Jensen, 34th slalom, 36th GS.

"Sarah Shafer skied well today in both slalom and GS," Hill said. "All in all, it was a good day, but it could've been better. We have three days until our next meet and we'll work on some things."

The Harbor boys rebounded in the afternoon slalom to place fourth overall after finishing sixth in the GS.

The Boyne City girls, who finished fifth with 148 points, had a pair of skiers earn medals as Lexie Harding and Morgan Harding finished seventh and eighth, respectively, in GS.

Also for the Rambler girls, Kaitlyn Bohnet was 12th in GS, 16th slalom; Lexie Harding, 18th slalom; Kelsey Kruzel, 26th slalom, 38th GS; Kylec Houglund, 30th GS; and Lacey Hofweber, 31st slalom.

"You hate to see an athlete go down or get disqualified, but that happened here for us," Hill said. "The biggest thing I try to instill in the kids after the run is done, it's done. You have to try to make it a positive experience."

Matt Dankert led the Petoskey B team as he was 29th in slalom and 33rd in GS; while Joe Loomis was 32nd in GS.

For the Boyne City boys, who finished ninth, Mike Cortright finished a team-best sixth in slalom to earn a medal, while Dean Hague was 11th in slalom. Also for the Rambler boys, Andy Blossom was 24th in GS, followed by Flo Riethmiller, 47th GS.

Justin Williams led the Charlevoix-East Jordan boys as he was 28th in slalom, 42nd GS, while Paul Stoltz was 41st slalom, 44th GS; and Brian Shutler, 41st GS.

Casey Keane of Charlevoix-East Jordan was a team best 28th in GS, 40th slalom, while Christina Russell was 46th in slalom, 58th GS; and Jenna Kirby, 54th GS.

Andrea Mooradian led the Petoskey B girls team as she was 22nd in GS, while Laura Meyer was 31st in GS. For the Harbor B girls, Hadley Cunningham was 39th in slalom.

Evan Maunders led the Harbor B boys as he was 22nd in GS, while Jeff Parson was 26th in GS, 37th slalom.

Enerjennics offers new age massage

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Jenn Evans hopes to make people more aware about how they can improve their own health and lifestyle.

"I've always had a personal interest in natural health. I'm just really passionate about health and wellness in the bigger sense," said Evans. "In today's world, everyone is moving fast and we all have more stress than we'd like, but everyone can do things to help deal."

Evans graduated from the Institute of Natural Therapies in St. Ignace.

In 2000, she started her Charlevoix business, Enerjennics.

She focuses on helping people through a variety of massage techniques.

"The type of massage I do on the person is really individual," explained Evans. "It depends on so many things, no two people

"I've seen some real miracles happen with Reiki, but it's such an unknown think up here."

CHET JANIK,
SUPERINTENDENT OF CHARLEVOIX SCHOOLS

are alike."

Evans also offers Reiki, which is a practice that is increasing in popularity here in the United States.

"I've seen some real miracles happen with Reiki, but it's such an unknown thing up here," said Evans.

Evans describes Reiki as a body balancing technique that allows the body to bring itself back into balance.

A session of Reiki takes about an hour and features a series of hand placements around the body.

"It's very relaxing. Some people describe it as not quite asleep, but they just find themselves in a different place," Evans said. "And people often experience a tingling sensation. Reiki is never harmful, it's never going to hurt anyone."

While everyone has a different experience with Reiki, Evans said it can be extremely beneficial for someone with chronic health issues.

Evans has helped several cancer patients with positive results. Earlier this month, Dr. Oz, one of the leading cardiovascular surgeons in the United States, featured a segment about Reiki on his television show.

Dr. Oz has stated he allows the use of Reiki during open heart surgeries and heart transplant operations.

"It's really great to see that so much attention is now being put on Reiki as an up and coming practice," said Evans. "It's really nice to have the word getting out there."

Evans works by appointment only, and is generally available five days a week.

"It's totally different than when I started 10 years ago," explained Evans. "When I first started, it wasn't always well received. But for the last 8 years or so, things are really picking up as people become more in tune with their bodies and their health."

For more information on Enerjennics or to book an appointment, call (231) 883-4970.

Enerjennics is located at 06380 US 31 South, just south of Charlevoix.

New business 'Active' in promoting local products

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Two Charlevoix businessmen are meeting the supply needs of businesses around Northern Michigan, while working to promote products made right here in Michigan.

Dean Spencley and Kirk Jensen started Active Industrial in 2009. The company is a janitorial and tool supply company. Together, Spencley and Jensen have nearly 35 years of experience in the supply business.

"We really got going about a year ago full force," said Spencley. "Things are really taking off."

Spencley handles the janitorial part of the business, Jensen handles the tool supply and industrial fastener aspect.

"We're hands-off for the customer," said Jensen. "We take care of it all. From orders to delivery, and then we put it away."

Active Industrial serves all of Northern Michigan, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"We're really the only company of our kind like that in the area," added Spencley. "We can handle it all."

The company also features Active Originals - products that are developed by others and then sold by Active Industrial.

One product sold by Active Industrial that is gaining in popularity is the Greencore Trash Bag.

The bags are made by Petoskey Plastics and are produced 70-percent post consumer materials.

"The Greencore bags will be a huge product," said Spencley. "They're made right here in Northern Michigan, and we're really trying to push Michigan products as much as we possibly can."

The Greencore bag is just one product that Active Industrial keeps in stock.

"What sets us apart from other businesses is that we have most products in stock locally," said Jensen. "Even if it's a product that you don't think we would have, just ask, we can almost always track it down for the customer."

"I don't think you'll find anyone quite like us," added Spencley.

"We joke around and get to know our customers and their needs. And we're having a good time doing what we're doing."

Active Industrial is located at 6907 Marion Center Road in Charlevoix. For information about tool supply and industrial fasteners, contact Kirk Jensen at (231) 758-2510. For information about janitorial supply, contact Dean Spencley at (231) 675-2717.

The main office number is 547-3199.

The company's Web site at www.activeindustrial.com will be up in the next couple weeks.

WATCH movies
WATCH is sponsoring its free Cabin Fever film series, this year featuring films from the COOLFUEL(TM) USA Roadtrip Series.

Star and executive producer Shaun Murphy trekked around America without using a drop of gas, accompanied by his Aussie and Kiwi crew and his dog, Sparky. He crossed 30 states using 12 COOLFUEL(TM) sources, some a little nuts, some high tech, but all of it fun. His Electric Cruiser motorcycle was powered by garbage and cow pow. His Hummer ran on food scraps.

The films are free, and enjoyable for all age groups.

Monday, Jan. 25 - Episode 1 - veggie oil, soybeans, and water (for those who missed it last year) at the Boyne District Library Community Room. 6-7:30 p.m.

Alzheimer's workshop
"In the Groove, Alzheimer's disease: What Everyone Needs to Know"

This presentation by the Alzheimer's Association, for the public, will explain the brain and how memory is created. Participants will learn things to do to help maintain functioning, and warning signs of when something is not right.

At 1 p.m. on Jan. 26. Register and reserve your space by calling the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging at (231) 237-0103 or (866) 428-5185. Early registration recommended as space is limited.

Register at either Charlevoix Area Hospital, Classroom B, Lower Level 14700 Lakeshore Drive, Charlevoix or The Rural Health Education Building on Beaver Island.

Objectives:
The participants will be informed about the 10 warning signs of Alzheimer's disease that everyone should recognize.

Individuals will be assisted with decision making about when to seek medical advice and treatment.

Participants will be introduced to activities that will help to maintain optimal brain functioning.

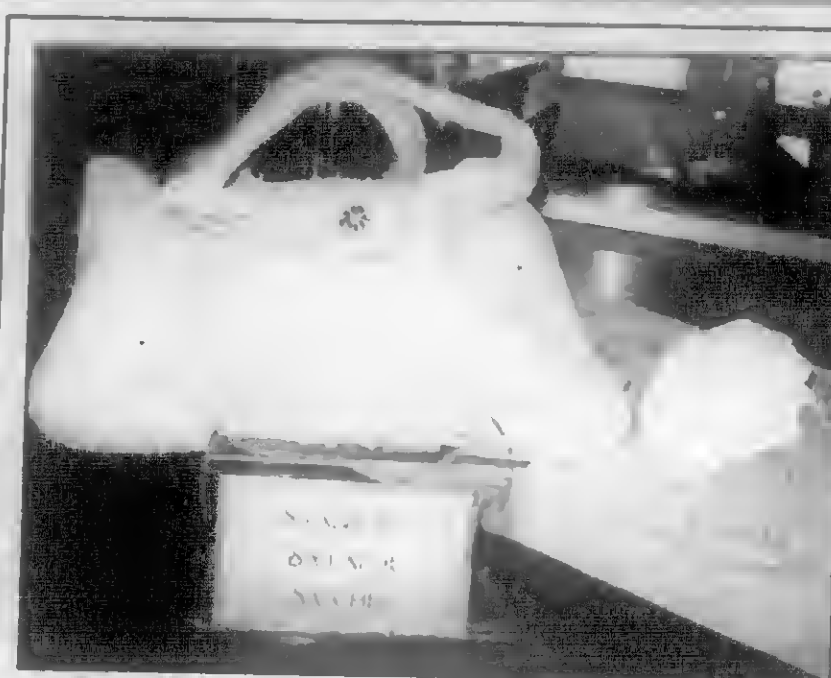

Participants will have the opportunity to engage in a discussion of their concerns for themselves and their loved ones.

Target Audience: Anyone with an interest in learning more about Alzheimer's disease, particularly those 50+ who might be concerned about themselves or their loved ones.

Community Band Begins Spring Rehearsals

The Jordan Valley Community Band will start rehearsals for its 20th anniversary spring concert on Thursdays at 7:00 pm in the East Jordan High School band room, beginning on February 4th. This special concert will be presented on Sunday, May 2nd, at 3:00 pm in East Jordan's Auditorium.

Providing area musicians an opportunity to rehearse and perform a wide range of music in a group setting, the band was organized in the fall of 1990 with 13 members and has now grown to about 50 members who travel from communities in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Oshtemo counties.

If you or someone you know plays an instrument or has played in the past and would like to join us, please contact Director, Becky Palmier at 582-3734, President, Leslie Cunningham at 547-2145 or Secretary/Treasurer, Phyllis Childs at 582-3488 to have your name added to our mailing list or if you need help finding an instrument. The band would especially like to invite any former members from the last 20 years to return and play again for this anniversary concert.

Living the Dream

What is the King Holiday?

A day to reaffirm the American ideals of freedom, justice and opportunity for all.

A day for love not hate, for understanding not anger, for peace not war.

A day for the family; to share together, to reach out to relatives and friends, and to mend broken relationships.

A day when the community rids itself of the barriers which divide it and comes together as one.

A day when people of all races, religions, classes and stations in life put aside their differences and join in a spirit of togetherness.

A day for our nation to pay tribute to Martin Luther King, Jr., who awakened in us the best qualities of the American spirit.

A day for nations of the world to cease all violent actions, seek nonviolent solutions, and demonstrate that peace is not just a dream but a real responsibility, if only for one day.

If only for one day, if each of us serves as a "drum major for justice and peace," then we will bring to life the inspiring vision of freedom which Martin Luther King, Jr. dreamed.

History won't stave the wrecking ball

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

A preliminary determination of the 1870s house at 108 Park Ave. by the Michigan State Historic Preservation Office is not enough to save it.

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA), voted unanimously to go forward with the parking project during their regular meeting on Monday Jan. 25.

"The house appears to meet national register criterion B for its direct association with Ben Campbell. The preliminary questionnaire for the house explains that Charlevoix's early history is all about water — shipbuilding, shipping, docks, fueling ships, and the people who carried on all of this activity," stated Bob Christensen of the Michigan State Historic Preservation Office in his report. "Campbell seems to have played a significant and essential role in Charlevoix's maritime history during the later nineteenth century when a shipbuilder. The questionnaire refers to two specific ships, the schooner W. A. Smith and tug that became the Ben Campbell. Campbell also has direct associations with the house as its builder and partial owner through his marriage to the house's original owner, Lennie Beers Ingalls."

The historic significance of the house was recently brought to light by concerned citizen and Park Avenue business owner Rachel Wright.

"A few weeks back, Rachel made us aware she was going

School break-in remains unsolved

BY BENJAMIN GOHS

Charlevoix Public Schools officials arrived for school Tuesday morning Jan. 19 to find broken glass and missing cash.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider at least two cash boxes were taken.

"There was a breaking and entering at the high school this morning. We have people entering the building at approximately 7 a.m. so it must have occurred sometime between last night and this morning," said Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Chet Janik. "It was at the principal's office and ... an undisclosed amount of money was stolen."

Incidents of vandalism are nothing new to school officials.

But, Janik said, theft is a new crime at the school located at 5200 Marion Center Road in Marion Township roughly three miles south of Charlevoix.

"This is a first. It's the first time this has occurred in the time I have been here," Janik said.

The school does have cameras in the area the break-in occurred.

"They're reviewing the tapes now," Janik said of the sheriff's office.

Janik said the object used to break the window is unknown and no other damage was done to the office.

There are no official estimates on what it cost to pay for a replacement window which has already been installed.

"Obviously this is disappointing that it would occur," Janik said. "But, this is an isolated incident and we don't have them, fortunately, on a regular basis."

BBQ in January?

Charlevoix Snowmobile Club member Corey Purvis of Charlevoix mans the barbecue during his club's annual ride-in to Ferry Beach in Charlevoix. The day of free treats, prizes and warming stations are provided by the club each year around the end of January.

CORRECTIONS AND CLARIFICATIONS

Due to reporter error in the Wednesday Jan. 20 story "Charlevoix city to cut budget by half a million" there were several inaccuracies. Points of correction: It was incorrectly stated that all city funding to Venetian Festival was proposed to be cut. The proposed cut was from $15,000 to $12,000. It was incorrectly stated police patrols would be reduced to save $6,800. The proposed reduction was of 10,000 miles driven by increasing foot patrols. Points of clarification: Items mentioned on a City of Charlevoix document titled "2010-2011 Proposed Budget Revenue & Expenditure Changes," are options for budget reduction, but have not been proposed to council for action included: The human resource position and eliminating two-percent raises for all employees.

DDA affirms course on parking project

HOUSE

OWNER OF PINE RIVER BOOKS OFF PARK AVENUE

ist of Historic Places twice over since it also meets criteria in an architectural capacity.

"With its two-story, side-gable, one room deep, center-entrance form, the house exemplifies a vernacular house form known as the 'I-house' (for the long and narrow form) that was in common use along the eastern seaboard and was brought to the Midwest with the westward migration," Christensen stated. "I-houses are not rare in Michigan, but this one appears from the photos to be more intact than most that we see. In any event, as the fourth oldest house in Charlevoix, it is presumably the oldest example."

The DDA purchased the house for $200,000 in 1995 with the intention of someday increasing the amount of parking in the area.

Tony Duerr, who owns Pine River Books on Park Avenue, was not surprised by the decision.

"It's nice to have the historical significance recognized, but it's not new information to many of us," he said. "We have known that the house was constructed by one of Charlevoix's pioneers — I hate to see structures such as this lost ... for a few additional parking spaces."

The DDA must still get approval from the Charlevoix City Council which controls the parking funds anticipated for use in the parking project.

This 140-year-old house standing at 108 Park Ave. was purchased by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority in 1995, with the plan to eventually use the space for additional parking. The DDA recently reaffirmed their desire to move forward with the project pending release of parking fund money from the City of Charlevoix.

LAWMAKERS PUSH FOR CHARLEVOIX ICECUTTER

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

State Rep. Kevin Elsenheimer (R-Kewadin) and Sen. Jason Allen (R-Traverse City) have teamed up to fight for Charlevoix's nautical future.

The lawmakers each introduced a resolution this week which urges the United States Coast Guard to locate a vessel in Charlevoix, whose waters have been without an ice cutter since the Acacia was decommissioned more than three years ago.

"There are supposedly new funds available for a new cutter and they are going to commission one on the Great Lakes, but now they have to determine where it goes," said Charlevoix Mayor Norman Carlson Jr.

The announcement in late-September 2009, that the coast guard would receive $153 million to build a new cutter has prompted speculation on where the ship may ultimately be assigned.

"Charlevoix provided a good post before for the coast guard. We have three lakes and a long history with the coast guard," Carlson said. "It just fits."

NORMAN CARLSON JR.,
CHARLEVOIX MAYOR

Nearly identical, Allen's resolution 109 and Elsenheimer's resolution 201 detail Charlevoix's long history with the coast guard dating back to 1889.

"Its work tending to nearly 200 navigation aids and keeping channels open by breaking ice was paramount to public safety," the resolutions stated. "Reducing the number of ships providing buoy-tending and ice-cutting services continues to be a major concern to the individuals and businesses that relied upon the services of the Acacia. Charlevoix's role in lifesaving and promoting safe and efficient transportation on the Great Lakes is well-established."

According to Allen and Elsenheimer, ships based in Port Huron and Duluth, Minn. are now left to deal with potential security and safety issues which may arise in the region.

"Aside from the safety benefits from having a cutter here to help keep the shipping lanes open, it would help our local economy," Carlson said.

And, while the process is moving slower than he would have liked, Carlson said he is holding out hope.

"When you get to the state and federal level it's just snail speed," he said. "This is something that takes a lot of patience ... and if we end-up with one (cutter) here we will be very fortunate."

The proposals are now awaiting Michigan House and Senate approval.

Common sense, uncommon knowledge

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I have always been a bit wary of common sense. With history as a guide, let's look at what has been considered "common sense."

Oh, the people she knows

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwidt

Madonna. I hope it was Madonna. Not because I harbor ill will toward Madge. After all, she's from Michigan, and we can count our hometown iconic celebrities on one hand. I'm not a fan, but that's only because our notion of what constitutes entertainment is so dissimilar. The reason I'd prefer it was Madonna that I packed into the wooden keg is because it would bring my celebrity dream-sightings up into the double digits. My first slumbering brush with fame came when I met Don Everly who, along with his less attractive brother, Phil, made up the singing duo, the Everly Brothers. I was about five at the time, and the sun moves across the sky daily, and for centuries that was certainly the common belief. The idea that the sun was stationary and that the earth was spinning at 1000 miles per hour, certainly seemed to violate common sense. Common sense suggests that the earth on which we live is a flat surface, and for centuries most people believed what they saw. The idea that the solid continents on which we live could be moving slowly over the surface of the earth seemed for some time to defy common sense. Hadn't the continents always been where they are now?

That disease was caused by things like sinfulness or bad air was common sense for most of human history. We still call one disease "Malaria," which means bad air, even though the current common sense explanation is likely to involve mosquitoes. Common sense tells us that fish don't give birth to lizard and blue birds do not suddenly produce red birds, so evolution defies common sense. If evolution defies common sense then it must not be true. All the above examples suggest that what is common sense at one time may be foolishness at a later time. The explanations for what is happening on the earth are different now than they were a few decades or centuries ago. My problem with common sense as an explanation is that it changes so much more slowly than the explanations offered by science, and often ignores the information accumulated by science. How much more slowly does common sense change than does science? An example from health care. After it was discovered, about 1700, that plants gave off carbon dioxide at night, hospitals were urged to remove all plants from sick rooms during the night to protect the patients. It was almost immediately determined that the amount of carbon dioxide given off by plants was minuscule, but the common sense removal of plants from rooms housing ill people continued for more than a century. It is only common sense that there must be some reason for natural disasters. Pat Robertson claims currently that the reason for the Haitian earthquake is a pact that long dead Haitians made with the devil 200 years ago. That is common sense at its most outrageous. As an ulcer sufferer for many decades, I was always interested in the common-sense explanation of ulcers being the product of stress and anxiety. I was pretty sure I was not particularly stressed or anxious, and was more than a little pleased when ulcers were finally understood as being caused by infection with a specific sort of bacteria. Anxiety is hard to cure but bacteria respond to antibiotics. Thousands of ulcer sufferers must applaud the demise of the common sense explanation. It should be clear that what passes for common sense changes with time, and may not be in accord with real information. The appeal to common sense is tricky. Don't be fooled. LETTERS to the editor

SCHOOL FUNDING

Editor: Here's a simple and fair solution to the Charlevoix school system's financial plight: charge the residents who can use the schools and benefit from their quality the same millage paid by non-residents and businesses. John R. Bradbury St. Louis, MO and Charlevoix.

HEALTH CARE CAN BE FIXED

Editor: I am encouraged that it appears Government run health care is not going to pass. The Government doesn't run anything very well, especially areas as complex as health care. However, that doesn't mean that meaningful health care reform is not required. I read the following five simple recommendations from Dr. C.L. Gray, president of Physicians for Reform and believe they should form the basis any for health care reform.

1.) Sell insurance across state lines: state mandates drive up costs; health insurance in New Jersey costs six times more than Kentucky, largely because of state mandates. Allow businesses to purchase insurance across state lines; this empowers consumers, not Washington, and does not cost a dime. 2.) Let individuals purchase health insurance with pre-tax dollars: Insurance companies serve businesses, not patients; businesses purchase employee health insurance with pre-tax dollars while individuals purchase insurance with post-tax dollars making their insurance far more expensive. Allow patients buy products that meet their needs and makes insurers more accountable to patients. 3.) Encourage Health Care Savings Accounts (HSAs): HSAs reduce health care costs without rationing (cutting Medicare); they also let patients control their own money, decreasing health care spending by 13 percent. For example, during 2005 and 2006, traditional insurance rose 7.3 percent annually while lower cost / higher deductible plans combined with HSAs rose only 2.7 percent annually. 4.) End abusive medical litigation: Frivolous litigation increases costs and drives physicians out of medicine. With tens of millions of new patients, we need more physicians, not fewer. Frivolous litigation reform lowers cost and improves access to care. Americans spend approximately $124 billion every year because physicians practice defensive medicine. 5.) Cover the only the uninsured: We can insure the uninsured without expanding American debt; approximately 25 percent of patients who visit the emergency rooms do not have health care coverage. Implement a system of tax credits can help the uninsured purchase coverage; this would cost approximately $80 billion annually, much less than the Trillions being proposed currently.

I remain optimistic that our elected representatives will listen to the sentiments of most Americans and not create more counterproductive Government. Bryan W. Lindfors Charlevoix

THE FATE OF 108

Editor: The vacated Charlevoix Land Conservancy house whose fate is in question has an old-old apple tree on its property. I being of farm origin fell in love with that apple tree. You know there isn't anything as American as apple pie, and to get that pie you have to have an apple tree. That old apple tree is way past its prime to give anything but small little wormy apples for critters but I am not much into thinking that old is not of importance. I am a bit old myself and I feel that I still have a lot to give. For the past two summers I have attended to the maintenance of this property, and it was Joanne who introduced me to the charms of the apple tree. In the middle of the summer I stood under the apple tree, and it was amazing.

I was whisked to a quiet place away from the business of town. Included in my amazement was a huge branch that defies the laws of the universe and protrudes in a direction that invites climbing or sitting. There isn't much green belt downtown to mow so I was an oddity moving grass downtown with numerous people passing by of whom many chose to chat with me. I invited many people to the apple tree, and gave them a magical moment of an apple tree.

One elderly couple was charmed, and had moments of farm memories and apple trees of the past. I have seen too many green belts lost of for a and fauna that I love so I invite you all to go downtown and take pictures of this apple tree especially with your children. Read "The Giving Tree" by Silverstein, and honor the apple tree.

Maybe Johnny Appleseed planted it. It may not be there tomorrow. Janice McKay Charlevoix

HEALTH REFORM

Editor: We are closer than ever to passing comprehensive health care reform in this country.

If enacted, health reform could have immediate and lasting benefits for millions of people with cancer and other life-threatening chronic diseases.

Getting a cancer diagnosis would no longer put families at risk of being denied or getting priced out of lifesaving coverage. This is a critical point in the war against cancer.

President Obama should make it clear in his State of the Union address on Wednesday Jan. 27 night that health care reform is about saving lives. Congress needs to put patients before politics and send a strong health care reform bill to the President's desk.

We cannot reduce death and suffering from cancer if we do not improve access to quality, affordable health care in this country. The President has the opportunity during the State of the Union to reinvigorate Congress to finish health reform and take the fight against cancer in this country to a new level. Congress must act now, not later and pass a comprehensive health care reform bill. I also want to take this opportunity to thank Rep. Bart Stupak and Senators Carl Levin and Debbie Stabenow for their continued support of health care reform. Melissa Olson Volunteer, American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network Gaylord

NWA FUNDRAISER A SUCCESS

Editor: As the Director of Development and Director of Bands at Northwest Academy, I would like to thank all the individuals that worked so hard to make our Soup Cook-Off fund raiser so successful.

The NWA Advanced Band will be traveling to Washington, DC on March 11, as music ambassadors from Charlevoix and from the surrounding communities from which our students attend.

The Soup Cook-Off was the brain child of Laurie Hodgson and she put the event in motion and all of our parents chipped in and made the evening a huge success.

As I looked over the gathering at last night's (Jan. 21) fundraiser, I thought about the unique community that we have developed within NWA due to the tremendously diverse backgrounds that our families represent and how the community as a whole will come together and support our cause.

The Soup Cook-Off was an event and the energy in the room was contagious. There was a certain buzz in the room and it is present every time we have sponsored a community fund raising event. Earlier in the fall, the Argonne Supper Club sponsored a very successful event where the entire band worked the restaurant and handled every aspect of running the evening all the way from greeting and seating to waitressing, cooking, bussing, and clean-up at the end and it was like they had all done it many times before. This is all about educating a child in all aspects of life as well as in the classroom. I would venture to say that both of these fund raisers will now become a staple in how we work together to provide the extra funds to run our programs.

None of this would be possible without the tremendous support of the parents of our school and the tremendous staff we have at NWA.

Our teachers put in a tremendous amount of effort on a daily basis to reach the students and take them to a higher level of understanding through a rigorous approach of engagement that is unparalleled.

My hat is off to the outstanding talent that we have in the classroom.

Careful what you ingest; concerns raised over BPA

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Chances are, you've had some form of contact with Bisphenol A today.

Bisphenol A, or BPA as it's commonly known, is used in a number of plastic items including bottles, plastic utensils, toys, and in the linings of food cans and it has been shown to affect the reproductive systems in laboratory animals.

"More mothers are going back to work and they have to use bottles," said Pam Oshaven, a RN and Lactation Consultant with Charlevoix Area Hospital, who is often asked questions from mothers about BPA in baby bottles.

"I try to keep up to date on all of this so I can give them the appropriate information."

Charlevoix Area Hospital uses bottles and pumping equipment that are all BPA free.

Oshaven explained that a small amount of BPA is released into breast milk or formula every time a bottle is heated in the microwave. Normal wear and tear on bottles also increases exposure.

"I advise all my clients to use bottles that don't contain BPA. Most bottles offer some sort of alternative now, or even glass bottles are making a big comeback on the market," said Oshaven. As a precaution, Canada has banned BPA in all baby bottles.

The chemical is used in so many items, most people are exposed to low levels of BPA each day, but more research is currently being done to understand the human health effects of exposure to BPA.

Some scientists believe BPA could be harmful since it mimics some of the effects of a powerful hormone, estrogen.

Infants may be particularly vulnerable because their bodies are developing and cannot eliminate the chemical as quickly.

Congressman Bart Stupak, chair of the House Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigation, is leading an investigation into the potential dangers of BPA exposure, especially related to children and infants.

Stupak is pushing to have the Food and Drug Administration reconsider their previous conclusion under the Bush Administration that BPA is safe at current estimated exposure levels.

In a written release, Stupak stated, "I am pleased the Obama Administration is taking seriously the potential danger associated with BPA and calling for more research into its safety for consumers. It is also promising that the Administration is seeking input from independent health officials rather than relying on industry studies that demonstrate a clear conflict of interest. In my role as chairman of Oversight and Investigations I will continue to monitor this issue and provide the public with the facts about the dangers associated with BPA."

Health Officials advise those with concerns about BPA exposure to get to know your plastics.

Avoid plastic containers with the number "7" and the letters, "PC." These containers contain BPA, and shouldn't be used in the microwave.

Plastic baby bottles should also be avoided.

And, consider using powdered infant formula instead of liquid formula in cans.

Also cutting down on canned foods can help limit exposure.

Everyday hero ends 20 years of service

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

After 20 years of volunteering his time to help others while risking his own life, longtime Charlevoix resident Ed Holm has hung up his hat.

"I've always believed that everyone should give back to their community," said Holm. "I thought about the school board, the township supervisor. But finally it dawned on me that being a firefighter would be a good thing."

Holm spent the last 20 years volunteering with the Charlevoix Township Fire Department.

During that time, he's responded to hundreds of emergency calls and helped so many people, but he knew the time had come to step down.

"It's mostly due to physical reasons," explained Holm. "I would never want to be the cause of someone else getting hurt. That would bother me more than anything else."

With his departure from the department, Holm is taking away many memories – some happy, some sad.

"I'll never forget when Assistant Fire Chief, Ralph Cross, died in my arms," said Holm.

Cross died in October of 2007 after having a heart attack.

But Holm also remembers some calls that were a struggle at the time, but looking back makes him smile.

"It seems like over the years, the worst fires were in the dead of winter when everything is so cold," Holm said with a chuckle. "One time we had a fire at a house out on Nine Mile Point. It was about 16 degrees below zero, the wind was off the lake, and you'd spray water and it would just come right back at you and whack you in the face."

Earlier this month, Charlevoix Township Fire Chief, Curt Thompson, awarded Holm with a plaque of appreciation for his years of service.

"He was one of my most committed helpers," said Thompson. "It was hard to lose him. But as much as you hate to lose your dependable people, you know there is a time to let them go."

"Receiving the plaque was really a huge surprise," added Holm.

While Holm, a retired Army veteran, still works at the Charlevoix Office of Veterans Affairs, he plans to spend his newly found free time with his family.

He's been married to his wife, Mary Jo, for almost 40 years. Together they have three children and five grandchildren.

"My time as a firefighter went by fast. I don't regret it. I made a lot of friends," said Holm. "The department is really a close knit group. It just works out that way."

Cancer curable when detected early

that can be passed from one person to another during sex," said Joshua Meyerson, Medical Director for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "At least half of sexually active people will have HPV at some point in their lives."

Meyerson advises that because HPV is so common, women should follow guidelines for Pap tests. While many will have an HPV infection at some time in their lives, few will get cervical cancer.

"Pap tests can identify cervical cancer when it is entirely curable," said Meyerson. "No woman should die from cervical cancer."

Doctors recommend that women start getting Pap tests every two years beginning at age 21, or three years after sexual activity starts – whichever comes first.

For some women 30 and older who have had three consecutive normal screening results, testing can be done every two to three years.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan offers HPV vaccination for girls and young women.

A series of three shots is given for girls ages 11 and 12, or for girls and women ages 13 to 26 who did not get any or all of the shots when they were younger.

HPV vaccination is available by appointment at health department clinics in Charlevoix, Petoskey/Harbor Springs, Bellaire, Mancelona, and Gaylord.

Patients may qualify for a reduced fee of $15.

Meyerson is also working to educate men that they can help stop the spread of HPV.

Males, ages 11 to 26 can also now receive the HPV vaccine to decrease their risk of genital warts.

Pap test are also available for free or low-cost at the health department clinics.

For more information, or to schedule an appointment, call the Health Department at (800) 432-4121.

The Charlevoix City Police have arrested two subjects, both from Charlevoix, for their alleged involvement in the breaking and entering of the Andy's Party Store. The break-in occurred on Dec.

7, 2009 during the early morning hours where the suspects are believed to have entered the building through an unlocked door and stole several bottles of liquor. A third suspect thought to be involved with the case was supposed to be arrested on Jan. 25, but the results were not available by press time. Police chief Gerard Doan commends the members of the Charlevoix City Police Department for their continued efforts in solving these open cases. Doan also commends the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office for their assistance with the case.

St. Mary School
PHILOSOPHY

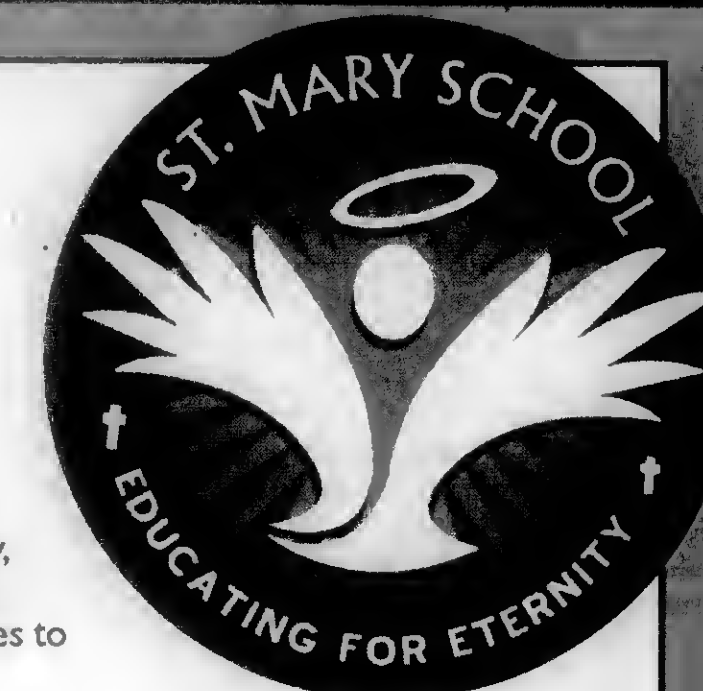

St. Mary Catholic School is a Faith Community — students, parents, staff, parishioners and friends. Teachers, in partnership with parents, are dedicated to providing the spiritual and academic development of each child.

Each person is a child of God, a unique and gifted individual. The curriculum is designed to nurture creativity, academic excellence, and spiritual, physical and emotional growth.

We instill responsibility, respect and compassion for all people. We are committed to making our students aware of social issues while providing the foundation and experiences necessary to be living examples of the Gospel.

St. Mary School
MISSION STATEMENT

The St. Mary Catholic School community empowers students to grow spiritually, academically, artistically, and physically so they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self.

HGTV's "Million Dollar Rooms" includes Winn house

BY CHRISTINA ROHN
NEWS-REVIEW

John and Zita Winn's home was recently seen by millions across the world.

On Sunday, Jan. 24, Home & Garden Television (HGTV) aired its "Million Dollar Rooms" special at 8 p.m., featuring luxurious spaces in 10 homes throughout the world — seven in the U.S. and three international.

Included in this line up is the 10,437 square-foot Round Lake home and connected 8,537 square-foot boathouse of John and Zita Winn, longtime residents of Charlevoix.

John, who owns Four Winns boat company with his brothers, has been living in what he calls his "dream home" for the last eight years with his family of five.

"Zita and I just talked about it the other day, we feel so grateful and lucky to be able to live there — our enthusiasm for the home never changes," he said.

John said, though he's given many tours of his boathouse and home, he was surprised when a producer from Home & Garden Television sought him out.

According to John, the producer's parents lived in Traverse City, and this past summer he was golfing at Bay Harbor, asking people about extraordinary homes in the area.

Several people mentioned the Winn home to the producer and the rest is history.

John said in early September, a film crew from Home & Garden Television came to his home and ended up filming for 14 hours.

"When they came in they were very surprised ... they said it was exactly what they were looking for," he said.

John's boathouse, which displays up to 30 boats between 5-60 feet, also features nautical items that John has collected during his lifetime.

"There are a lot of beautiful houses in the country, but not many boathouses like this," he said. "You could spend a couple of hours looking at all the nautical paraphernalia I've collected over the years."

Pat O'Brien, friend and owner of Pat O'Brien & Associates in Boyne City, said John did not have this home built to be flashy.

"He didn't build this house to flaunt his wealth," O'Brien said. "He did this because boats are his life ... he's a collector, that's what he does."

John said the program gave area residents and tourists a look inside a home they have long been curious about and it may also help him to sell it.

"We're looking to put it on the market, and I thought this show would bring in a broad audience," he said.

O'Brien said they plan list the home for $9.4 million this spring.

"There is nothing like it ... nothing in Bay Harbor has what this has going on," he said. "It's one of a kind."

John said he would like to design and build a smaller home near his current one on Round Lake.

"My oldest children are in college and this is certainly bigger than what we need," he said. "I always tell people I need a smaller house and a bigger boathouse."

Council directed staff to continue negotiations with the townships regarding fire and ambulance services. Motion passed approving a letter of support for the Tip of the Mitt stormwater management grant. Motion passed appointing Councilmembers Lyle Gennett and Dennis Kusina to the Board of Review. Motion passed setting public hearings for February 15, 2010, at 7:00 p.m. in Council Chambers of City Hall, on two proposed ordinances: 2009-2010 Budget Amendment and 2010-2011 Budget Appropriations. Council adjourned at 8:16 p.m.

Clayton Meade of East Jordan (above) rode up to the Charlevoix Snowmobile Club's annual Ride-in by himself. Riders had the chance to warm themselves in the pavillion at Ferry Beach, eat hot soup and win prizes. Charlevoix Snowmobile Club president Tod Olson (right) announces doorprize winners from under a pavillion on Saturday Jan. 23, at Ferry Beach in Charlevoix. It was the club's annual snowmobile ride-in event. Olson said the warmer temperatures and lower than average snowfall decreased the number of snowmobilers from usual, but that the number of people arriving by car had increased dramatically.

Community Band Begins Spring Rehearsals

The Jordan Valley Community Band will start rehearsals for its 20th anniversary spring concert on Thursdays at 7 p.m. in the East Jordan High School band room, beginning on February 4th. This special concert will be presented on Sunday, May 2nd, at 3:00 pm in East Jordan's Auditorium.

Providing area musicians an opportunity to rehearse and perform a wide range of music in a group setting, the band was organized in the fall of 1990 with 13 members and has now grown to about 50 members who travel from communities in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego counties.

If you or someone you know plays an instrument or has played in the past and would like to join us, please contact Director, Becky Palmiter at 582-3734, President, Leslie Cunningham at 547-2145 or Secretary/Treasurer, Phyllis Childs at 582-3488 to have your name added to our mailing list or if you need help finding an instrument. The band would especially like to invite any former members from the last 20 years to return and play again for this anniversary concert.

LIONS COLLECT GLASSES

The Lions collect used eyeglasses year-round for distribution in third-world countries. Any Lion will take used glasses. Currently used glasses can be dropped off at Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix State Bank, optometrist Steve Voci's office at 103 Clinton St. and Dr. Reed Freidinger's office at 14730 Park Ave.

WATCH is sponsoring its free Cabin Fever film series, this year featuring films from the COOLFUEL(TM) USA Roadtrip Series.

Star and executive producer Shaun Murphy trekked around America without using a drop of gas, accompanied by his Aussie and Kiwi crew and his dog, Sparky. He crossed 30 states using 12 COOLFUEL(TM) sources, some a little nuts, some high tech, but all of it fun. His Electra Cruiser motorcycle was powered by garbage and cow pow. His Hummer ran on food scraps.

The films are free, and enjoyable for all age groups.

Fox buys McKeown Ford

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

McKeown

Grand Rapids-based Fox Motors announced its purchase of since 2006, Fox Motors of Charlevoix employs nearly 20 people and offers Chrysler, Dodge, Jeep, Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac and the GEM electric cars.

For 29 years, the McKeown store sold and serviced Ford, Lincoln and Mercury cars and trucks. It will continue to do so, but under the new name of "Fox Charlevoix Ford."

The former McKeown Ford site currently employs nearly 16 people, most of which are expected to be retained.

Fox Motors, which offers a combination of 34 car, truck, motorcycle and scooter brands statewide, now has 18 locations ranging from Grand Rapids to Marquette.

The Fox Motors dealerships are owned by Dan DeVos of Grand Rapids.

In a written release, DeVos stated he is committed to maintaining a Ford Motors presence in this corner of Northern Michigan.

Calculating the true cost of budget cuts

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

City of Charlevoix officials are working to cut more than a half-million dollars from their 2010-2011 budget in the light of decreased property values.

With projected shortfalls in revenue from residential values by 19 percent, commercial values by 4 percent and industrial values by 9 percent, how will the various city departments cope?

"We're working together with all the department heads to get through this budget crunch the best we can," said Charlevoix City Chief of Police Gerard Doan, whose department could see its seasonal officer positions reduced to one officer for a savings of $32,600 as well as a reduction in squad car patrols by 10,000 miles annually for a potential savings of $6,800.

"It will increase foot patrols, but what that also does is decrease the miles an officer may patrol," Doan said. "An officer may be parking more downtown and sitting as opposed to patrolling more areas."

Doan added that, without his seasonal staff, he will have a more difficult time maintaining a constant presence in East Park during the busy summer season.

"Last year I had an officer in the park from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. and an officer there during daytime events. At this point, I'm still trying to work out a plan, but you might see officers less frequently down in the park."

since 2006, Fox Motors of Charlevoix employs nearly 20 people and offers Chrysler, Dodge, Jeep, Chevrolet, Buick, Cadillac and the GEM electric cars.

For 29 years, the McKeown store sold and serviced Ford, Lincoln and Mercury cars and trucks. It will continue to do so, but under the new name of "Fox Charlevoix Ford."

The former McKeown Ford site currently employs nearly 16 people, most of which are expected to be retained.

Fox Motors, which offers a combination of 34 car, truck, motorcycle and scooter brands statewide, now has 18 locations ranging from Grand Rapids to Marquette.

The Fox Motors dealerships are owned by Dan DeVos of Grand Rapids.

In a written release, DeVos stated he is committed to maintaining a Ford Motors presence in this corner of Northern Michigan.

Calculating the true cost of budget cuts

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

City of Charlevoix officials are working to cut more than a half-million dollars from their 2010-2011 budget in the light of decreased property values.

With projected shortfalls in revenue from residential values by 19 percent, commercial values by 4 percent and industrial values by 9 percent, how will the various city departments cope?

"We're working together with all the department heads to get through this budget crunch the best we can," said Charlevoix City Chief of Police Gerard Doan, whose department could see its seasonal officer positions reduced to one officer for a savings of $32,600 as well as a reduction in squad car patrols by 10,000 miles annually for a potential savings of $6,800.

"It will increase foot patrols, but what that also does is decrease the miles an officer may patrol," Doan said. "An officer may be parking more downtown and sitting as opposed to patrolling more areas."

Doan added that, without his seasonal staff, he will have a more difficult time maintaining a constant presence in East Park during the busy summer season.

"Last year I had an officer in the park from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. and an officer there during daytime events. At this point, I'm still trying to work out a plan, but you might see officers less frequently down in the park."

Two arraigned in Andy's break-in

A third arraignment expected this week

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
COURIER EDITOR

Two suspects have been arraigned on charges of breaking and entering a building

Munson Rankl, 20 and Darron Munson, 20, both of Charlevoix, are alleged to have illegally entered and taken items from a local business.

"On Dec. 7, 2009, Andy's Party Store in Charlevoix City was broken into and had approximately 20 bottles of alcohol stolen," stated Charlevoix City Police Deputy-Chief Scott Hankins in his affidavit of probable cause. "(I) interviewed Andy's employee who confessed to breaking into Andy's with Darron Munson and Zakary Rankl (and) that they drove Rankl's car and while in the store broke the video surveillance camera."

Rankl

According to Hankins, both Munson and Rankl later admitted to Hankins that they had entered the store, located at 205 West Garfield Ave., and that Munson had broken the surveillance camera.

The men are thought to have entered Andy's through an unlocked door.

Marge Ramsey, a co-owner of Andy's Party Store, said this is the first time their business has been broken into.

She added that the dollar amount of damage had not yet been calculated.

Both men were arraigned on Tuesday Jan. 26, in Charlevoix's 90th District Court.

Officials expected to arrest a third person believed to be involved with the crime sometime this week.

Bars brace for May 1 smoke ban

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Walking into a smoky restaurant or bar will soon be a thing of the past. And many local business owners are looking forward to the fresher air.

In December, Governor Jennifer Granholm signed into law a smoking ban that will take place starting on May 1.

Melissa Welham, manager of the Flight Deck Bar, believes the smoking ban won't hurt business in the long run.

"We've had a lot of snowmobilers in recently from Canada where there is a smoking ban," said Welham. "They all say that after a month or so you just get used to it and you know that when you go out to a bar or restaurant, you won't be able to smoke."

The ban applies to all bars, restaurants and work places. The only places exempt from the ban include cigar bars and tobacco specialty stores, home offices, and motor vehicles.

Michigan's Native American casinos are not covered by state law so they are also exempt.

While smoking will be allowed on casino gambling

"Many people like to smoke when they drink."

MELISSA WELHAM, FLIGHT DECK BAR MANAGER

floors, it will be banned in the casino bars, restaurants and hotels.

And Welham believes smokers will still find a way to smoke when going out.

"Many people like to smoke when they drink," said Welham. "And if they want to smoke, I'm sure they'll just go out in the parking lot anyway."

With the ban, Michigan will become the 38th state to limit smoking in most public places.

Granholm said of the ban, "I have long supported a smoking ban that will protect employees, patrons and citizens from the dangers of secondhand smoke. This law shows that the health of Michigan citizens is a top priority. We will create more smoke-free environments with this law, which will lead to a healthier state."

Aaron Moffat, owner of Giuseppe's Italian Grille, is looking forward to the change.

Currently, Giuseppe's Italian Grille is smoke free until 9 p.m.

"It's going to be great," said Moffat. "What will be really nice about the ban is that most of our clients eat in the dining room anyway. People don't want to smell smoke when they're eating, so it's going to be a good thing."

Kelsey B's has been smoke-free since it opened in May 2009.

"I think being non-smoking actually helped us," said owner Patty Abbey. "By far we have more people come in and comment all the time about how great it is that we're non-smoking."

Abbey was working in a restaurant in Florida when a similar statewide ban took place.

"Smokers in Florida were upset with the ban and left the restaurant for a bit, but they all came back after a couple weeks," said Abbey.

Individuals and business owners who violate the no smoking law will be subject to penalties of $100 for the first offense and $500 for subsequent offenses.

"What are people going to do now, stop going out?," asked Abbey. "It's not as if the individual restaurant or bar made that decision. It's a law. We're all on the same playing field now."

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

It started with a burning pain in the chest. I moved its way up the esophagus. For years it worsened and prescription seemed to be the only answer; or were they? After an endoscopy and viewing colorful photos we could see the mounds and swirls that looked like something out of National Geographic. We were able to see that the esophagus was clear and undamaged.

The surgeon recommended ideas that seemed foreign but comforting.

Appeased with a quick fix of a purple pill for many years, we met someone from the medical field who was interested in handling things in a natural method.

How we were about to treat GERD (Gastrointestinal Reflux Disease) was going to be different than the past. We were given a list of ideas, none of which involved medication. To our amazement my husband's health has improved.

The following day my son-in-law checked in with a Naturopathic Doctor and found his sleep disorder had nothing to do with a head injury but that his thyroid needed attention.

Armed with a list of foods he should be eating there was a sense of relief that this was a prescription he could easily swallow.

By now you may be thinking, why the heck is she sharing all this personal medical history? After growing up in a scientific based philosophy backed by years of medical school knowledge I thought it helpful to share an insight into alternative medicine.

A good surgeon and a naturopath will emphasize eating organic foods which may be more expensive but if they can ward off the cost of medications which are more expensive in the long run then so be it.

A rule of thumb is "if it can rot then it's safe to eat." Processed foods don't rot. They can sit in a cupboard for years so imagine what it's doing in your body.

Coming from a medical family the proper dose and medication were stressed but my body as well as those of my child and grandchildren developed adverse reactions to medication.

When listening to a commercial advertising the benefit of the latest cure all followed by the myriad list of side effects that description was usually of me.

I fell into that 5 percent category where things can go bad.

We've come a long way from giving our babies morphine or opium, the drugs of choice at the turn of the 19th century.

Thank goodness.

Drugs like morphine, heroin and opium were handed out by the pharmacist to cure a myriad of ailments usually associated with pain.

When the government stepped in and created the Food and Drug Administration requiring labeling of contents things began to change.

With our quick-fix society I understand the need for specific meds but I am glad we are going in the direction of food and supplements to replace them.

With the Health Care Crisis we will return to what is natural to help us and home remedies books will probably be on the rise.

Doctors of Naturopathy are not to be confused with M.D.'s. Naturopathic Doctors do not use synthetic drugs, radiation, or surgery.

They educate methods of stress reduction through yoga and meditation and a healthy diet of vegetables and fruits.

They are not trained the same as a medical doctor but can legally use the name doctor if they complete their program.

At this writing there are two states that still prohibit the practice of naturopathic; South Carolina and Tennessee. Though dad took his Hippocratic Oath as an M.D. it was actually Hippocrates who was one of the first advocates of naturopathic medicine.

In his writings he stressed exercise, avoiding tobacco and not overeating.

With the advent of penicillin naturopathic fell to the way side.

With the alarming obesity rate, diabetes and cancer, the lifestyle of living a life the way nature intended may be the health wave of the future.

Being open to ideas and solutions from not only the medical field but taking in what alternative medicine has to offer will bring about a healthier you.

Columnist weighs idiosyncrasy against love

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwidt

I would be lying if I said that I've never thought about clubbing my husband on the head with a shovel. It's not something of which I'm particularly proud. However, I don't feel too guilty about it, since I've never acted on the impulse. I suppose that this is what separates us from less evolved species. We have the ability to extrapolate upon the outcome and defer our primal inclinations.

And the outcome would no doubt be dubious. I don't want my 15-minutes of fame to involve a lifetime of regret or an episode on "Snapped." Besides, I don't want to hurt him.

I just want him to clean up his mess.

I should have more empathy. During my high school years, my room was a sanctuary of sloth. My dresser lay buried beneath piles of rubble and the floor was carpeted with my wardrobe. My parent's decree of limited freedom until I cleared a path to the door was an insufferable imposition. But when I left home to forge a life of my own, I slowly did an about-face and became a compulsive neat freak.

At first I didn't notice the subtle change in my personality. Life just seemed to make more sense when my surroundings were orderly. I felt happier and more relaxed when everything was tidy. It was easier to be productive in a place with a place for everything.

And it surprised me. Who would have guessed that the unforeseen trappings of my adult life would include an affinity for sushi, the song styling of Etta James and a meticulous inflexibility?

But when I met the man that I would eventually marry, love reared its unruly head and catapulted me once again into a world of disarray.

It started with a rush of endorphins that transformed me into an amenable eyelash-fluttering fembot. I giggled girlishly when I stepped in grape jelly on his kitchen floor. I smiled in rueful adoration when I tripped over his shoes and cleared a space to sit down on the sofa. As I gazed into those blue, blue eyes, the rest of the room faded into soft focus.

The platitude that opposes attract is an interesting concept. It assumes an affinity for that which is beyond our realm. And if we are indeed predisposed to coyzing up to the alien, then we should also be prepared to loosen the reins on our notion of normalcy. In theory.

In reality, it's sometimes challenging to keep the little things in perspective. If my husband sands 14 boards of lumber in direct proximity to a clothesline of my drying delicacies, I remind myself that the result will be, not just sawdust in my skivvies, but a beautiful piece of furniture.

And the measure of our compulsion is subjective. I concede that, compared to Martha Stewart, I am a slob who would probably drive her to distraction within 24-hours. She might even attack me with a garden tool.

Life can be messy. Sometimes it takes a moment of mental mayhem to drop all of our marbles back into their slots, get over it and kiss the guy until his cymbals rattle.

As for the shovel-to-the-head business - Of course I'm only kidding. Just think of the mess that would make.

New columnist advises readers on weddings and general entertaining

CELEBRATE!
BY KRIS RUNBLAD

Question: I am most curious about wedding traditions.

Whose side is usually in charge of what different things?

In other words, what tasks/responsibilities is the bride's family supposed to be in charge of (traditionally) and which ones are expected of the groom's family?

Answer: Traditionally speaking, the bride is responsible for her personal stationery, gifts for her attendants, gift for the groom, the groom's wedding band, her own medical exam including blood tests as dictated by the state the marriage is performed in (if needed) and beauty appointments for the bride and bridal party.

The groom is responsible for his attire, the bride's wedding and engagement rings, gifts for attendants, the marriage license, a present for the bride, the bridal bouquet, corsages for the mothers, boutonnières for the ushers, groomsmen, fathers and himself, accessories for his attendants, his own medical exam including blood tests as dictated by the state the marriage is performed in (if needed), fees to the celebrant and the honeymoon.

The bride's family is responsible for the engagement party, the bride's dress and trousseau, music for the ceremony, photography, invitations for the wedding, ceremony and reception venue expenses, flowers and decorations, food for reception including sales tax and gratuity, wedding cake, gifts for the bride and groom and wedding coordinator.

The groom's family is responsible for hosting the rehearsal dinner, beverages for the reception including sales tax and gratuity, music for the reception, limousine service (transportation of wedding party) and gifts for the bride and groom.

I have found that expenses tend to be split in ways that are not always considered traditional. The families may agree upon the budget and how to best disperse money.

They may take tradition into account, they may take their own financial situation into account and/or they may take their own preferences into account. An example of this is the groom's parents may want to have a videographer and may add that to their list.

I have also found the bride and groom will take greater financial responsibility. They may be able to afford a greater share or they may want to upgrade certain items such as having a band instead of a disc jockey or having a desert station in addition to the cake.

Forge a path that allows you to stay focused on your upcoming marriage. Invest time in the success of your life together as you invest in the ceremony and celebration.

Question: My favorite flowers are lilies and Gerbera daisies.

How would you recommend I incorporate them into my wedding?

Answer: These flowers are both fun to use and colorful.

You can do almost anything you like using them mixed with other flowers, individually or mixed with each other.

The bridal bouquet could be lilies, with gerbera daisies for the bridal party and groomsmen.

Your florist can work with you on different designs including suggestions using filler flowers that complement.

Using them for centerpieces can be great fun as well, mixing styles on your tables or using simply with candles and great vases.

LETTERS to the editor

DON'T GIVE UP; GET A PLAN

Editor,
Don't ever give up. Get a plan.

We Americans are a caring, sharing and giving Country. We have given all around the world when ever disaster strikes we send in relief. Most of the time it get to people but those few countries that have crooked governments keep what money we send them and give very little food and relief to the hurting people of their own country. After years of caring, and helping countries all over the world you would think our government would have a PLAN on how to quickly get relief to these country that have been hit by disaster.

Don't ever give up Mr. President, help our unemployed people here in the USA for 90 to 120 days to go back and work alongside our serve personnel. Like FDR did with the unemployed people, you could have a work force using their native language to help our working military personnel. Don't ever give up Governors that have high unemployment rates by calling up your National Guard Units. First of all you do not send in the Active Army Infantry, Airborne Units that are trained for wars! You send in the Reserves and the National Guard that have trained and worked disasters right here in America from floods, Tornados, Earthquakes, Mudslides and Hurricanes. They the Military Police (M.P.s) those service personnel have the know how and training with their civilian jobs to work with the local law enforcement to take control of any civil unrest. You send in with the M.P.s the Combat Engineers with their equipment to rebuild the infrastructure to level damaged buildings that are beyond repair and rebuild the buildings, roads, laying down water and sewer lines. Along with these experienced personnel you would send in the Civil Affairs Units, the Doctors, Nurses, and Medical Staff. These professionals are trained in mental and physical problems and have humane disaster training.

This putting fighting soldier in Haiti, instead of the trained Reservist and Guard personnel is backward thinking and wasteful spending. Call up those great units that have years of training in home disasters. Help put our People back to work for a year of duty near our own shores. Let's do it right this time and quit giving our money to crooked government officials that have lost billions of dollars in the last few years.

I am a concerned taxpayer.

The Jordan River Arts Council has offered another youth oriented project: Black, White and "Red" (Read) All Over emphasizing the importance of expression through reading, writing and art. The only criteria was that newspaper be used in all projects as well as the colors black, white, and red. News can be obtained on line and the computer images can be included. Students were encouraged to read a newspaper, or some article from a magazine and write about it; or write an essay, verse, prose that might relate to the subject of study or something of their own selection. MSU COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE

The Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine welcomes one of the area's own into the class of 2013. This class is the first class to have students attend school at the college's two new expansion sites at the Detroit Medical Center and the Macomb University Center in southeast Michigan.

Michael Rosen of Charlevoix received bachelor degrees in human biology and nutritional science from Michigan State University. The son of Robert and Marie Rosen, he attended Charlevoix High School, graduating in 2004.

The college has been in the top five percent among all medical schools in the nation for its primary care education for the past eight years. This year, the college admitted only 315 of its 3,455 applicants.

MSU EXTENSION OFFICE

Dean Solomon, senior Extension educator, has earned the highest level of professional recognition for Michigan State University Extension (MSUE) employees. Known as senior educators, employees achieving that level need to demonstrate a record of excellence in scholarship, leadership, service and diversity.

Solomon's work portfolio focused on helping communities address land use and natural resources issues as well as helping with the Planner's Moments program, an effort to expand learning opportunities for planning commissioners in Charlevoix and Emmet County. He has also been a major contributor to the Michigan Citizen Planner program by authoring modules on community master plans in both the online and classroom versions, becoming lead author of the Sparrowville interactive exercises, and teaching portions of the programs throughout Michigan.

St. Mary celebrates Mardi Gras with school fundraiser at Castle

CAROL R. SULLIVAN
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

"Mardi Gras," over the years, has become synonymous with "celebration."

This year's Mardi Gras masquerade hosted by St. Mary School will take place from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday Feb. 13 at Castle Farms.

"Last year's event was an enormous success," said school Principal, Keisha Vervser, "it was a great event ... everyone had a wonderful time."

The terms Mardi Gras and Mardi Gras season most typically refer to the events of Carnival, beginning around the Epiphany and ending the night before Ash Wednesday.

The festivities and celebrations that surround Mardi Gras date back to the late 1600s in New Orleans and have spread the world over as a means of celebration to usher in the coming of Lent.

Mardi Gras, literally means fat Tuesday.

Its history and tradition are cause for festivities across the country. And, despite the winter chill and freezing temperatures, Charlevoix's St. Mary School will bring the heat, excitement, extravagance and festivities of the deep south to Charlevoix for their annual Mardi Gras Masquerade.

Hors d'oeuvres will be catered by Grey Gables and a cash bar will be available throughout the evening.

Other highlights include the crowning of the king and queen, a mystery raffle and live dancing and entertainment to the beats of Charlie's Root Fusion.

For tickets or more information contact St. Mary School or Charlevoix Screen Masters.

For more information, call (231) 547-5111.

Tickets are $30 per person and are available at St. Mary School or Charlevoix Screen Masters.

Ragamuffins present Viva La Difference

CAROL R. SULLIVAN
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Looking for something exciting, different and romantic to do with your sweetheart this Valentine's Day? Look no further.

The Ragamuffin Theater and Company, the ever popular Northern Michigan singing and dancing group is at it again.

This time they are teaming up with Charlevoix's own Grey Gables Restaurant to present a romantic comedy dinner theater experience entitled, Viva La Difference this Valentine's weekend.

"Some folks might remember a variety show we ran a few years ago, Love American Style, at the castle ... it was a huge hit," said Ragamuffin director, Kathleen Whittaker. "Now we are bringin' back romantic comedy again, around Valentine's Day to offer people something fun, exciting and

"The evening promises to have something for everyone."

KATHLEEN WHITTAKER, PROGRAM DIRECTOR

different to do for the holiday this year."

The event is scheduled to take place in the King's Ballroom, on the second floor of the castle, and will include a full course meal by Grey Gables interspersed with live entertainment by the Ragamuffin Theater troupe.

Performances will be held at 7 p.m. Friday Feb. 12 and at 5 p.m. Sunday Feb. 14.

The variety dinner show will explore the differences between the sexes, men and women, male and female personalities, dynamics, differences and similarities between them in a comedic and humorous way.

A variety of vignettes, skits and musical numbers will be interspersed throughout the meal allowing plenty of time for guests to enjoy both the food and entertainment.

The evening will conclude with an approximately 20 minute comedic exploration of how music has impacted our perception of love and romance in a journey of life through song.

According to Whittaker, audience members will be treated to a funny, entertaining and satirical evening of music, dancing and laughter.

"It's such a wonderful and fun, engaging, lively and dynamic event," Whittaker said. "It creates more than just a quiet dinner out, it's more of a memory ... laughing together, great food, good music, enjoying good conversation ... it's the whole package."

Members of the cast include talented adults and youth from Charlevoix, Petoskey and Central Lake along with locally acclaimed musician Brian Corbett.

"The evening promises to have something for everyone," said Director Kathleen Whittaker. "When you combine the ambiance of the castle with great food, wine and excellent entertainment — it can't help but be magical."

Tickets for the event are $40 per person and include all tax and gratuity.

Seating is limited.

Tickets are available online at www.RagamuffinTheatre.com or by calling (231) 237-9686.

Young moviemakers to showcase talent on tape

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Aspiring, young, filmmakers in Northern Michigan now have a place to showcase their work.

The first Charlevoix Public Library Teen Film Festival will take place on February 19th.

Laura Potter, who has served as the library's teen librarian for the last two years, wanted to find a film festival she could replicate at the library for those in the area.

"I started researching other libraries and similar programs they had done," explained Potter. "I came across some film festival brochures and thought it would be fun to try to do here in Charlevoix."

Teens are asked to make their film and submit it by the end of the first week in February. All films must be on DVD and be less than 10 minutes in length. All must be rated G or PG, and will be reviewed and approved by Potter before being shown February 19th at

"So far, we haven't had any films turned in, but the deadline is coming. The original enough response to hold more film festivals in the future.

"I have had quite a bit of interest from those in the area," explained Potter. "A teacher at Concord Academy in Petoskey has said her students are working on sending in some films, and a student in Charlevoix has said he would like a place to show off some of his work."

The Charlevoix Public Library does have a video camera that can be checked out for use.

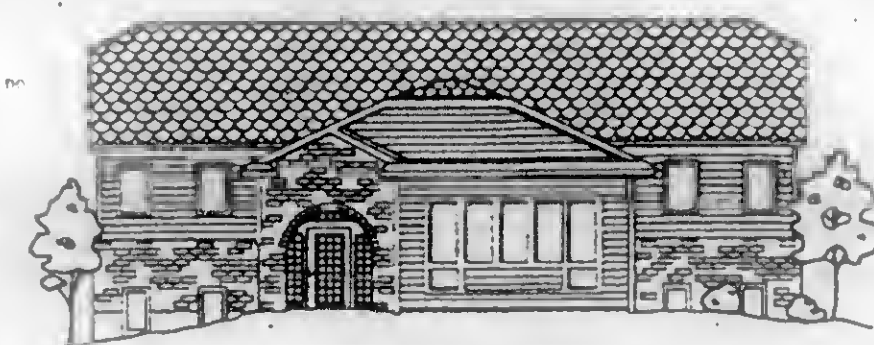

"I really hope things go well, so we can do the festival again in the future and show students that there are other kids their age making films in our area," said Potter.

Films turned in will be shown from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday Feb. 19 at the Charlevoix Public Library. The public is invited to come watch and vote for their favorites.

Prizes will be awarded to participants and audience members.

City, county score $178K in green grants

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Charlevoix City and county are slated to receive a grand total of $178,707 in two green grants from the federal government.

The county is expected to get $128,707 while the city will have $50,000 to spend on various energy efficiency improvements.

"It's going to allow us to primarily replace four somewhat low-efficiency boilers for heating the county building," said Charlevoix County Planner Larry Sullivan, an applicant for the county funds. "Those will be replaced with two high-efficiency condensing boilers and a computerized heating ventilation and air-conditioning controlling unit."

The upgrades are expected to save county taxpayers $8,000 per year on heating costs.

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Strabel said the city's potential savings are also significant.

"We are going to be changing over from the inefficient metal halide lighting system in the fire and EMS bays to lower wattage fluorescent light fixtures," he said. "We estimate that decrease in electric consumption would amount to 60 to 70 percent, which would be probably about $2,500 savings per year. We are also looking at installing 17 motion detectors and eight light sensors (around city hall and the fire/EMS building). We estimate just over $2,000 a year in savings from that."

A change in lighting at the water treatment plant is expected to save just over $4,000 annually.

Replacement of an antiquated heating system at the water treatment plant could save just over $2,500 annually.

The city is also looking at swapping a more efficient air transfer unit for the old one for a savings of nearly $1,800 per year.

Part of $17.4 million to be spread over 125 communities statewide, the funds are being disbursed through the Michigan Department of Energy, Labor and Economic Growth (DE-LEG) which applied for the grants made available by President Barack Obama's Energy Efficiency and Conservation Block Grants in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009.

"At a time when municipalities are hard pressed to fund capital improvements, these grants will jump-start their efforts and allow them to realize operational savings that can be used to fund other energy efficiency and conservation projects," stated DE-LEG Director Stanley Pruss in a Jan. 25 press release. "This funding will support a pipeline of projects, offer the option of bulk purchasing, and encourage increased manufacturing, including diversified suppliers, as well as new manufacturers."

Other local entities which are receiving the grants include Emmet County at $153,672, Grand Traverse County at $353,575, Antrim County at $374,188 and the Village of Bellaire at $50,000.

"Not only is it economically the right thing to do, obviously we are reducing our carbon footprint within the community and hopefully setting a high standard for the city of Charlevoix and other Michigan communities," Strabel said. "It is one of our goals within the Michigan Green Communities Challenge (a statewide initiative encouraging cities to become more energy efficient) to conduct an energy audit and achieve grant funding for some of these efficiency improvements."

He added, "It is just one of many green goals the city is looking at completing over the next two or three years or so."

Sullivan said the award of the grant money is also significant in helping people understand why it is so important to participate in the upcoming U.S. Census.

"In many of the grants which we apply for, the dollar amounts of those are often based on our population," he said. "If we're undercounted by 1,000 people we could lose a serious amount of money."

Local efforts to aid Haiti ongoing

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

It seems people from politicians to manufacturers are banding together to send aid to the untold scores of people suffering in Haiti.

After hearing of the Jan. 12, 7.0 magnitude earthquake which struck the island nation, Charlevoix residents began planning fundraising efforts.

"We hope that hosting a luncheon could give our employees and people in the community a chance to help in the efforts," said Jennifer Archambault manager of human resources at Harbor

Industries of Charlevoix. "Our hope is to raise money for the American Red Cross to get much needed supplies to the victims of the earthquake ... as quickly as possible."

She added, "Although the $5 donation seems like a small amount, if everyone at Harbor donated $5, it would make a bigger impact in Haiti, and if others from the community joined us, it would make an even greater impact."

Harbor's chili luncheon fundraiser is scheduled for noon on Feb. 9 in the Harbor Industries lunchroom.

Your $5 admission will go to the American Red Cross.

The event is open to the public. Call 237-6202 to RSVP.

"This effort shows need transcends political as well as geographical boundaries," Boyko said. "We hope all counties encourage their members to contribute to the charity of their choice."

Northwest begins Montessori assimilation

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Phoebe Gohs an elementary teacher at Northwest Academy has begun the process of becoming a certified Montessori instructor.

Gohs is enrolled at the North American Montessori Center.

"Northwest has been re-incorporating and re-evaluating their elementary program" said Gohs.

Northwest Academy administrator Gary Stutzman said he is looking forward to Gohs integrating the very best Montessori has to offer into her existing program.

"Phoebe is just an absolute master teacher, no matter what level a child is at she is able to reach them," he said.

This past fall the kindergarten class at Northwest academy began meeting at the Children's House Montessori School.

"The first huge step was merging the kindergarten class with the existing Montessori school," said Barb Godwin-Chulick, consultant to NWA and retired Montessori teacher.

NWA has always had small, multi-age classes with individualized learning but could still be classified as predominantly traditional in their educating approach.

"The Montessori classroom is ... about learning how to let kids be their own teacher in a prepared environment."

MOLLY ARNOLD,

CHARLEVOIX CHILDREN'S HOUSE DIRECTOR

The school intends to slowly merge both approaches to education in the lower grades allowing the successful elements to filter upward as the children pass from grade to grade.

In order to successfully begin changing the traditional classroom to the prepared classroom used in Montessori Gohs must complete training in the Montessori Approach.

"It's a big change but because we are a small school and have a small staff we have an ability to cater to the needs of the students," said Gohs.

The Montessori approach to education draws its principles from the natural development of the child.

It adapts to the needs of the individual child, regardless of the level of ability, learning style, or social maturity.

"The Montessori classroom is pretty different from the typical classroom," said Molly Arnold, director of the Montessori school Charlevoix Children's House.

"It's more about learning how to let the kids be their own teacher in a prepared environment."

Gohs said as the students grow, Northwest will adopt more aspects of the Montessori program but without abandoning what has made Northwest's elementary program successful to date.

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding your life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life. DivorceCare is available for kids too!

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meets on Thursday evenings, beginning February 4, from 7-9 p.m. for 13 weeks (join anytime) at the "Servants Quarters," 100 Oak Street (located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.) A light dinner is provided. DivorceCare for Kids meets on Thursdays, after school, at the church. First meeting Feb. 4. (Bussing available)

After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Pat McKeown Ford under new owner after 29 years

"We are excited about adding Ford, Lincoln and Mercury to the Fox Motors lineup in Charlevoix and will strive to provide the same level of high-quality, first-rate service to Pat McKeown's customers that Mr. McKeown and his employees have provided for years."

While Pat McKeown the man has been in business in Charlevoix for 29 years, his experience in selling vehicles goes back 43 years.

McKeown steered his way into the business in 1966 at age 23, where he worked with International Harvester's heavy truck sales division in Columbus, Ohio.

When he was 26 years old he was general manager of the sixth largest GMC truck store in the United States.

When he was 31 he was a sales manager for a Time Quality Award Winner finalist.

Of the thousands and thousands of cars and trucks he sold in his time, McKeown said his favorite auto is the 1968 Mustang Fastback GT.

In addition to having been a strong supporter of local sports teams and charities including 4H, Toys for Tots and local food pantries, McKeown is former president and vice president of the Lions night and morning clubs respectively, and currently acting chairman of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce board.

"A lot of people don't know how generous Pat has been over the years," said longtime friend and accountant Bill Kanine. "For years and years Pat paid for the fish in the pond downtown for kids to go fishing and the schools were constantly approaching him for sponsorships. And, he has been very generous to the Child Abuse Council of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties."

He added, "For 29 years he has been a very viable contributor to Charlevoix and an employer of good jobs and he has always conducted business with promoting Charlevoix and supporting the community in mind. I hope Fox continues what he set up."

McKeown came to Charlevoix in 1981 to purchase the dealership, then known as Erber Auto.

"I've always been associated with good people and whenever I changed jobs it was never a lateral move, it was always a positive movement," McKeown said.

"I've always felt my glass is always half full, not half empty."

McKeown said there were times in his four-plus decades that he had to make the best out of some rough situations.

"We've had our share of feast and famine over the last 40 years," he said. "You can't sit and whine about it; you have to get off your rear end and do something about it."

Despite financial problems suffered by automakdeal with people and lead by example."

While some men would be on the first flight to Tahiti after 43 years of work, McKeown's days as a businessman are far from over.

In addition to several side businesses, he will continue to operate a Budget Rent-A-Car franchise in Charlevoix.

"My time here has been wonderful. We survived by selling cars and trucks to the working people of Charlevoix," McKeown said.

"They've (community) been so kind to us over the years. If there is anything I can do to help, I'm always available through the chamber."

Both McKeown and Fox Motors were silent on the dollar value of the deal.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Rayders season full of highs and lows

BY ANDY SNEEDON
NEWS-REVIEW SPORTS
EDITOR

Disappointing? Of course.

But Charlevoix has little time to lick its wounds as it looks ahead to its most important game of the season.

Charlevoix saw its six-game boys' basketball win streak come to an end Monday with a 65-43 non-league home loss to Petoskey. Now, the Rayders turn their attention to Friday, Feb. 5, when Traverse City St. Francis comes calling.

In the big picture, the Petoskey game matters little. The St. Francis game?

"Obviously it's for the league championship because if we lose, it's probably over," Charlevoix coach Keith Haske said. "We know there's a lot at stake. It's great to be a part of it."

St. Francis, which was to play a league game at East Jordan on Tuesday, Feb. 2, entered that game 8-3 overall, 6-0 in the league. The Rayders are now 7-5, 6-1.

Charlevoix's win streak came at the expense of Lake Michigan Conference foes, and it put the Rayders in position to garner a share of first place in the league — provided, of course, they beat St. Francis.

The Rayders and Glads have been a part of many a memorable games over the past half decade or so. They have met 17 times since 2003-04, with St. Francis winning nine and the Rayders eight.

The average margin of victory in those games is 7.8 points, and four times the teams have met in the state tournament with the Rayders winning three of those meetings. In the six years beginning with '03-04, St. Francis has won three Lake Michigan Conference championships, the Rayders two.

"It's fun every time you get a chance to play a game like that because a lot of kids never get a chance to be in a big game like that," Haske said. "Hopefully we'll fill the gym up and rock the place."

The Gladiators won the first meeting, 68-54, at home on Dec. 19.

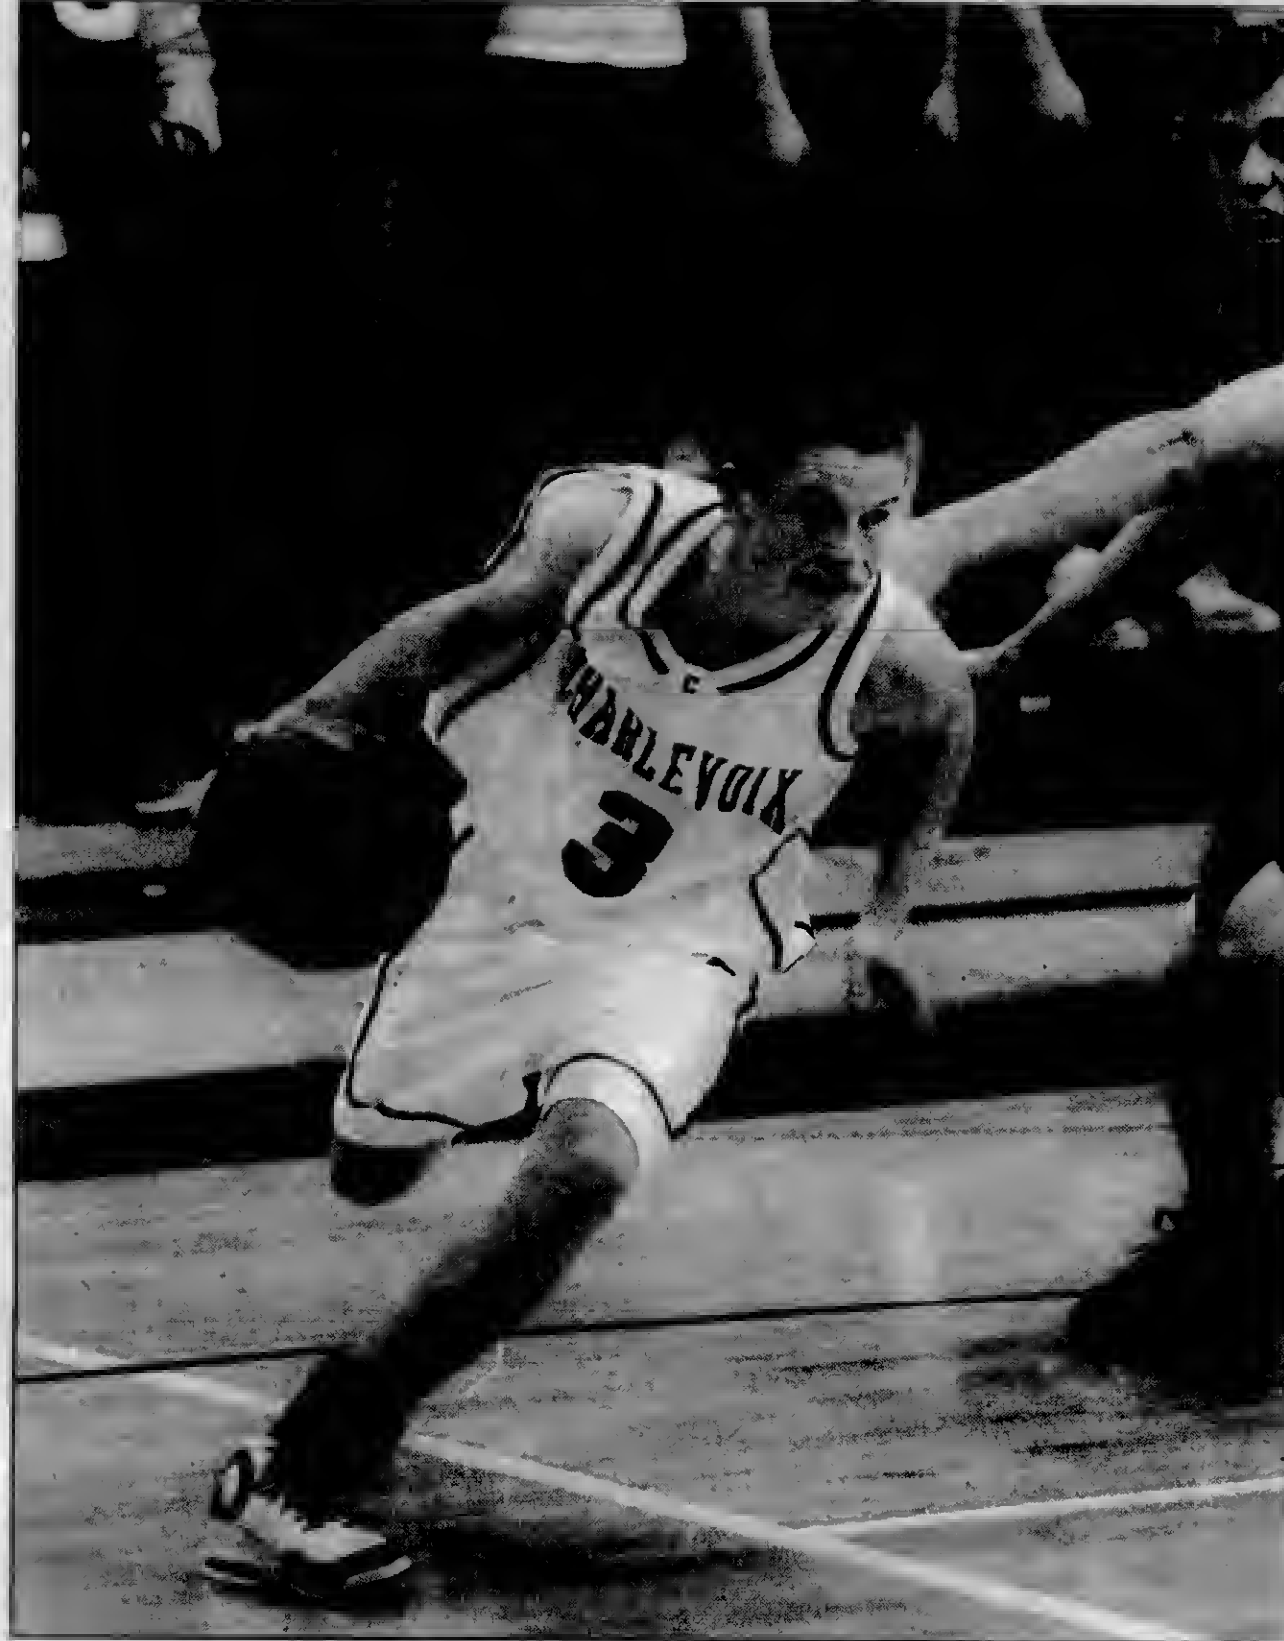

"The first time down there, we were down five with about four minutes to go and had a couple possessions, a couple chances, and didn't get anything out of them," Haske said. "Our kids know we can compete with them."

That game was part of Charlevoix's 1-4 start, a start that didn't completely shock Haske and his coaching staff.

Included in Charlevoix's start to the season were losses to Benzie Central and Suttons Bay, both of which are now 9-1; and a loss to Class A T.C. Central, now 8-4. Petoskey is 13-0 and ranked sixth in the Associated Press Class B state poll. The Northmen are off to their best start since 1925-26.

"We knew it was going to be a tough start, we were on the road and we played some tough teams,"

Sandwich Generation Needs to Avoid Financial Squeeze

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

Are you a member of the "Sandwich Generation"? This designation — which applies to people caring for their aging parents while supporting their own children — may be applicable to you if you're either a younger Baby Boomer, born in the late 1950s or early 1960s, or an older member of "Generation X," born in the mid-1960s. But any way you slice it, being in the "Sandwich" group is probably going to present you with some challenges, particularly of the financial kind — so you'll need to make the right moves.

Basically, you should consider two areas of decision-making — those affecting the future of you and your children and those affecting your elderly parents' lifestyle and legacy.

Regarding your future, and that of your children, you'll need to prioritize your goals. Some people, when weighing the merits of investing for retirement versus saving for their children's college educations, conclude that while loans are available for college, none are offered to retirees. Consequently, they focus more heavily on retirement. If you're in this camp, you'll probably want to contribute as much as you can possibly afford to your IRA and 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan.

However, if you feel strongly about helping your kids go through college relatively debt-free, you may want to explore some college-savings options, such as Section 529 plans and Coverdell Education Savings Accounts, both of which offer significant tax advantages.

In any case, these goals don't have to be mutually exclusive — but if you're going to address them both, you will have to make some key decisions regarding allocation of resources. And while you're handling these issues for yourself and your children, you'll need to juggle the needs of your elderly parents. With luck, you won't have to contribute financially, but you may be required to put in some time and energy to help make sure your parents' situation remains positive.

This means you'll need to ask some questions. Where do your parents bank? Do they have a brokerage account? If so, do you know the name of their financial advisor? Have they taken steps to remain financially independent if they ever need to go to a nursing home or employ home health care assistants? Have they drawn up a will, a living trust or other estate plan documents? Would they be willing to have you or another family member assume power of attorney should they become incapacitated?

In raising these questions, you will have to approach your parents with tact and sensitivity. However, you may be pleasantly surprised at your parents' willingness to talk about these issues; after all, they almost surely want to avoid burdening you with extra financial responsibilities.

The best time to approach your parents is when they are healthy, both mentally and physically. It's especially important to be aware of even minor-seeming cognitive impairments, such as memory lapses, which can result in paying the same bills two or three times, forgetting to record checks or even falling prey to fraudulent investment schemes. If you suspect your parents may be having these troubles, you'll need to step in immediately.

It's not easy being a Sandwich Generation member, but through diligence and proper planning, you should be able to help avoid getting "squished" — while improving the outcomes for all your beloved family members.

City heads working to survive budget crunch

BUDGET

At first glance the aesthetics of a town may not seem like a vital part of the infrastructure, but what happens when that town depends on tourism for its very survival?

Also proposed to be cut is the city's portion of $15,000 in petunia weeding and eliminating the baskets downtown for a savings of $7,300.

"It's going to make the committee look harder than they ever have," said Erin Bemis, former president of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, the group which works each year to line five miles of Charlevoix streets with petunias. "They're just going to have to get creative in how they do it."

Bemis added that cuts are not unique to organizations like Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

"All charitable organizations are seeing things like they've never seen before," she said. "2009 was a rough year for charitable organizations and 2010 is going to be a challenging year as well."

Bemis recently stepped down as president after 20 years of service to focus on other aspects of her life which include running the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority has offered to make the following cuts in order to save the city money: radio/TV ads - $15,000; cornstalks downtown - $900; sidewalk sales subsidy - $1,000; other marketing expenses - $5,000; contribution to library debt service - $30,000; and trash and recycling bins - $11,900.

"Through efficiencies and some creative delivery of services we would just like to hold the line as best we can and continue to promote downtown Charlevoix and its merchants, and encourage folks to come and spend money downtown," said development authority executive director Keith Carey. "I believe in spending tax dollars wisely and effectively and I believe since we were under budget last year we are still able to do what we want, and that spending habit has put us in a better position for the next fiscal year."

Charlevoix City Councilman Greg Stevens (2nd Ward) said he has received numerous phone calls from residents concerned that more than $500,000 in cuts will negatively affect the city.

"We have some luxuries here in Charlevoix that aren't in other places," Stevens said.

"... We also have traditionally had lifeguards at our beaches and well-groomed ball fields."

He added, "Another one of those luxuries is that we have been able to help out with the petunias and we have always paid for the costs of Mount McSaubia, which is used by the entire area."

Stevens lauded Charlevoix Township and Hayes Township who agreed to help offset operational costs at the mountain by paying $7,000 and $1,579, respectively, to the city's recreation fund.

"In order to keep having those luxuries we may have to have our citizens help us out," he said.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 15, at city hall.

Rayders get ready for St. Francis

Haske said. "That'll help us get ready for Friday night, playing all those good teams. That's why you do that and you think in a big (league) game we're going to rise up."

The Rayders' season-opening 86-58 loss to T.C. Central; and the 65-43 loss to Petoskey were telling, Haske said, about where the Rayders were, where they are, and where they may be headed. Both teams are members of the Big North Conference; Petoskey is more than double the size (enrollment wise) of Charlevoix, Central is nearly three times as big.

"I know the first game of the year we played Traverse City Central and we didn't compete," Haske said, adding that he viewed the Petoskey game as a measuring stick. "Can we compete at that level? And I really thought we did (against Petoskey). I was proud that we competed and we hung around for a long time and didn't play well on the offensive end."

Cory Starkey, a 6-foot-6 junior, scored a career-high 26 points in leading the Northmen past the Rayders.

Sophomores Andrew Plude and Keegan LaBlance shared team-high scoring honors with senior Clayton Mitchell for Charlevoix. Each scored eight points.

Charlevoix hung tough throughout the first half. Its largest deficit of the opening two quarters was nine points, 34-25, with 2:01 left in the half. Petoskey's lead was eight, 36-28, at the break.

The Northmen slowed the tempo to their liking after halftime, and clamped down defensively.

They outscored the Rayders, 29-15, over the final two quarters, holding Charlevoix to six field goals on 23 attempts (26 percent) in the final 16 minutes. The Rayders were 10-of-21 from the floor in the first half.

Three nights before taking on the Northmen, the Rayders won a Lake Michigan thriller over Grayling, 64-63, as LaBlance scored on a runner with 2 seconds remaining.

The Rayders managed that victory — and hung tough with Petoskey — despite playing without one of their top players, Ben Myers. Myers missed the Grayling game because of a college visit, and missed the Petoskey game because of illness.

"He's a difference-maker for us," Haske said. "He makes a lot of things happen for us. Hopefully he'll be ready to go Friday."

Dylan Putman, a 6-foot-2 junior forward, helped fill the void by posting career-highs in points (26) and rebounds (16) in the win over Grayling. He also had four assists and four steals.

Andrew Plude added 11 points, and Ivan had 10, eight of which came in the fourth quarter. Plude scored nine of his points in the second half as the Rayders overcame an 33-22 halftime deficit.

Colin Hamlin scored 27 points for Grayling, 7-3, 4-3.

The Rayder JV team fell to Petoskey, 56-37. Andrew Potter scored 19 points for Charlevoix.

The Rayders freshmen split their two games, beating Grayling, 69-51, and falling to Petoskey, 69-51. Charlie Hamilton had 22 points and Tanner Catt added 16 in the win over Grayling; Catt scored 18 points and Hamilton added 10 in the loss to Petoskey.

Mystery book raises funding for Charlevoix hospital group dian culture, and a chance to guess the secret destination to win $5,000.

"We're supporters of the hospital foundation," said Roger.

Not only does the Nesburg family support the local causes that the book provides but there are many other Charlevoix connections to the book.

The children attend school with the daughter of one of the artists featured in the book, another of the artists is the children's art teacher and two of the artists were former classmates of Annette.

The book is truly a Charlevoix creation.

"It's been a good conversation piece in linking it to their studies at school," said Roger.

The children became excited when they realized they had just learned in social studies a portion of history found in the book.

Michael read a paragraph found on page three.

"It's like about how the three fires was made," said Danny.

The book is filled with hidden images, a glossary of the Odawa language and a page of puzzles in the back.

"I like the glossary in the back," said Rachel.

"I like reading the different languages," said Natalie.

The final paragraph of the book is three couplets of poetry.

"It's like telling a story of the past," said Rachel.

Each page in the book has an opposing page of artwork illustrated by a local artist.

Natalie is the family artist and chose the artwork as her favorite part of the book.

"The artwork is just as important as the text," said Roger.

"It tells a story and opens more avenues of discussion."

"They (the art pages) are well designed and really thought out," said Michael.

"It also adds meaning to the geography," said Roger. "the area surrounding us has an Indian foundation and the book helps build an appreciation for that foundation."

"It has opened up discussions even when we travel."

"It does have something for everyone in the family," said Roger, both the youngsters and the adults can read it and get something out of it."

• Writer's Group is 6 p.m. on Wednesdays for all writers.

• Quilters and Friends meet from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. the third Thursday of the month. This group of quilters and other fiber art enthusiasts is set up as a work-group, so bring along your current fiber project and all the equipment you need (yes, even your sewing machine!) and enjoy the company of friends. The group facilitator is Sue Dixon.

• Northern Michigan Textile Artists meets from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. the third Wednesday of the month. Join local fiber artist, Kathie Briggs for discussion of projects and ideas.

• The Scrapbookers meet from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the fourth Saturday of the month. Treat yourself to a full day away from home to work on your photos with group facilitator, Sheila Davis and other like minded scrappers.

The Book Talkers meet regularly throughout the year at 6 p.m. on Monday evenings. Beth Strawbridge facilitates this group. Call the library for upcoming dates and titles, 237-7340.

The Writer's Group meets at 6 p.m. every Wednesday in the Armstrong Conference Room. This group of writing enthusiasts (from beginner to

Help your Children Heal from the Pain of Divorce
through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare for Kid's (DC4K) program

How are your children feeling?

Are your children angry, hurt & confused about your divorce? Finding help for your children can be frustrating. DivorceCare for Kids, DC4K, provides a safe, fun place where your children will...

- Learn to understand their feelings
- Express their emotions appropriately
- Feel better about themselves
- Develop coping skills
- Be introduced to biblical concepts that will bring comfort

More about DivorceCare for Kids.

Some children struggle deeply with separation and divorce, while others seem to bounce back quickly. In the long run, all children are affected. DC4K will help minimize and eliminate the short and long-term negative effects of divorce on your children's schoolwork, emotional health and spiritual life.

As your children begin to heal from the pain and confusion, their relationships with you, God and others will grow healthy and strong.

DC4K group meetings are offered each Thursday, beginning February 4, from 3:30-5:30 p.m. at the Community Reformed Church. Kids ride bus #18 from school to the church. A snack is provided.

Please note that if school has 1/2 day, snow day or it's a holiday, there will be NO class.

Connect your children with our DC4K group today! Heal together by attending our DivorceCare groups for Adults.

For more information on either program call Amy, our DivorceCare Facilitator at 231-675-1925

FEB. 3
Telephone town hall with Bart Stupak

At 6 p.m. on Feb. 3, Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Memominee) will hold a telephone town hall meeting for the residents of his district. The telephone town hall will allow residents of the First Congressional District to ask Stupak questions on a range of issues, including health care and the economy.

This will be Congressman Stupak's fifth telephone town hall meeting with constituents in the past year.

To participate in the telephone town hall can sign up by visiting www.house.gov/stupak and selecting "E-mail and Telephone Town Hall Sign-Up" or by calling Congressman Stupak's office at (800) 950-7371 to request they be included on the call.

In order to join the call, individuals must have registered prior to 5 p.m. EST on Monday Feb. 1, and be available to answer their phone between 5:50 p.m. EST and 6:20 p.m. EST on Wednesday night.

FEB. 4
Community Band Begins Spring Rehearsals

The Jordan Valley Community Band will start rehearsals for its 20th anniversary spring concert on Thursdays at 7 p.m. in the East Jordan High School band room, beginning on Feb. 4. This special concert will be presented on Sunday, May 2nd, at 3 p.m. in East Jordan's Auditorium.

Providing area musicians an opportunity to rehearse and perform a wide range of music in a group setting, the band was organized in the fall of 1990 with 13 members and has now grown to about 50 members who travel from communities in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego counties.

If you or someone you know plays an instrument or has played in the past and would like to join us, please contact Director, Becky Palmer at 582-3734, President, Leslie Cunningham at 547-2145 or Secretary/Treasurer, Phylliss Childs at 582-3488 to have your name added to our mailing list or if you need help finding an instrument. The band would especially like to invite any former members from the last 20 years to return and play again for this anniversary concert.

FEB. 5
CCA fundraiser from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Weatherlane Restaurant in Charlevoix. There will be a Mexican buffet, cash bar and cost is $10.

FEB. 5 AND 11
Alcove Cafe Cooking Classes

AT 6 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 5 — Roasted tomato-basil soup and scones We will chop and dice; I'll put the soup on to cook; and while it's bubbling, we'll make Alcove scones of various kinds. We'll enjoy a dinner of soup and scones. Things to bring if you have them: mixing bowl & spoon, medium chopping board.

We'll provide lots of things to add to the scones, but if you have something special you'd like to try, bring that as well, $25

At 6 p.m. on Thursday Feb. 11 — Pizza We did this one last year and had a ball. Come and do it again (try new toppings), or if you missed the first one, come on in. We make pizza dough from scratch (you'll end up taking that home in your own bowl); we'll make crusts from dough I've made ahead of time and par-bake them; and then we'll each put toppings on a couple of crusts and eat them. I'll provide everything except your mixing bowl. $25

Reserve your spot by calling (616) 635-6972.

FEB. 12
A Musical Valentine by the Charlevoix Men's Chorus, 12:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix Public Library Community Room. Come hear the chorus sing love songs old and new from Broadway, popular ballads, folk music, and country. Admission is free.

2nd Annual Ellsworth's Best Dessert Tasting and Raffle at the Front Porch Cafe

Treat yourself and your sweetheart to a dessert tasting of Ellsworth's best gourmet desserts donated by our very best bakers from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 12 Includes coffee, tea and punch by free will donation. Enter the Raffle to win a dessert to take home. Tickets are $2 each or 3 for $5. Proceeds benefit the Front Porch Café, a non-profit community outreach serving affordable, home-cooked meals Monday through Saturday. For information call (231) 588-6391.

FEB. 18
Charlevoix school band fundraiser

In conjunction with the concert the bands will be hosting a Spaghetti Dinner Fundraiser. The dinner will be served starting at 5 p.m. and will serve until 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 18.

Later, at 7 p.m., the Charlevoix Bands sixth-grade through high school, will be presenting a concert at the High School Auditorium in preparation for Band Festival.

This will give everyone time to enjoy a wonderful dinner prior to the concert. There will also be raffles, silent and/or a Chinese auction.

Tickets will be $7.50 for adults and $5 for children and will be available at the Charlevoix Courier or Central Drugs.

FEB. 20
Baseball camp

Oakland University head baseball coach John Musachio and OU assistant coach Del Young will run the fourth annual Northern Michigan Winter Baseball Camp at Charlevoix High School on Saturday, February 20.

The camp is open to players in grades 7-12. The hitting and fielding session will be from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. The pitching and catching session will be from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Cost of the camp is $40 for one session, $75 for both at the door. Registrations received on or before Feb. 8, will receive a $5 discount per session.

For further information or registration forms, contact Charlevoix baseball coach Allen Telgenhof at atelgenhof@chartermi.net or (231) 590-3035.

FEB. 23, MARCH 23
WATCH movies

WATCH is sponsoring its free Cabin Fever film series, this year featuring films from the COOLFUEL(TM) USA Road-trip Series.

Star and executive producer Shaun Murphy trekked around America without using a drop of gas, accompanied by his Aussie and Kiwi crew and his dog, Sparky. He crossed 30 states using 12 COOLFUEL(TM) sources, some a little nuts, some high tech, but all of it fun. His Electra Cruiser motorcycle was powered by garbage and cow pow. His Hummer ran on food scraps.

The films are free, and enjoyable for all age groups. Tuesday, Feb. 23 — Episode 3 — sugar, hempoline, and food at the Charlevoix Public Library Community Room A, 6 — 7:30 pm

Tuesday, March 23 — Episode 4 — veggie oil, sun, wind, and dog food at the Charlevoix Public Library Community Room A, 6 — 7:30 pm

MARCH 1 DEADLINE

Hestia
Are you part of an organization in Emmet and Charlevoix seeking funding for projects that help local women and girls? The Hestia Women's Giving Circle is welcoming applications for its third grant cycle. Applications are due March 1, and grants will be awarded in June. Organizations applying for grants must have 501 (c) 3 non-profit status or be a school or government agency, or have a fiscal agent with non-profit status.

The Giving Circle is a donor-advised fund of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation (CCCF) which also assists the Giving Circle in grant making and distribution.

Applications will be available on the Foundation's Web site at www.c3f.org. Potential applications should call Maureen Radke at CCCF at (231) 536-2440 in advance.

MARCH 13
Rotary St. Patrick's Day party at Castle Farms

Details to follow.

LIONS COLLECT GLASSES

The Lions collect used eyeglasses year-round for distribution in third-world countries. Any Lion will take used glasses. Currently used glasses can be dropped off at Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix State Bank, optometrist Steve Voci's office at 103 Clinton St. and Dr. Reed Freidinger's office at 14730 Park Ave.

BERGMANN CENTER SEEKS DONATIONS

Bergmann Center Inc. of Charlevoix is looking for donations of stained glass scraps of all colors, shapes and sizes. For more information, call Gail at 547-2979.

COMMODITY PICK-UP
The Bergmann Center of Charlevoix will pick-up commodities in Boyne City on the first Thursday of every month and deliver them to homebound senior citizens across Charlevoix County. The number of boxes of commodities the center can deliver is limited. Those interested in the service should call Marge at the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging office at 237-0103.

Fox may lose GM franchise

FOX FRANCHISE LOSS WOULD MEAN JOB CUTS, LOSS OF SALES AND SERVICE TO ALL GENERAL MOTORS MAKES AND MODELS IN CHARLEVOIX AREA

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

The trickle-down effect which began when General Motors (GM) filed for bankruptcy in June 2009 could soon be felt in Charlevoix. Once a king of auto manufacturing, sales and service, GM finally fell victim to a bad economy after years of sales slumps and organizational hiccups causing the auto maker to cut jobs, reduce the number of sales and service locations and take nearly $50 billion in taxpayer handouts in an effort to reorganize. "We are going through the appeals process right now and hoping to get support from the community on this," said

Fox Charlevoix's general manager Rick Summers. "If anybody wants to drop off a letter to me or send me a letter, that would be awesome." Summers is hoping public pressure will help change the minds of the corporate executives who decided Fox will lose its GM sales and service franchise in October of this year.

Charges dropped in Wayne Wynkoop public trust case

BY BENJAMIN GOHS

The alleged violation of public trust case against former Norwood Township Supervisor Wayne Wynkoop has been dropped.

Wynkoop was originally charged back in spring 2009, with a 90-day, $500 misdemeanor for allegedly violating the public trust during his three-year stint as supervisor.

dismissal," Emmet County Assistant Prosecutor E. Michael McNamara said. Wynkoop pleaded "no-contest" meaning he neither admitted to the charges or wished to further contest the charges which stemmed from a 2008 complaint.

"I was convinced of his innocence and he made a decision based on what was in his best interest," said Wynkoop's attorney Joseph Hayes. "That resulted in no admission of any wrongdoing and dismissal of the case."

Ellsworth teacher accused of sex acts with pupil

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
COURIER EDITOR

A 55-year-old Ellsworth teacher is behind bars and facing allegations that he engaged in "sexual conduct" with a 15-year-old female student. Arrested by Antrim County Sheriff deputies on Feb. 2, at his Ellsworth home, Michael Henry Peterson was arraigned Feb. 4, on three felony counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree in Antrim County's 86th District Court. Peterson, who taught math at the kindergarten through 12th-grade school for 29 years, could face life in prison if found guilty of the charges. Peterson's bond was set at $50,000.

The prosecutor's office claims Peterson engaged in sexual acts with the 15-year-old student in January of this year, three times in two locations: the school and the student's home. "The investigation into activities of the teacher ... continues and we are requesting that anyone with information concerning this teacher should contact Det./Sgt. James Janisse of the Antrim County Sheriff Department at (231) 533-8627 or the Antrim County Prosecuting Attorney Office at (231) 533-6860," stated Antrim County Prosecutor Charles Koop. Koop could not be reached for comment by press time. The superintendent of Ellsworth Schools did not return calls by press time. Contact Benjamin Gohs by e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

Case against former Norwood supervisor dismissed

WYNKOOP

Charlevoix District Judge Richard May took the matter under advisement for 90 days beginning in late October 2009, before signing the following order on Jan. 26:

hereby stipulate that the defendant's plea of 'no contest' entered in this matter on Oct. 27 2009, shall be withdrawn and this case shall be dismissed with prejudice." Hayes said "with prejudice" means the case can never be brought up again. The complaint at the root of this issue originated from a lawyer who represents the Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety, a group which has been successful in preventing Wynkoop from operating his Norwood Limestone Quarry LLC for the majority of the time since it began. Wynkoop had been accused of violating a Michigan law which apparently prevents public servants from entering into contracts with the entities they serve. Wynkoop had sold limestone gravel from his mine to the Charlevoix County Road Commission. The road commission later used some of his gravel to do roadwork on Norwood's Lakeshore Road. "It's a win-win for both parties to walk away and let it go," Wynkoop said. Wynkoop is now in the midst of his fourth application to operate his quarry located at 01195 Norwood Road. Contact Benjamin Gohs by e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

CHEBOYGAN COUNTY DRAIN COMMISSIONER TURNS HIMSELF IN ON MISDEMEANOR CHARGE

BY BRANDON HUBBARD
NEWS-REVIEW
The Cheboygan County drain commissioner turned himself in Monday evening following a campaign finance charge that he used county resources to fund his campaign for state representative in the 105th district for the Michigan House of Representatives. Cheboygan County drain commissioner Dennis Lennox, of Topinabee, faces misdemeanor charges for allegedly sending campaign literature to about 250 recipients, including residents outside of the Cheboygan County area in a Christmas greeting on Dec. 4. Lennox has been openly campaigning for the 105th House seat currently held by term-limited State Rep. Kevin Elsenheimer, R-Kewadin. Cheboygan County Prosecutor Daryl Vizina filed the charges in the 89th District Court on Friday stating the drain commissioner violated

Lennox

Benefit dinner for paralyzed charlevoix woman planned

Linda DeGrow was out Christmas caroling with friends in December 2009, when she fell and became paralyzed from the chest down. Well-known in the Charlevoix community for her ample work with the Charlevoix Zonta Club, the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, the Charlevoix Quilting Club, her church, United Methodist of Charlevoix, DeGrow has been a very active resident of Charlevoix. DeGrow was a longtime physical therapist who had retired. The benefit will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Feb. 20 at the United Methodist Church located at 104 State St. in Charlevoix. There will be live music from 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. by Bill Stevens and the Tagalongs. Also, performances will be made by Tom Zipp, Jodi Thompson and the band Finding Eden which features Dominic Sheaffer. Organizers of the benefit hope to raise enough money to purchase DeGrow a hospital bed, the expense of which is not covered by her insurance company. A suitable hospital bed will cost nearly $10,000. The benefit dinner cost is a minimum of $10, but participants are urged to donate as much as they can. For more information on this benefit dinner or DeGrow's situation, call Judy Seibert at 547-5208. Anyone who cannot attend the event, but who would like to donate to the cause may send their tax-deductible donation to Charlevoix State Bank, 111 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720. Be sure to mark the check or money order for the "Judith Seibert/Linda DeGrow Benefit Fund."

Cold weather and the survival of creatures

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

It is worth remembering, in these times of abundant electricity, natural gas and central heating that, for much of human history, we, like most of the other plants and animals in these northern climates, lived effectively without any of those civilized benefits.

I suppose that those earlier humans learned much of what helped them to survive winters by observing how plants and creatures around them managed the winter months. Bears hibernated, as did a number of smaller furry things. I would choose hibernation as a way to pass most of the winter if the option were available to me. Many of those who could not hibernate managed by migrating to the south, and that is still a sensible possibility. Plants cannot migrate, but they do manage something like hibernation. However, a large number of sorts of plants and animals are left with no option but to somehow tough it out until the sun comes back.

Much of what I know about the survival of living things in deep winter comes from the experience of a college course I taught more than 30 years ago. Teachers often learn more than students do. The course was called "Winter Ecology" and consisted of trying to find evidence that things were alive in January on the shores of Lake Itasca in northern Minnesota. For the first two weeks of the course temperatures never rose above zero Fahrenheit, and we recorded overnight temperatures of more than 40 degrees below zero.

We did have night time shelter in heated cabins, but spent nearly every daylight hour out of doors trying to find what was alive. Snow was about three feet deep on the level and the land was forested. Probably most amazing were the number of kinds of insects we collected during sunny, windless days. There were relatives of flies, mosquitoes, beetles and gnats. They were walking around on the surface of the snow. Each of them was matte black in color, enabling them to absorb as much heat from the sun as possible. They had long legs which kept them above the cold surface and they walked around very slowly. They seemed to be feeding on small organic food particles lying on the surface. Later reading suggested that at least some of them had managed to manufacture a kind of antifreeze in their blood that kept them from dying of cold.

We drilled holes in trees and found that the interior of tree trunks was above freezing. Twigs and branches were exposed to the harshest cold, but they too seemed to have produced their own internal anti-freeze. Research done by others had demonstrated that dogwood twigs could survive temperatures of more than 100 degrees below zero and begin to grow as soon as they were warmed. The woods were almost overrun with field mice, voles, shrews and ground squirrels, active only in tunnels under the snow, which maintained near constant 32 degree temperatures. Undisturbed snow is a terrific insulator.

Where grass had grown in the summer, it was still green and we suspected was even growing a little under the snow. Light filtered through the snow in surprisingly large amounts. We students survived by eating enormous quantities of oatmeal and brown sugar and wearing clothes filled with the feathers of birds.

Clickadees were the smallest active birds that had not migrated. I suspect that chickadee down would be even better than goose or duck down as a filler for winter garb, if you could get enough of it. How did humans survive all those centuries of winters without permanent shelter? Some migrated to the south, some took lessons from the surrounding creatures and looked for sheltered places and all preserved as much of their own heat as they could.

Humans are still basically tropical creatures, so we haven't yet accomplished making our own anti-freeze or other extreme solutions to cold. But we do traditionally put on a few extra pounds of fat to help us through the cold. Consider it winter's gift.

Failure to wash: when the appliances begin to revolt

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwilt

Because the washing machine had to be replaced last month, it wasn't much of a surprise when the dishwasher made a sound like it was gargling rocks and clunked to a stop. Jerry from Ace Appliance was genuinely sorry.

"I can't charge you for this service call because I feel so bad for you," he told me. "It's going to be expensive to fix it this time." This time? It was expensive when he'd replaced the motherboard on the same dishwasher in December, and two weeks later when he'd pronounced the Maytag incurable. He knew my pain. "I'm afraid you need a new spinamajig and a pump motor. With labor, it'll run about $500." Well, it wasn't in the budget. It would have to wait and in the meantime our household would be cast into the past. We would have to wash the dishes by hand. Shouldn't be a problem. I made a pact with my husband to share this archaic chore until such a time when we could toss the necessary cash into the yawning maw of the top of the line Bosch.

I took the first shift. I filled the sink with hot, sudsy water and produced a rack of gleaming plates and cutlery. When my husband took his turn, I was the one to put the clean dishes away. The cookie sheet slid from my grasp on an oily film. The dinner plates were dotted with dried bits of food like tablets printed in Brail. "These aren't clean," I told him. I used my incredulous voice to communicate an unwillingness to believe that it had anything to do with him or his skill level. I've learned a lot during our 15 years of marriage. "Oh?" He looked up from his comfy chair. "There must be something wrong with the sponge." "No, it's not the sponge. It seems to be a problem with the application." We looked at each other. He blinked first. As he re-soaped and rinsed, I was privy to a muttered monologue about ineffective cleaning implements and the inferiority of this particular brand of dish detergent. But I was thinking about my friend Jan. During the early days of her very young marriage, she and her new husband were students at MSU. They had a cozy little apartment close to the campus where they settled in to learn more than they ever wanted to know about each other. Jan and Tim struck a similar arrangement when it came to the dishes. They would trade the task on an every-other-day basis. Jan went first. The next day, Tim ignored the pile in the sink. Jan retaliated in kind. This went on until all of the everyday dishes that they had received as wedding gifts towered and spilled out onto the countertops in a crusty declaration of war. They had been reduced to eating finger foods when Tim was startled during an episode of "Star Trek" by the sound of breakage. When he investigated he found Jan in the kitchen, dropping the dishes one by one onto the floor amid the satisfying crash of splintered earthenware. "What are you doing?" Tim was understandably unimpressed. "I'm doing the dishes," Jan told him, tossing a soup bowl at his feet. "And we'll never have to do them again." Now, as I watched my husband attack the cheese grater with alarming knuckle-grazing gusto, I considered that this feigned incompetence was actually a clever ruse. Was he attempting to provoke my innate prissiness, the contrived result being that I would relieve him of this chore? Nah, he wouldn't do that. Would he? I gave it no more thought until a few days later when I was preparing to seal a card with a brief cheery note into it's envelope. "Here sweetie," I placed the open card and the pen next to him. "Sign this." "You sign it for me." "No." "No?" "No, you sign it. What's the big deal? Just sign your name." He sighed heavily and picked up the pen, scribbled briefly, and handed me the card. "I don't see why I have to sign it. You wrote it. It's like plagiarism." I looked at what he had scrawled and felt my lip twitch. "But you signed your full name. You even used your middle initial." "You told me to sign it." "It's your nephew's birthday card." We looked at each other. I blinked first.

THE ART OF SEMANTICS

Editor: After reading the article, "Day care providers unite to hone skills," I found myself feeling a little disappointed. While I am extremely glad that day care providers in the Charlevoix area are meeting to brainstorm and discuss new ideas and concepts for their facilities, it is the term "day care" that I find disappointing. There is a difference between quality child care and what is known as day care. I have focused the last couple of years on earning my associates degree in Child Development, and look forward to working at a quality child care center in Northern Michigan in the near future.

I feel like an important part of my duty as a child development advocate is to help people realize how much is involved in quality child care and how important it is in a young child's development. Quality child care consists of introducing children to appropriate ways to handle their emotions, interact with others, eat healthy, live active lifestyles, reach developmental milestones, as well as getting parents involved, having planned and organized events, and continual staff professional development. When I hear the term "day care" I think of children getting dropped off, drinking Kool-aid, and watching Dora the Explorer all day, until their parents come to pick them up. While I feel sure that the "day care" facilities mentioned in the article offer a loving, educational atmosphere for the children there, I am just asking people in the child development field to consider using terms that help push our profession of educating and helping young children reach developmental milestones in a direction that is not, well, looked down upon as baby-sitting in our society. HEALTH CARE MORE THAN A MONEY ISSUE

Editor: To the people who are worried about healthcare reform and losing their freedom: Do you want to preserve the freedom to go bankrupt because of medical expenses? Do you want to preserve the freedom to be dropped by your insurance company when you need the insurance? Do you want to preserve the freedom to pay thousands of dollars for prescriptions in the Medicare donut hole?

Do you want to preserve the freedom to not have health insurance because you can't afford it? Do you want to preserve the freedom to have insurance companies that are not covered by anti-trust laws? Healthcare reform is not a choice between freedom and healthcare. In an interview with two Danish women on the Oprah show, Oprah asked if they felt they were socialists because they pay taxes and receive education and healthcare. They answered saying it is civilized, not socialized! Rush Limbaugh loved the healthcare in Hawaii. In Hawaii everyone has healthcare. In Scott Brown's Massachusetts, 97 percent of the people have health care. Imagine how much freedom you would feel if you were not worried about losing everything you worked for because of a healthcare crisis. Connie Saltonstall Charlevoix

LIBERTY OR SELFISHNESS?

Editor: I recommend that Benjamin Gohs enroll in an elementary debating class. He started his 1-20-2009 editorial, rightfully in my opinion, castigating the US Supreme Court's ruling that allowed the Pfizer corporation eminent domain over private property. (That was a 5-4 ruling by the court, just like last weeks 5-4 ruling that granted corporations unlimited political donations. Anyone else see a trend here of the court favoring corporations over citizens?). Mr. Gohs then made a quantum leap in an illogical attempt to try to compare this action of corporations to that of citizens and neighbors trying to get a non-motorized trail on the Charlevoix Boyne City corridor. I am very happy that Mr. Gohs and his ME ME ME attitude was not dominate years ago. His logic could have just as easily been used to stop sidewalks that (in his exact words) "intrude, trample and pave over swaths of dozens of yards belonging to private citizens...." His attitude is that MINE IS MINE and he is opposed to public conveyances such as power lines, telephone lines, sidewalks, and sewer lines daring to "intrude" on his property. Our lives are so much better because our forefathers did not have this ME ME ME attitude and allowed for public conveyances along public roads. Jim Rudolph Hayes Township

GRANDVUE A BLESSING

Editor: To the Residents of Charlevoix: I have thought a great deal about all the blessings we have in Charlevoix "The Beautiful" and surrounding areas. One blessing I wish to speak of is Grandvue Medical Care Facility. Many of you know about this facility. I just want to express my happiness of having such a fine facility. I worked at Grandvue in 1985. That was before they enlarged the building. Even in the "little place," the residents were well taken care of. This is what I wish to say.

Grandvue is number 1 in Michigan and also they have a five star rating. We have been greatly blessed. I have never seen such a Happy Place. I love to see the resident's smiles. They are well dressed and well taken care of. The entire staff are caring and loving people. I take our dog, Bailey, and he makes rounds with me to visit the residents. You might say, it is a grand hotel. God has greatly blessed us with the loving care. Suzanne Miles Miller, retired RN Charlevoix County

Charlevoix school band booster fundraiser

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Local students will serve up spaghetti and good music in an effort to raise money for their band program.

On Thursday, Feb. 18, the Charlevoix Band Boosters will host a spaghetti dinner. The proceeds will go to help students expand their appreciation of music and the arts.

Taylor

"We're trying to raise money to help send the kids on different trips," explained Band Boosters Vice-President, Kim Taylor.

"We want them to be able to go and experience music in different cities and really see what else is out there."

Trips are already scheduled for Chicago, and also to see a showing of The Phantom of the Opera in Lansing.

Each child in band has an individual account to help them pay for such trips.

"If students and parents help with the spaghetti dinner, the money raised will be put directly into their account for future band trips," said Taylor.

Approximately 140 students are involved in the Charlevoix hand program. The program is made up of sixth through 12th-graders and is led by band director Jayne Bennet.

The evening will begin with dinner, and end with a special concert.

"The kids are getting ready to go to festival, so the concert will be made up of festival songs that are chosen by a committee," said Taylor. "It will be a great preview and will really give the students a chance to warm up for festival."

The District 2 High School Band Festival will take place in Petoskey on February 26th and 27th.

DIVORCE Care

- Free
- Non-Denominational
- Open to everyone

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding your life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life. DivorceCare is available for kids too!

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support group that meets on Thursday evenings, beginning February 4, from 7-9 p.m. for 13 weeks (join anytime) at the "Servants Quarters," 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.) A light dinner is provided. DivorceCare for Kids meets on Thursdays, after school, at the church. First meeting Feb. 4. (Bussing available)

231-675-1925

After viewing the video, a DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

K of C party supports dozens of causes

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

It begins with a gourmet meal, music, dancing and cocktails and ends with much needed help for scholarships, food pantries and needy locals.

The 34th Annual Knights of Columbus Cash Raffle Party is set to accommodate 250 guests for an evening of fun and entertainment, but party chairperson Steve Seely said the party is much more than just a good time.

"We fund things like the K of C free-throw contest. We buy the awards and medals and basketballs and we give out scholarships for area youth that are disadvantaged for college or technical schools," Seely said. "We give money to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and we bought all the helmets at the skate park and we provide assistance for the 4H group."

Tickets to the party cost $150 which admits two people and covers dinner, drinks and your raffle ticket

"We fund things like the K of C free-throw contest. We buy the awards and medals and basketballs and we give out scholarships for area youth that are disadvantaged for college or technical schools."

STEVE SEELY,
K OF C CASH PARTY CHAIRMAN

which could win you the $10,000 grand prize or lesser increments of the remaining $6,500 in prize money. Musical entertainment will again be provided by Steve Larson of Disc-O-Nection, but guests will notice a few new things at this year's event.

"We've revamped how the dinner is done and we're also changing how the tickets are drawn," Seely said. "We're going to have four dinner stations each with its own theme: American, Mexican, Italian and Asian. There will be appetizers and dinner will be available for four hours instead of serving one big meal."

Seely said the Father Pierre Charlevoix Council 7172 Knights of Columbus group is also shortening the time it takes to draw tickets and announce winners during the event.

"We have purchased some software which will help streamline how that process works," Seely said. "People still want the excitement of the tickets being drawn, but for the money they spend they want to have plenty of time to enjoy the party." In addition to dispensing funds raised at the cash raffle party to entities such as Junior Achievement, the Charlevoix Food Pantry, Bergmann Center, Veterans Park war memorial and various area schools, the knights also have an endowment set up through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

"We end up giving out all net proceeds from the party to the community throughout the year," Seely said. "This is the end of winter party and it is for everybody — you don't have to be Catholic to come, everybody who wants to enjoy a (informal) dinner dance is welcome."

The event is 6 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. on Saturday April 17, in the Knight's East Garden Pavilion at Castle Farms. For tickets or more information about the Knights of Columbus, call Steve Seely at (231) 499-3674; Ed Linsc at 547-4526; John Haggard at 547-4046; Roger Nesburg at 547-5111 or Gabe Campbell at 547-9739. Payments are accepted by cash, check or VISA or MasterCard.

A cottage for Karen

RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Overwhelming generosity is fueling an effort to build a home for a Beaver Island woman in need.

In October 2009, Beaver Island resident Adam Wirth, founded the Beaver Island Volunteer Corps. He got the idea after trying to help a well known island resident with her leaky roof. When he arrived, he found that the home was in serious condition. So Wirth took it upon himself to start raising funds and donations in an attempt to build the woman a new home by the spring of 2010. The project has been titled, Cottage for Karen.

"Things are going great, we've had an overwhelming response and donations keep rolling in," said Wirth. Since October, people on the island have donated everything from kitchen and bathroom cabinets, to sinks, windows, doors and shingles. An excavator and backhoe have also been donated for use.

"Things are going great, we've had an overwhelming response and donations keep rolling in."

ADAM WIRTH,
BEAVER ISLAND VOLUNTEER CORPS.

Wirth also hopes to have some students on the island pitch in and help in the construction. Monetary donations for the project have totaled more than $1,200.

"If we have $5,000 total in cash, we're going to have this done no problem," said Wirth. "I don't see any problem with the island coming together to raise that money."

Wirth admits that with the economy down, and other problems going on in the world, he was overwhelmed with the amount of donations that have already poured in.

"The people of Beaver Island just really came together when they heard about this project," said Wirth. "The island is known for giving to a good cause."

Wirth hopes to have the project completed in May. The Beaver Island Volunteer Corps, put together a list of items still needed for the Cottage for Karen project. Items on the list range from $20 to a couple hundred dollars. "If anyone wants to donate, even $20, they can find something on the list or send in money. Just a little will go a long way in making a huge difference," said Wirth. The Beaver Island Volunteer Corps is planning some fundraisers to help raise money for Cottage for Karen. Wirth hopes to host an event St. Patrick's Day weekend when many visitors will be on the island. For more information on the Cottage for Karen project or to donate, contact Adam Wirth at newirth@aol.com. The Beaver Island Volunteer Corps, also has a Facebook page. Donations to the Beaver Island Volunteer project can be mailed to Powers' Do It Best Hardware c/o Beaver Island Volunteer Corps, 46259 Main Street, Beaver Island, MI 49782. Chamber's 51st Annual Meeting & Awards Banquet

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and staff would like to cordially invite you to the 51st Annual Meeting & Awards Banquet on Saturday, February 27, 2010 at Castle Farms.

The evening will begin with a social hour at 6pm, followed by dinner and program at 7pm.

The Chamber's most prestigious awards will be honored to persons who have given to their community and/or the Chamber of Commerce. These include the Ambassador of the Year Award and Outstanding Citizen Award. New this year are the Business of the Year and Customer Service Awards.

Another new element to the evening's agenda is a Silent Auction. Throughout the evening, items generously donated by member individuals and businesses will be on display for bidding. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Charlevoix Area Food Pantry. Donations are being accepted now through February 24th.

Members and their guests are invited to enjoy an evening of delicious food, live entertainment and community spirit. The cost is $50 per person; this includes an open bar, dinner, tax and gratuity. Please RSVP by contacting the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 231.547.2101.

new trips to Michigan from outside of the Great Lakes Region. These visitors spent $250 million at Michigan businesses as a direct result of the advertising program. The total tourism promotional budget for all 2009 seasons was $30 million. This is a sharp contrast to the $5.4 million currently budgeted for 2010. Michigan's state tourism budget would be ranked 42nd in the nation. Legislators will meet this Thursday, February 11th at 11am to discuss the program's funding. Make your industry's voice be heard to reap the results. Attend the meeting or contact your legislator!

Asian Carp: According to the US Army Corps of Engineers, eDNA carp evidence was discovered in Lake Michigan, well beyond the electric barriers designed to keep the invasive species away. Senators Stabenow and Levin have provided the Obama administration all the tools Washington needs to help, although no action has taken place. The US Army Corps of Engineers reported, "allowing Asian carp into the Great Lakes would be an 'ecological and economic disaster.'" It would devastate the $7 billion fishing industry and over 800,000 Michigan jobs connected to the health of the Great Lakes. Visit www.StopAsianCarp.com to learn more about this crisis and join the fight to protect the Great Lakes.

Show your support for the Pure Michigan campaign and take a stand against the Asian Carp. Your voice is needed and yes, it does matter!

Rayders fall to St. Francis 41-53

BY STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW

In more cases than not, the more aggressive team wins. Such was the case Friday for Traverse City St. Francis in a key Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball at league rival Charlevoix. Controlling the offensive tempo as well as the glass, St. Francis grinded out a 53-41 victory in front of a nice gathering at Charlevoix High School's winterfest.

Senior forward Ian Sheldon had a game-high 26 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Gladiators, who improve to 10-3 overall, 8-0 league and hold a two-game cushion over the Rayders, 7-6, 6-2. Sheldon, a 6-foot-5 senior forward, had eight of his team's 10 points in the fourth quarter and had six rebounds in the second half as the Gladiators held the Rayder offense in check the second half. "I thought all night, we didn't get much production out of our big kids," Charlevoix coach Keith Haske said. "We got it in there and we couldn't make shots or we'd dribble too much. We just didn't get much production in there and we had to have some." Charlevoix, which on Dec. 19 dropped a 68-54 decision to the Gladiators, trailed for the opening three quarters, but then took a 35-34 advantage to open the fourth on a Ben Myers jumper from the

Rayder Girls' basketball

Coming off a disappointing loss earlier in the week to Petoskey, Charlevoix was hoping to redeem itself Friday. Traverse City St. Francis had other things in mind. St. Francis limited Charlevoix on offense throughout Friday's Lake Michigan Conference girls' basketball game as their physical defensive style led them to a 42-32 victory over the Rayders at Charlevoix High School.

St. Francis, winners of six straight, improve to 9-4 overall, 7-1 league. Charlevoix is 5-9, 4-4.

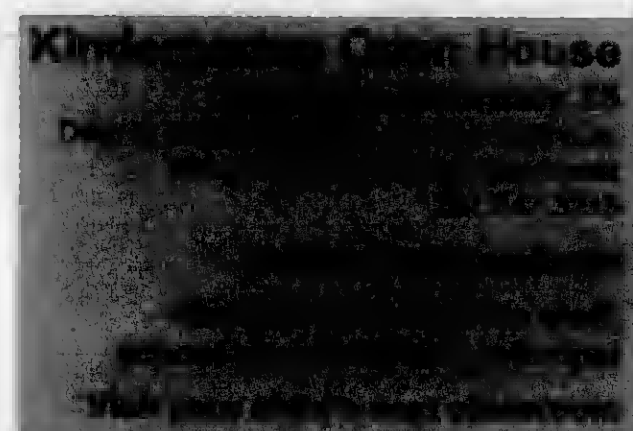

"It was a great effort by both teams and it was a physical game," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "I thought we really stepped up after that Petoskey game, but we still had a few mistakes and they scored off our mistakes."

After playing to a 18-18 deadlock after the opening half, St. Francis scored the first six points in the third quarter to take a 24-18 lead.

The Rayders cut the deficit down to three off a Madison Way 3-pointer, but again the Gladiators responded behind an 8-0 run to lead 32-23 going into the fourth.

corner. St. Francis responded as sophomore Sean Sheldon came right back to score four straight points as the Gladiators regained the lead, 38-35, it would hold onto behind tough, physical defense and at the free throw line. St. Francis shot 8-of-10 from the line in the fourth quarter and was 11-of-16 for the game, while Charlevoix shot just one free throw in the fourth and finished 4-for-14 from the stripe. "We just didn't finish well," Haske said. "We made bad decisions on shots we had to make and we didn't make our free throws when we needed them." Trailing 42-39 with just under three minutes to play, St. Francis' Matt Kanitz drew a charge on Charlevoix's Bill Ivan, a 6-5, 250-pound center, to send Ivan to the bench with his fifth foul. "Losing him hurt us, but I thought all night we didn't get any production out of our big kids," Haske said. From there, Sheldon scored a pair of inside baskets, Kanitz also scored from inside, Ben Schell converted a fastbreak layup, and Luke Popp hit two free throws as the Gladiators sealed it. "I think our stubbornness on defense finally got to them," St. Francis coach David Ginsberg said. "We were stubborn and we wouldn't give them a really good look. On the offensive end, that was probably our finest game at making decisions." St. Francis made 53 percent of its field goal attempts. Schell had nine points.

For Charlevoix, which has won eight of the past 18 meetings with St. Francis, sophomore guard Keegan LaBlance had a team-high 15 points and four assists, while Myers added 12 points and five assists and Ivan added eight points and five rebounds. Charlevoix shot 38.6 percent (17-of-44) from the floor.

New treatment at Swan's Cove Spa

detox and weight-loss body wrap program. After months of research and phone calls spa owner Jim Flis chose to introduce the all natural aloe vera Set-N-Me-Free produce line because of their success in the Pacific Northwest for the past 30 years and their commitment to using only unrefined oils and all natural USA herbs.

How the gel works: The solution of aloe vera and natural USA herbs combine to penetrate through the protein wall that surrounds the fat cell and dissipate toxins from the fat cells into the body's lymphatic system. In the lymphatic system, the toxins can be flushed from the body as one drinks water over the following three days. The movement causes a reduction in the size of the fat cell thus causing inch loss. If multiple size loss is desired a program of 12 wraps received three to five days apart is recommended.

Treatment session: Before arriving at the spa the client is asked to cleanse with a special aloe vera and coconut oil soap which exfoliates dead skin opens pores, and leaves no film on the skin.

This is an important step because it allows the solution to get to freely absorb into the skin. The client's arms, legs and torso are measured and marked. The Set-N-Me-Free Aloe Vera Solution Gel is brushed on the body. The client is then loosely wrapped in a plastic film and then relaxes for 45 minutes on a warmed bed with soothing background music and a lavender scented eye cover. For many active women these precious 45 minutes are truly the only "me time" their busy schedules allow.

The Economy Express Wrap at $40 is a partial wrap using the same top quality product line. It allows the client to remove the wrap at home saving over an hour of treatment time. ing and retaining construction and service jobs while also providing opportunities for economic development in a region of our state with limited access to broadband." The grant will fund the REACH Michigan Middle Mile Collaborative project to build a 955-mile advanced fiber optic network through underserved counties in Michigan. This network will serve businesses, households and institutions including libraries, universities, community colleges and community health centers. The project will extend Merit's 1,600 miles of existing network to make broadband more easily available to 886,000 households and 45,800 businesses. Counties in the First Congressional District that will benefit from this stimulus grant are: Antrim County, Arenac County, Bay County, Charlevoix County, Crawford County, Emmet County

Gladwin County, Montmorency County, Otsego County. "This project is an excellent example of the tremendous job creation impact that can be realized when we invest in expanding broadband access to un-served and underserved areas," Stupak said. The BTOP provides grants to support the deployment of broadband infrastructure in un-served and underserved areas; enhance and expand public computer centers; and, encourage sustainable adoption of broadband service. These investments help bridge the technological divide, boost economic growth and create jobs.

GT tribe gave $103,000-plus in grants

Government entities in Charlevoix County received more than $103,000 from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians' as it recently distributed 2 percent of its gaming revenues — $949,482.08. Under the terms of a consent decree, the tribe pays 2 percent of its video gaming revenues to local units of government twice yearly — no later than 60 days after Oct. 1 and March 31. This payment schedule, however, was modified with the consent of the state to July 31 and Jan. 31 each year because the tribe's gaming operation fiscal year is calendar based.

For the most recent round of revenue distribution, the tribe received 89 requests, totaling $2,292,048.65. On Jan. 27, 2010, the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians Tribal Council awarded revenues to 49 of these applicants, eight of which came out of Charlevoix County.

Awards

- $12,775 for the county's government-to-government prisoner housing contract;
- $25,000 for Boyne City Public Schools' performing arts center and school weight room;
- $2,500 for Charlevoix High School's college night;
- $5,000 for the Boyne Area Alano Club's yearly operating expenses;
- $25,000 to the Boyne Area Free Clinic to continue and enhance its previously funded purchase of an x-ray machine;
- $5,000 for the city of Charlevoix to fund its Colorado Challenge, a program geared toward assisting at-risk teens; • $17,250 to the city of Charlevoix for the purchase and installation of a water-quality treatment device which could improve the quality of storm water run off in the Pine River channel; • $10,930.59 to East Jordan for a community playground structure.

honor all the many people who teamed up to take on the renovation of the engine that was completed last year. The chamber board also handed out a special award to former East Jordan City Manager David White. East Jordan honors its best at annual dinner

BY STEVE ZUCKER NEWS-REVIEW

Arts patrons, a festival leader and an old steam locomotive topped the list of those honored by the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce at its annual awards dinner Saturday. Among the top honors, handed out at Castle Farms in Charlevoix, were the Citizens of the Year awards which went to the husband-and-wife team of John Stevens and Jane Diller. Selected by a chamber committee Stevens and Diller were honored in large part for their extensive involvement with the Jordan River Arts Council where they have been members for more than 20 years. In her comments about the couple chamber president Mary Faculak said Diller and Stevens are fixtures around town and avid supporters of area businesses and schools. "It's at the Jordan River Arts Council that fellow members are known to say 'We don't know what we would do without them,'" Faculak said.

She pointed to a program the couple has led that bring art history to area elementary school students and their other efforts to promote the arts.

"They have continued to be instrumental in providing the East Jordan area with exceptional, hands-on cultural experiences through gallery exhibits and performing arts programs," Faculak said. Continuing with the arts theme, the Jordan River Arts Council as a whole received this year's Presidents Award. "Impeccable volunteerism, outstanding quality and economic enhancement all showcase the recipient of my President's Award this year," Faculak said.

"Truly a leader in the community and region, setting a standard for first-class exhibits, workshops and education are the best ways to explain the caliber of this organization," she added. Winning the Ambassador of the Year award was Gretchen Bender. Faculak explained that Bender is very active in many aspects of the community, but especially in the East Jordan Sports Boosters and city's signature annual event the Jordan Valley Freedom Festival.

Bender has served on the festival's board for six years, the past four as president and was instrumental in starting the Red Devil Pride Day now being observed at the schools every Friday. An unusual winner rounded out the four regular annual awards when the landmark Engine No. 6 that has made its home in downtown East Jordan for many years was awarded the chamber's Renaissance Award. Faculak explained that giving the award to the locomotive was the best way to honor all the many people who teamed up to take on the renovation of the engine that was completed last year. The chamber board also handed out a special award to former East Jordan City Manager David White. The award cited White's contributions to the chamber, the community and the area during his 13 years as city manager. White resigned from his post in December. CITY OF CHARLEVOIX REGULAR CITY COUNCIL MEETING SYNOPSIS

Monday, February 1, 2010 7:00 p.m. Council Chambers, City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, MI

The Charlevoix City Council met on the above date with Mayor Norman L. Carlson, Jr. presiding. All Council members were present. The following proceedings took place:

Council generally agreed that if funds for flagpole placement at Michigan Beach were not raised by July 1, 2010, the flagpole would be given to VFW Post 1153.

Motion passed accepting the recommendation of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority regarding the 108 Park Avenue parcel and to authorize the expenditure of monies from the Downtown Parking Fund (PA #16) in order to demolish the DeWitt House and expand the DeWitt Parking Lot to approximately forty (40) parking spaces, including appropriate green space, landscaping and an attractive entryway.

Council discussed the Human Resource position in regards to the budget.

Council adjourned at 7:59 p.m.

A complete copy of the Council minutes is on file at the City Clerk's Office, 210 State Street.

NOTICE

This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt. Any information obtained will be used for this purpose. If you are in the Military, please contact our office at the number listed below.

Notwithstanding, if the debt secured by this property was discharged in a Chapter 7 Bankruptcy proceeding, this notice is NOT an attempt to collect that debt. You are presently in default under your Mortgage Security Agreement, and the Mortgage Holder may be contemplating the commencement of foreclosure proceedings under the terms of that Agreement and Michigan law. You have no legal obligation to pay amounts due under the discharged note. A loan modification may not serve to revive that obligation. However, in the event you wish to explore options that may avert foreclosure, please contact our office at the number listed below.

Attention: The following notice shall apply only if the property encumbered by the mortgage described below is claimed as a principal residence exempt from tax under section 7cc of the general property tax act, 1893 PA 206, MCL 211.7cc.

Attention Diana L Towns, regarding the property at 06530 BCEJ Road East Jordan, MI 49727.

You have the right to request a meeting with your mortgage holder or mortgage servicer. Northwestern bank is your mortgage servicer, with authority to make agreements under MCL 600.3205b and MCL 600.3205c, and can be contacted at: 625 S. Garfield Ave Traverse City, MI 49686 (800) 968-4754.

You may also contact a housing counselor. For more information, contact the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) by visiting www.michigan.gov/msghda or calling (866) 946-7432.

2100 LEGAL NOTICES

You request a meeting with Northwestern Bank within 14 days after the notice required under MCL 600.3205a(1) is mailed, then foreclosure proceedings will not commence until at least 90 days after the date said notice was mailed. If an agreement to modify the mortgage loan is reached and you abide by the terms of the agreement, the mortgage will not be foreclosed.

You have the right to contact an attorney and can obtain contact information through the State Bar of Michigan's Lawyer Referral Service at (800) 968-0738.

Fox Charlevoix fighting to keep GM sales, service of more than 1,500 GM dealers appealing GM's move to close nearly 2,800 franchises.

"I guess they figured, through the course of their bankruptcy, they would violate all their franchise laws and set some arbitrary criteria and based on that we didn't make the grade to retain our franchise," he said.

Despite above average rankings for both sales and service, Fox could lose its ability to sell GM makes and models or perform warranty work on them.

Summers said he suspects the call was made because Fox Charlevoix also sells Chrysler and Dodge brand vehicles.

If GM takes the franchise away, customers will be forced to drive at least 28 miles to the nearest GM franchise.

"That's a hell of a long ride in summer traffic and it can be a hell of a long drive in the middle of winter," Summers said. Though sales were down last year, Summers said,

"We will continue to be here selling Ford and Mercury no matter what happens, but there are a lot of GM people who are going to be inconvenienced."

RICK SUMMERS,
GENERAL MANAGER OF FOX MOTORS CHARLEVOIX

due to the economy, Fox Charlevoix sold nearly 230 GM autos in 2008. "There's jobs at risk, no doubt about that," he said. "And in this town and this day and age, every job is important."

The case is set to go to arbitration later this summer. "We will present our case to the arbitrator and then they will present their case," Summers said. "One of the things they're going to be looking at is impact on local communities."

Summers said Fox Motors will continue to have a presence in Charlevoix regardless of the outcome. "We will continue to be here selling Ford and Mercury no matter what happens, but there are a lot of GM people who are going to be inconvenienced," he said. "Those roots run very deep for me. Both my parents worked for GM, so it was sort of a personal slap in the face for me."

Fox Motors recently acquired Pat McKeown Ford, now called Fox Charlevoix Ford. "We plan to be here a long time and our philosophy is giving back to the community," Summers said. "We try to do a lot of things to give back and the better business is, of course the more we can do."

He added, "Our customers take their cars very personally and we take that responsibility to make sure they are safe and well maintained so they last a long time." Contact Benjamin Gohs by e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

Help your Children Heal from the Pain of Divorce
through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare for Kid's (DC4K) program

How are your children feeling?

Are your children angry, hurt & confused about your divorce? Finding help for your children can be frustrating. DivorceCare for Kids, DC4K, provides a safe, fun place where your children will...

- Learn to understand their feelings
- Express their emotions appropriately
- Feel better about themselves
- Develop coping skills
- Be introduced to biblical concepts that will bring comfort

More about DivorceCare for Kids.

Some children struggle deeply with separation and divorce, while others seem to bounce back quickly. In the long run, all children are affected. DC4K will help minimize and eliminate the short and long-term negative effects of divorce on your children's schoolwork, emotional health and spiritual life.

As your children begin to heal from the pain and confusion, their relationships with you, God and others will grow healthy and strong.

DC4K group meetings are offered each Thursday, beginning February 4, from 3:30-5:30 p.m. at the Community Reformed Church. Kids ride bus #18 from school to the church. A snack is provided.

Please note that if school has 1/2 day, snow day or it's a holiday, there will be NO class.

Connect your children with our DC4K group today! Heal together by attending our DivorceCare groups for Adults.

Fire destroys Holy Island home

Difficult to see through the trees, the flames are what used to be of a cottage on Holy Island south of Charlevoix. The house burned in the early morning hours of Saturday Feb. 6. No one was injured and the owners were in Arizona at the time.

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

It used to be the first house on the left when entering Holy Island from the Holy Island Bridge.

Now all that remains of the cottage is charred rubble. "We were dispatched, from the look of things, at about 7:54 a.m.," said Charlevoix Fire Chief Paul Ivan. The blaze began early Saturday Feb. 6 while a contractor was refinishing a floor.

Officials say the fire appears to have been accidental and that the owners were in Arizona at the time their vacation house burned.

By the time firefighters from both Charlevoix and East Jordan arrived on scene, the house was fully engulfed in flame.

"It was pretty much done by the time both of us got there," said Ivan, whose fire team was called as backup. Nearly 10 Charlevoix firefighters and eight East Jordan firefighters worked to contain the fire until approximately 11:15 a.m. that day.

"What took so long to get it contained was that it took two hours to get the power company out to shut off the electricity," Ivan said.

"The bridge posed no problems for our equipment."

The fire has been ruled a total loss. "There's nothing left but junk," Ivan said. Contact Benjamin Gohs via e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

Council approves $500,000 in cuts

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Carlson

It was a rather mute affair considering there were more than a half-million dollars in cuts being proposed. A mere two city residents opined on the City of Charlevoix's proposed budget before council unanimously approved it during their regular Feb. 15 meeting which doubled as their budget hearing.

"There is only one major change and that is to add back three lifeguards at one of the beaches and reduce the recreation department budget by $15,500," said Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandt. "The DDA (Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority) also had an additional $6,100 in cuts."

One of two audience members to voice concerns was Mary Beth McGraw. She asked council how the proposed cuts in services to festivals and fairs would affect the Waterfront Art Fair.

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said the only noticeable difference will be a slight decrease in services which were once provided at no cost.

"In order to make it fair straight across the board they (festivals and fairs) will be responsible for their own garbage pickup," he said. "Venetian was the big one hit and they were fine with it."

Carlson added, "We're not looking to charge for the park or lots, we're just trying to reduce costs." The second person to voice concerns during the public hearing portion of the budget discussion was Charlevoix resident Bob Timms.

"You figure on keeping the police force (cuts) as is and getting rid of summer-help?" Timms said. "In winter we don't need a

They may not often get the rock star treatment, but community business owners are the backbone of a healthy economy.

And a few lucky shopkeepers will soon be honored for their efforts at the 51st Annual Meeting & Awards Banquet.

"It's just a great annual event celebrating community leaders," said Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Erin Bemis.

"On top of an update from the chamber the highlight tends to be the presentation of the awards."

This year's roster of honorees will include additions to the chamber's most prestigious awards including the Ambassador of the Year Award and Outstanding Citizen Award.

"We're adding two new awards this year, New Business of the Year and Customer Service Awards," Bemis said. The evening will begin with a social cocktail hour at 6 p.m. and will be followed by dinner and the awards program at 7 p.m.

This year's event, scheduled for Feb. 27, will once again be hosted at Castle Farms.

Tickets, which cost $50, will be available up until Tuesday Feb. 23.

According to Bemis, the Ambassador's award recognizes persons who promote the local community and/or the chamber and its programs.

LAW ENFORCEMENTCrash

At 10:45 p.m. on Jan. 30, the Charlevoix county Sheriff's Office responded to Ellsworth Road west of East Jordan with the East Jordan Police, East Jordan EMS and Fire services for a personal injury traffic crash.

Driver Pamela Jones (47) of Ellsworth was traveling west on Ellsworth Road when she lost control of her vehicle after avoiding an oncoming vehicle. Jones' vehicle rolled over onto its roof, upon entering the ditch. Jones was accompanied in the vehicle with her husband Gary Jones (49) and her two children Danielle (19) and Norman (18). All family members were transported by East Jordan EMS to Charlevoix Area Hospital. Danielle was assessed for injuries sustained in the traffic crash. Pamela, Gary and Norman were released without treatment. All passengers were wearing seat belts at the time of the traffic crash.

Passerby, Steven Hines was stopped by Gary and reported the traffic crash to 911.

Injury crash

At 7:45 p.m. on Jan. 26, the Charlevoix county Sheriff's Office responded to Ellsworth Road west of East Jordan with the East Jordan Police, East Jordan EMS and Fire Services for a Personal Injury traffic crash.

Driver Ward Saintpierre, 48, of Central Lake was traveling west on Ellsworth Road when he lost control, on the icy roadway, and slid into a tree. Saintpierre was extricated from his vehicle by East Jordan Fire Department with aid of the Jaws of Life. Saintpierre sustained a laceration to his head, injury to his shoulder and complaint of pain in his back. Saintpierre was transported by East Jordan EMS to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained.

A witness observed Saintpierre's vehicle traveled westbound out of East Jordan at a high rate of speed.

Whistleblower dismissal deniedBY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Gaylord 46th Circuit Judge Dennis F. Murphy ruled late last week that Jim Eisle's whistleblower case against Charlevoix County and one of its commissioners will go forward.

The county had filed for dismissal of the case brought about by Eisle, their former electrical inspector.

"The judge ruled that when viewing the facts presented in a light most favorable to our client, a reasonable juror could in fact find that there was a question of fact about why Mr. Eisle was fired ... was it because he blew the whistle on Mr. (Frank) Shaler or because case will go to trial unless a settlement is reached prior to trial."

The whistleblower's suit was originally filed on April 8, 2009, by Eisle who worked for the Charlevoix County Building and Safety Department for nearly 12 years.

of other legitimate reasons?" stated Eisle's attorney Mary Beth Kur in an e-mailed response to questions posed. "His decision means the

"The case will go to trial unless a settlement is reached prior to trial."

MARY BETH KUR,
ATTORNEY FOR ALLEGED WHISTLEBLOWER

Kur said the judges decision is good, "because the county and (Chris Christensen, county commissioner, District 2) were seeking an outright dismissal of the case."

Named in the suit, which seeks in excess of $25,000, are Christensen and Charlevoix County.

Eisle claimed he was wrongfully terminated as chief electrical inspector nearly two weeks after he reported county building maintenance employee Frank Shaler for allegedly performing electrical work without a license.

Eisle claims Christensen and Shaler are close friends and believes his firing was retaliation for reporting Shaler.

Eisle was one of two building department employees fired in January 2009, for what the board deemed poor performance.

Ken Doty, the other employee fired did not contest his dismissal.

The measure to release him from employment passed by a vote of 4-2; Christensen being one of four commissioners who voted in favor of the firings.

The two commissioners who voted against the firings were Bob Drebenstedt (R-District 5) and Shirlene Tripp (R-District 1).

The case now moves to a routine March 1 case evaluation.

"Both sides present their best evidence to a panel of three lawyers. The panels are made up of one attorney that does primarily plaintiff's type work, one lawyer that does defense work and a neutral lawyer. Once both sides present their respective theories, the panel comes up with a dollar amount that they believe the case might settle for and then both sides have an opportunity to either accept or reject the amount," Kur stated. "If both sides accept, the case is over. If both sides do not agree to accept then the case goes to trial, however there is still an opportunity for the case to settle up until and even during trial."

A representative for the county could not be reached for comment by press time.

whole batch of police officers."

Timms told council he would rather see seasonal layoffs in winter so there would be enough money for more officers in summer when the town's population can balloon by 10s of thousands.

"They just had one (officer) put in his notice and they are also looking at reducing costs," Carlson said. "This is something I think they will be revisiting."

The budget calls for a reduction in the number of summer officers to one for a projected savings of $32,600.

• Total anticipated revenues for the City of Charlevoix are $3,251,500. Following is a breakdown of revenues:

Taxes - $2,174,600

Gaze inward before assigning blame

FAITHFUL SERVANT

Stephen Guthrie

I asked the tough question, and sat in the silence watching the body language, waiting for someone to speak.

"So, how about it?" I asked the hat-tling husband and wife as they each looked down and away. "Are you going to commit to saving this marriage, or are you going to just call it quits?"

It was a scene repeated too often in the counseling office.

A husband and wife, who are also often a mom and dad, sitting uncomfortably, waiting for the counselor to take charge of their dysfunctional lives and lead them out of the marital wilderness.

They've come for a last shot at "counseling," as though it were a pill or a procedure one could undergo that would, in just under an hour, undo the damage may have been going on for years and that now threatens their marriage.

At that moment of put up or shut up, these angry, wounded people are thinking only of themselves.

One or both of them is focused exclusively on their contempt for the person they once loved, and thinking only of life apart from them.

At this point they are not thinking clearly of what lies ahead.

They aren't considering how financially devastating their divorce will be.

They haven't done the simple arithmetic to explain how two people working full time to barely afford one house will now pay for two. They haven't anticipated what will happen to their social relationships, and the damage it will do to their family and friends.

Sitting in my office, they have no notion of the physical, emotional, and spiritual price they will each pay in the stressful weeks ahead.

In their selfishness they have not even given a thought to what their divorce will do to their children.

They have already rationalized away the fear and disruption their kids will experience, noting that many of their friend's parents have divorced and all those kids seem to have survived it all right.

The sad reality is that a large percentage of struggling couples who come to a counselor don't come to get well but rather to drive the final nail in the coffin.

And people who are about to pay thousands in lawyer fees and court costs to end their union balk at paying anything for counseling that might save it.

I was bemoaning all of this with my friend Amy Spegele, who has her own perspective on failed marriages.

Amy runs the DivorceCare program at Community Reformed Church, and the companion program DivorceCare for Kids.

In the six years she has counseled divorced couples and their children she has grown all too familiar with the personal pain and the high cost of splitting families.

Amy also runs a program called Choosing Wisely, a Christian program that in five weeks explores all the realities of divorce.

The no-cost program is for couples whose marriage is skating on the slippery slope, but who have not yet completely given up one another or on the union that provides an umbrella of security for their children.

In the Choosing Wisely program the couple sits with Amy once each week for five weeks. At the end they have gained a realistic perspective of divorce, and are prepared to make an informed decision based on something other than their inflamed emotions.

And because the reality of divorce is so sad and so difficult, their new reality-based perspective often leads them to give the marriage another go.

In fact, about 75 percent of the couples who work with Amy choose to reconcile and resurrect their marriage.

For that minority who decide to end their marriage, the split is more civil and less destructive.

Knowing how to end a marriage gracefully makes for what Amy calls a "healthier" divorce, a parting with less collateral damage to family, friends, and children.

Aside from coming face-to-face with the sobering reality of what divorce really costs, couples who work with Amy come to realize that one partner can never change the other.

All they can do is change the way they view that partner and respond to them.

And in the tradition of bringing Biblical teaching into the equation, Amy spends one week on the topic of forgiveness and another on the process of reconciliation.

Amy teaches her couples that if they make the decision to stick it out, they are likely to need coaching and encouragement to change the way they deal with one another. That's where counseling comes in.

As a counselor, what a treat it would be to work with one of Amy's couples who have chosen to save their marriage.

Steve Guthrie directs Christian Counseling Services, counseling by appointment at (231) 675-4682.

Amy Spegele can be reached at (231) 675-1925.

If you can't change your life, change your attitude

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Its winter and the blues are starting to be noticeable and it's understandable because this is the time of year when we freeze our bottoms, our hands and our feet and sometimes get stuck looking at our lives a little closer.

It's a time when we wonder if our lives would be better if we lived elsewhere, had a different job, or could find a job, be with a different significant other, have another child, retire early, well the list goes on but you get my drift.

When life slows down a bit due to lack of sunshine or cold weather we have a tendency to reflect on things we feel should change.

I look at it as a form of human hibernation. Now seriously, if we all put our problems in a huge pile we'd probably pick out our own because someone else's would be more than you could bear.

If you had a different job would it be satisfying? Would you keep the same friends?

Would it be more stressful than what you are already doing?

If you had a different spouse or significant other would you really be happier or is the grass just greener because you think it is.

If you had another child or any child would it fulfill your need or cause you more worry?

If you decide to retire have you planned how to fill your time giving you a purpose in life or enough finances to fulfill it?

Alas, the long winter brings about questions that you feel need answers.

If you are feeling sorry for yourself because life is getting tough or you've been hit with an unbearable situation you feel unfair, take a look around and I'm certain you'll come across someone whose situation is worse.

Reframe your thinking during this wintry season. If your situation in life is something you have no control over then remember it's just that.

We can't control everything so learn to let some things go.

The poet Maya Angelou reflected that sentiment when she said "If you don't like something, change it. If you can't change it, change your attitude."

Current situations related to politics, the health system and economy can make the most optimistic of us wince.

I read where the Optimist Club discussed the situation in Iraq and the meeting spiraled downward.

When the Optimist Club gets pessimistic you know times are tough but tough times never last. We must not forget that if things begin to pile up, staying positive even in the toughest of times can get you through the roughest of them.

Having an outlet such as exercise, music, visiting family or friends, reading, talking to a professional and praying all help you get through this.

If you approach life with expectations of hope you are more likely to have a life with possibilities. No matter how bad things become, keeping a positive mental perspective will help you prevail.

Just as the food you choose to eat affects you physically the things you choose to think about affects your mental attitude.

When you turn on the news and read the messages across the bottom of the screen, the focus is on all the bad happening in the world.

If this gets you down, watch short clips of the news and then do something else or watch something that will lift your spirits.

"Hope springs eternal" is not my quote but it's a good one.

We all need a cheerleader in our corner once in awhile so seek out a friend who gives you a listening ear.

Sharing your tough times makes the load smaller and easier to cope with.

So instead of freezing your thinking on the negative side during the cold winter months, warm them up by sharing and caring and reframing your thoughts.

Your outlook may become a positive one and your winter hibernation will be cozy and warm one.

Not very nice? Go ahead, lie to me

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwidt

Are you beleaguered by the stress and responsibilities of daily life? Do you sit behind your desk, awash in dreams of grandeur, performing impossible tasks with marginal competence while the powers that be conspire to knock your hat off?

Do you find yourself lashing out, willy-nilly? Is that the problem, Bubby?

Well, snap out of it. You're not alone in your life of quiet desperation. And it's not a stranger's fault that you've gained 40 pounds or your daughter is dating a drummer. Displaced anger is tedious for everyone, but there is another option. You don't even have to be sincere. Just suck it up, smile and act nice. There is too much made of the notion that we should indiscriminately get things off our chest.

This approach is fine when interacting with spouses, family members, $240-an-hour psychotherapists and members of the clergy.

But when dealing with the public, there are principles of decorum that can smooth any superfluous encounter into a satisfyingly bland and tasteless experience. Unlike the following:

During the last slippery snow day, I was negotiating the grocery store parking lot when the car ahead of me stopped short.

Braking pointlessly, I slid into the Ford Fiesta at perhaps two miles per hour. I have kissed babies harder than I nudged that car, but the driver emerged, guns blazing. He proceeded to lambast me, citing negligence and calling down curses upon my entire clan. And there was nothing wrong with either car. Nothing at all.

I was recently within earshot when a four-year-old was thwarted in the pursuit of a childish desire by her grandmother. "You are old, your glasses are ugly, your breath smells bad and I hate you," the tyke lisped, her tiny hands on her hips, her adorable jaw quivering with rage. Kids do say the damndest things.

The problem is that as "I guess this means that you won't be taking me to the prom," I said.

"You're a moron," he responded, saluted (sort of) and fishtailed away.

When one ventures out in public, control of the environment is forfeited. That's why it's called the Public, not the Private or the Privileged or the Garden of Eden. But just because it's not perfect doesn't mean that the common areas should be littered with the soiled and tatty rags of our baggage.

This reluctance to censor our primal response to frustration may be genetically coded into our composition.

Because, in truth, nobody really cares if you think their glasses are ugly and unless you're going to kiss them, their breath is off the table as a point of contention. Everyone has a little something or other that would no doubt irritate Job, but it boils down to one thing:

What you think of me is none of my business. Why not just expedite our issues, smile and act nice?

Ice Conditions
Ice Conditions/Sheriff's Recommendations

Sheriff W. D. (Don) Schneider would like to remind snowmobiles to be very cautious when riding on any ice. Because of the recent thawing, there are many areas with water or very thin ice. There are also areas where ice shanties have sunk and still protrude from the lake but could be buried under snow.

Precautions a snowmobiler should take when going out riding, especially on ice are as follows:

Always advise someone of your anticipated return time and ride with a buddy.

Wear a life preserver and very bright colored clothing.

Take a flashlight and whistle or other noise making instrument.

I concede that when considering a marriage proposal or interviewing a butler, it behooves one to peel the onion down to the eye-watering core. But this is something else entirely.

Peripheral social interaction is the equivalent of dressing, if not always for success, then at least for modesty. Not everyone needs to see us in a thong. It's confusing, disturbing and perhaps most importantly, unnecessary. One needed not be a seasoned diplomat to simply drape a towel over the unpleasant bits and back out slowly.

Serial killers have a reputation for leading outwardly normal public lives.

"He seemed like such a nice man," the neighbors say as the bodies are removed from the basement.

If Ted Bundy could do it, we can do it too.

Harbor helping Haiti

In response to the devastating earthquake in Haiti last month, Harbor Industries employees rallied together for a "Harbor for Haiti" fundraiser. A $5 donation entitled diners to a bowl of chili and a decadent chocolate dessert. Total funds raised were $224, which will go directly to the American Red Cross for Haiti relief efforts.

TIMBER SALES FOREST, MINERAL & FIRE MANAGEMENT DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES STATE OF MICHIGAN

Notice is hereby given that timber will be periodically offered for sale from State Forest lands. Sales are conducted for the purposes of harvesting mature and over mature trees, responding to past or predicted insect and disease outbreaks, salvaging fire-damaged trees, enhancing wildlife habitat and improving health of forest trees. All harvests are designed to enhance growth of the residual trees or to promote full and prompt regeneration.

Prospectus information regarding the purchase of standing timber (stumpage) is posted on the web at www.michigan.gov/dnr under Doing Business With DNR. Prospective bidders interested in receiving notice of sales may be placed on the mailing list for select Management Units or statewide. Bidders not on a list, and wishing to be added, may contact the Division Office (Department of Natural Resources, Forest, Mineral & Fire Management, PO Box 30452, Lansing MI 48909-7952, phone 517-335-3340, e-mail: spagnuolo2@michigan.gov) or their local Management Unit office.

OBITUARIES

Quintin A. Walker II: Dec. 28, 1968 - Feb. 10, 2010

Quintin A. Walker, II, 41, of Charlevoix, died Wednesday, Feb. 10, 2010, at his home.

Visitation was at 11 a.m. Saturday Feb. 13, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

The funeral will begin at 2:00 PM, following the visitation.

The Reverend Timothy Wright of Greensky Hill United Methodist Church will officiate.

Born Dec. 28, 1968, at Fort

Benning, Georgia, the beloved son of Quintin A. and Nancy C. (Bodine) Walker, Quintin graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1987, and attended Central Michigan University.

He worked at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant for the past eight years, and prior to that had worked at the Townhouse in Charlevoix.

Quintin was a member of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, and the Sons of the American Legion.

He enjoyed golf, his cat and dog, and he especially loved being with his family and friends. He was a kind and generous man with a hearty laugh that warmed the heart.

On Oct. 18, 2008, Quintin married Lindsey L. Pace at Greensky Hill Church in Charlevoix.

Lindsey survives him, as do his parents, Quintin and Nancy Walker of Charlevoix; sister, Melissa Ann (Robert) Mason of Spokane, Wash.; mother-in-law, Diane Pace of Charlevoix; sister-in-law, Courtney (Frank) Marulli of Kentucky; many aunts, uncles, cousins and friends. He touched many lives. He was, is, and will always be loved.

Memorial contributions may be made to: Greensky Hill Indian Mission United Methodist Church American Diabetes Association.

A complete obituary will follow. Arrangements are in the care of the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

BASES: working with teens in need

BY SCOTT KELLY
BASES DIRECTOR

According to the Center for Disease Control, the 2006 drug deaths in Michigan out-paced auto fatalities.

Prescription drug abuse is a significant contributor to these numbers and is one of the significant problems in our local area. Disposal of prescription medication is a huge concern to prevent them from getting into the wrong hands or from contaminating the water sources due to flushing old medications as was recommended for many years. Now, it is recommended that disposal of medications be handled in new ways.

In Charlevoix county, the Sheriff Department has a program where medications can be dropped off and be incinerated safely within a legal chain of custody.

Prescription pain medications and stimulant based medications are the most frequently abused. If someone in your household is taking any medications, please keep them in a secure, private area, possibly even locked.

When picking up your prescriptions, be mindful of who may be listening or watching as criminals have been known to target these areas to find possible victims.

Juvenile diagnosis of bipolar disorder has increased 4,000 percent in recent years.

View a one hour Front-line video program titled "The Medicated Child" by using the link at the bottom of our web-site's home page www.BASESTeenCenter.org.

BASES phone number is 547-1144.

BASES specializes in working with adolescent substance abusers including assessments, outpatient counseling, groups, access to residential treatment, drug testing, parent groups, and referrals to other services.

Since we started doing groups in 1997, we have had over 1,200 teens attend our groups, over 430 teens in our Recovery High residential program, over 1,000 parents in parent groups and we have had teens from 44 of 83 counties in Michigan participate in our Recovery High program.

You can learn more about Recovery High at www.RecoveryHigh.org. This program is a cooperative effort between BASES, Charlevoix Probate Court and Boyne City Alternative Schools with a residential cost less than most juvenile detention placements.

BASES works with adults too! We do extensive amounts of drug testing, alcohol and drug assessments, substance abuse evaluations for driver's license appeal hearings, and outpatient counseling. Our adult outpatient counseling services are available for $500 total per individual with a 3-4 month payment plan available.

This usually involves 10-12 sessions initially and then follow-up sessions in the future at no cost to address relapse prevention, family changes and dealing with life situations.

Since BASES opened in 1993, we have served over 4,300 clients.

BASES was founded by Scott and Celia Kelly to fill a gap in the services delivery system. Scott has a master's degree in counseling, is a certified advanced addictions counselor, certified relapse prevention specialist and has been working in the local area since 1986. Celia has a bachelor's of arts degree in human services, is a certified addictions counselor and has extensive experience working with parents and teens in the local area since 1988.

Tory Werth is the third full-time staff member who has been with BASES since 1999.

Tory specializes in adolescent and young adult recovery support services in addition to leading our Life Skills program. You can learn more about BASES staff and board through the web-site.

I, along with anonymous teens from the program compiled a book titled, "Young People in Recovery" that was first published in 1999 and a second printing was completed in 2004 with a total of 6,000 in print.

A compilation of the book can be found through BASES web-site under "Contact" at <http://www.basesteencenter.org/YPRCondensed.pdf>.

BASES has a fund at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation where donations can be made in order to gain additional tax savings for the donor.

They have an annual operating budget of just under $300,000 and rely on $30,000 to $50,000 in donations each year to break even.

Because of the generosity of the community through these donations, we do our very best to make sure that every person that seeks help for substance abuse is given the opportunity to access services they need to change their lives. If you know of someone who wants help, please let them know that BASES is a resource that can help them make the needed changes.

Parking project on drawing board

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

An approving nod from Charlevoix City Council and reaffirmation from the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) on the fate of 108 Park Ave. has the project in the design phase.

The DDA has charged Performance Engineers with tweaking conceptual drawings for the nearly 40-space parking lot and green space on the footprint of the former Land Conservancy Building.

"The DDA has approved the removal of the home at 108 Park Ave. and requested city council consider releasing Downtown Parking Fund monies," said DDA Executive Director Keith Carey.

The city could OK up to $50,000 in parking funds for the project. But, Carey said, the actual price tag of the project won't be known until the lot's design is complete.

"We want to do the project right and pay attention

"We are trying to be as sensitive as we can in designing what goes on that parcel and in the ultimate design we will do our very best not to detract from the feel of that neighborhood."

KEITH CAREY,
DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY DIRECTOR

to those details of screening, planting, common area, greenbelt and other features of the plan," Carey said. "What we're looking at ultimately is a nicely landscaped parking area offering roughly double the spaces currently available on that parcel."

Some contention over whether the property, which is more than 130 years old, had historical significance worth preservation efforts had cropped up in recent months. However, the DDA-owned lot had been slated for parking as far back as its mid-1990s purchase.

"We are certainly sensitive to issues raised by folks

Calling all young writers: 8th Annual Young Writers Exposition

Calling all young writers. If you or someone you know has a flair for writing and creativity, now is the time to get busy writing and submitting work.

The Crooked Tree Arts Center and the Petoskey News-Review are collaborating once again on a writing competition for area youth.

This year marks the 8th Annual Young Writers Juried Exposition. Students of all ages in the Charlevoix-Emmet-Island school districts in Charlevoix or Emmet Counties are encouraged to participate.

Parents and teachers may submit students' works online through the Crooked Tree Arts Center website (www.crookeditree.org).

Dates for submission are March 15 through March 31.

Categories include prose and poetry at all levels, including a separate contest for elementary, middle and high school students.

Winners will be chosen in each category at each level, and the pieces will be published in the Petoskey News-Review on April 23.

Students may enter one piece of prose and one piece of poetry.

High School winners receive $75 for first place, $50 for second place and "We look forward to showcasing the talents of our youth every year through the art exhibition and the young writer's expo. This is a great way for new writers to get practice putting pen to paper and reading their works as well. We also ask volunteers to serve as jurors for the event, so all of the community is involved."

LIZ AHRENS,
CROOKED TREE ARTS COUNCIL DIRECTOR

$25 for third place. Middle School and Elementary School winners in first, second and third place will all receive a medal, prize and certificate. Honorable Mentions receive a certificate.

Awards will be presented at the Crooked Tree Arts Center on April 24.

GOVERNMENT WATCH

Monthly round-up of township government activity

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

The board is looking at bids for a Jaws of Life system.

The board discussed the fire/EMS proposal submitted by the City of Charlevoix, but no action was taken.

A motion was made, and passed unanimously, to offer fire services to both Marion Township for $35,000 and Norwood Township for $25,000.

The board is having its attorney review the bill for a sewer project.

John Campbell from Big Fish LLC gave an update on how his septage treatment business is progressing.

A permit to cut down phragmites has been granted to the township.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

Eveline Township Board of Trustees approved a contract for fire/EMS services with the City of Charlevoix for $26,165.

Villa Nueva is requesting a piece of property be changed from class B to class A.

The following planning commissioners were reappointed: Bob Noll, whose term expires 2010; Nancy Ferguson - 2011, Prudence Kurtz - 2012, Kelly McGinn - 2012, and Eric Beishlag to run concurrent with his term on the Township Board.

Jane Murvin, representing a group of residents, presented a letter written by Thomas Linton. The group requested an amendment to a DNR regulation which calls for a single slow no-wake buoy. The residents near the west shore of the south arm of Lake Charlevoix would like a second buoy on the eastern shoreline.

The matter was tabled.

HAYES TOWNSHIP

Discussed the City of Charlevoix offer to provide Hayes with fire services. Supervisor Ethel Knepp stated that at this time the Board consensus is that we do not want to change our fire protection service to the City from Charlevoix Township.

ODAWA/MURRAY RD HOUSING PROJECT

Mr. Gillett represents Bay Band of Odawa Indians presented the conceptual plans for the proposed Murray Rd. housing development. Two of six units are being built now. Each unit will contain five low to moderate income rental apartments/townhouses with an August/September 2010 move in date.

Supervisor Knepp asked how fire and ambulance service will work.

Mr. Gillett stated that previous agreements with other entities were payments in lieu of taxes and that the Township and the Tribe will meet to work that out.

Doug Kuebler asked if they were planning on have wind or solar energy. Mr. Gillett stated that there are no concrete plans for either but if funding should become available there is a designated spot on the plans for it.

Clerk Golovich asked if there would be road money available for Murray Rd. Mr. Gillett stated that Murray Rd was on the road agenda but the repairs would be a couple of years out.

Public comment - Jim McMahon asked if the Board had any results from the survey question they sent out regarding weekly rentals. The Township is still receiving responses but information would be available at the February Board meeting.

Board of review dates - Marlene Golovich made a motion, supported by Doug Kuebler to set the dates for BOR as follows: March, 4, 2010, 4 p.m. to accept the tax role, March 8, 9-12 a.m. and 1:30-4:30 p.m. to hear appeals and March 9, 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. to hear appeals. Motion carried unanimously.

MARION TOWNSHIP

Adopt Federal Poverty Guidelines for Board of Review: Adopt the "Federal Government Poverty Guidelines" for the Board of Review to use as the standard in determining if applications for property tax exceptions are approved or denied. Approved.

proved.

Adopt Federal Poverty Guidelines for Board of Review: Adopt the "Federal Government Poverty Guidelines" for the Board of Review to use as the standard in determining if applications for property tax exceptions are approved or denied. Approved.

Charlevoix School District Summer Property Tax Collection: Request from the Charlevoix Public Schools to include the School Property Taxes due on property the Charlevoix School District in the summer property tax bills. These taxes will be due Sept. 15. Charlevoix Public Schools will pay the Township $5 per property parcel for doing this collection. This agreement is in effect until action is taken by one of the parties to discontinue the agreement. Approved.

NORWOOD

The signatures necessary to place four Norwood Township officials on the May ballot for recall have been filed with the Charlevoix County Clerk. The officials in questions are Norwood Township Supervisor Frank Hamilton, clerk Dana Pajtas and trustees David Ridenour and Doug Warner.

Recent township business items include the following:

The 2010-2011 budget is under development and the draft will be presented at the February meeting.

Fire and EMS revenues as requested by City of Charlevoix are still being negotiated since new contracts have been drafted and submitted to townships on an individual basis, rather than combining a group of townships as originally proposed. Some alternative outside suppliers are being investigated in order to ensure township funds are expended wisely & frugally.

The cemetery committee members met and goals were set to obtain an updated plat map of the cemetery and to review/update cemetery rules and ordinance, making them into one.

Zoning administrator's report - trustee David Leusink recommended that having the registered complaint regarding Auntie Barb's Kennel driveway be examined/reviewed by new ZA Janet Koch to avoid any appearance of impropriety due to supervisor's wife's business being subject of complaint. It was agreed that she will report on same next month.

The issue regarding the as-of-yet determined definition of sand and gravel will be revisited during the April board meeting.

Island conservation club recently formed

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Founders of a new organization hope to rehabilitate and expand the natural beauty of Beaver Island.

Jared Pike, Todd Ireland, and Gavin West started the Beaver Island Conservation Club, a non-profit organization that is open to all people who live and vacation on the island.

Their mission is to rehabilitate, expand, maximize, and sustain the wildlife, forests, and fisheries of the Beaver Archipelago by promoting proper use of the land.

"The idea started with a group of us that have long standing ties to the island," explained West, one of the founders of the BICC. "We just thought there was so much potential on the island, and we wanted to put together a professional organization to strategically develop it."

West, who currently lives in Grand Haven but summers and vacations on the island, has family that has lived on the island since the 1850s.

The BICC will concentrate its efforts in 10 areas including rehabilitation and expanding of the White-tail Deer herd, Small-mouth Bass population, expand and sustain other native fish including trout and perch, work with the native bird habitat, and expand the wild turkey population.

The BICC will serve as an island liaison to state and national agencies, along with private conservation groups on issues that impact wildlife, forestry, and fisheries in the Beaver Archipelago.

"So far we've had a very positive response," said West. "Many community leaders have joined in with their support, and we're getting a lot of interest from those who are summer residents or just vacation on the island."

West has high hopes for the future of Beaver Island, and believes the BICC will help bring new life to the area.

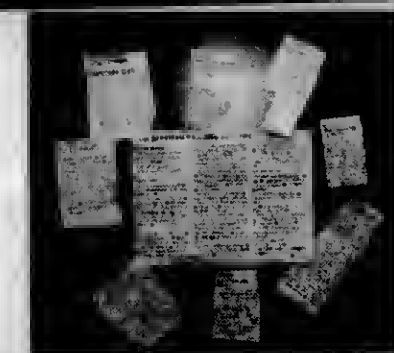

"We think with the close nature of the island, with a group effort, we can work to turn it into one of the best hunting destinations in Michigan," said West.

The BICC will host the Quality Deer Management Association on Saturday, March 6.

The director of the association, Bob DuCharme, will speak on the issues facing the White-tail Herd on Beaver Island. The public is invited to attend the informational session from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Beaver Island Community Center.

For more information on the Beaver Island Conservation Club, visit their website at www.beaverisland-conservation.org.

GOVERNMENT WATCH

Monthly round-up of township government activity

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

The board is looking at bids for a Jaws of Life system.

The board discussed the fire/EMS proposal submitted by the City of Charlevoix, but no action was taken.

A motion was made, and passed unanimously, to offer fire services to both Marion Township for $35,000 and Norwood Township for $25,000.

The board is having its attorney review the bill for a sewer project.

John Campbell from Big Fish LLC gave an update on how his septic treatment business is progressing.

A permit to cut down phragmites has been granted to the township.

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

Eveline Township Board of Trustees approved a contract for fire/EMS services with the City of Charlevoix for $26,165.

Villa Nueva is requesting a piece of property he changed from class B to class A.

The following planning commissioners were reappointed: Bob Noll, whose term expires 2010; Nancy Ferguson - 2011; Prudence Kurtz - 2012; Kelly McGinn - 2012; and Eric Beishlag to run concurrent with his term on the Township Board.

Jane Murvin, representing a group of residents, presented a letter written by Thomas Linton. The group requested an amendment to a DNR regulation which calls for a single slow no-wake buoy. The residents near the west shore of the south arm of Lake Charlevoix would like a second buoy on the eastern shoreline.

The matter was tabled.

HAYES TOWNSHIP

Discussed the City of Charlevoix offer to provide Hayes with fire services. Supervisor Ethel Knepp stated that at this time the Board consensus is that we do not want to change our fire protection service to the City from Charlevoix Township.

ODAWAMURRAY RD HOUSING PROJECT

Arvin Gillen, representing the Odawamurray Rd housing project, presented the concept plan for the proposed Murray Rd. housing development. Two of six units are being built now. Each unit will contain five low to moderate income rental apartments/townhouses with an August/September 2010 move in date.

Supervisor Knepp asked how fire and ambulance service will work.

Mr. Gillett stated that previous agreements with other entities were payments in lieu of taxes and that the Township and the Tribe will meet to work that out.

Doug Kuebler asked if they were planning to have wind or solar energy. Mr. Gillett stated that there are no concrete plans for either but if funding should become available there is a designated spot on the plans for it.

Clerk Golovich asked if there would be road money available for Murray Rd. Mr. Gillett stated that Murray Rd was on the road agenda but the repairs would be a couple of years out.

Public comment - Jim McMahon asked if the Board had any results from the survey question they sent out regarding weekly rentals. The Township is still receiving responses but information would be available at the February Board meeting.

Board of review dates - Marlene Golovich made a motion, supported by Doug Kuebler to set the dates for BOR as follows: March, 4, 2010, 4 p.m. to accept the tax role, March 8, 9-12 a.m. and 1:30-4:30 p.m. to hear appeals and March 9, 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. to hear appeals. Motion carried unanimously.

MARION TOWNSHIP

Adopt Federal Poverty Guidelines for Board of Review: Adopt the "Federal Government Poverty Guidelines" for the Board of Review to use as the standard in determining if applications for property tax exceptions are approved or denied. Approved.

Charlevoix School District Summer Property Tax Collection: Request from the Charlevoix Public Schools to include the School Property Taxes due on property the Charlevoix School District in the summer property tax bills. These taxes will be due Sept. 15. Charlevoix Public Schools will pay the Township $5 per property parcel for doing this collection. This agreement is in effect until action is taken by one of the parties to discontinue the agreement. Approved.

Recent township business items include the following:

The 2010-2011 budget is under development and the draft will be presented at the February meeting.

Fire and EMS revenues as requested by City of Charlevoix are still being negotiated since new contracts have been drafted and submitted in townships on an individual basis, rather than combining a group of townships as originally proposed. Some alternative outside suppliers are being investigated in order to ensure township funds are expended wisely & frugally.

The cemetery committee members met and goals were set to obtain an updated plat map of the cemetery and to review/update cemetery rules and ordinance, making them into one.

Zoning administrator's report - trustee David Leusink recommended that having the registered complaint regarding Auntie Barb's Kennel driveway be examined/reviewed by new ZA Janet Koch to avoid any appearance of impropriety due to supervisor's wife's business being subject of complaint. It was agreed that she will report on same next month.

The issue regarding the as-of-yet determined definition of sand and gravel will be revisited during the April board meeting.

NORWOOD

The signatures necessary to place four Norwood Township officials on the May ballot for recall have been filed with the Charlevoix County Clerk.

The officials in questions are Norwood Township Supervisor Frank Hamilton, clerk Dana Pajtas and trustees David Ridenour and Doug Warner.

Recent township business items include the following:

SPORTS reviewing the action

Charlevoix's Ivan picked for all-star game

A collection of 88 of the top senior football players in the state of Michigan will end their high school careers by playing in the 2010 East-West All Star Game produced annually by the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association (MHSFCA).

Among them is Charlevoix Rayder senior Bill Ivan. The six-foot, five-inch tackle will be playing on the west roster.

Following review by a cross-state collection of veteran prep football coaches, 44 players from the East and 44 players from the West will call East Lansing, Mich., home beginning Sunday, June 13, culminating with the All Star game at 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 19, at Spartan Stadium on the campus of Michigan State University.

The East and West teams will each be led by six veteran head coaches from across Michigan who were selected by their peers.

"We are thrilled to announce the players and coaches for the 2010 East-West All Star Game," said Gus Kapolka, head football coach at Manistee High School, and director of the game for MHSFCA. "These young men close out their high school football careers with the great opportunity to play at Spartan Stadium against their statewide peers and in front of family, friends and fans who have supported them since they first signed up for football as youth. Of perhaps more imporance is that these players will also form life-long friendships from the many East-West All Star game-week activities, and will also perform important community service involving local youth that will serve them well in the future."

Northern MI Brass to play in Gaylord

NORTHERN MICHIGAN BRASS BAND TO PERFORM IN GAYLORD

The Northern Michigan Brass Band will present a concert entitled Something for Everyone - An Eclectic Program at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 28, at the First United Methodist Church located at 215 South Center Ave. in Gaylord.

Neff

Now in its 11th year of operation, this 26 piece, British-style ensemble will perform a program of brass band music by Edward Gregson, Richard Strauss, John Philip Sousa, Franz von Suppé, Malcolm Arnold, Richard Wagner, Hector Berlioz and Glenn Miller.

The featured soloist is Gaylord xylophonist Sarah Neff in a performance of The Ragtime Robin by George Hamilton Green.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens.

Tickets are available online

"Some people listen with their heads, others with their hearts and still others with their feet."

RALPH SCHWEIGERT, NMIBB CONDUCTOR

at www.TreaTickets.com and at the door.

When planning a program, NMIBB Conductor Ralph Schweigert says he tries to remember that not everyone listens to music in the same way. "Some people listen with their heads, others with their hearts and still others with their feet," Schweigert said.

"I try to include music that will appeal to all these listening styles on any one program. We're calling this concert 'Something for Everyone,' but we could actually give that title to any of our programs."

The program will open with a Fanfare for the City of Vienna by Strauss, followed by Partita for Brass Band by Gregson, Light Cavalry Overture by von Suppé, Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral by Wagner, and the Hungarian March by Berlioz.

The second half of the program will begin with George Washington Bicentennial by Sousa, The Ragtime Robin by Green featuring xylophone soloist Sarah Neff and The Bridge on the River Kwai by Arnold.

The concert will conclude with four Glenn Miller swing classics: In the Mood, Moonlight Serenade, Pennsylvania 6-5000 and American Patrol.

The featured soloist Sarah Neff is 18 years old, a senior at Gaylord High School and an outstanding member of the Gaylord Symphony Band.

She recently earned a coveted first chair position in the 2010 Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association's All-State Orchestra which performed last month in the DeVos Performance Hall in Grand Rapids. Next year Sarah plans on attending Western Michigan University pursuing a career in music therapy.

Centered in Gaylord, the all-volunteer NMIBB has attracted enthusiastic adult brass players from across northern Michigan from Alpena to Traverse City and north to Mackinaw City, including Petoskey, Charlevoix, Bellaire, Williamsburg, East Jordan, Beulah and Gaylord. Since the band was organized in January of 1999, it has presented over 60 concerts in various venues throughout northern Michigan.

This will be the band's eleventh appearance in Gaylord.

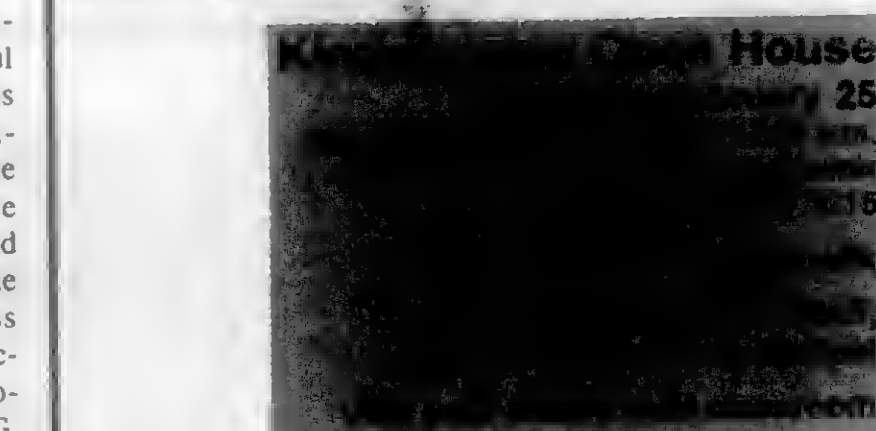

Past Guest Conductors have included Dr. Paul Droste, Professor Emeritus from The Ohio State University and conductor of the Brass Band of Columbus, the famous Canadian brass band specialist Bram Gregson, the renowned American brass band composer and conductor, James Curnow and Professor Emeritus Kenneth G. Bloomquist, retired Director of Bands at Michigan State University.

Featured soloists have included Michael Mayhew, Associate Principal Horn of the Cleveland Orchestra; Bradley Moors, a NMIBB founding member and a former Cornet Section Leader of the United States Army Brass Band; and Charles K. Smith, Professor Emeritus and retired Director of Choral Activities at Michigan State University.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available online at www.TreaTickets.com and at the door.

Locally, shoppers can make donations at Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan and two locations in Petoskey.

Spartan Stores has sponsored the fundraiser, explains Michelle Smith, director of public relations for Habitat for Humanity of Michigan.

"We say thank-you to Spartan Stores and to the many, many Spartan Store shoppers for their continued generosity, we are blessed to live in such a caring community," said Mary Margaret Hornbaker, Executive Director of Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity.

The Habitat for Humanity model is a hand-up, not a hand-out, according to Hornbaker.

"Families chosen to become Habitat homeowners agree to perform hundreds of hours of sweat equity," she said.

"When the home is completed, they purchase the home with a no profit mortgage."

Red Cross blood drives throughout Charlevoix County

Every year, the Red Cross collects approximately 7 million units of blood from about 4 million blood donors through a network of 36 blood regions across the United States. In the Great Lakes Region alone, the American Red Cross needs to collect approximately 700 units of blood daily to meet the needs of the hospitals it serves. To help the American Red Cross meet those needs, make an appointment to donate blood by visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-REDCROSS.

The following list highlights upcoming American Red Cross blood drives in your area through March 16.

Pass the Positive apparel debuts in Lansing

POSITIVE PRODUCTS PROVE POPULAR

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

"Your thoughts are seeds from which your future grows. It's easy to get stuck in the negative and this is about inspiring people to act and think positively."

DR. RICK RANDALL,
CREATOR OF "PASS THE POSITIVE"

When Charlevoix chiropractor Dr. Rick Randall began his "Pass the Positive" campaign with a rainbow of rubber bracelets, he had no idea how fast the concept would catch on.

Now more than a year into the side business, Randall is expanding his merchandise to include hats, T-shirts and more.

"The message is all about hope and love and optimism," Randall said.

After some success selling the bracelets, he decided to take his expanded product line, which also offers hoodies and sporting apparel, to the Lansing Gift Show.

The gear debuts at the show Feb. 20.

"We're looking forward to have the opportunity to sell and be exposed to about 600 businesses looking for what's new," Randall said.

"Our goal is to see if we can't donate a million dollars to breast cancer charities and 10 percent of our apparel line is going to Michigan schools."

Randall developed the Pass the Positive concept as a natural progression from his firm belief in the power of positive thinking.

"It's like pass the bread, pass the soup ... you know, pass the positive," said Randall, whose gleeful mannerisms and enormous smile make for an upbeat personality that nears infectious.

"Your thoughts are seeds from which your future grows. It's easy to get stuck in the negative and this is about inspiring people to act and think positively."

He added, "There are more than enough love and abundance to go around and everyone should have a little bit of it."

Go to www.passsthepositive.com for ordering information.

Dr. Rick Randall (right) and business partner Tim Paczesny have developed a simple bracelet with a big message: Pass the Positive. When their business began the duo hoped others would join in their mission to spread a little proverbial sunshine into the lives of their fellow man by reminding one another to look on the bright side of life's trials and tribulations. Randall said the concept has become more popular and in a shorter period of time than he had anticipated. Randall's Pass the Positive clothing line will debut at a major gift shop trade show in Lansing later this month.

Longtime mechanic and fireman offers auto repair

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Curt Thompson opened his new business as part of his semi-retirement.

But the Charlevoix resident jokes that he's working more than a retired man should.

"My original plan was to work here three or so days a week but I'm here five days, and if someone needed something done on the weekends, I'd probably do that too," said Thompson.

In October, Thompson opened Curt's Garage.

Thompson specializes in lighter, auto repair jobs, such as brakes, tire rotation and tuning.

After more than 30 years working on cars for a living, Thompson, a licensed mechanic, knows his way around a car engine.

He spent years working at area dealerships and repair shops.

"I've been looking for several years for a place of my own, but I was never able to find the right spot," said Thompson. "This place came along, they twisted my arm, and I said to myself, 'What the heck?'"

For now, Curt's Garage is a one-man operation, which allows Thompson to keep prices low.

And this isn't his first run at owning a business.

"I once owned a gas station in Petoskey," said Thompson. "But that was a long time ago, and this is my first business venture in quite awhile. But I am really enjoying it."

Thompson graduated from East Jordan High School, and has lived in Charlevoix County ever since.

He lives with his wife Louise and enjoys spending his time with his four children and seven grandchildren.

Opening Curt's Garage also allows Thompson to serve as the Charlevoix Township Fire Chief, a position he's held off and on for more than 20 years.

"I tell everyone that somehow, I keep inheriting the job as fire chief," joked Thompson. "I guess it's because it's a job nobody else wants."

Curt's Garage is located at 6399 South US 31 in Charlevoix.

Thompson works Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information, call 547-3870.

Time to Take Retirement Plan Distributions?

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

You may not have the pictures, sultan or souvenirs to show for it, but if you're at least 70-1/2, you've just finished a "vacation." And that means you'll have to do some work — on determining how much to take out of your retirement plans this year.

Typically, when you reach 70-1/2, you must start taking withdrawals ("required minimum distributions," or RMDs) from your traditional IRA or your employer-sponsored retirement plan, such as a 401(k), 403(b) and 457(b). However, the sharp decline in the financial markets in 2008 led Congress to give you a one-year vacation from taking RMDs in 2009 so that you wouldn't have to cash out assets whose value had fallen significantly.

But 2009 is over, and so is your RMD vacation. So if you must take distributions this year, you'll need to do some planning.

For starters, you'd probably like to know how much you'd have to withdraw. You can calculate your RMD by dividing the last year's retirement account balance, as of December 31, by a life expectancy factor found in the Internal Revenue Service's Uniform Lifetime Table. Your financial advisor or tax professional can provide you with this figure.

Once you know your RMD, you can then decide whether to take this amount or to withdraw more. Obviously, during your retirement years, one of your key financial goals is to avoid outliving your income, so you may want to try taking the minimum distributions for as long as you can. Also, these distributions are taxable, so the less you take out, the lower your tax bill may be. But if you need the money, you'll be forced to take more than the minimum amount.

Not necessarily. In addition to your IRA, 401(k) and whatever other accounts might trigger RMDs, what other sources of income do you have? You've probably already started taking Social Security, so you can't change that amount, though you will normally receive cost-of-living adjustments. (In 2010, however, there will be no such adjustment.) Consequently, if you want to avoid taking more than minimum distributions, you will need to look at your investments held outside your RMD-triggering accounts.

First, consider your Roth IRA, if you have one. Unlike a traditional IRA, a Roth IRA is not subject to RMD rules, so your money can potentially keep growing. But if you want to minimize your taxable distributions, you may want to tap into your Roth account.

Next, review your other investments. Specifically, consider your mix of investments. Can you adjust this mix to possibly provide you with enough income to help you avoid exceeding your RMDs? For example, can you add income-producing investments, such as bonds, without depleting your portfolio's growth potential? Even in retirement, you'll likely need growth opportunities to help you stay ahead of inflation. You may also want to consider dividend-producing stocks. While you don't want to take on too much risk in your retirement years, you can find many quality stocks that produce, and even increase, their dividends year after year.

(Keep in mind, though, that companies can reduce or eliminate dividends at any time.)

The RMD vacation was nice while it lasted. But now that it's over, consider taking the steps necessary to provide you with sufficient income today without draining your resources for tomorrow.

by Rep. Kevin Elsenheimer and Sen. Jason Allen at 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 22, in Elk Rapids.

Rep. Wayne Schmidt of Traverse City also will help present the program to area residents.

"People will be receiving their 2010 property assessments in the mail and are going to see some confusing numbers as home values have continued to decline," said Elsenheimer, R-Kewadin. "For homeowners looking to ensure their property value matches their property tax amount this forum can let them know what steps to take."

The program will include a short presentation on the assessment appeal process, followed by a question and answer period. The lawmakers will also have a free guide to property tax assessments and appeals booklet available at the town hall.

"Property taxpayers need to know that there is a process set up for them to discuss their concerns," said Allen, R-Traverse City. "There is help and relief out there if you become familiar with the process and know where to go."

The forum will be in the Elk Rapids High School auditorium, 308 Meguzee Point Road, in Elk Rapids.

People unable to attend the forum who are interested in receiving the information can contact Elsenheimer at (877) 536-4105 or by e-mail at kevinelsenheimer@house.mi.gov, or Allen at (866) 525-5637 or by e-mail at senjallen@senate.michigan.gov.

Petunias in peril?

Community-wide petunia planting scenes like this one could be in danger of dwindling if a major funding shortfall is not corrected in Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's budget. EMS/fire fees less $71,000

WILL LOWER COSTS ENTICE TOWNSHIPS TO TAKE THE CITY'S EMS/FIRE SERVICES?

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

City of Charlevoix officials have revisited their proposal to increase the cost of fire/EMS fees several times in hopes of striking a deal with the townships they serve.

Originally a six-year contract with an overall hike of nearly $100,000 was offered to the townships of Marion, Hayes, Charlevoix and Eveline, but after the majority of the townships balked, the city came back with a one-year contract with an overall hike of closer to $30,000 annually.

"We sat down with the township supervisors ... (Tuesday Feb. 9) and supplied them with a revised contract that has reductions in costs on fire and EMS services," said Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel. "The township supervisors also wanted the opportunity to have input on the service levels and budgetary items and we gave the that option." The city is still using the call volume base methodology to calculate the costs for each township.

The city pays $394,127 currently for its own fire and EMS, with nearly $100,000 of that subsidizing some local townships' services.

Charlevoix Township pays $18,198 for EMS only.

Eveline pays $30,400, Norwood pays $24,700, Marion pays $41,345 and Hayes pays $6,030 for EMS alone.

"Nothing has really changed," said Norwood Township Supervisor Frank Hamilton. "Unless we all sign, the numbers are firm. I've got to sit down with Bud Boss (Marion Township Supervisor) and see what he's going to do because if

Building at 108 Park Ave. may burn on big screen

The house fire scenes will be used in the upcoming film "The Frontier Boys," a movie set in Charlevoix, but only if the plan gets the OK by Charlevoix City Council at their March 1 meeting.

"We will see an overall cost savings in demolition costs and I think it is important to note, in today's economy, that you should take every chance to market your municipality as a destination for anything - whether it's as a visitor or business or film production," said DDA director Keith Carey. "If we can achieve some taxpayer cost savings and at the same time give our firefighters an opportunity to earn some necessary training credits, and our fire chief is appreciative for that,

then we should."

Slated since the mid-1990s for additional parking, the 108 Park Ave. building has recently come into contention after a concerned resident looked into the history of the house.

And, while a preliminary determination of the 1870s house by the Michigan State Historic Preservation Office apparently showed the home met some initial criteria for the national

SNOWMOBILE PI JIMISON

At 6:02 p.m. on Monday Feb. 8, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a snowmobile personal injury crash involving two snowmobiles. The crash scene was located on trail 76 in a field at the southeast corner of Reynolds Road and Kuzmik Road, in Hudson Township.

49-year-old Linda Sue Jimison and 48-year-old Dixie Lou Athy, both of Elkhart, Indiana, were traveling with three other people across a field when they struck a plowed driveway and were ejected from their machines. Jimison received an injury to her left elbow while Athy complained of pain in her back.

Both victims were transported to Gaylord Area Hospital by the Boyne City Ambulance.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Boyne City EMS and the Hudson Township Fire Department.

PI SWANSON

At 8 p.m. on Feb. 14, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to M-66 north of Metz road with East Jordan EMS and Fire Services for a personal injury traffic crash.

Driver Tricia Swanson (16) of East Jordan was traveling south on M-66 when she lost control around a corner and struck the cemetery fence, power pole and rolled her vehicle several times. Swanson was wearing her seat belt at the time of the crash and her airbag deployed. Swanson stated she had a headache and a cut to her hand from the traffic crash.

She was transported by East Jordan EMS to Charlevoix Area Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained.

Power pole was replaced by Consumer's Energy early February 15 in the a.m. restoring power to the area.

PI SNOWMOBILE

At approximately 2 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 5, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Allied EMS, Melrose Township Fire Department, and Boyne Valley Fire Department were dispatched to a snowmobile injury accident that occurred near Chandler Hill and Howard Road on Snow Mobile Trail 76.

Steven Lawrence Staub, 40, from Tipp City, Ohio was traveling eastbound on Snow Mobile Trail 76 when he lost control on a curve and collided with Bradley Roy Stewart, 57, from Lincoln, Michigan. Staub was thrown from the 2009 Skidoo he was riding. The Boyne Valley Fire Department's rescue sled was used to transport Staub from the snow mobile trail to Chandler Hill Road where he was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital via Allied EMS and treated for his injuries. Stewart was riding a 2006 Arctic Cat and did not sustain any injuries in the accident.

PI ACCIDENT

At approximately 12:30 p.m. on Sunday Feb. 7, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, Boyne Valley EMS, and Boyne Valley Fire Department were dispatched to a two vehicle personal injury accident that occurred on M-75 South near US 131 South.

Elizabeth Lynn Kondrat, 40, from Boyne Falls was traveling eastbound on M-75 South near US 131 South when she was struck from behind by Diana May Barnadyn, 59, who was driving a 2003 Ford Windstar. Kondrat was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital by Boyne Valley EMS and treated for her injuries and released. Kondrat was driving a 2003 Jeep Liberty.

he does something different than me it's kind of a deal-breaker."

The whole point in attempting to provide fire and EMS services to the surrounding townships is that it lowers costs for all involved, Strabel said. If one or more of the townships opt out of one or both services, the costs go up considerably for those who decide to sign with the city.

"What they did was literally three presentations," Hamilton said. "EMS only; fire only; and a combination of the two, and they rated the two at a discounted rate."

Hamilton said his township simply doesn't have the funds for a fee increase.

"We're really going to have to crunch the numbers," he said.

Strabel said if it comes down to none of the townships accepting city services, the city will simply serve itself, a move which would require at least one full-time fire/EMS personnel be laid off.

"I think the meeting went well. We had a frank discussion over the fees and contract language and the supervisors have to go back to their elected officials and get input from them to either agree or not agree," he said. "The townships and the city are all in tough economic times and we're all trying to maintain current levels of service with diminished budgets."

The city has asked the townships to respond by March 19 so the city may move forward with a plan.

Charter school defending pupil accounting

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

An audit is currently underway to determine if a Charlevoix County charter school accurately claimed reimbursement from the State of Michigan for their students.

"Allegedly, there's a discrepancy going on about our Seat Time Waiver program and a process we use that the state calls sequential courses," said Northwest Academy School Leader, John Bailey.

Diane Litzenburger, the Director of Communication Services with Char-Em ISD, said the purpose of the audits are to ensure that schools are accurately claiming reimbursement from the State of Michigan for their students.

"The Seat Time Waiver Audit has been closed on the five other districts and they have been found by the Michigan Department of Education to be accurately claiming reimbursement for their students," said Litzenburger. "In Northwest Academy's case, the Michigan Department of Education still has the audit process open."

About half of the schools in the Char-Em ISD submitted requests for Seat Time Waivers and the ISD performed an audit on all those schools including Northwest Academy.

"Bottom line is, if we go through the process and find that the Seat Time Waiver committee told us we could do this and we couldn't, we would lose that money."

JOHN BAILEY,
NORTHWEST ACADEMY SCHOOL LEADER

School leaders at Northwest Academy recently received notice they were being denied funding for 18 full-time equivalency students after an audit by Char-Em ISD.

The Seat Time Waiver program allows Northwest Academy to educate students who are not coming to campus.

The program was new last year and when Northwest Academy applied they were one of only three schools in the state using the program. Now nearly a dozen schools hold seat time waivers.

The students were set up for seven courses, most of which were online.

Teachers found that some students became overwhelmed with the course load and worked on one or two courses at a time before finishing the work and moving onto the next course.

"On count day, kids were taking mostly one course," said Bailey. "We explained the process of having one or two courses at a time which was approved by the state Seat Time Waiver committee. But when asked by an ISD auditor last year, it was brought into question."

The Char-Em ISD is required by law to provide a student accounting audit for all schools within their serviced area.

The audits are done each fall and spring.

Results of the audit were not released by press time.

"Bottom line is, if we go through the process and find that the Seat Time Waiver committee told us we could do this and we couldn't, we would lose that money," said Bailey. "We've gone through the proper process, and we have all the documentation."

Boyne City-Charlevoix Road phase one on track for spring

STEVE ZUCKER
NEWS-REVIEW WRITER

Charlevoix County road officials say the first phase of the long-awaited Boyne City-Charlevoix Road reconstruction project is on track for spring start.

At Monday's Charlevoix County Road Commission meeting, manager Pat Harmon said engineers are expected to have the design work for the project completed this week.

Harmon said once those plans are in, he will call a meeting of the county's road millage steering committee to look over the plans and then put the project out for bid.

The project calls for a complete reconstruction of 2.75 miles of the county's main east-west road from Nelson Road to Sumner Road. Harmon said the road will be built to "full-season" standards similar to Thumb Lake Road with two 12-foot lanes and 2-foot shoulders.

At an estimated cost of more than $1 million, the project will be paid for through a county-wide 1-mill road repair millage that county voters narrowly approved in 2008.

The poor condition of Boyne City-Charlevoix Road was one of the main issues proponents of the millage pointed to in the run-up to the election.

Harmon said once the bids are in and tabulated, he'll be coming to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners both to get their blessing to spend the millage money on the project and for another short-term loan.

Last year the road commission used about $255,000 in road millage money to pay for roughly half of a project that reconstructed River Road in Melrose Township. Because the first millage collection was not until December, the county board of commissioners made a short-term loan to the road commission to pay for the project. That loan was paid back when the road millage funds were collected.

That left a little more than $1 million to go toward the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road project and the commission's portion of a Peninsula Road reconstruction project this year. Harmon said because what's left in the road millage fund from December's collection won't likely cover the cost of the projects, the road commission will have to again borrow some money from the county to bridge the time between when payment is due on the project and the next millage collection in December. How much it will need to borrow from the county won't be known until the bids are in.

Harmon noted that after this year the road millage steering committee will likely target project that can be paid for with the balance on hand in the millage fund to avoid having to seek a loan from the county every year. He said the contract for the project will specify a start date around May 1 and a completion date of July 30 for the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road project.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Nature not a fairytale utopia

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

The natural world is not a benign place where only man is vile.

The author of the Old Testament book of Proverbs wrote, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard. Consider her works and be wise."

I am pretty sure that

Moral lessons from nature are always a little suspect.

Foxes are not sly, owls are not wise and bears are not like Winnie the Pooh.

The author did not have in mind the Driver ants of Africa or the Army-ants of tropical America, who eat everything found in their path.

Nor did he know of the fire ants found in southern U.S., who sting any disturber and work to eliminate all other kinds of ants in their territory.

Still, it might be possible to look at how the natural world works and learn something worthwhile.

People searching for guidance in human affairs by looking at non-human creatures often give some attention to what are called the social insects: bees, ants, termites and wasps mostly.

Without any overall planning, and without anyone in charge, they collectively build enormous and effective structures both above ground and below it.

They manage all the requirements of living together with nothing much more than a few chemical signals about where each individual has been and what they have been doing.

Bees are able to tell their fellow workers what direction and how far it is to a good source of food. They chemically alter what they collect, use it to feed their young, and store up enough to survive for long periods without any external source of food.

Desert ants use the enlarged bodies of some of their fellow ants to store water for prolonged dry spells, and wasps are able to incapacitate and store as food the bodies of spiders and caterpillars that are used to feed the baby wasps. Each, individually, is an admirable trait.

It is impossible to closely watch a beehive or ant-hill for long without being convinced of some sort of collective intelligence that helps everybody work together.

Surely with our overly large brains and collective memory we should be able to manage a city or country as well as bees or ants manage their community. The important question is whether we would like to live in such a community.

Closely examined, the colonies of most social insects have less in common with a human community than they do with the business plan of a large, for-profit corporation.

The goal of any beehive or ant-hill is solely the fastest possible growth and development of that hive or ant-hill.

There are no moral or ethical considerations involved.

If a member of the colony is not functioning well—out they go. If another colony of ants gets too close, it is war to the death of one of the colonies.

Fierce, unending competition with other colonies is the basic creed of any colony of social insects.

And it is most likely the basic creed of the large, for-profit corporation.

It obviously works well for the ants, which are the most abundant organisms on earth. But in its absence of any moral considerations it is a questionable model for human community.

The writer of Proverbs, with up-to-date knowledge of insects might well have written, "Consider the ant and be wary."

Being of sound mind: Columnist recounts near-death

MORE OR LESS

Christine Gwidt

Despite the not-so-veiled disapproval of everyone that I know, I don't have a will. It's my contention that if I don't pack my bags and buy a ticket, I'm not going anywhere.

But it's not as if the idea of a last will and testament has never occurred to me. I wrote one during the summer before I turned eight when I accidentally swallowed a fish bone.

It was all over for me and tears blurred my vision, splashing over onto the sheet of notepad paper while I divvied up my loot. Most of it went to my baby brother, although his potential interest in a collection of plastic horses and my girl's Huffy bike was uncertain. My cousins received my dolls and some other toys and my parents got my artwork.

I folded the finished document and stuck it under a pile of Lollipop underwear in my dresser, then went into the kitchen where my mother stood at the sink, cleaning up the evidence.

"Good-bye, Mom," I said, and hugged her hard, savoring the moment of her Es-tée Lauder Youth Dew, her sudsy yellow Playtex Living Gloves. She had never looked so beautiful.

She gave me a puzzled look. "Good-bye? Where are you going? You look pale, do you feel okay?"

I thought about spilling the whole story, explaining that while it wasn't a premeditated move, I definitely felt a pinny little barb slip down my gullet with a mouthful of trout during dinner. But what good would that do? Every that Janie Manderville and I had drawn on the drive-

"I nodded bravely, allowing my mom to spend the final moments of my life in blissful ignorance of my condition."

CHRISTINE GWIDT,

SPEAKING ON HER NEAR-DEATH EXPERIENCE

kid knew that fish bones would poke holes in one's stomach if they made it that far without puncturing the throat. Mine had apparently been buffered by enough other stuff to pass through my esophagus with only a tiny, telling scrape. But that was small comfort, serving only to buy me a little more time.

I nodded bravely, allowing my mom to spend the final moments of my life in blissful ignorance of my condition and went outside to await my demise.

Mellow evening sunlight dappled the hopscotch board way that morning. I hopped listlessly across the chalked numbers one final time, not eaving when I stepped on a line. What did it matter, after all? Oh, that happy carefree morn! It seemed connected to someone else - Someone with her whole life ahead of her. The promise of more summers like this, dallied away amid the scented buzz and hum of Concord Street had been snatched from my grasp. It was so sad, so horribly sad.

I examined my stomach, looking for a bump that would signal the beginning of the end. Nothing so far.

How long did this sort of thing take?

I wandered into the back yard where my cocker spaniel dozed on the chaise lounge. "Oh, Skippy," I mourned, submitting to her attempts to heal me with dog spit. "I'll miss you most of all."

I stretched out on my back in the grass and folded my hands in prayer. "Now I lay me down to sleep," I recited, tears marking tributary rivulets into my ears. Skippy snuffled over and settled down by my side. My parents would be so, so sorry that they'd never bought me a pony.

"Hey, butthead. What are you doing?" Henry Mendlebaum, my next-door neighbor and the scourge of my existence stood in my driveway. "Are you crying?"

"Leave me alone, Henry. Go home." Really, did I want the last voice I heard to be his horrible asthmatic wheeze? "Go pick on somebody your own size."

Henry, who was a year younger and a good four inches shorter than me, loosed a phlegmy derisive snort. "You are crying. You're a crybaby." He ambled away, bored by my bereavement.

How unfair that my time should be cut short while Henry lived on. Life was so random, so cruel. I could feel myself slipping away...

I woke up at dusk. Heaven looked just like my backyard. I went inside in time to catch the last 10 minutes of "I Love Lucy."

Days later, my mom confronted me with the tear-stained will. "What on earth? Honey, are you worried about something?"

I shrugged; my health miraculously restored. I folded the sheet into my pocket for safekeeping. You never know.

LETTERS to the editor

Editor:
Dental Clinics North in East Jordan would like you to know that February is recognized as National Children's Dental Health Month. In large part this designation is made to bring to mind the importance of a child's oral health and its impact on overall systemic health. Diet and good oral hygiene are the most significant factors related to maintaining optimal oral health.

Related to our diets, parents across the country often issue a common refrain at dinnertime: "You'd better eat that, it's good for you!" Another old favorite in the parental arsenal of dietary admonitions is, "Don't eat that, it'll rot your teeth!" Now more than ever, kids are faced with a bewildering array of food choices, from fresh produce to sugar-laden processed convenience meals and snack foods. What children eat and when they eat it may affect not only their oral health, but their overall health as well.

Americans are consuming foods and drinks high in sugar and starches more often, and in larger portions, than ever before. Junk foods and drinks have gradually replaced nutritious beverages and foods for many people. For example, the average American teenager consumes 81 gallons of soft drinks each year! Alarmingly, a steady diet of sugary foods and drinks can ruin teeth, especially among those who snack throughout the day. Common activities such as constantly grazing on foods with minimal nutritional value, and frequently sipping on sugary drinks, may contribute to a tendency toward tooth decay.

When sugar is consumed over and over again in large, often hidden, amounts, the harmful effect on teeth can be dramatic. Sugar provides food for bacteria, which produce acid that can eat away the enamel on teeth. Almost all foods have some type of sugar that cannot — and should not — be eliminated from our diets. Many of these foods contain important nutrients and add enjoyment to eating. But diets high in sugars and starches — which can be found in everything from bread to pretzels to salad dressing — presents a risk for tooth decay, so read labels carefully, and plan your meals to provide a balanced, nutritious diet for you and your kids.

Here are some suggestions that can help reduce your children's risk of tooth decay:

Consume sugary foods and drinks only with meals. Saliva production increases during meals which helps neutralize acid and rinse food particles from the mouth.

Limit between-meal snacks. If kids crave a snack, offer them nutritious foods.

If your kids chew gum, make it sugarless. Chewing sugarless gum after eating can increase saliva flow and help wash out food and decay-producing acid.

Monitor beverage consumption. Instead of soft drinks, children should choose water and low-fat milk.

Help your children develop good brushing and flossing habits. Schedule regular dental visits.

A big "thank-you" to our Charlevoix County Transit Service aka "The Pickle Bus."

This is a service we cannot let go of.

The drivers are friendly and meet special needs.

They do a great job.

Thanks.

I would respectfully point out that GM did not "... take nearly $50 billion in taxpayer handouts in an effort to reorganize." General Motors is not of same TARP league as are AIG, Chase or Bank of America, et. al. General Motors received a separate government loan for which it had to appear (numerous times) before Congress to argue its case. In no way was this a taxpayer handout.

More importantly, GM is paying back the loan with interest, and has called hourly personnel back from layoffs because of its reorganization. The same cannot be said of the mega-banks that did receive taxpayer handouts and not only continue to refuse lending, but also continue to raise their customer's fees.

While I have little sympathy for Fox Motors' multi-millionaire owner and Amway heir Dan DeVos—who will surely survive any and all dealership closures—I, too, hope that Charlevoix retains the former Crown Motors GM dealership. We need every single job we can get up here.

I would like to take this opportunity to respond to Mr. Klooster's letter. The Art of Semantics, printed Feb. 10.

As a local "daycare provider", I found this letter to be slightly offensive. Daycare provider: "A licensed adult who cares for children in a loving and nurturing environment (usually their home)". I don't understand why you felt disappointed after reading the article "Daycare providers unite to hone skills". We are licensed daycare providers who provide quality childcare. Our children are offered nutritious meals and snacks, have rest time, and a variety of other activities that are developmentally appropriate. We are too busy learning and exploring to watch TV. With the program that I offer, I am confident that when these children go off to preschool they are prepared and excited to move on.

I have been offering this service for 11 years. There are many others in the area that have been in business at least this long or longer. In fact, at our last meeting we had over 200 hours of experience among us. I have a CDA and an Associates Degree in Early Childhood Education (May 2008); therefore, I am qualified to teach preschool in my home or a school setting. I am also a member of the Michigan chapter of NAEYC and Phi Theta Kappa. We are required by law to have 10 clock hours (5 for assistants) in early childhood training. We are also certified in CPR and first aid.

I think you should be grateful and proud that we have these fine people to offer these services in our area. Many families appreciate having these home environments their children can go to in their early years. My experience is that we soon become an extended part of their family.

We do advocate quality childcare and we are continuously trying to build our programs and look out for the welfare of the children and families we work with. I don't think any of us have a problem being called "daycare" or "childcare" providers.

It looks to me like we are doing the very thing you are aspiring to eventually do. The only difference is, our program is run in our homes instead of a center. Good Luck Mr. Klooster in your future career.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all you providers out there for your hard work and dedication.

This year, I encourage Michigan residents to "check off" for the United Way Fund on your Michigan tax return.

Form 4642 on the 2009 income tax return allows taxpayers to donate all or part of their tax refund, or to increase their tax payment, to donate to the United Way Fund. The Fund provides food, clothing and shelter for Michigan's low to moderate income families.

Funds donated will be returned to the local United Way based on the taxpayer's zip code. In our area, Char-Em United Way will receive all tax donations from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties and will reinvest them to provide basic needs for our neighbors.

Given today's economic conditions and high unemployment in Northern Michigan, more families are at risk than ever before and the need for assistance has never been greater. The Michigan Legislature has created a quick and easy way to donate resources that help ease the burden for many Michigan families. This year, please be sure to "check off" for the United Way Fund. All proceeds will directly benefit people served by our local United Way. Giving has never been so easy.

First off I want to thank Ellen Breining for 13 or so years of organizing the Blood Drive at the Community Reform Church.

She did more than anyone will ever know.

I volunteered to do a part of her original job description which among other things, included organizing the volunteer workers and setting up the canteen.

The positive responses from everyone I called was overwhelming. The businesses I contacted: Bergmann Marine, Glen's, Oleson's and Villager Pub, all were more than happy to help.

Every Volunteer I asked to work at the Blood Drive was excited to help out.

I called about 50 people to help supply the canteen with everything from fruit, crackers, cheese and sweets to plastic serving bowls and utensils. Each person happily volunteered.

Thank you to everyone for helping make my job more pleasant.

A huge thank-you to the Community Reform Church for letting the Red Cross use the facility.

Thank you to the Lions for setting it all up in the morning and the Elks taking it all down at night.

Needless to say with 80 pints of blood donated it was a great success.

So many wonderful people come together every two months for such a worthy cause.

If you've given blood before please continue.

If you never have, please consider doing so at our next drive on Thursday, March 11.

Pastor Douglas Kenney of Zion Lutheran Church will officiate and interment will be at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

In lieu of flowers donations to Zion Lutheran Church of Petoskey or the Charlevoix County Humane Society are appreciated.

Fanara added that based on the team's budget for 2010, it would have to take in about $128,000 in forfeitures from drug cases to break even. However, last year it brought in only about $22,000 in forfeitures and has averaged only about $40,000 in other years.

She added that the team had to dip $49,000 into its savings last year leaving it with only about $150,000 in its savings account.

Fanara pointed to Otsego County and the city of Charlevoix, who both shared their concerns.

Schneider said the roughly 25 cases that SANE handles per year in Charlevoix County aren't worth the roughly $80,000 per year that it pays in wages and benefits for the deputy that is assigned to the team. The county also pays $700-$900 per month for a vehicle for

PUBLIC NOTICE OF STATE-OWNED OIL AND GAS MINERALS TO BE OFFERED FOR LEASE AUCTION

Lands under consideration for oil and gas leasing include acreage in the following counties: ALPENA, ANTRIM, ARENAC, BAY, CHARLEVOIX, CHEBOYGAN, CRAWFORD, EMMET, GLADWIN, GRAND TRAVERSE, ISABELLA, JACKSON, KALKASKA, LIVINGSTON, MIDLAND, MISSAUKKEE, MONTMORENCY, NEWAYGO, OAKLAND, OCEANA, OSCOLA, PRESQUE ISLE, ROSCOMMON, AND WASHTENAW.

The Department of Natural Resources & Environment (DNRE) will offer at an oral-bid public auction, oil and gas lease rights to approximately 127,100 acres of state-owned minerals in those Michigan counties indicated herein. More detailed information regarding location of the nominated parcels can be found on the web at http://www.michigan.gov/dnre/1,1607,7-153-10371_14793-30912-00.html or by calling 517-373-7663.

Written comments by interested parties relative to the classification of any description must be received by Forest Management Division at the address specified herein NO LATER THAN April 5, 2010. Any request for change in classification will be considered by the DNRE prior to offering the lease rights at public auction, with final classification to be set at the sole discretion of the Director of the DNRE.

Registration of bidders will be held from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, May 4, 2010, at the Michigan Constitution Hall, 525 West Allegan Street, Lansing, Michigan.

Offering of lease rights will begin at 9:00 a.m. at a minimum bid of $13.00 per acre (which includes a $3.00 per acre audit fee), and will continue until all descriptions have been offered. Additionally, at the auction's and at the option of the DNRE, parcels not bid in at $13.00 per acre, may be re-offered at a minimum bid of $5.00 per acre.

Bids may be submitted by individuals of legal age, a partnership, corporation, or other legal entity qualified to do business in Michigan. Prospective bidders should be prepared to submit such proof at the time of registration.

The total bonus must be paid on the same day for all lease rights which receive successful bids. Prospective bidders who do not have an established credit rating with the DNRE through prior leasing of state-owned minerals, must pay at least one-half of the TOTAL bonus bid by cash, certified check, cashier's check, or money order. A credit rating may be established by filing with the DNRE, Forest Management Division (FMD), Mineral and Land Management Section (MLMS), three letters of reference, one of which must be from a bank. In no instance will the DNRE accept "site drafts" even if noted as a zero day site draft.

An auction catalog showing the legal description of the lands proposed to be offered and parcel classifications will be available after April 9, 2010, on the web at http://www.michigan.gov/dnre/1,1607,7-153-10368_11800-169044-00.html or by contacting DNRE-FMD-MLMS, P.O. Box 30452, Lansing, Michigan 48909-7952, telephone 517-373-7663.

County may eliminate SANE deputy

BY STEVE ZUCKER
NEWS-REVIEW

Fanara

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is considering dramatically reducing or discontinuing its participation in the multi-county Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement Team.

Citing the a low return on its investment from its participation in the team,

"The bottom line is it's all about dollars. When SANE was started it was doing great things, but times have changed."

W. DON SCHNEIDER,
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY SHERIFF

the team's looming budget deficit, and inequitable contributions from some other member counties, the board appears poised to pull the sheriff's deputy it has assigned to the team.

At the board's Feb. 10 meeting, Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider and chief assistant prosecutor Shaynee Fanara, who both serve on the SANE board, shared their concerns.

Schneider said the roughly 25 cases that SANE handles per year in Charlevoix County aren't worth the roughly $80,000 per year that it pays in wages and benefits for the deputy that is assigned to the team. The county also pays $700-$900 per month for a vehicle for

Rotary to celebrate St. Pat's for charity

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

A new event will help people celebrate the luck of the Irish while raising money for area charities.

The Charlevoix Rotary Club is hosting the first annual St. Patrick's fundraiser which will be held Saturday, March 13th at Castle Farms in Charlevoix. Money raised will go to a number of area causes and charities.

"There will be free Irish spirits, great Irish food, and fun the whole evening," said Dr. Rick Randall, one of the Rotary organizers. "And if there's anyone out there that doesn't like Irish food, there will be plenty of other tasty dishes on hand."

Two bands will also entertain those in attendance. Three Ds and Little C, and Night Blend will take the stage.

Rotary Club members are still looking for area businesses or individuals to help sponsor the event.

"We've had a lot of help from the Castle, Don's IGA, and other businesses, but we're still looking for some sponsors," said Randall. "So far we have a few $500 sponsors, but we still need a few table sponsors which are $400 each."

Randall added that so far the response to the event has been great, and organizers hope to make it an annual event.

"It's going to be a blast," said Randall. "We'll have a real fun night, we can celebrate that it's almost spring, it's for the Irish, there will be lots of great food and live music. It doesn't get much better than that."

Tickets for the fundraiser are $40 per person or $80 per couple and can be purchased from any Rotary Club member or at Charlevoix Wear downtown. The event runs from 6:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. on March 13 at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

For information on becoming a sponsor, contact Dr. Rick Randall or Dr. Aaron Wilkin at Randall Chiropractic Clinic, 237-0065.

Fundraiser to help care for 7-year-old Grant Winnell

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Seven year old Grant Winnell of Charlevoix was diagnosed with Autism at the age of two.

For years, his mother, Breanne, worked hard to help Grant develop the social and emotional skills needed to succeed in life.

"I found a therapy program that has been a huge success," said Breanne. "When Grant started the program two years ago, he was developmentally a year old."

Grant made huge strides, and at the end of the program gained 6 years in academics and two years in social skills. Then, the unthinkable happened.

"During this school year, we noticed some problems that didn't make any sense," said Breanne. "Grant was extremely pale, vomiting, and sleeping 3 hours more a day than usual."

Grant also regressed socially. He stopped feeding himself, didn't respond to family and friends, and lost weight.

"In December, it was so bad that he missed about 90-percent of his school days. He

"I went into Fox Motors and told the (manager), Rick Summers, what was going on. He was floored, and told me he wanted to host a benefit to help raise money."

BREANNE WINNELL,

MOTHER OF ILL CHILD GRANT WINNELL

was sleeping in, losing weight. We had to feed him or he wouldn't eat," explained Breanne.

After a number of visits with doctors, it was discovered that the vitamin supplements Grant took were contaminated with Antimony, a poison similar to Arsenic. When adults come into contact with Antimony, it's usually due to skin contact and is treatable. But since Grant inhaled the poison, doctors aren't sure what will happen.

"Grant may be one of the first kids to have this happen, and we just don't know what the outcome will be," said Breanne.

Breanne said Grant's veil of Autism is now so thick, the reasoning and purpose for everything he does is so far gone.

So she set out to find ways to treat him.

"I found a treatment that could be very effective that would work well for him. The problem is, it's very costly and not covered by our insurance," said Breanne.

The treatment would cost around 30-thousand dollars.

"I said, we need to do this, this is my child. Either I can give up and quit on him or I can work my butt off and get this treatment. If I tried and failed, at least I know I tried," said Breanne.

Breanne started selling take and bake pizza kits.

"I went into Fox Motors and told the (manager), Rick Summers, what was going on," explained Breanne. "He was floored, and told me he wanted to host a benefit to help raise money."

On March 17, Fox Motors, will host a benefit dinner and silent auction to help raise funds for Grant's treatment.

There will also be a silent auction, music, prizes, and activities for children.

"The generosity has been such a huge surprise," said Breanne. "It feels like a miracle in this kind of economy that a business is going to spend their own money to help someone who really needs it."

The benefit dinner for Grant Winnell is from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 17 at Fox Motors in Charlevoix. Admission is $10.

East Jordan Ambassadors back in action

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce is recharging and restructuring their Ambassador program under the leadership of Anora Ruehle, chairperson of the East Jordan Ambassadors group and Assistant General Manager of the Castle.

"Recharging the dispersed Ambassador program has been on the Chamber's to do list for a long time," said Mary Faculak, Chamber employee.

The membership of the East Jordan Chamber has been growing.

The Chamber not only includes businesses in the city limits of East Jordan but also includes Atwood and Ellsworth, known as the Breez-way communities.

DIRECTOR, EAST JORDAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

An Ambassador in the past has helped at various events like ribbon cuttings and Business after Hours meetings but the new Ambassadors program would include the planning of new events, seminars, creating workshops and developing avenues to get people involved in the community.

"Ambassadors are the spirit team of the chamber," said Faculak. "It (the Ambassadors program) creates more involvement for the members, it creates a bigger circle for the chamber family."

"New, unique, different that's what we want to be," said Ruehle.

Anyone can be an Ambassador, retired professionals, transplants to the area, even people who don't live in the breezeway communities the Chamber represents.

High school students looking to expand their knowledge of the community and make connections with professionals in a variety of fields are welcome to join as Junior Ambassadors.

"Junior Ambassadors allow students to get involved with our community, provides them with lifelong skills and gives them an idea of what's going on in their community," said Faculak.

Being an Ambassador allows people to, Ruehle said, "Build new relationships and connect with people."

She added, "Commitment to the group can be whatever you want it to be. It's not going to be like attendance is taken."

An ambassador can be involved in only one committee of interest to them or they can get involved in everything.

The first meeting will be held on March 24.

If you are interested in becoming an Ambassador contact Anora Ruehle at 237-0884 ext. 222 or at anora@castlefarms.com.

KCB asks people to pitch in funds for petunias' sake

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

BOSS

Due to shrinking budgets and cuts in financial support, the organization that strives to Keep

"We thought about skipping petunia planting this year in hopes of raising more funds, but after some consideration we decided to go forward."

BO BOSS,
CO-PRESIDENT OF KEEP CHARLEVOIX BEAUTIFUL

Boss and fellow co-President, Joe Vogelheim, have both volunteered their time planting the Petunias each year since the organization's conception.

"We know what we're doing, we have a passion for this," said Vogelheim. "It's definitely a community event that brings everyone together. I think people would be really upset if it didn't happen."

But the cuts in funding from the city are forcing those committed to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful to find other ways to keep the project going.

"We're asking that everyone that lives or works along the Petunia planting route to chip in and take care of the flowers in front of their home or business. That means watering and weeding," explained Vogelheim.

"People don't realize that half of our funding, about $23,000, came from the City of Charlevoix, and the other half is through donations," added Boss. "The city is all for the project, they just had to make some changes so we're trying to make changes as well to ensure we can continue this great tradition."

This year's Petunia planting will take place on Thursday, May 20.

"It's just an awesome time," said Vogelheim. "It's pretty cool that about a thousand people show up, volunteer their time, and plant all those flowers along a 5-mile stretch in about two hours. We needed to keep that tradition going."

The planting is followed by a picnic for all those who have volunteered.

"The flowers are ordered, we're committed to making it happen," said Boss.

Circle of Arts shows its contemporary side

CAROL R. SULLIVAN
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

"I have maintained a love and passion for art my whole life."

EDITH PAIR,
LOCAL ARTIST, OWNER OF ELLAIR GALLERY

Starting Saturday Feb. 27, Charlevoix Circle of Arts will feature pieces of abstract and contemporary art in a two-month-long exhibit.

Edith Pair, local artist and owner of Ellair Gallery in Charlevoix is thrilled to be involved.

"I have maintained a love and passion for art my whole life," Pair said. She received her Bachelor of Fine Arts in Fashion Design from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and currently describes her main concentration as, "building the business I have always dreamed of."

Contemporary, as typically defined, refers to current or modern movements or trends in a particular subject matter.

Contemporary art, however, can be more specifically defined as art produced since World War II.

According to the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, most museums of contemporary art around the world commonly define their collections of contemporary art as consisting of art produced since the second world war.

Abstract art, on the other hand, more aptly describes the category of art in which, according to the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, "a visual form, color or line is used to create a composition which may exist with a degree of independence from visual references in the world".

Featured artists, Edith Pair and Margie Guyot will present a showcase of their own contemporary art alongside the accepted works of other contemporary artists.

The exhibit is scheduled to begin with an opening reception from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday Feb. 27, and will run Feb. 27 through April 24.

During this time, the main exhibit hall, front desk and Gift of Art gallery at Circle of Arts will be open Wednesday through Sunday from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

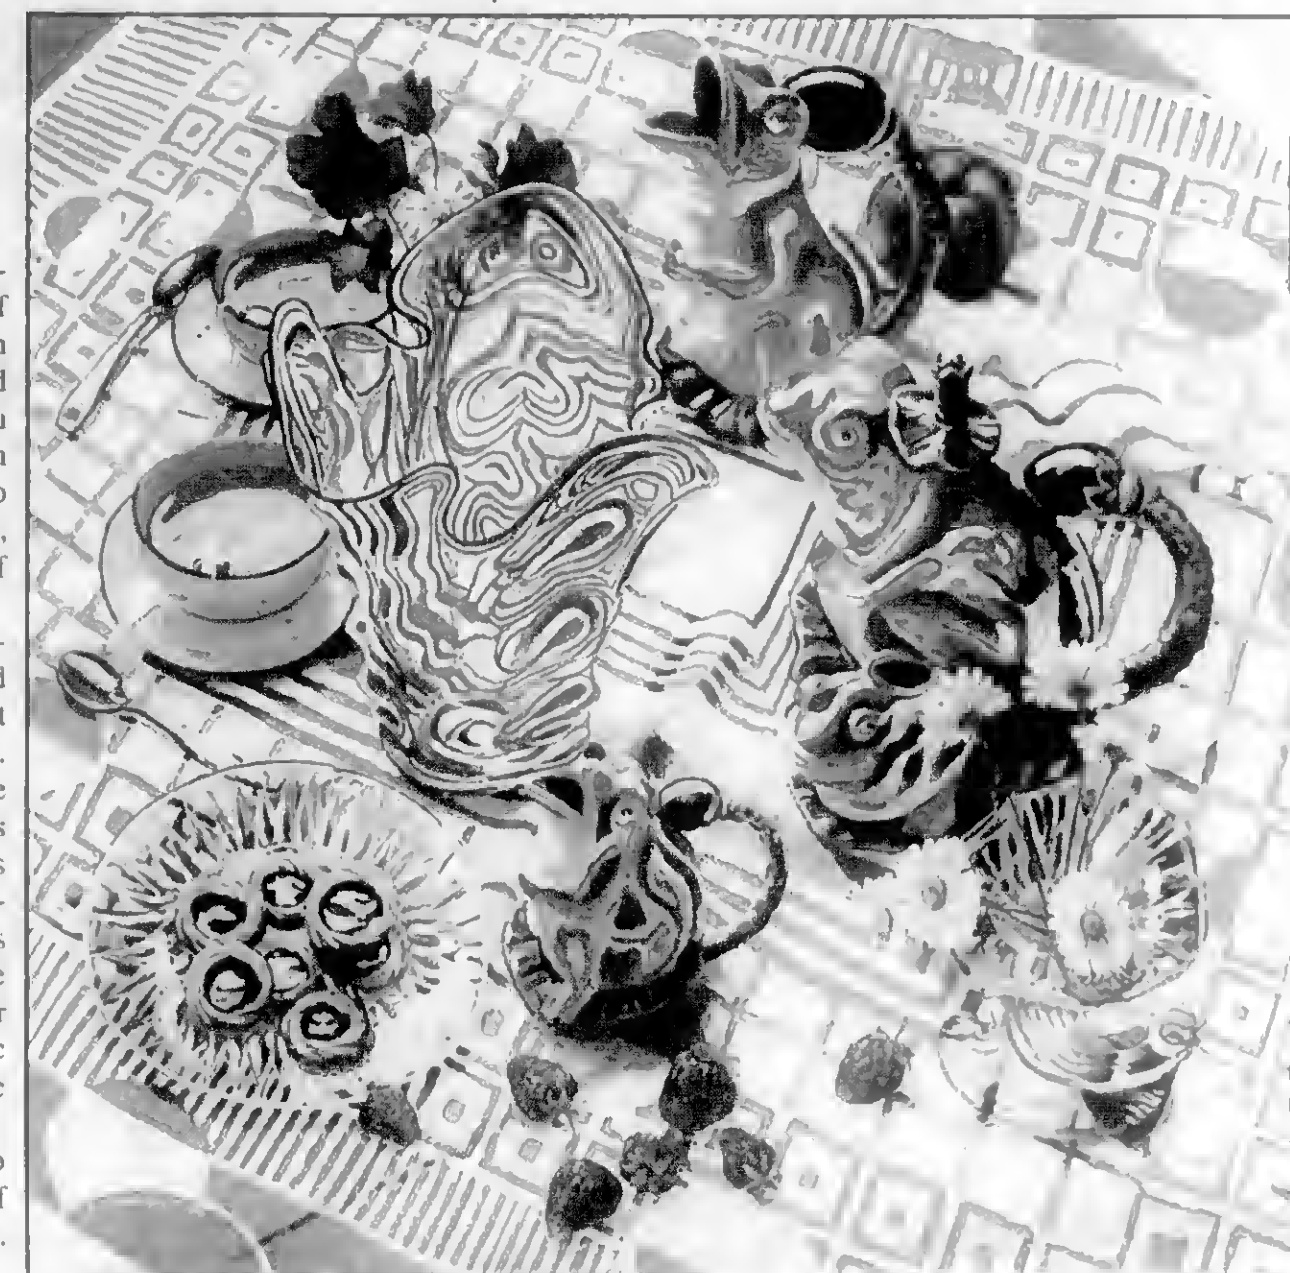

The showcase's other featured artist, Margie Guyot, a recent Ford Motor Company retiree, is best known for her oil work and large colorful still life pieces. Margie's entire art education consisted of week-long workshops with professional artists. "Find somebody who does what you want to do and go study with them," she said. Guyot also owns her own studio/gallery, Possum Hollow, just south of Charlevoix.

Together, Pair and Guyot will bring a dynamic and engaging compilation of art to Charlevoix Circle of Arts. All interested participants are encouraged to enter. Entries must represent original works of art that qualify as contemporary or abstract. All pieces on display, unless otherwise noted, will be available for purchase with a portion of the proceeds to benefit the Circle of Arts.

For more information or to get involved, contact Circle of Arts at 547-3554 or visit www.charlevoixcircle.org.

Children's Dental Health Month

Everybody wants a bright, healthy smile. That's why it's so important to take care of your child's teeth, and teach good dental hygiene habits that will last a lifetime. To begin, review the basic oral care tips seen here with your child. With proper dental care, a balanced diet and regular visits to the dentist, your child will be all smiles!

- Brush your teeth at least twice a day or, if possible, after every meal
- Use a soft-bristled toothbrush that is small enough to reach all of your teeth
- Trade sugary snacks and soda for tooth-friendly snacks like nuts, popcorn, cheese or raw vegetables
- Remember to floss your teeth or use an interdental cleaner every day

These area dentists can help your child maintain a healthy and beautiful smile:

Ag report: Canola could be the next cash crop

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Hoping to tap into the success Canada has had growing the bulk of food grade canola, the Michigan Canola Project is coming to Charlevoix.

This group of farmers, agri-businesses and Michigan State Extension office personnel will be leading an informational meeting in Ellsworth for farmers and people considering farming canola which yields a leading cooking oil and nutritious feed for livestock.

"It's a crop we've seen increase in the last couple years and we have been trying to assist growers in how to successfully grow it and also looking at ways to make sure we have markets for it to go to," said Stan Moore, the Michigan State University Extension Director for Antrim County. "We have had a research plot in last year and we're going to put in at least three research plots this year."

So far, Moore said, canola is well-suited to growing in Michigan's climate. "We are definitely in the right climate because most of it is grown up in Canada," Moore said. "We're looking at mostly spring varieties, but there is a winter canola you plant in the fall, though our winters seem to be too harsh on that plant."

Just what kind of potential to profit from this crop is out there?

There are more than 52,000 farmers growing canola in Canada.

"We see this crop as a way to add one more crop to a farmer's rotation and help with the profitability of his farm," Moore said. "Not only does this do some good things for the soil, but if bio fuels come around price wise, it could also go in that direction."

And, according to www.soyatech.com:

• Canada's canola industry adds over $11 billion in economic activity to the Canadian economy.

• In the five crop years starting in 2000-2001, Canada produced an average of 6.2 million tons of canola seed per year.

• In the same period, Canada annually exported 3.4 million tons of canola seed, 706,000 tons of canola oil and 1.15 million tons of canola meal.

• The total value of canola seed, oil and meal exports is about $2 billion. Depending on the year, canola is either Canada's first or second most valuable field crop (the other is wheat).

• The U.S. is Canada's largest canola buyer. The U.S. imported an average of 510,000 tons of canola oil per year from 2000-2001 to 2004-2005, valued at $345 million/year.

• From 2000 to 2005, the U.S. has purchased an average of 255,000 tons of seed per year valued at roughly $85 million. In the same period, the U.S. purchased approximately 1.1 million tons of canola meal per year from Canada (about 60 percent of total meal production) valued at $235 million.

• Canada produces 20 percent of the world's canola/rapeseed and is by far the largest exporter, accounting for 74 percent of export trade. Canada produces GM, spring canola while winter canola predominates other geographic areas where canola is grown including the E.U. and China.

The meeting will occur from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday March 4, at Bank's Township Hall in Ellsworth.

Topics on the agenda include a talk by:

Dr. Russ Freed, MSU Crop & Soil Science Plant Breeder on "Canola's Potential as a Cash Crop in Michigan"

Dan Blackledge, Marion Bio Energy LLC on "Michigan Canola Project's Past & Future"

Stan Moore, MSU Extension Director, Antrim on "Recommended Canola Production Practices"

Bernie Steenwyk, Ellsworth Farmers Exchange on "Seed, Fertilizer and Herbicide Options"

This meeting is free and open to the public, but RSVP is requested by March 2. Call (231) 533-8818.

The tiny black seeds of the canola plant are approximately the size of pencil leads. These seeds are nearly 40 percent oil and the remaining husk makes a nutritious feed for livestock. Canola oil is quickly becoming the leading food grade oil consumed by humans.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Charlevoix has put a stamp on the Class C district, winning the past five straight titles.

This season, however, could be a much stiffer test for the Rayders.

The district, hosted by Charlevoix, is shaping up as a wide-open one, as four Lake Michigan Conference teams, including the Rayders, Harbor Springs, East Jordan and Boyne City, enter harboring legitimate hopes of coming away with the crown.

"It's flip a coin," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "We might have just a slight edge because we're playing at home, but I think that's the only edge we have. I think it'll be a fantastic district."

The host Rayders, 7-11 entering the final week of the regular season, open the tournament against East Jordan, 7-10, at 7 p.m. Monday, March 1. The teams split their regular-season meetings. East Jordan won, 63-59, early in the season, while the Rayders returned the favor, 58-39, on Feb. 19.

"East Jordan's already come into our house and beaten us," Erskine said.

Senior guard Shaina Peters, who averages about 11 points a game, leads the Red Devils.

"It's a pretty wide open district," East Jordan coach Steve Hines said. "For the first time if a few years, there's no clear favorite and it could make for an interesting week. Most teams have been up and down and no team has really dominated the other in head-to-heads."

Juniors Tanner McCune and Grace Howes are also threats for East Jordan, as is senior Maribeth Poindexter.

"If we can get a few players in double figures, our chances are better," Hines said. "The games we've been more successful in, we've had more players in double figures and having offensive balance will be a positive for us."

Charlevoix is led by senior forward Sarah Potter and senior guard Madison Way, both of whom average nine points a game.

On Wednesday, March 3, Harbor Springs, 7-10, will face Boyne City, 8-9, in the opening semifinal at 6 p.m.

The Ramblers defeated the Rams, 45-40, in their first regular season meeting, and they were to meet again in the regular-season final on Feb. 26 in Boyne City.

"It's definitely going to be a different district this year," Boyne coach Jim Brown said. "We're trying to gain some momentum going in and all the teams have beaten each other this year. I really don't know if there is a favorite."

The Rayders are led by senior Maddie Moeke, who's averaging 14 points and game, while senior Sydney Gahn is close to 12 points a game. Senior Amanda Welborn typically draws the assignment of guarding her opponent's top scorer for the Ramblers.

"We're hoping for some good things to happen," Brown said. "If we can play our game, we should be hard to beat."

Harbor Springs, which strung together four straight wins in the first two weeks of February, can present match-up problems for any team.

"I think we have just as good as chance as any other team," Harbor coach Mike Albert said. "It's just a matter of who shows up and plays their best game. It's a wide-open district where really, there's no clear favorite."

The Rams are led by junior forward Kristen Albert, who's averaging close to 12 points a game. Junior Haley Kloss also has been a force as of late, and is averaging 10 points a game.

In Wednesday's other semifinal, Mancelona, 3-15, will face the winner of Monday's East Jordan-Charlevoix game.

"Mancelona is the unknown," Erskine said. "Maybe they are the best team in the district playing in that tough Ski Valley Conference, who knows."

Mancelona's three wins this season have come over Boyne Falls, Forest Area and Traverse City Christian.

The district final is 7 p.m. Friday, March 5, at Charlevoix High School.

The district winner advances to the Traverse City West regional beginning Tuesday, March 9, where it will face the winner of the Kalkaska district. Also in the Traverse City West regional will be the McBain district and Lincoln Alcona district winners.

ROGERS CITY — Charlevoix High School senior Chris Levens finished 1-2 Saturday in the 189-pound weight class in the Division IV Individual Regional Wrestling Tournament at Rogers City High School.

He did not qualify for the state tournament, which begins March 4 at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

Levens dropped his opener, 7-6 in overtime, to Travis Barton of St. Louis, then came back to beat Conrad Jewett of Manistique, 9-5, before falling to Dillon Sibley of Hesperia on a pin in 3:07. Levens finished 38-7 on the year.

register, the DDA ultimately did not have the funding or interest in saving the structure. Carey stressed that the plan to burn the building instead of having it demolished via traditional means is merely coincidence. The film crew just happened to hear about the 108 Park Ave. building's eminent demise and approached the DDA. Now John Grooters, head of Grooters Productions, and his crew will present their case to Charlevoix City Council during their March 1 meeting. Various factors such as compensation for local fire personnel and other public safety officers must be worked out and approved by the city before such a controlled burn can take place. Despite numerous attempts to contact Grooters, no one from the company returned calls by press time. According to the film company's Web site, "The story picks up in the middle of a basketball season that is shattered by a tragic drive-by shooting of the team's biggest star. Racism, loyalty, friendship, and faith are at the heart of a story that reveals how young men struggle to discover what really matters in this life and beyond. Everything is at stake."

"The Frontier Boys" is the first in a series of movies which will follow this same group of boys.

"From the very beginning, John Grooters has made it very clear that this wasn't a script that found Charlevoix. He wrote this movie about Charlevoix and he's committed to filming here because he doesn't feel he can film this movie anywhere else," Carey said. See a trailer for the movie at www.frontierboys.com. Based in southern Michigan, Grooters Productions has, since 2001, been creating short films, documentaries and productions for TV.

County may pull SANE funding from drug agency

SANE

of Gaylord as example of funding contribution inequities noting that they provide $1,000 and $5,000 to SANE annually yet had roughly the same number of arrests that Charlevoix County has had. Schneider said he thinks county residents would be better served if the Charlevoix County deputy assigned to the team were to spend all his time working in Charlevoix County.

"The bottom line is it's all about dollars," Schneider said. "When SANE was started it was doing great things, but times have changed."

"How do we explain to our people that we are supporting other counties," he added.

Commissioner Chris Christensen agreed: "I support what SANE does or did, but in belt-tightening times, it's (our Charlevoix County) family first.

SANE unit commander Michigan State Police Lt. Ken Mills was also at last week's meeting.

Mills said when the team was first formed the goal was that once the team was established it could eventually operate on its own, primarily on the forfeitures it brought in. But, he said, costs have gone up while the federal grant that provides a significant portion of the team's budget hasn't.

He said laws have also changed making forfeitures more difficult and the types of cases they have been handling have had less forfeiture opportunities.

"Personnel costs and vehicle costs have driven budget up over the years, but in these difficult economic times, entities (cities and counties) haven't been able to make the same monetary contributions," Mills said.

"Obviously the (SANE) board is going to have to make some difficult decisions to address the budget," he added.

Mills said, based on interest he's had from many departments in adding one of their officers to the team, he thinks people still believe in the concept of the team.

"If you have a problem, you can call us in and you have access to our team," Mills said.

On the board's agenda for its Wednesday, Feb. 24 meeting is a proposed resolution that, if approved, would pull the county's deputy from the team and replace him with an annual cash payment to be determined by the board of commissioners.

0710 IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory

Sixteen years we have gone on without you, yet you have been with us every step of the way. Your love still sustains us, your laughter still warms us and your courage still inspires us. We thank God each day for the gifts we were given to have you be such a special part of our lives, and then to have found each other. Cassidy recently wrote this poem:

"Someone Loved is Lost"

My days are now dark,
my sun is now dim.
There are no more stars in the sky.
The love that was in your heart keeps me going.
Every day, every night,
your love makes me want to fly.
It makes me soar to the heavens just to see your smiling face.
And I know you're watching over me,
So I know I have love, joy and grace.

Boatbuilders of Charlevoix

The Charlevoix Historical Society is presenting a fully illustrated program on the history of boatbuilding in Charlevoix from the time of the earliest Native Americans to the 1960s. Charlevoix was a major hub of boatbuilding since the arrival of its first settlers in the mid 1850s. The shores of all three lakes have witnessed production from dugout canoes to sailboats, pleasure craft, passenger steamers, and commercial vessels. Refittings, rebuilding, and repairs were also done here. A model of a Mackinac boat made in Charlevoix is in the Smithsonian Institution. The program has been assembled and will be narrated by Harsha House Museum co-director Steve Goslee. It will take place at the Depot, Depot Beach, on Tuesday, March 2 at 7:00 P. M. Light refreshments will be served. No admission charge, but donations appreciated. Call 547-0373 for more information.

City council OKs 'controlled burn'

MOVIE CLIMAX WILL FEATURE BURNING OF 108 PARK AVE. HOUSE

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
COURIER EDITOR

Grooters

Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously during their regular Monday, March 1, meeting to allow the building at 108 Park Ave. to be demolished by controlled burn. The request to burn the building came from Holland-based film company Grooters Productions, which has been filming a movie called "The Frontier Boys" in recent weeks. "I want to know if the fire department is going to be there and ready to go," said councilman Lyle Gennett, who expressed concern over

Snoap said whatever Charlevoix City Fire Chief Paul Ivan says on the set is "law."

"The fire department will be on set at all times during the fire," Snoap added.

Purchased by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority in the mid-1990s with plans to eventually turn it into a parking lot, the 108 Park Ave. building was slated to come down this spring one way or another.

And, said Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Executive Director Keith Carey, burning it will provide necessary training for local firefighters, reduce the cost of demolition by at least $1,000 to $2,000, and offer Grooters the chance to spend more time filming in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix resident and property owner Richard Georgi was the only member of the public to speak out on the matter.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Changes are on the way for students in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix School Board recently approved switching to trimesters and moving away from traditional semesters.

The move came after six years of research and study conducted by school staff members.

Under the current semester system, the school year is broken down into two 18-week semesters.

But starting in the 2010/2011 school year, students will have three trimesters, each lasting 12-weeks.

Teachers believe the switch will maximize student opportunity, lower class size, add more instructional time, and alleviate daily student pressures.

"Instead of having 28 credits at graduation, students in the trimester system will have the opportunity to have 30 credits," explained CHS Principal, Suzanne Klingler.

Students currently take up to seven courses each semester, but under the trimester system students will have five classes per trimester.

This will allow students to focus more on their course load, while offering them more opportunity to take electives. Each class in the trimester system will last 72 minutes.

"The biggest reason for the switch is due to the change in the Michigan Merit Curriculum," said Klingler.

"The new guidelines came into play this year for juniors and all those younger."

The new guidelines require students to have four years of English, four years of math, three years of science and

POLICE ACTIVITYSnowmobile crash

At approximately 12:15 p.m. on Friday Feb. 19, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and Melrose Township EMS were dispatched to a single snowmobile injury accident that occurred at the Springbrook Hills Golf Club in Melrose Township.

Danny Dale Buckley, 64 from Avon, Indiana was traveling north east on a 2005 Yamaha snowmobile behind the Springbrook Hills Golf Club when he attempted to slow down as he crested a steep hill and was ejected from his snowmobile.

The driver was transported to Northern Michigan Hospital where he was treated for his injuries.

Scam warning

Sheriff W. D. (Don) Schneider would like to warn citizens of the scam his office is currently investigating.

A citizen from this county who owns a rental home for weekly/monthly vacations, was contacted by a foreign subject who sent a check for deposit on the rental.

The tricky part of the scam is when the subject sent a check for more than what he owed and simply requested they return his balance to him.

By the time this citizen was aware the check was no good they had already returned the balance of funds.

Simply put, never send or return funds to any person or business that has sent you a check.

There are many checks sent by mail that are not valid.

Benefit could reduce local man's agony

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

VanStedum's senior picture

Greg VanStedum was a happy, active 23-year-old when a workplace accident shattered his foot and sent him into a constant state of agony five years ago.

It was March 1, 2005, at his Ellsworth job, when a 250-pound log fell on his right foot, fracturing it and causing Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS) which causes level 10 pain from the middle of his back down to his toes.

"His foot was fractured and was (put in a cast). Instead of his foot getting better, it started turning purple, black, and speckled red and hurt more and more everyday. Afraid something was wrong, a doctor sent him to Bay Street Orthopedics in Petoskey where they diagnosed him with CRPS," said VanStedum's fiancée Emily Hughes. "His legs have to be elevated at all times or they turn a dark purplish-black color. Greg's CRPS causes unbearable pain, extreme hypersensitivity, very cold or very warm legs, excessive sweating, intense muscle spasms, abnormal hair growth, and he is unable to even clip his toenails."

Now 28, VanStedum describes the pain as if they are being cut wide open while someone pours salt and alcohol on them and then rubs them raw with sandpaper while stabbing red hot poker all over.

VanStedum has been examined by specialists from Petoskey to the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota with no relief.

He has been bedridden for over three years and only left his apartment four times with the help of paramedics and a stretcher.

"Greg is so bad off he needs 24-hour care, which worker's comp now pays me to do so they don't have to have a costly nurse come in to take care of him," Hughes said.

Despite his torturous ordeal, there may be hope.

According to Hughes, a Florida doctor who specializes in chronic pain could send VanStedum to Monterey, Mexico to be placed in a ketamine-induced coma.

The conclusion of a recent study showed there may be some value to resetting the brain's pain signals to the body.

In a constant state of pain, Greg VanStedum is willing to try a risky medical procedure which involves placing him in a coma. But, the 28-year-old Ellsworth man will only have a chance at reducing his pain if he receives help from the community during a March 13 benefit at East Jordan High School.

"This open-label trial suggests benefit in pain reduction, associated CRPS symptoms, improved quality of life and ability to work following anesthetic ketamine in previously refractory CRPS patients. However, a randomized controlled trial will be necessary to prove its efficacy," doctors found in the study located at www.rsdfoundation.org.

"It is a risky procedure, but the benefits outweigh the risks," Hughes said. "Greg is a prisoner in every sense of the word."

Since VanStedum has no health insurance, no doctor and no way of paying for a trip or treatment, Hughes is working to hold a benefit dinner and silent auction to raise what could amount to $50,000 in medical flights and procedures to help stem the pain.

The benefit is scheduled for 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on March 13 at East Jordan High School.

Castle Farms named Business of the Year

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Charlevoix's all-star business gala not only debuted two new major awards, but the event saw record attendance on Saturday Feb. 27 at Castle Farms of Charlevoix.

Attendees of the 51st Annual Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Awards meeting and banquet were treated to music, dancing, fine dining and the fellowship of local business persons.

OUTSTANDING CITIZEN OF THE YEAR AWARD

Walking away with the most coveted honor was longtime Charlevoix resident and entrepreneur Richard Hodgson, with the Outstanding Citizen of the Year Award.

"In 1970 this individual moved to Charlevoix where he owned and operated Walker Marine from 1970-1977. He was a Charter member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club; serving as its commodore from 1977-1978. From 1972 to 1992, he sat on the Board of Directors of First State Bank, then the Board of Directors for CB North," said award presenter Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. "If that wasn't enough to keep him busy, he purchased the flight service to Beaver Island from Joe McPhillips. He owned and operated Island Airways from 1977-1988. In the early to mid '80s he also sat on the City of Charlevoix Board of Appeals.

In the late '80s, he thought he'd try on retirement. Florida called his name, and off he went. He soon discovered that retirement was not his thing, and shortly moved back to Charlevoix in 1993. In 1994, he started Charlevoix State Bank. He acted as the Chairman of the Board there from 1994-2007. He was also involved with the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce during this time, and served on the Board of Directors from 1997-2000, serving as Treasurer for part of that time. From 1998 to 2007, he participated on the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission. Then from 2002-2003, along with Floyd Wright and the City of East Jordan, he spearheaded the Main Street Center project in East Jordan. In the midst of all the activity, he opened the East Jordan bank branch in November 2003. He also joined the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and served as Treasurer from 2003 to 2006. With the completion of one project, he began another. In 2005-2006, he physically built the Ellsworth bank branch building that opened in May 2006."

Hodgson is currently on the Northwest Academy School Board and he is active with the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

AMBASSADOR'S AWARD

Next was the Ambassador's Award, which was given to Tom Conlan, 17-year manager of the Belvedere Club for his many years of selfless service to the Charlevoix Community and for promoting the area and the chamber.

"This award is about heart and spirit and contributions. And tonight's winner has exemplified the intent of this award to a T," said Dr. Rick Randall, who presented Conlan with his award. "While collecting our information for this presentation, one thing became glaringly obvious: This man has follow through. When a commitment is made, it's often done for 20 years at a time."

Conlan brought his family to Charlevoix in 1986 and he spent 20 years mentoring, coaching, refereeing high school athletics and overseeing tournaments.

Two new awards were bestowed this year as well.

CUSTOMER SERVICE AWARD

Charlevoix Harbor Master Hal Evans won the Customer Service Award for his constant upbeat attitude with everyone from locals to visitors to Charlevoix and his emphasis on superb customer service.

"Nominated by his peers, this honor is presented to an individual whose very persona shouts service excellence as evidenced by being the very first recipient of this prestigious award. Qualifying attributes from his peers included: The most welcoming face in town, full of energy, people person, helpful beyond reason and accommodating to whims," Randall said. "He makes a positive lasting impression on each and every boater seeking safe harbor in our amazing new municipal marina. Charlevoix is blessed to have a harbor master who is truly one of a kind; one who gladly goes above and beyond the call of duty. With always a smile and kind — or humorous — word, he is the face and voice of summer in downtown Charlevoix."

Randall added, "As a long time resident, Hal knows the answer to just about every question regarding our town. And if he doesn't, he knows just who you need to talk to. Callers to the Chamber office often praise our Harbor Master by name as they make plans to return to Charlevoix for another relaxing and enjoyable stay."

BUSINESS OF THE YEAR

Last but not least was the Business of the Year Award, which was awarded to Castle Farms, which has brought thousands of people into the area for their many hundreds of weddings.

"Nominated by fellow chamber members, this business is inspirational and visionary, operates at a level that inspires others and exhibits vision that goes beyond business as usual," said award presenter Pat McKeown. "The Business of the Year demonstrates success and exceptional performance in business practices, customer service and community development. When nominated, their peers commented on their creative ingenuity, outstanding work ethic; and added value they bring to the community."

He added, "This business embodies its mission statement and has developed a 'World Class Historic property that promotes the health and happiness of individuals, families, and the Charlevoix community.'"

Disappointments can lead to determination

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

The 2010 Winter Olympics were a good example of this. There were great accomplishments due to perseverance of the athletes since childhood.

But life happens and events unfold bringing setbacks and heartache, and then preservation usually sets in.

This year's Olympics held the audience interest with its unbelievable athletic prowess, creative expression and phenomenal speed and then gripped our hearts with personal stories.

The warm inviting village, home to athletes so far away from their own, served as shelter and protection from the elements. In truth it was not safe from what life gives and takes away.

A speed skater followed his coach's direction rather than his gut and he skated into the wrong lane and was disqualified.

This Olympian could almost touch the cool feel of gold.

He could have lashed out and fired his coach but instead thought about all the positive things in his life he shared with this man who cared for him, but was now shoulder bent from his own sadness realizing what he had done.

He forgave his mentor though he'll never forget the event.

We all watched with sadness and hope as the young female figure skater took to the ice only days after her mother's passing.

Even if you aren't spiritual you had to believe her mom was with her that night on the ice.

Determination, preservation, perseverance and compassion all rolled into one.

Blaming others for our misdeeds is natural and human but the plan may be to see how we handle the struggles we've been given and how we can inspire others by our own actions after the mishap. Once life is set in motion and events occur that set you back, it's important not to lay blame even if you've worked very hard for what you want to attain.

Allow for mistakes and setbacks in life, its part of our learning process while here on earth.

The polar opposite of athletic ability would be my sister's nasty fall which involved her stepping onto the freshly fallen snow that hid the nasty ice below it.

The downside; surgery is needed, she'll have to cancel her spring trip to Spain and the tango dancing lessons will be replaced with the moves of physical therapy.

In our family it is usually humor that gets us through the tough times.

In her choice of defeat or perseverance it was apparent she took the road of hopefulness.

I gave her my own words of encouragement leaving a voice mail telling her to back away from the double chocolate walnut fudge.

Although she grew up in the sixties I said I didn't think her doctor would write a script for medical marijuana any time soon.

Though for convenience sake a clinic recently opened up in her liberal town called Kalanazoo.

Winston Churchill said "When going through hell, keep going!" So whether it's searching for a job, finishing a dissertation, completing a quilt or the perseverance needed to parent — you can get through this.

As Toyota recalls its cars the company's founding son refuses to throw in the towel but will persevere to make a better product.

In karate there is a Japanese term that gets to the heart of the matter.

"Nin Tai"; it means to persevere, to continually try and never give up.

There are times when there are injuries that will take away your ability to perform but remain constant in the face of obstacle.

Good advice for all of us. Contact Gayle Gennett by e-mail at news@charlevoixcourier.com.

anyone to care.

Magicians make a living by fooling the audience, while ventriloquists filter bad jokes through large ugly dolls. You may know someone who does this sort of thing. You may even be one of them.

All I can say is "I'm sorry," but I am stunned that there is a sub-genre in the entertainment industry that encourages this behavior. I can think of nothing else touted as talent that is simultaneously so repugnant and tedious. And they are similarly disturbing. Like naming twins Casper and Poindexter, it is impossible to choose a winner.

I can't even calculate on how many levels ventriloquism offends me. The frozen smile and the undulating throat of the ventriloquist as they play straight man to the synthetic brat or doofus bumpkin is only part of it.

The strangled consonants muddling inane patter and the rigid, jaw-flapping, head-swiveling knee-candy demanding the spectator's approval are distasteful elements of the unforgivable whole. It is excruciating to watch what, to me, is the most embarrassing spectacle in show biz since Tiny Tim.

As for magicians - I hate to be fooled. The first time a grown-up wiggled their thumb at me from between bent fingers, and said, "Gotcher nose!" I screamed in outrage.

My mother thought I was frightened, but I remember the whole thing. I was furious.

The suspension of disbelief required of an audience to engage in this tomfoolery is mammoth.

I am capable and quite happy to suspend disbelief for important things like smoking statistics or praise, but to find a place within the confines of these exhibitions where my soul does not feel as though it is being shredded like carrion is exhausting.

Usually, during even the vilest display of entertainment, I can find something to distract me.

When Britney Spears huffs into her headset, I focus on the synchronized movements of her backup dancers. "Isn't that something?" I think to myself, loosing my imagination to contemplate the competitive and disciplined life of a hooper.

But with magic and dummies, there isn't much else to latch on to. Magic, at least, incorporates an assistant or two and props galore.

But whether the magician is pulling silk hankies out of a rabbit or levitating above the Statue of Liberty, the effect always boils down to an extravagant version of "Gotcher nose!"

I think that the reason I am so irrationally affronted by these gimcrack professions is that they negate and trivialize genuine magic and actual talking dolls.

Because magicians exist, they destroy the possibility that we might one day lift our arms and waft aloft. Because Jeff Dunham has a career, our own stuffed and painted toys of childhood remain mute.

Everybody has to do something. Look at what I get paid for. And I don't begrudge them making a living. I only question the cost.

By allowing these acts to thrive, are we settling for a pale and superfluous hoax in lieu of real achievement?

Are we are tethered to the ground by our complacent acceptance of artifice over the truly miraculous and diminished by our willingness to be so easily amused?

For young men contemplating a career in these arenas, I offer this warning: While a guitar has proven to be a reliable babe magnet, trickery makes a lot of girls nervous. We've all seen the movies and Tales From the Crypt episodes where madness and magic go hand-in-hand. And most women would rather be serenaded than sawn in half.

Do magicians and ventriloquists offer harmless diversion or are they, as I suspect, a sleight-of-hand spanking? I think the vote will be split along gender lines. I can't think of a single woman who has claimed either of these twin horrors as a legitimate occupation. Okay, Shari Lewis. But that was a long time ago. And Lamb Chop was real.

LETTERS to the editor

SUPPORT PETUNIAS

Editor:

I would like to make a few comments about the Petunia Project.

Last week it was stated in the Charlevoix Courier that I started Keep Charlevoix Beautiful.

The honors go to Bruce MacArthur, who was a new permanent resident in town.

He is the one who diligently pursued forming the group to beautify Charlevoix.

I attended the first meeting, and told the group that I had a lifetime dream of planting flowers from city limit to city limit.

After the meeting adjourned, Bruce asked Nancy Fowler if I was just kidding, or was serious. Nancy told him I was definitely serious, and as a result, the petunia project became a part of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's agenda.

Twenty eight years have passed, and with the help of all the wonderful people who live and vacation here, the petunias have become a great addition to the town.

The planting is going to be on Thursday May 27, which is always the last Thursday before Memorial Day.

Jo Vogelheim and my son, Bo, are now co-presidents of KCB, and I know they will do a great job.

I intend to keep watering the plants along the curbs as I have done for the past 28 years. I've never charged for watering the flowers.

It is my gift to the community.

I thank you in advance for your continued support. Any tax deductible contributions may be sent to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, P.O. Box 1, Charlevoix MI, 49720

UNWAVERING SUPPORT OF SEAT TIME WAIVER

Editor:

As a student 50 years ago, even as a high school English teacher a couple decades ago, I railed against our public school systems for not being more creative and flexible in the way they try to deliver an education to the children of this state.

According to research done by the Detroit Free Press, a quarter of Michigan students are failing to graduate on time and 15 percent of our student population will drop out altogether before June.

Any school district with that record is clearly a failure.

Fortunately, none of the school districts in Northern Michigan falls into that category; but we all fail to meet the needs of some of our kids some of the time, and failing to meet the needs of even one should be considered unacceptable.

Apparently, officials at Charlevoix's Northwest Academy, Sutton's Bay School District and the Traverse City Public Schools agree.

All three are early pioneers in the State of Michigan's Seat Time Waiver program, a pilot program designed and promoted by the Education Department of the State of Michigan.

The Seat Time Waiver program, waiving the rule that every student must actually be in the school classroom every day to be counted, takes advantage of computer technology and its unique ability to serve a small but very important segment of our public school population.

Northwest Academy started its Seat Time Waiver program, last year, with 16 students. This year, they are serving the needs of more than 40 students from all over Northern Michigan.

David and Susan Episcopo of Harbor Springs have twin sons in the program.

"One of the things I like best about the Seat Time Waiver program is that students are subjected to a great deal more structure than the typical home-schooled child in our community because Seat Time Waiver students are still considered a part of the public school system," explains Susan.

"They are held accountable. They enjoy the flexibility offered by learning at home, at their own pace; but they are held accountable to the public school through a certified teacher as mentor and a highly qualified teacher online."

Not all of the students in the program are in it because it allows them to move at a faster pace.

Last year, a Boyne City resident enrolled in Northwest Academy's Seat Time Waiver program because she has two children, could not afford daycare, but wanted to graduate from high school with her class.

This year, the Seat Time Waiver program is accommodating the special needs of a student who must spend much of her time in a local safe house in order to protect her child.

"We offer the program to any student who qualifies," explains Gary Stutzman, Northwest Academy's Director of Development. "We receive funding from the State of Michigan equal to what that student would demand were as a regular full-time student, and we use that support to provide a computer, all the necessary software, online access and a certified teacher as a mentor."

It's a very structured program but at the same time is flexible enough to meet the needs of each individual.

Our public schools are filled with bright, committed, dedicated professionals. Unfortunately, some of the archaic systems within which they work are among the most rigid our society has created. This particular program is currently under attack in some of them.

Personally, I am delighted to learn about the positive growth of the Seat Time Waiver program and of the wonderful examples of success offered by Northwest Academy in Charlevoix, the Sutton's Bay Schools and Traverse City Public Schools where, apparently, children still come first.

PETROL OUT OF CONTROL

Editor:

I have lived in the Charlevoix area for the last twenty seven years now and I understand that Charlevoix is a tourist town but, my question is:

Why is it that the price of gas per gallon in Petoskey is $2.67, East Jordan is $2.67 and in Ellsworth it is, are you ready for this: $2.64. Yes, $2.64.

And that was Feb. 3, and the price in Charlevoix was, and still is $2.75.

I know people that have ask why it is so much higher and they are told that it is because of the cost of the transportation. The farther that they have to go the more it cost.

Now, I'm no Harvard graduate, but I can figure it out that Charlevoix and Petoskey are both a lot farther than Ellsworth.

One of the announcers from one of the radio stations in Traverse City said that gas was $2.64 per gallon in Traverse City and asked the question: What did the people in Charlevoix do to deserve to have to pay $2.79 a gallon?

A very good question, and that was last week.

The price has only dropped down four cents.

What gives?

I understand that times are hard right now but what I don't understand is why the people who live here year-round and support all of these stations every day have to pay much higher prices than they do at one of those seven, 12 or 17 miles away.

The way that I was raised was to treat others the same way that you would want to be treated.

You don't bite the hand that feeds you.

Money is so hard to come by and that extra eight or 10 cents adds up real fast and does make a big difference in the long run.

COME TOGETHER FOR PUBLIC GOOD

Editor:

This letter is in response to the financial dispute between the City of Charlevoix and the Townships of Charlevoix, Eveline, Hayes, Marion and Norwood regarding fire/EMS services.

The Charlevoix City Council had initially proposed a significant increase in the annual fees each of the township would pay to share in the cost of Charlevoix's equipment and trained personnel to respond to fire or medical emergencies.

All the townships balked at the amounts of increase.

Subsequently, city and township officials met and discussed the details.

As I understand it some, if not all, of the townships are making inquiries of alternatives for fire response and/or EMS and the City of Charlevoix has Applications accepted for arts grants. The National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) is now accepting applications for several grant programs including Access to Artistic Excellence, Challenge America Fast-Track, and Learning in the Arts for Children and Youth. The goal of these grants is to expand access to the arts in underserved communities while providing leadership in arts education. "Northern Michigan is home to many skilled artists across a range of disciplines, including music, theatre and the visual arts," said U.S. Congressman Bart Stupak. "These grants are an opportunity to showcase this talent, increase access to the arts in our communities, and inspire the next generation of young artists."

OBITUARIES

Benjamin Wabanimkee: March 6, 1957 - Feb. 23, 2010

Benjamin Wabanimkee, Jr. 52, of Charlevoix, passed away at his home on Tuesday, Feb. 23.

He was born in Charlevoix on March 6, 1957, to Benjamin and Lena (James) Wabanimkee, and grew up in Pellston.

He graduated from Pellston High School in 1975, and attended Bay Mills Community College for four years.

He made his home in Boyne City before returning to Charlevoix in 2000.

Ben was a member of the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians and was employed by the Grand Traverse Band Tribal Center in Charlevoix.

Ben was a soft-spoken man who enjoyed a good cup of coffee shared with friends.

He is survived by his daughters, Samantha Shananaquet of Petoskey, and Brenda Wabanimkee of Hopkins; grandson, Travin Barkley Shananaquet; granddaughter, Miskomin Wesaw; mother, Lena Wabanimkee of Pellston; father, Benjamin Wabanimkee, Sr. of Florida; brother, Frank Wabanimkee of Pellston; sisters, Judi Wanegeshik of Pellston, Mona Wabanimkee of Petoskey, Kathy Wabanimkee, Dawn Zimmerman, Wanda Butkovich, and Gail Wabanimkee all of Traverse City; many nieces and nephews; friend, Kathy McCann of Charlevoix.

Ben's sister Terry Wabanimkee preceded him in death.

Funeral was 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 26, at Greensky Hill United Methodist Church in Charlevoix, with Paul Raphael officiating.

Visitation was from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday at Greensky Hill Church, and the Sacred Fire will burn at Ben's mother's Lena Wabanimkee's home in Pellston.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Wabanimkee family.

LETTERS to the editor

asked all the townships to respond by March 19 so the city can move ahead with a plan.

There's an old adage: "United we stand, divided we fall."

In this situation, I'd suggest it would be "divided we fall."

Although we have several political jurisdictions, in my opinion we are, in practice, a large community and for our personal and financial best interests it is vitally important for us to work together rather break apart.

In these hard economic times with all the units of government having tight budgets, it is vitally important to have effective and efficient public services.

To sustain that objective, I suggest that we need to retain the highly cross-trained city personnel who are trained in fire and EMS services and have staff on duty 24/7.

I suggest that readers check with their insurance agents to determine what premium change there would be in your home owners policy if your fire department service was changed.

As for medical emergencies, I have no idea of the quality of care and response time would be through private contractors, but I know from personal experience the excellent response time and quality of medical attention I received from Charlevoix EMS in a medical emergency I had a year and a half ago.

In closing, I would also suggest that concerned property owners attend your next township or city council meeting to learn more about the issue and to express your opinions.

MARCH IS RED CROSS MONTH

Editor:

With March proclaimed as Red Cross Month, The Northern Lower Michigan Chapter today would like to recognize and thank the supporters and volunteers whose efforts enable the Red Cross to respond to disasters down the street, across the country and around the world.

"The Red Cross works tirelessly to be there with help and hope when people need it most—and we are grateful for the public support that enables us to continue our work—here at home and abroad," said Lori O'Neill, Executive Director "Our community and our Red Cross depend on the Red Cross in times of need, and the Red Cross depends on the support of people in America to achieve its mission."

"During Red Cross Month, we want to recognize the valuable supporters whose generosity makes the work of the American Red Cross possible," O'Neill added. "In addition, Red Cross Month is a great time for people to get involved with the Red Cross, such as donating blood; signing up for a CPR, first aid or another Red Cross course; giving a financial gift that can really save the day when the next disaster strikes, or getting involved as a volunteer."

Many people in our community give of their time to support the mission of the American Red Cross. The woman who taught a babysitters training class or swimming lessons at the local pool, the man who donates blood regularly or helps at a blood drive, a volunteer willing to get up in the middle of the night to help a family who've watched their home burn, or to help a family contact a military member, the neighbor who can perform CPR or First Aid in an emergency. The American Red Cross touches the lives of thousands through its network of employees and volunteers.

*Lori O'Neill
Executive Director, American Red Cross*

Although major disasters such as earthquakes, hurricanes and wildfires capture national media headlines, the day-to-day work of the Red Cross takes place here in our communities. In the past year, in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet Counties, the Northern Lower Michigan Chapter responded to 32 home fires, assisted 99 military families and trained 4,381 people in lifesaving skills. And, people from this area donated 6,136 units of blood. We want to say thank you. None of these services would be possible without dedicated volunteers or the support of financial donors. For more information about our services or volunteer opportunities please call (231) 348-7666.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued the first Red Cross Month proclamation in 1943, recognizing the American Red Cross as a true reflection of the humanitarian and volunteer spirit and calling on Americans to "rededicate themselves to the splendid aims and activities of the Red Cross." Every president since that time has recognized the work of the Red Cross with a Red Cross Month.

School energy upgrades equal savings

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Janik

When you hear of people going green you may immediately picture environmentally friendly energy solutions.

For Charlevoix Public Schools, those energy upgrades have the added bonus of being green in the form of tax dollars saved.

"The target was to save $76,000 and we ended up saving $90,000," said

"The target was to save $76,000 and we ended up saving $90,000."

CHET JANIK,
SUPERINTENDENT OF CHARLEVOIX SCHOOLS

tilation units at the middle school and the elementary school

The overall cost of the upgrades was nearly a million dollars. And, at this pace, the upgrades will likely pay for themselves within approximately 11 years.

"This shows the board of education is being a good steward of the bond dollars, and as we and every district struggle in this economy, every dollar is critical," Janik said.

The overall savings came in two general categories:

— In the form of $25,988 in reduced electric usage at the elementary, middle and high schools.

— In the form of $64,647 in reduced natural gas usage at the elementary, middle and high schools.

Janik said the nearly $100,000 annual savings is equal to a teacher's salary and benefits, and various classroom supplies.

The reason for the $14,512 difference between the projected and actual savings was because the company providing the improvements guarantees a minimum dollar amount.

In this case they had guaranteed $76,000 in savings.

Trimesters to aid learning

"The new guidelines didn't allow any wiggle room if a student was struggling," explained Klinger.

"Under the semester system, a freshman that might fail English in 9th grade would have to make it up the next school year. But under the trimester system, they could take it again the next trimester and still be able to stay on track. They would just miss out on an elective."

Klinger also hopes the trimester schedule will eventually allow the district to offer fer ACT prep courses for all juniors.

"Teachers will have more time with the students. On a trimester, teachers will see students every day for 12 weeks. That means they pick up 6 extra class meeting periods with students than we had under the current schedule," said Klinger.

It's unknown what type of financial impact the switch to trimesters will have on the district. Klinger said the switch was made to benefit students and not for financial reasons.

Charlevoix isn't the first district in the area to switch to trimesters. Boyne City, Harbor Springs and Elk Rapids all work on trimester schedules.

Parents and students were recently presented research and information about the new system. Klinger says so far, reaction has been positive.

"It's going to be a learning process and it's not going to fix everything," admitted Klinger. "But we felt that in the long run, there were enough advantages and we knew we had to make a change from our currently block schedule."

Char-Em ISD head retires after 17 years

RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Eckhardt

After more than 17 years as head of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, Superintendent Mark Eckhardt has stepped down.

Eckhardt announced his retirement at a ISD Board of Education meeting in February.

His last day was March 1.

"With the capable support from the board, the ISD administration and all our staff, I know I am leaving the ISD in good hands," said Eckhardt, who added that he did not take the decision to retire lightly.

After 17 years with the district, Eckhardt looked back on some of the accomplishments he's most proud of.

"I am very proud of the opportunities and programs that Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District offers that benefit students now and into their future," said Eckhardt. "Our programs for students with a disability are superb and I'm proud that we offer 40 Career and Technical Education programs that more than 2,500 high schoolers attend."

Eckhardt also highlighted the ISD's alternative education programs, which allows about 300 students to get a diploma.

"It's also rewarding to know that Char-Em ISD has been a leader in the state in sharing services with local school districts and finding new and innovative ways to do business," explained Eckhardt. "Wherever I go throughout the state, people look at Char-Em ISD as a great example of what an intermediate school district should be doing."

In addition to the districts many accomplishments over his tenure, Eckhardt also praised his staff as some of the most caring and compassionate people he's worked with.

"They put the best interest of a child first in all decisions," said Eckhardt. "We have a culture that puts kids first."

Eckhardt's hard work and dedication received praise from teachers, school board members, and other area superintendents.

"I'll miss his leadership and advice," said Chet Janik, Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools. "He has always been available for me to bounce an idea off of and he's led a great staff at Char-Em ISD and together, they've helped us tremendously."

Boyer City Public Schools Superintendent Bob Alger praised Eckhardt's experience and vast knowledge. He said Eckhardt's willingness to reach out to local districts will be missed.

Eckhardt has worked as Char-Em ISD's superintendent since 1993. Before that, he was Superintendent of Mason County Eastern Schools. He also served as the Middle and High School Principal and Athletic Director at Bellaire Public Schools and as the Elementary Principal and Athletic Director at Kaleva Norman Dickson Schools. Eckhardt began his career at Manistee Catholic Central as a physical education and science teacher.

"It will be hard leaving the people I work with every day," said Eckhardt. "They are what makes our organization so great. I'll also miss working with the local school and staff because they do so many wonderful things for the kids."

The board named Deputy Superintendent Rick Diebold as Interim Superintendent while it considers options to fill the position.

lost millions of dollars in sales," Georgi said, referring to the time coverage of East Park's renovation.

He added that anything that might slow the Park Avenue street and parking lot project should be eliminated.

"If this project is not finished on time there will be a very serious outcry and possibly some legal action," he said.

Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel, addressing

"We are hopeful that it (demolition by controlled burn) will actually expedite the project."

KEITH CAREY,
DIRECTOR, CHARLEVOIX DDA

Georgi's concerns, said the Park Avenue street project was already half completed, with work having begun and ended in fall 2009.

Straebel added that the upcoming portion of the project is slated for completion before Memorial Day.

"We are hopeful that it (demolition by controlled burn) will actually expedite the project," said Carey.

He explained that by taking the building down sooner rather than later, it will offer construction crews more of a staging area to work on the street and parking area.

City councilman Brian

Vollmer said he would like to see as much of the house salvaged for reuse as possible.

The building must now undergo a mandatory asbestos investigation — a requirement regardless of the method of demolition.

Grooters had hoped to begin shooting the house fire scene on March 23, but the inspection and results from the State of Michigan may not be done until March 25.

A Year After Market Low, How Should You Invest?

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

It's been about a year since stock prices hit their low point during the long bear market. Since then, of course, we've seen a big rally, but some of the decisions you made when the market was at its lowest point may still be affecting your portfolio's performance and prospects. So now that we've reached the one-year anniversary of the market bottom, it's a good time to see where you are today and how you can prepare for tomorrow.

In looking back at the market depths of a year ago, it's important to note that we didn't get there overnight. In fact, stock indices had fallen about 50 percent since hitting their all-time high in October 2007, which means that investors had gone through a 16-month downturn. Consequently, it's not surprising that many people, tired of seeing gloomy investment statements month after month, decided to "play it safe" for a while by putting large sums into fixed-rate vehicles such as Certificates of Deposit (CDs). And a lot of those CDs had one-year maturities, which means they're now coming up for renewal.

When you bought your CDs a year ago, you probably did so for their ability to preserve your principal, but in the process, you made some trade-offs. First, you accepted a relatively meager income stream, because short-term interest rates, like those paid on your CDs, were low. And second, you relinquished the growth potential you might have gotten from other investments, such as stocks. So now that we're a year removed from the bottom of a bear market, can you use the money from your maturing CDs to help you make progress toward your financial goals?

Actually, now that you may have these maturing CDs coming due, it's a very good time to review your overall investment strategy, possibly with the help of a professional financial advisor. Take a close look at your portfolio. Is it well suited for your individual risk tolerance, time horizon and long-term objectives, or do you need to make some changes? Is it too aggressive for your needs, or too conservative? Is it properly diversified among investments suitable for your particular situation? While diversification, by itself, cannot guarantee profits or protect against loss, it can help reduce the effects of volatility and give you more chances for success. Keep in mind that while CDs are FDIC insured, other investments carry certain risks that you should understand before investing.

Of course, if you have investments held in a brokerage account, it's likely not your only portfolio — you may well be investing through your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan. If so, keep in mind that you probably don't want your investments to duplicate those inside your 401(k) account. Instead, look at your entire investment picture "holistically" and seek to diversify through all your accounts.

Once you've reviewed your portfolio and identified any possible gaps, you can then consider where the money from your maturing CDs can be used most effectively. You probably won't see any festivities marking the one-year anniversary of the market low. But you can celebrate in your own way — by embracing available investment opportunities.

Need a garage? Charlevoix High builders have you covered

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Students from the Career and Technical Education Programs from Charlevoix, Boyne City, Pellston and Petoskey will build a 24-foot by 24-foot garage for the highest bidder of a silent auction held at the Little Traverse Association of Home Builders (LTAHB) Annual Home Show which is being held March 13 and 14 at North Central Michigan College.

"This is the 10th year of the unique partnership between the Construction Technology program and the LTAHB," said Patti Gabos of Char-Em Intermediate School District.

The association helps in the collection of construction materials for the garage as well as conducting the silent auction.

"We are a local organization of builders and associates like plumbing contractors in Charlevoix, Emmet and Osego counties. The Garage Build project goes along with the Annual Home Show," said Carl Wager, LTAHB Garage Build Coordinator. "We've been supporting the Building Technology program in the schools for 10 years and have been able to give on average $5,000 a year back to the trade programs through this fundraiser."

The garage build not only benefits the school programs but the students benefit from it as well.

"I have a number of students who have benefited from this program who are in construction management throughout the country they have gone on to complete their college and gone on to oversee huge projects like prisons and train stations," said Brian Certia, Construction Technology Program instructor.

Participants have included Charlevoix High school senior Matthew Carey who participated in the Garage Build last year.

"I'm going to Northern for construction management. I've gained a lot of knowledge that will put me ahead when in college," he said. "It's also given me a second job all summer at Bay Joe's Building."

Hunter Johnston is a Charlevoix senior who plans to attend electrical school at Alpena Community College.

"This program has helped me out a lot, it's going to put me through college," Johnston said.

Last year the students were able to complete the garage in four days.

"We led off last year, we framed the walls and put up the two gable trusses," said Clayton Mitchell, a Charlevoix High senior.

The Charlevoix Construction Technology Program is a 4 year program. Students must be involved in the program for two years before being allowed to work outside on a house.

"The Garage Build is a great opportunity for students to work as a team with other districts," said Gabos.

Those interested in bidding can pick up the 2010 Garage Build Bid Sheet at the Garage Build Booth at the LTAHB Home Show.

"You meet so many more people in this program going to different schools," said Johnston.

Bids will be accepted from 10 a.m. Saturday, March 13 until 3:45 p.m. Sunday, March 14.

The minimum bid is $6,500 and a 10 percent deposit is required.

The winning bidder can have the garage constructed on site between April 15 and May 15.

To donate materials, contact Carl Wager at (231) 838-0220.

PGA Senior Championship coming to Charlevoix

Charlevoix will be home of the 2010 Michigan PGA Senior Championship this summer.

Loren Musilek, the on-site realtor for Prudential Preferred Properties Network at the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club, recently learned that his request to sponsor and locate the event at the club has been approved.

"This professional golf tournament will bring many first time visitors to the country club and to the Charlevoix area this summer. This is a great opportunity to showcase the Charlevoix Golf & Country Club, the community of Charlevoix, and all that our resort lifestyle has to offer," Musilek said.

The three-day event will kick-off Sunday, Aug. 1 with a pro-am event pairing PGA senior players with event sponsors and other amateurs for a round of 18 holes at the award-

Proceeds from this outing will benefit the Charlevoix Junior Golf Program.

The championship tournament will follow with 50-60 players anticipated to compete on Monday, Aug. 2 and Tuesday, Aug. 3. Spectators are welcome and there is no charge.

In March 2009 David Mocini, a 23-year member of the PGA and former Michigan

Section president, purchased the Charlevoix Golf and Country Club including the 18-hole golf course and 13,000 square foot clubhouse with associated restaurant, tennis courts and pool amenities, from the club's founders. He's taking time this winter to plan for the summer event.

About the Champ's tour

The Champions Tour, formerly called the Senior PGA Tour, has been labeled the most successful seniors sports venture in history.

Since starting out with just two cosponsored events and $250,000 in prize money in 1980, the Champions Tour has grown to more than 30 events. From www.pga.com.

Welcoming home a cancer survivor

COURTESY ELAINE WEST, NORTHERN ISLANDER NEWSPAPER

Beaver Islanders turned out in huge numbers to welcome home Emmalee Antkowiak, a 6 year old who successfully battled brain cancer and has been undergoing physical therapy at Mary Free Bed. When the Island Airways 4:30 flight landed on March 5, the little girl was greeted by friends, relations and carloads of well-wishers lining the roads back to town. Emmalee was diagnosed in November and underwent nearly 14 hours of grueling surgery at De Vos Children's Hospital. Islanders held prayer vigils, fund raisers and kept in close touch with Emmalee's parents, K. K. and Brian Antkowiak. Emmalee was transferred to Mary Free Bed early in December to begin her therapy. Pictured are Emmalee and her aunt Alice Belfy as they are reunited on the tarmac.

GM stays Fox Motors of Charlevoix will retain its franchise

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Assuming arbitration with the automaker giant was imminent, officials at Fox Motors of Charlevoix were surprised at the news they received last week.

Fox, along with nearly 650 other auto dealers nationwide were given a heads-up that they would not be losing their franchises in October as General Motors had originally announced last year.

But, for Fox Motors, this significant change was a relief.

"We got the call at about 4:30 p.m. Friday (March 5) afternoon," said Fox Motors Charlevoix general manager Rick Summers. "We were certainly shocked at how fast this occurred, but we were pleased as well."

The fate of the remaining 850 dealerships nationwide who were appealing the decision to have their franchise removed remains unknown.

nals a sigh of relief.

"We've been banging them with letters from the community saying how important we are to the community," Summers said. "It has been very heartwarming the e-mails and letters and comments and I really think they made a big difference."

Summers said Fox Motors will be required to meet certain criteria such as sales figures, but added that that is something they have already been doing.

"We want to continue to be Charlevoix's GM dealer and I personally want to thank everybody who went out and supported us. I think it really swayed General Motors," he said. "I just cannot say enough how much we appreciate it."

Fox Motors is expecting official confirmation in the form of a letter from General Motors by Wednesday March 10.

Officials urge census participation

Results affect medicine, roads and representation

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

The results of the 2010 U.S. Census will play a major role in how $400 billion in federal funding will be divided to communities nationwide.

Government officials far and near are also stressing the importance the census numbers could play in political representation.

"Both the Senate and the House are chosen based on population which puts us in the north at a numerical disadvantage," said Norwood Township resident and 105th Michigan House of Representatives candidate Tim Boyko. "We don't want to lose a congressman as that would affect Michigan's clout in Washington, D.C."

More than 130 million households nationwide will begin receiving their U.S. Census Bureau forms in mid-March.

"We're really trying to get the word out on this," said Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel. "We have put reminders on utility bills going out and it's extremely important at this time in the City of Charlevoix's history to stand up and be counted. It influences future funding in a pivotal time economically."

The city routinely seeks hundreds of thousands of dollars in grants for sewer and street projects, and major developments such as the proposed municipal airport renovation and upgrade.

"If there are any questions regarding the census process, please don't hesitate to call city hall to talk with myself or any other staff member," Straebel said.

The 10-question forms ask for information such as how many people live or stay in your home as of April 1, what is the age and sex of household members, and what race you are.

Other questions, with a brief explanation of why it is being asked, include:

• Is this house, apartment or mobile home: owned with mortgage, owned without mortgage, rented, occupied without rent?

Homeownership rates serve as an indicator of the nation's economy and aid in administering housing programs, and to inform planning decisions.

• What is your telephone number?

In case there is incomplete or missing information on your form.

In addition to education and infrastructure, the health of the community can be directly affected by an accurate accounting of its residents.

"Certainly when we look for federal grants they consider our population and other economic

Republican files for the House of Representatives

Tim Boyko, Republican Candidate for Michigan House of Representatives 105th District filed his final document to place his name on the August 3rd, 2010 primary ballot.

"With all the election law issues that can take a candidate's focus off their job, I felt it was prudent to finalize my paperwork now rather than later." Honorary Campaign, Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater (Ret.) reported that the "Friends of Tim Boyko" campaign committee did file a 2009 year end annual report which put him clearly ahead with the most cash on hand of any of the candidates.

Tim is already campaigning in the district that covers all of Antrim, Charlevoix, Otsego and all but two Townships in Cheboygan.

"The most direct path to winning the election is to get out and meet the people in the district, there is no substitute for this hard work," Boyko said. "As the former owner-operator of a small business in Northern Michigan, I am aware that we face the biggest challenge in many generations. With a family leaving Michigan every 12 minutes it looks bleak. I entered the work force while I was still in college and my years of experience gives me confidence that with common sense ideas, hard work and proper leadership, Michigan's economy can turn around."

In 2009, Tim was elected to a two year term as the Chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

Tim has served as Chairman of the Charlevoix County Road Commissioner, he was elected to three terms as Supervisor for Hayes Township and was appointed to serve a partial term as Supervisor in Norwood Township. Tim and his wife of 32 years, Sue, have a son serving in the US Navy and a daughter in her senior year at Charlevoix High School. Interested voters can follow his campaign on his online journal www.timboyko.org.

Strong-arm robbery at Charlevoix Kmart arraignment scheduled todayBENJAMIN GOHS EDITOR

What began with a purse-snatching at Kmart in Charlevoix ended with a cross-town chase.

Now, 19-year-old Codey Alan Sisson of Boyne Falls has been charged with one count of unarmed robbery, one count of resisting and obstructing an officer and his sister Ashley Wise remained at large until Monday evening, March 8, when she was apprehended and now faces one count of conspiracy to commit unarmed robbery.

Charlevoix County Under-sheriff, in his affidavit of probable cause, stated that at approximately 3 p.m. on Sunday March 7, sheriff deputies were called to Kmart in Charlevoix Township at 6600 M66 North.

"Officers responded to the area of the cemetery near Stover road and M-66 to locate an individual who was reported as stealing a woman's purse outside Kmart in the parking lot; That persons in the parking lot saw the individual running away from the victim with a purse and called 911 and gave a description of the individual," Vondra stated. "The victim, Phyllis Hudack ... stated she was walking from Family Farm & Home towards the front entrance to Kmart when a man shoved her to the ground and stole her purse; (and) that Hudack sustained a broken hip in the altercation and needs surgery to place pins in her hip."

The victim, 68, is from Central Lake.

The subject was then spotted running behind a home on Stover Street.

Deputies were, "in full uniform and were yelling at the suspect to 'stop' but the suspect kept running and actually ran between two marked patrol cars," Vondra stated.

Police caught up with and arrested Sisson at 204 Ross Lane. When police searched Sisson, they found $320 in cash which they believe he removed from the victim's purse.

According to police, Sisson said he and his sister, Wise, planned to steal the purse and use the cash for drugs.

"Sisson stated that the plan with Wise was that Wise was to drop off at Kmart and wait in the cemetery across the street for him after he stole a purse," stated Sheriff Deputy Todd Reeves in his affidavit of probable cause.

Unarmed robbery and conspiracy to commit unarmed robbery carry a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison and is a felony. Resisting and obstructing an officer is a two-year maximum prison sentence.

Gardening like politics?

I have just mailed off the order for most of this year's garden seeds.

I am beginning to think of the process as like that of the fall political elections.

Consider the similarities. The catalogs promise so much with clever ads and attractive photos.

You buy the seeds with the hope that someone has sorted them correctly, and that you will get exactly what you pay for.

Some of the seeds (candidates) are old friends, like incumbees.

Ordering the Detroit Dark Red variety of beet seeds again is sort of like voting for Bart Stupak.

And at least a few of the seeds or candidates each year are ones about which you know very little except for the catalog

EAR TO THE GROUND
Roger Knutson

hype and the claims of potential greatness.

And as with political candidates, some will fulfill their promise and some will be bitter disappointments.

There is one more thing about the garden seeds that is like the political candidates.

It is probably not a good idea to throw all the old ones out, as some of the tea party people suggest.

In the garden, as in my elected politicians, something known, however imperfect, is often preferable to something completely new and totally unknown except for the colorful packaging and carefully arranged ads.

A few of the new varieties among both garden seeds and politicians will seem to thrive at first, but will then fail to produce the fruit or vegetable or political outcome promised by the colorful campaign catalogs.

Maybe the most important thing I learn from each year's garden which might be applied to politicians seeking my vote is that patience is a requirement.

No matter how much you have speeded up your broadband Internet connection, plants still grow at their own pace.

They will not be hurried. It is a worthwhile garden truth and possibly a political truth as well.

Even the most promising, best prepared, finest strain of plant or politician will require some amount of time before it can bear fruit, or accomplish much.

Finally, it is a good idea to be just a bit wary of promises made when something is being sold.

You don't necessarily get what is promised along with the product.

Maybe if we all selected seeds, grew a garden and enjoyed some of its products, we could better appreciate the relationship of promises to successful action.

Maybe we would better choose candidates. Gardening could save the country. I promise.

LETTERS to the editor

FIVE YEARS OF ENVIRONMENTAL WORK AND PROGRESS

Editor:
Today marks the five year anniversary of CMS Land Company agreeing to address environmental issues associated with a former Brownfield site that was transformed into Resort Township's East Park and the Bay Harbor development and golf course.

In February 2005, CMS Land signed an Administrative Order on Consent (AOC) with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). In the AOC, CMS agreed to address environmental concerns associated with water coming in contact with cement piles that had been abandoned on the site of the former cement factory.

CMS signed the AOC despite the fact that the company had signed a legally binding agreement with the State of Michigan in 1994 to redevelop the site as a Brownfield, meaning as long as CMS Land met the conditions of the agreement, it would not be legally liable for the sites pre-existing environmental conditions. The former owner had ceased cement manufacturing decades earlier, and the site had ultimately been abandoned. The cement piles had been left unprotected from the wind, rain and snow and the environmental blight was evident for all to see.

Beginning in 1994 the site was cleared and the cement piles were consolidated, capped and transformed into Resort Township's East Park and the Bay Harbor Resort. This development alone significantly improved the environmental landscape and won several awards for transforming a Brownfield site into a resort and golf course that draws visitors from around the world. The Inn at Bay Harbor and the Bay Harbor Golf Course were recently awarded a Gold Medal by GOLF Magazine, the only Michigan resort to earn such an honor.

Just as the original development was a massive undertaking and resulted in dramatic improvements, work over the past five years has also been extensive and resulted in additional environmental protection.

Fate of house bittersweet

EDITORIAL

OK, so perhaps everyone in the city may not be overcome with joy at the planned fiery demise of the house at 108 Park Ave., but so much good can come from its imminent destruction.

First let's set the record straight for any newbies to this story: The property and house were purchased by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority in the mid-1990s, with the expressed purpose of someday developing it for parking.

Now, not only will the burning of the building allow area fire departments to hone their skills by keeping the blaze under control, but Grotters Productions will be able to spend more time in the area shooting their new movie "The Frontier Boys."

Last but not least, burning instead of smashing the house down will save several thousands of taxpayer dollars. Kudos to Keith Carey and the DDA for following through with their original plan to provide additional parking with an emphasis on aesthetics and the environment.

We also must commend the City of Charlevoix for putting some of their parking funds to such a good use in supporting this plan.

That being said, we can certainly understand the folks who had hoped to see the house preserved for its role in early Charlevoix history.

And, in light of the building's fate, we thought it only fair to highlight the history of this unique structure.

The house was built as an act of charity for widow Lennie Beers Ingalls in 1870, by a ship-builder named Ben Campbell.

The Campbell house is the fourth oldest structure in Charlevoix and it sits across the street from the oldest standing structure in Charlevoix.

There lies, in Brookside Cemetery, a four-sided, bronze monument in remembrance of Ingalls' first husband, their son, her father and a daughter she had with Campbell.

It is true that the house will soon disappear from sight, but the memories of the significant structure will live on in film and the work of Charlevoix's history books thanks to efforts of amateur historians such as Rachel Wright, who provided the research necessary to write the historical portion of this editorial.

tions. While the time and cost associated with the current remediation efforts have been substantially more than anticipated, the amount of work completed and progress made has been impressive.

Below are key accomplishments and work completed over the past five years.

More than 3,000 feet of collection lines have been installed along the lake shore to intercept water before it makes its way to the lake. This is in addition to the original 1,200 foot-long water collection line that was installed in 1997.

Almost four miles of force main has been installed below ground to move the collected water from the beach to water treatment facilities located along U.S. 31.

More than four miles of fiber optics have been installed to control the movement and flow of water from the beach to the treatment facilities.

More than 60,000 square yards of water proof liner, the equivalent of more than nine football fields, was installed over East Park to minimize water infiltration into the cement pile upon which the park was built.

More than 26,000 pounds of material was either removed or brought in to address environmental conditions in Village Harbor. About 300 truck loads of waste and rebuilding material either left or entered the site during this effort.

More than 150 monitoring wells and screens have been installed along the beach to measure the effectiveness of the installed collection lines and track mercury levels.

Almost 350 other types of bores and probes have been punched into the two locations to determine the footprint, depth and characteristics of the cement piles and to develop a groundwater flow model to help determine how water moves through the cement dust piles.

Almost 7,000 individual readings have been taken along the shoreline to initially identify the location of any elevated pH levels and more recently to determine the effectiveness of the collection lines.

Almost 17,000 truck loads of water have left the site to deliver water to licensed water disposal sites.

The trucks have been driven almost 2 million miles to dispose of the water in accordance with law. That is equivalent to eight trips to the moon or 78 trips around the world.

"This is perhaps the most studied site in Northern Michigan," says Gary Kelterborn, director of environmental services for CMS Land. "I have been involved in site remediation with CMS or Consumers Energy for the past 16 years and this is by far the most intensive study of a site I have ever witnessed. In many cases we have gone far above and beyond what is and has been required at other sites."

The company has raised the amount of money it has reserved to address the environmental issues four times to the current amount of $178,000,000 of which $100,000,000 has been spent to date. The EPA has indicated that if CMS did not agree to address the situation they likely would have had to search for Potentially Responsible Parties (PRPs) in order to secure financial resources to address the environmental issues. PRPs could have included any group, organization or municipality ever involved in the site.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality had no mechanism in place to seek remediation costs.

"I am proud of our company for stepping up and making the commitment to address the environmental concerns rather than litigate the issue and try to avoid any cost," said David Mengelber, CMS Land president. "We have made a tremendous financial investment in installing remedies that have proven to be very effective. We do not, however, have unlimited resources to spend on increasingly diminishing returns. It is imperative that a local water disposal option is agreed upon and approved and the project is brought to closure in the near future."

Environmental improvement resulting from the installed remedies is apparent and measurable. Public health and safety concerns basically have been eliminated as the alkalinity readings across the vast majority of the site are predominantly below the standard of 9 pH. It is estimated that when the installation of all proposed remedies is complete, mercury that is making its way to the lake across the five miles of shoreline will be reduced by about 80 percent to approximately 10 grams over the course of an entire year. That's about equal to the weight of two nickels. Importantly, these environmental protections have been accomplished without devastating Bay Harbor, a $1 billion Northern Michigan asset.

"This site has come a long way from its development in 1994 to its environmental clean up beginning in 2005 to today," says Mengelber. "From its inception in 1994 and with the additional environmental protections we have installed, the Bay Harbor development and East Park qualify as Brownfield redevelopment success stories. The sites have been returned to production use, draw visitors from around the world, and continue as important economic contributors across Northern Michigan."

East Park and Bay Harbor were reclaimed from the site of an abandoned limestone quarry and cement plant site covering 1,200 acres, including five miles of Lake Michigan shoreline. The Brownfield site was redeveloped in 1994 and was the largest reclamation project in North America.

While no longer a partner in the project that redeveloped the site, CMS Land agreed to address certain environmental issues associated with the cement kiln dust left behind by the cement plant. CMS Land has worked for five years and spent more than $90 million on the Little Traverse Bay Environmental Project to date and has achieved significant environmental progress in the protection of Little Traverse Bay.

PETUNIAS

Editor:

As a long time summer resident of Charlevoix, I want to respond to the dilemma the city is facing concerning its threatened petunia budget for this summer and beyond. As much as I realize property taxes are higher for summer residents, I feel it is important for them to contribute to the cost of making "Charlevoix the Beautiful" as special as it is. The flowers that welcome all into town don't just magically appear; they are, instead, the fruits of hard labor, stretched funds and big hearts.

I am aware of the budget cuts and concerns that hover over the upcoming planting season. It is a frustrating reality since Charlevoix is a community that prides itself in tradition. It, therefore, saddens me to know that the gracious gift of Charlevoix's floral extravaganza is in jeopardy.

I was clueless about the petunia dilemma until I read about it in last week's Courier (Feb. 24, 2010). Had I not seen the article concerning the petunias, I would have remained naive as to how Charlevoix affords to adorn their streets with such welcoming blooms!

I truly feel that summer residents need to come to the plate and help pad the budget for Charlevoix's petunia tradition. However, not all of us receive the Courier throughout the year, so it would well serve Charlevoix to circulate a letter to summer residents, (track them down early), requesting donations to help absorb the costs of the flowers and upkeep. What better way for us "Fudgies" to show gratitude to our home away from home?

Thank you, Charlevoix for your humble grace, determination and warm spirit. Let the summer community do its part to help with the load; we all have a beautiful Charlevoix to love!

Ragamuffins take hope south

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Youth struggling with drugs, suicide, pregnancy, violent crime and broken homes are everywhere.

And reaching out to those kids in need is a priority for one local entertainer and her pupils.

"Several years ago the Traverse City House of Hope asked us to be part of a fundraising dinner where we met the director, a retired teacher who saw a need and began this, now, national outreach," said Kathleen Whittaker, founder/director of the Ragamuffin Theatre & Company. "We were very impressed with the whole concept and her success record with these residential treatment centers which incorporate the entire family in the healing process."

Kathleen and her husband, Tyvin, will be leading the March 14 trip with their daughter, 15-year-old Bethany Whittaker, and several other Ragamuffin performers to the National House of Hope headquarters in Florida.

"This trip is all about reaching out to kids who maybe haven't had the benefits that I've had in life. For one reason or another, they've ended up at House of Hope surrounded by people who love and care about them," said Bethany, a Charlevoix High School sophomore. "We get to be a part of their healing by encouraging them to dream, risk and imagine again."

The theater group will eat, live and work with the residents of the center over six days.

"It's scary at first because they can seem so hardened," said Bethany, who has gone on several trips to the center with her mother. "But, by the end of the week they are singing, acting and dancing."

Charlevoix High School senior Chelsey Haske, 18, said going to the House of Hope is a blessing.

"My life was truly touched and inspired after my first two trips, and I'm thrilled to have the opportunity to reach out and to learn again this year," she said.

Kathleen said the trip is not merely a vacation for the girls involved.

"This is a real sacrifice. They must contribute their own money and make a commitment to live on campus and eat the same food and live in the same campus as the kids who live in the house," she said.

Charlevoix High School freshman Haley Herzog, 14, will be working at House of Hope for the first time.

"I am very excited for the new encounters I will be faced with," she said. "I am honored to have this opportunity to mature and grow."

Kathleen said the encounters with the at-risk kids have been life changing.

"A lot of these kids have never had exposure to arts or maybe they ran in some bad crowds where they didn't feel like they could get involved artistically or express themselves," she said. "There was this one young man who tried to kill himself five times before his mom got him into House of Hope and this 17-year-old felt he had no value in life."

Kathleen said after a few days of working with the teen, he discovered that he had a major talent.

"He had never sung before and didn't know he could sing, but by the time we left he had three solos and his perspective completely changed," she said. "For months after that they reported back to us how his life had gone from night to day."

Beyond working with the kids in song and dance, Kathleen said there is time to make real connections.

"We get a chance to hang out with them in their rooms and talk with them," she said. "I think life is filled with defining moments and sometimes we won't see or hear the fruit of our actions, but fortunately we have been able to see transformations and so many breakthroughs that happen internally and externally."

Charlevoix High School freshman Carly Thompson, 14, will soon get her first chance to work with these kids.

"I'm very excited for the opportunity to bring joy to some kids who are going through a hard time and I'm expecting to not only change them, but be changed myself," she said.

Kathleen's group will leave

Charlevoix on March 14.

OBITUARIES

John Robertson Stewart: Died Feb. 28, 2010

John Robertson Stewart, 49 of Saginaw, MI, died at his home, Sunday evening Feb. 28, 2010, following a long illness. John is survived by his mother, Victoria Stewart of

Lansing, his father and step-mother, Bill & Betsy Stewart of Charlevoix, sisters, Anne (Claude) Sirlin & Mary, brother Keith, aunts & uncles Mary (Ken) Zacks & Connie

(Jim) Pim, nieces, nephew and numerous cousins. A Memorial Service, honoring John's life, will be held in July on Sugar Island (Sault Ste. Marie), where John, and his family, always found relaxation and renewal. Memorial Donations may be sent to The Salvation Army or to the charity of your choice.

Charles Perrin Willis: May 29, 1921 – Feb. 23, 2010

Charles Perrin Willis, beloved husband, father and grandfather answered the mystic call of eternity. Charlie graduated from Princeton University in 1944, where he was a history major, took meals at the Cottage Club and was recognized as an outstanding athlete on the football and baseball fields.

He was one of the first of his classmates to enlist in the Marine Corps to defend his country in World War II.

Following boot camp he was placed in officer in training and sent to the South Pacific.

He was a valiant survivor of the battle of Iwo Jima — injured while leading his platoon up the base of the now famous Mount Surabachi.

He was honorably discharged as a Marine Corps Captain.

Charlie's business career was with Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Fiberglass Division, as a District Manager in Cincinnati, Houston, Phoenix and Pittsburgh.

Following his retirement from PPG, he was a regular volunteer at Beechwood Audubon Society of Western Pennsylvania.

He followed current events of politics and sports and enjoyed listening to music.

Charlie spent 54 summers in Charlevoix where he continued his daily walks in rain or shine.

He also enjoyed swimming in Lake Michigan and Lake

Charlevoix.

Along with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hull and Ruth Ramsey Willis, Charlie co-founded DUNE, a land preservation effort that saved 27 acres, including 2,800 feet of Lake Michigan shoreline, sand dunes, wetlands and top forest.

Through their leadership this project was supported by the Little Traverse Conservancy and decided to Charlevoix Township as a public nature preserve.

Preceding him in death are his beloved parents, Arthur Livingston Willis and Ruth Bulard Willis and his older brother Arthur Livingston Willis, Jr. Charlie joins those he loved and awaits those he loves in burial at Wappinger Falls Cemetery in New York.

Charlie is survived by his devoted wife, Ruth Ramsey Willis, their children, David Ramsey Willis and Laura Bulard Willis, his daughter-in-law Angela Schramek Willis and his grandchildren Charles Schramek Willis and Oliver Manning Willis.

A private family remembrance of his life will be held in Charlevoix in July.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to the Little Traverse Conservancy Northem Michigan Land Trust or the Veterans Administration Hospital of Western Pennsylvania.

Shakespeare, revamped

"Shrew!" takes a classic and brings it to the '80s

MAGGIE PETERSON
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

Charlevoix High School students aren't only performing "Shrew!" this weekend.

They also wrote it. Taking William Shakespeare's classic "Taming of the Shrew," students in Danielle Wager's performing arts class re-scripted the classic and set it in 1980s New York City.

Senior Michael Lamoreaux plays the part of Tony, the best friend of Loui Bentevelli, who falls in love with Bianca Minola. Bianca is off limits to potential suitors until a marriage is made with her older sister, the shrew Kate.

Michael said the students knew their roles before reworking the classic, and it helped when writing the lines.

"It's different because it's a script that we adapted ourselves... We've got a lot more creativity with our parts," he noted.

Added senior Caitly Bryant, "It makes it more personal because we're reading our lines versus someone else's words... It made it more comfortable speaking than language we didn't really understand."

Caitly plays the part of Loui's mom, Luanne Bentevelli, a woman with a very upright personality. She noted that she gets into character by giving herself a lot of compliments, as her character doesn't suffer from ego problems.

"I have to carry myself like I'm very important," she said. A bit on the other side of the spectrum is Fishmother, played by senior Cory Meyer — "the man behind the dress."

"They needed a guy to go on stage in front of a large group of people, be in a dress and screech like a cat. And I was willing to do that," he said of landing the role. "I bring the slapstick comedy to the table. When I'm on stage everything sort of erupts into chaos."

The script and comedic aspect isn't the only newer thing in "Shrew!" Junior Andrew Scholcy is on the tech crew, and said the set of the play is the largest scale of any he's worked on. "(Some walls are) about 18-feet tall, and we haven't done anything that tall before," he noted.

Adding into the challenge was covering these walls with wallpaper, which involved a ladder, staples and a lift.

"I think it's going to be really well done this year. All the aspects this year have been coming out really nice... I'm really excited to have it done and watch it go. I'm excited for it to move and all come together. That'll bring me satisfaction," Andrew noted.

Senior Tricia Reibel is the stage manager, a position new to the productions this year. Her role is to coordinate everything behind the scenes.

"I like the whole theater aspect, but I don't like getting up on stage myself... ('Shrew!') seems like it's more fun partly because it's the '80s, and also this show is a lot more about improv and wackiness, so naturally it's going to be a lot more spontaneous," she noted.

Charlevoix High School presents "Shrew!" 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 12-13, and 2 p.m. Sunday, March 14, at the high school auditorium. Tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for students and children.

Reflections on their last musical:

There four Charlevoix seniors taking the stage with "Shrew!", and each shared their thoughts on their final production:

"I'm usually with tech, so this is my first time this year on stage. It's a good way to finish." — Michael Lamoreaux, four years of performing arts
"I'm sure the last Sunday after (the play) I'll be so sad because it's my last show... I'm at the school half of my day because of performing arts. I love it." — Sarah Green, four years of performing arts

"I'm going to miss it a lot, and it's kind of scary because I don't know what I'm going to do in college, and knowing how much I'm going to miss it makes me want to push to do theater." — Caitly Bryant, four years of performing arts

"I'm trying to give it my all, go out with a bang. In my opinion, it's the only way to go out." — Cory Meyer, two years of performing arts

Revitalizing Charlevoix's urban areas

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

A federal grant program could improve the infrastructure and aesthetics of a section of Clinton Street.

According to Charlevoix City Manager Rob Straebel, if approved, the $100,000 Urban Revitalization Grant would help fund street, sewer and beautification efforts between Bridge and State streets.

"Improvements would include upsizing a water line four to eight inches, installing new curb and gutter, road resurfacing and incorporating some new catch basins for storm water management," Straebel said. "This would also include some beautification efforts including 12 new deciduous shade trees along Clinton Street and new landscaping and entrance signage to the parking lot off Clinton Street."

The total project costs are estimated at $219,000 with the city expected to pay $119,000.

"If you break that down, the city would be contributing 54 percent of the project cost and the grant would be about 46 percent," Straebel said. "From my estimation this project has good balance in investing in future infrastructure within the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) District and also some environmental sustainability through better stormwater management which will help us preserve and protect the high water quality we enjoy in Round Lake, Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix."

A good filtration system, Straebel said, is needed for the water which runs off roads and into the lakes because it picks up gasoline, oil, transmission fluid and other contaminants as rain hits the city's roads and flows into the drainage system.

The total grants available for the Urban Revitalization Project for this year are $400,000.

And, while Straebel said competition will be great for the money available, he believes the city has a strong application.

"I think with the declining tax revenues this year and in the foreseeable future, staff is going to do all we can to secure grants to make sure we keep up with an aging infrastructure and maintain high levels of public services within the community," he said. "I think that is a valid concern on why we are spending limited tax dollars on this project. We're basically leveraging monies and every dollar we invest we get a dollar back in grants." Straebel said fixing broken infrastructure is exponentially more expensive and time consuming than maintaining a working system. "This project is consistent with DDA studies and documents spelling out what improvements should be completed within our downtown area," he said. "I think it's especially important to continue to make improvements in our downtown community even in these difficult times."

Straebel was careful to point out that this project would most likely only go forward if the city is awarded the $100,000 grant.

The city's financial portion of the project would come from its $120,000 parking fund and an as-of-yet undetermined amount of money from the county road millage.

"We are anticipating those monies to be coming in any time now, but we have no idea what we're going to get from the county," Straebel said.

While no timeline has been set, if the grant is awarded to Charlevoix construction could be scheduled for summer 2011.

COA conducts community forum

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging Advisory Board is conducting a series of community forums to increase public awareness and identify potential trends affecting senior citizens in Charlevoix County.

The Board, along with the Commission on Aging Department, will conduct the first mainland forum at 10:30 AM on Monday, March 15, 2010, at the Charlevoix High School Performing Arts Center.

During this forum, the Board will be seeking information specifically on the following topics:

- Management of chronic disease and continuum of care issues among the elderly
- Fall prevention and injury avoidance
- Community-based aging-in-place initiatives
- Prevention efforts to minimize elder exploitation
- Physical and mental wellness and healthy lifestyle

The forum is one of several outreach efforts undertaken in conjunction with the Board's recent bylaws revision. The new bylaws clarified and refocused the Board's role as an advocate for county seniors and advisor to County Commissioners in meeting senior needs. Providing linkage with the community and fostering awareness among public and private agencies that serve seniors is an important aspect of this role.

The Board sees these community forums as an opportunity for the agencies to learn what others are doing and to hear from members of the public what the current and emerging senior needs might be.

The Board also anticipates a further strengthening of relationships among the entities, public and private, that will promote the collective effectiveness of senior services in Charlevoix County.

Details are still being finalized for community meetings on April 19 in East Jordan, April 26 in Waukegan Lake or Boyne Falls and May 17 in Boyne City.

A community forum was conducted on Beaver Island last fall.

For more information on the COA Advisory Board or the services provided by the COA Department, call 237-0103 or visit the commission's Web site at www.charlevoixcounty.org/coa.asp.

Looking for a new job? Help is here

RACHEL BROUGHAM SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

With Michigan's current unemployment rate hovering close to 15 percent, the Charlevoix Public Library will offer a new series of seminars aimed to help job seekers.

The three seminars entitled, "The New Job Search," will kick off on March 18 and focus on the Internet and how it has become one of the most effective tools in the search for employment.

"We just felt like we wanted to do something to help people who have fallen on bad economic times in our area," said Charlevoix Public Library Director Val Meyerson. "These seminars will really help people gain some new tools to help in their employment search."

Kathy Ackerman will lead the first two seminars. Ackerman has years of experience as owner and trainer of "10 till 2 Mid Michigan: A Placement Service." The first two seminars will focus on online job search sites and how social media sites can provide valuable networking opportunities.

To wrap up the series, Meyerson, will focus on the application process, interviews, and follow-up procedures. Meyerson will give tips and pointers on presentation, professionalism, and etiquette – the tools that will be sure to help employers remember and hire you.

Michigan Works!, an association that offers tools for those seeking employment, is using social media Web sites to help Michigan residents in their job search.

Malorie Kersten, the Public Relations Manager for Michigan Works!, believes the Internet is one of the best job search tools out there for people of all ages. Michigan Works! currently maintains profiles on Twitter and Facebook.

"So many people have become engaged in social media Web sites," said Kersten. "We felt that we needed to reach out any way we could."

Michigan Works! uses the sites to promote job fairs, business news, and even offers some job leads.

"It's proving to be a success," said Kersten. "We have about 80 new followers a month on Twitter, and our community on Facebook continues to grow."

"These seminars will be timely because right now many people in our area may not have computers at home, or a lot of people looking for work may not be up on new techniques," explained Meyerson. "Almost everything is done online these days, and we felt this would be a great opportunity to help the community."

"The New Job Search" seminars will kick off at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 18 and will continue each Thursday evening through April 1.

The seminars are free. For more information and to register, contact the Charlevoix Public Library at 237-7340.

Educators working to increase literacy

RACHEL BROUGHAM SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

According to the Michigan Literacy Organization, 14-percent of adults in Charlevoix County have a Level 1 literacy rate. That is less than 5th grade reading and comprehension skills.

Studies also show that children take after their parents when it comes to reading skills.

March is National Reading Month and area schools have a number of programs to get students excited about reading. Teachers also hope to use the month to show students that reading can be fun for all ages.

Students at Charlevoix Elementary will take part in a program entitled, "Rocket Into Reading – Read Through the Galaxy."

"The month will kick off with a pep assembly to get kids excited," said 1st grade teacher, Adam Wood.

The goal is to have students start by reading 5 days in a row for 20 minutes each day. If they reach 100 minutes, they will be able to color a picture that will be hung in the hallway.

"Students will try to get the pictures of the rockets to go all around the school," said Wood. "The final goal is to have the whole school read a combined total of 115,500 minutes."

Keisha Verseyer, principal at St. Mary's, says her school has events going on all month for the students.

She couldn't comment on the nature of the events, since many will be a surprise to students.

At Northwest Academy, students in 7th-12th grade will take part in the Battle of the Books. Teams of four will read from a list of books and the winning team will win day passes to Avalanche Bay.

"The whole school will also participate in Drop Everything and Read throughout the month of March," said Phoebe Gohs, an elementary teacher at Northwest Academy. "At different times throughout the day, when it is announced, all students and staff will drop what they are doing and read for 10 minutes."

Many teachers agree that teaching this generation of students how to read is harder than it was 20 years ago.

"I think there is more expected these days," said Wood. "The standards have risen over the years which is a great thing and it has shown on our test scores. But students are also spending a lot of time on their computers and with video games. It pulls them away from the time they could spend with a book."

Audrey Shapiro, Youth Services Supervisor at Charlevoix Public Library, says reading to children should start when they are still in the womb. "Babies learn about sounds and language from a very young age," explained Shapiro. "And it's been shown that children who are read to from a very young age have sharper minds and are better able to understand reading concepts."

The Charlevoix Library offers a number of reading programs for children of all ages. One popular program is, "PAWS for a Story," in which young readers read a story to a dog.

"It's all about getting children interested in reading and having fun with it," said Shapiro.

Cheboygan 75, Charlevoix 60

Tough opponent and a poor shooting night spelled doom for the Rayders in their regular-season finale on Tuesday, March 2.

Trevor Closs scored 24 points as the Chiefs improved to 17-2. Cheboygan is an honorable mention in this week's Associated Press Class B state poll.

Joe Filipiak scored 15 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the Rayders, while Dylan Putman had 10 points, 10 rebounds, and Boog Nitchman added nine points.

The Rayders finish the regular season 12-8 and will play Harbor Springs, 8-11, in a Class C district semifinal 6 p.m. Wednesday, March 10, at East Jordan.

"We were 21-for-70 from the floor, we could never get the ball in the hole," Charlevoix coach Keith Haske said. "We didn't think we played too badly tonight. If we had shot it better, we might have had a chance. They're a pretty good team."

Adam Lauer added 12 points, Jordan Spohn had 11, and Derek Ferris had 10 for the Chiefs, who shared the Straits Area Conference championship with Rudyard this season. Cheboygan's two losses have come to Rudyard, 17-1; and Petoskey, 18-1.

Coby Herriman scored 15 points to lead the Rayders to a 52-50 win in the JV game. Charlevoix finished 16-4.

Tanner Catt had 27 points, Charlie Hamilton had 14, and Joe Rich added 10 to lead the Rayders to a 79-43 victory in the freshman game. Charlevoix finished 15-4.

factors," said Lyn Jenks, executive director of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation. "They will want to invest in areas where they can raise people up... and provide things that are not normally provided."

Because of the rural qualities of the area, Charlevoix Area Hospital received $256,000 last year to implement tele-medicine technology.

"The reason why this is so important is that it enables us to link with outlying medical centers to be able to view radiology and other imaging films right online rather than having to transport a film," Jenks said. "It shortens diagnosis periods and saves money. In addition, the Beaver Island Medical Center is linked to our emergency room and our physicians are able to see a patient over the Internet without the patient having to come to the mainland often."

The bureau requests the forms be returned by April 1, also known as "Census Day."

If people fill out the form they will receive in the mail in mid-March, it only costs 42 cents to be counted.

When the 1.4 million newly hired census workers are forced to perform follow-up visits to residences that have not turned in their forms, it costs nearly $25 each.

Every 1 percent of the population that returns their form by mail can save taxpayers nearly $85 million.

You can avoid a visit from a census worker by completing your census form and promptly returning it by mail.

Census workers will carry a signed badge and a handheld computer.

Beginning March 22, you will be able to see census numbers being tallied in real time at the government's Web site, www.2010.census.gov.

The first U.S. Census was in 1790, but the practice dates back to the days of Augustus Caesar.

Facts about the 2010 Census

• The U.S. Constitution mandates the federal government to count every human in the country every 10 years.

• Census information is protected by law with a penalty of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine for anyone guilty of improperly disclosing your identity.

• The Census Bureau is forbidden from sharing identifying information with other federal agencies and law enforcement.

• The first American census occurred during George Washington's presidency; the population was nearly 3.9 million people — approximately 1 percent of today's estimated population.

• There was a 72 percent participation rate in the 2000 census.

• Nearly $26 billion of the funds at stake are for education.

• Nearly 56,000 census workers will visit 12 million dwellings in order to update addresses.

Kiwanis Club sell roses to support youth

Charlevoix Kiwanis Club members Carolyn Navarre, Gayle Gennett, Bob Rajewski and Lori Mitchell owner of Charlevoix Floral get ready for Kiwanis Annual Rose Sale. The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club members are taking orders for long-stemmed boxed roses from Charlevoix Floral now through March 11, 2010. Orders can be placed with any member or by calling Carolyn Navarre at 547-2119 or Bob Rajewski at 547-5364. Choice of colors include pink, red, yellow, tangerine or a mix of all four. All proceeds raised will be used to help support a variety of youth programs and projects within our community. AKtion Club of Charlevoix helps deliver the roses, locally, free of charge. Kiwanis Club meets at noon every Tuesday at the Weatherlane Restaurant and is seeking new members who are interested in changing the world one child and one community at a time. For more information about becoming a member call Larry Minch at 547-2464.

Site Planning gets 'Green' kudos

RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

A Charlevoix company is being recognized for their work in landscape and design.

The Michigan Green Industry Association (MGIA) recently recognized Site Planning Development for their work on Charlevoix's East Park Trout Stream.

The project beat out several others from around Michigan to win Gold awards in the categories of Best Water Project and Best Commercial Landscape Construction.

"The Trout stream is something that everyone is proud of," said Site Planning and Development's Traver Wood. "There were a record number of applicants this year, and of course we were very surprised and pleased to win."

Wood praised a number of people for their work and dedication in making East Park such a successful project for the City of Charlevoix.

"There were a record number of applicants this year, and of course we were very surprised and pleased to win."

Traver Wood, Site Planning Development

"Everyone should really be awarded for their efforts," said Wood. "I really want to spread praise to everyone from city management and administrators such as Pat Elliot and Rob Stracbel, to Richard Hitz and Mark Buday for all their work and dedication they brought to the project."

Wood also added that the East Park Trout Stream project was done one time and under budget, thanks to some changes the company made to satisfy the city of Charlevoix and help cut costs.

Site Planning and Development also won a Gold award for their landscape and design work on a private residence on Lake Charlevoix, along with a Silver award in the category for Commercial Landscape Maintenance for their work with Northwest Bank of Charlevoix.

"I'm extremely proud of my crew and the way they executed the work as designed," said Wood. "It's a great feeling to be recognized for all the hard work that is put into these projects."

Wood, who has been with Site Planning and Development for more than 30 years, recently finished Natural Shoreline Professional training. He hopes to use techniques learned in green and soft solutions for shore protection in upcoming area projects.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE ON FORECLOSURE BY ADVERTISEMENT

Default has been made in the conditions of a certain Mortgage made by The Mortgage Company of Charlevoix, LLC, a Michigan limited liability company, to Brode Northern Real Estate, LLC, a Michigan limited liability company, dated September 1, 2006, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Charlevoix, Michigan on September 5, 2006, in Liber 764, Page 711. Charlevoix County Records. As of the date of this Notice, there is claimed to be due on said Mortgage for principal, interest and late charges the sum of $77,246.37 and no proceedings at law are pending to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, whereby the power of sale contained in said Mortgage has become operative. NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described, or so much thereof as may be necessary, at a public auction to the highest bidder in the lobby of the County Building in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said County, on Friday, March 19, 2010 at 11:00 o'clock a.m. of said day, and said premises will be sold to pay the amount so as aforesaid then due on said Mortgage, together with interest which will accrue thereon at the rate of five (5%) percent per annum, fees and costs, attorney fees as provided by law and any taxes and insurance that said Mortgages should pay on or prior to the date of said sale, said premises being situated in the Township of Marion, Charlevoix County, Michigan, described as follows:

Unit 11, 13, 14, 15, and 16, SUMMERHOUSE CONDOMINIUM, according to the Master Deed recorded in Liber 585, page 016, and designated as Charlevoix County Condominium Plan No. 143, Charlevoix County Records, and First Amendment to Master Deed as disclosed by instrument recorded in Liber 593, page 580, Charlevoix County Records, together with rights in general common elements and limited common elements as set forth in the above Master Deed and as described in Act 59 of Public Acts of 1978, as amended.

This property is not claimed as a principal residence under MCL 211.7C.

This sale is for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on the mortgage, with interest at the rate of 11% per year, together with the legal costs and charges of sale, including the attorney fees allowed by law and in the mortgage, and any sums that may be paid by the mortgagee subsequent to the date of this notice to protect its interests in the premises.

The length of the redemption period will be six (6) months from date of sale unless the property is determined to be abandoned in accordance with Michigan Compiled Law 600.3241a. If determined to be abandoned pursuant to this law, the redemption period shall be 30 days from the date of sale or 15 days from the date the required notice of abandonment is posted and mailed, whichever is later.

LIBRARY EVENTS

Held at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 West Clinton St. 547-2651

Weekly events

The Charlevoix Public Library is pleased to announce its spring computer training classes. All library computer training takes place in the Cooling Computer Lab at the Charlevoix Public Library, from 10:30 a.m. to noon. The very beginner (someone who knows nothing about computers and wants to get started) should sign up for Computer Basics 1, a two day class held on March 17 and 19. This class will teach the beginner how to use a mouse, view and navigate web pages and search the Internet. There will then be two more classes designed for those who need practice with their new learned skills and to learn a little more. Internet Tricks will be held March 24, to learn how to search the Internet. E-mail Basics will be held March 26, to teach how to send and reply to e-mails and how to organize e-mails and work with attachments.

Once the beginner has mastered these basic computer skills, the library staff invites them to move on to the intermediate level classes hosted by the library. These classes are for those who have taken the library's basic course, or can use a mouse and search the Internet. Microsoft Word 2007, on April 13 and 15 will focus on basic documents and formatting them.

Microsoft Excel 2007, on April 27 and 29 will focus on creating a basic spreadsheet and utilizing formulas. Managing Your PC will be held May 11 and 13 and teach computer file organization, customizing the desk top and the importance of back-ups.

Ask the Techie has been developed for people who have basic hardware or software questions about their laptops, the first Thursday of each month, 10 - noon. The Library has volunteers who will be on hand for 30 minute appointments to help answer some of your questions. Call for your appointment, 237-7340.

The instructors ask that all students register for computer classes by calling 237-7340.

Story-Time is 10:30 a.m. on Thursdays for all children birth to 5 and their caregivers.

Writer's Group is 6 p.m. on Wednesdays for all writers.

Quilters and Friends meet from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. the third Thursday of the month. This group of quilters and other fiber art enthusiasts is set up as a workgroup, so bring along your current fiber project and all the equipment you need (yes, even your sewing machine!) and enjoy the company of friends. The group facilitator is Sue Dixon.

Northern Michigan Textile Artists meets from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. the third Wednesday of the month. Join local fiber artist, Kathie Briggs for discussion of projects and ideas.

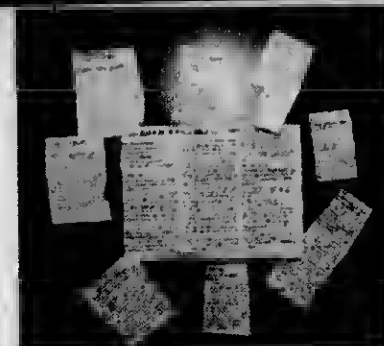

The Scrapbookers meet from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. the fourth Saturday of the month. Treat yourself to a full day away from home to work on your photos with group facilitator, Sheila Davis and other like minded scrapbookers.

The Book Talkers meet regularly throughout the year at 6 p.m. on Monday evenings. Beth Strawbridge facilitates this group. Call the library for upcoming dates and titles, 237-7340.

The Writer's Group meets at 6 p.m. every Wednesday in the Armstrong Conference Room. This group of writing enthusiasts (from beginner to published) encourages each other and share their work. The group welcomes all who are interested in writing for themselves, their family, and/

New phase of airport plan

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

With the initial drawings complete Charlevoix is now applying for $470,725 in FAA funds to begin the next phase of the proposed Charlevoix Municipal Airport expansion plan.

If approved, the money would be used to complete an airport master plan, design plans for the airport's fuel station and a proposal for a paved parking lot which is currently made of dirt.

"We have been working lockstep with the FAA on this project and they have been supportive of the overall terminal project," said Charlevoix

Staebel

City Manager Rob Stracbel. "The completion of the master plan and minimum standards make a lot of sense ... to show the overall vision of the airport and prioritization of capital improvements for the next five to 10 years before we actually go into building a new terminal."

FAA grants.

The city could know, within a month, whether the FAA will release the nearly half-million dollars in grant money.

"They still have to agree to our list of capital improvements," Stracbel said. "I don't think it's a done deal, but I am confident funding for the project will be future funding for the terminal

Schools nearing fiscal cliff

BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

On March 10, the Senate School Aid Appropriations Subcommittee announced budget reductions of $118 per student in the 2010/2011 state budget.

This, coupled with the $165 per student cut in the 2009/2010 budget means serious money for school districts statewide.

"A shortfall of $1.8 million is a worst case scenario," said Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik. "The best case scenario is, if the state does not cut any more funding and if we lose less than 40 students, we will probably have to make $1.3 million in cuts."

Charlevoix Schools anticipate a decline in enrollment of 40 students next year at a cost of $319,640.

Charlevoix Public Schools currently have $1.6 million in reserve, the bulk of which would be used to cover the impending deficit.

"We anticipate using about a million dollars of that this year, so depending on where we come up at the end of the year there will be between $600,000 and $700,000 left," Janik said.

Due to the trend Michigan's economy continues to follow, coupled with constant reductions in state aid for school districts and declining enrollment, Charlevoix Public cannot survive another year of million-dollar shortfalls without trimming costs wherever possible.

"We're going to have to make some significant budget adjustments this spring," Janik said. We're trying to keep cuts as far away from the classroom as possible, but our budget is 86 percent personnel, which is standards for school districts across Michigan."

Charlevoix Public Schools student enrollment at a glance:

• 1995-1996 — 1,421
• 2000-2001 — 1,396

• 2005-2006 — 1,269

• September 2009 — 1,105

• February 2010 — 1,090

"We're looking at administrative costs, support staff and teachers," Janik said. "We've been meeting with principals since last fall and hope to finalize a plan during the month of April and get board approval at the May board meeting."

In addition to reductions in revenue, costs like compensation, retirement and health care continue to rise.

Raises for teachers and support staff cost the schools an additional $147,747 this year. And, the schools are anticipating an 8 percent increase in health care coverage at a cost of $128,000.

Janik could not say how many staff members will be laid off, but that serious cuts are imminent.

"The juggling act we're trying to do is cut costs while maintaining our high academic standards," he said. "By all accounts we're doing very well, but with our costs there is very little room to move and we will, unfortunately, have staffing reductions this spring."

CORRECTION

Due to incorrect information provided to the Charlevoix Courier it was stated last week on page 1 of the Courier that 6-year-old Emmalee Antkowiak had cancer. The child did have a brain tumor removed, but does not have cancer. We apologize for any confusion this may have caused. Here Emmalee is pictured on the tarmac on Beaver Island on her way home after undergoing treatment. Emmalee was diagnosed in November and underwent nearly 14 hours of grueling surgery at De Vos Children's Hospital. Islanders held prayer vigils, fundraisers and kept in close touch with Emmalee's parents, K. K. and Brian Antkowiak. Emmalee was transferred to Mary Free Bed early in December to begin her therapy. Pictured with Emmalee is her aunt Alice Belfy.

PI ACCIDENT

On March 6, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office was dispatched to Charlevoix Area Hospital for a private property injury accident involving a snowmobile and five year old child. Thomas Edward Hart III (5) of Boyne City was being treated for an injury to his left eyelid. According to the grandfather Thomas Hart Sr. (52) of East Jordan, the child was driving the family's Yard-Man Snow Cub youth snowmobile when he collided with the rear of his grandfather's pickup truck parked in the driveway.

The child was wearing a helmet and the injury was not serious. The accident occurred in the drive of 8420 Rogers Road. Family members transported the child to the hospital.

SHERIFF'S SCAM WARNING

Sheriff w. D. (Don) Schneider would like to warn citizens of a scam where several of our citizens have been taken for thousands of dollars.

Citizen will receive a call from Canada or London, England, or wherever and caller advises of an accident or arrest where a family member is involved and in need of cash immediately. Fearful and trusting because the caller has their family member's name, the citizen then wires the amount of funds requested only to find out later this story was made up and their money is gone.

Be sure to check on the emergency prior to sending money.

Fifth grade field-trip

ADELAI LOPER CHARLEVOIX HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT WRITER

The fifth grade class enjoyed a cold, but sunny afternoon going snowshoeing at Drigger's Preserve on Boyne City road. It was a learning experience as well as a fun time for them.

From already learning about North American navigation and mapping, this was their chance to experience what they learned. This activity fit into their study of Native Americans (and their invention of snowshoes) and how the early settlers lived. Now they got their chance of what they learned and put it to the test.

They had fun being out of school for a couple of hours and having their friends along.

"I really got a kick out of watching the chaperones (his mom) trying to get up and down the hill on snowshoes," Brad Klinger said.

All of the students enjoyed learning how to use a compass and looking for animal tracks, and felt that was something important to know.

"I really liked going on the trail and looking for animal tracks," Jake Mitchell said.

The students were split into groups of four plus a chaperone and each person had his/her own job to do. One person would be the navigator, one person would be the lookout for interesting land marks, one person would be writing down the route they have taken and land marks they found, and one person would be in charge of animal tracks and who the animal might be.

Little Traverse Land Conservancy paid for the trip and the bus was paid for by the Charlevoix Schools Foundation. The fifth graders have taken this trip many times before and they always have a great time going.

The fifth graders seemed to enjoy the field trips and remarked that they wouldn't mind going again.

"I really liked going on this field trip, and I would love to go again," Brendan Russell said.

History buffs salvage pieces of Campbell houseBENJAMIN GOHS EDITOR

Before it burns historical societies near and far will remove numerous pieces of the century-old 108 Park Ave. house, also known as the Campbell house.

Stated for demolition as part of a major Charlevoix street, sewer and parking project to begin later this spring, the Campbell house has recently been OK'd to be set ablaze while a movie crew films it as part of their movie "The Frontier Boys."

Raechel Wright of the Charlevoix County History Preservation Society (CCHPS) requested the opportunity to salvage historically significant features of the home prior to its scheduled demolition," said Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) director Keith Carey. "(Her) request was received favorably by the DDA and efforts began subsequently to determine how to best remove items of historic import from the structure."

The Cheboygan Historical Society will be using some of the salvaged pieces in some projects it is currently working on.

"They hope to use 12 pieces of sand glass in their frames, two upper sections of hay windows, one hay window with sand glass, a bathroom sink with fixtures, a wooden threshold from the front hall, four interior doors with hardware, pine flooring and the claw-foot tub," Wright said.

Carney met at the Campbell house with members of the movie production, Wright and the historical group and it was determined several items including window panes and frames, doors and doorframes, hinges, knobs, trim boards and several fixtures including two sinks and a bath tub.

Also involved with the preservation of historical pieces of the house is Charlevoix Harsha House co-director Dave Miles.

"We feel fortunate that some of it is going to be coming out and be reused," he said. "A town like Charlevoix's charm comes from its old structures and history, and I think anything that can be preserved will present the community in the best possible light."

Miles hopes to recover a kitchen sink from the house.

The historical group stresses preservation first, but members like CCHPS president Georganna Monk said salvaging some of the structure is better than nothing.

"It's not the result we wanted. All of us feel a real sense of loss," she stated in an e-mailed response to questions. "However we appreciate the city's giving us the opportunity to preserve as much as we can from Lennie's home, and are happy that we will be able to support other preservation efforts with what we salvage."

The fate of the house became a hot issue last year when history-minded Charlevoix citizens were opposed to seeing it removed.

"Last fall the Charlevoix County History Preservation Society (CCHPS) first approached Keith Carey of the Charlevoix Downtown Development Association (DDA) in an attempt to save the 140-year-old home at 108 Park Ave.," Wright said.

"CCHPS requested that the City delay taking action for one year while the organization, possibly in partnership with other area nonprofits, could find funding for a preservation effort."

Wright sought a preliminary opinion from the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) on whether the home was a historic site.

"SHPO's opinion was that it could, and that the surrounding area could probably be named an historic district, making preservation grants and tax credits available," she stated. "Nevertheless, for financial reasons the DDA and City Council voted to raze the building and construct a parking lot."

The date of the controlled burn and filming remains undetermined until the city works through the permitting process.

Budget cuts mean savings and early release of prisonersBENJAMIN GOHS EDITOR

Michigan Governor Jennifer Granholm proposes cost-cutting measures including early outs for as many as 7,500 prisoners — nearly a thousand of whom include rapists, murders and pedophiles.

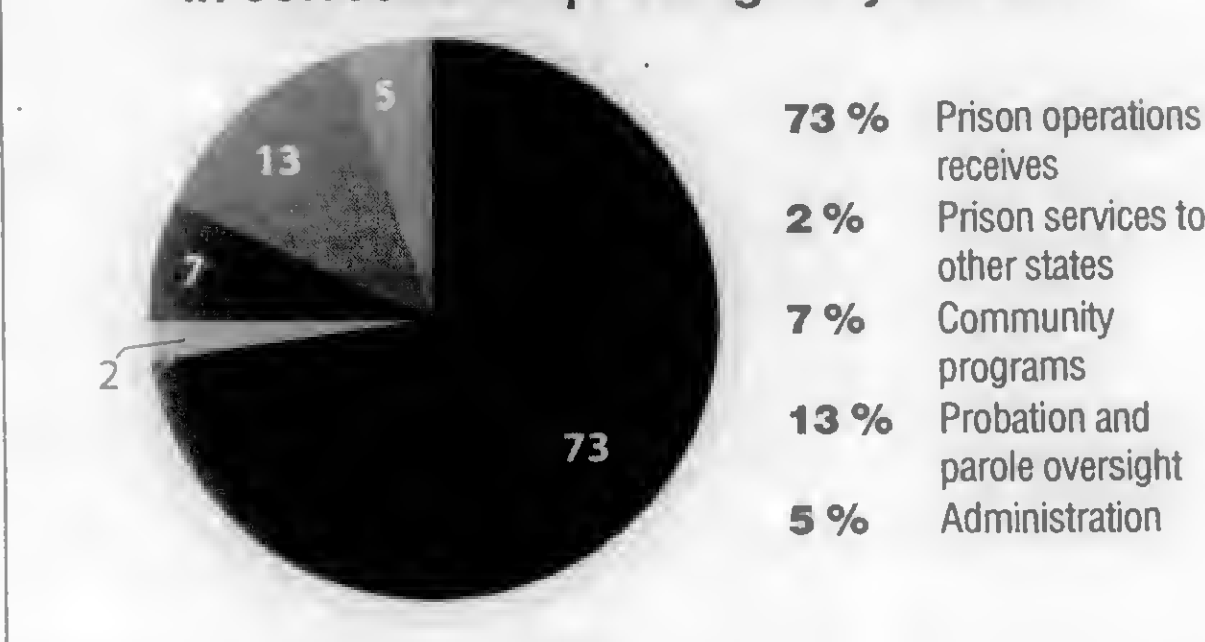

The governor claims the cuts are a necessary part of the move to stem a projected $1.5 billion shortfall in the state's 2011 budget, but some law enforcement officials statewide see the move as putting the public in danger.

"They are proposing to release dangerous criminals back into society," said Charlevoix Prosecuting Attorney John Jarema. "They are letting out murderers, rapists, sexual predators and still are not addressing the cost to house them."

The governor estimates nearly 7,500 prisoners will be released in four to six months of passage of the budget as is.

Arguing against the move, Jarema and some fellow prosecutors point to cases such as that of Robert Lee Shine a 50-year-old Muskegon man who, last year, killed his girlfriend after he received early parole despite warnings by his parole officer that his parole should have been revoked.

Breakdown of proposed $2 Billion in corrections spending for year 2011:

"Fix the underlying cost problem first before you cut loose a sexual predator or murderer," Jarema said.

Corrections spending is 4.2 percent of the proposed $47.1 billion 2011 state budget.

According to Governor Jennifer Granholm's 2001 proposed budget, there is $2 billion in funding slated for allocation to corrections.

Michigan currently has 45,200 prisoners with $1.4 billion — or 73 percent — of the proposed $2 billion in corrections spending going to operation of the prisons themselves.

If the budget passes, Michigan will spend nearly $44,248 per prisoner for corrections.

Breakdown of remaining proposed $2 billion in 2011 corrections spending:

• Prison services to other states - 2 percent

• Community programs - 7 percent

• Probation and parole oversight - 13 percent

• Administration 5 percent

Comparables for the current corrections cycle spending.

The plan includes nearly 30 points of improvement for the airport, including:

• Relocating the fueling station to prevent bottlenecking of aircraft in 2010, at a total cost of $70,000.

• Performing a land study to determine noise and other factors for a total cost of $250,000.

• Terminal building expansion in 2011, tentatively to 13,010 square feet — which would nearly double the current facility size — for a total cost of $3,000,000.

• New runway construction in 2017, for a total cost of $1,000,000.

The city is now focusing on the design and development phase of the project.

"We're basically getting into what the building is going to look like, what type of materials we will be using, what types of windows and roof types — more of the aesthetics of how the building is going to look when completed," Straebel said.

In addition to Straebel, airport officials and architect, city council members Jill Pigha, Lyle Gennett and Greg Stevens and Charlevoix Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. will round out a committee overseeing this new phase.

This next phase will likely take several months to complete. Then the city will begin working on the airport master plan which will include input from the public and local experts and city officials.

Straebel said a project of this magnitude can be a long, slow process.

But, he added, "We will make the best effort to expedite improvements as quickly as possible."

Writer explores her love for cooking

Ladies ... start your ovens — or in my case, start your blender.

Another year and another contest to enter where I can pretend for a brief period that the cameras are running, the lights are hot and the director yells out "action!"

It's a far cry from the Iron Chef and much more like the Galloping Gourmet, my favorite cooking show while growing up. Only later in life did I learn that this chef I had on a pedestal would finish off a bottle of Merlot by the end of every show.

The cooking presentations went into reruns while the guru of cooking went into rehab. Like I said, entering the contest and pretending it's a TV show is only a state of mind, fortunately only my own.

"Are you still toying with that blender," I hear my husband remark as he passes by the kitchen for the third time. I responded quickly with, "If you were racing a car in a competition you'd look under the hood so why not check out the bearings of a thirty year old blender." There can be no room for error, the show must be perfect.

I created concoctions in the kitchen for most of the day. Only a few hours had passed before the kitchen took on the appearance of a chemistry lab and I began to look like Abby Cadabby from NCIS minus the spider web tattoo.

Antacids were required after the fourth hour of taste testing. It was time well spent as taste is just as important as presentation.

After scouring the cupboards to find the flawless glass to house my new creative drink I felt it still needed an added touch.

A LOOK AT LIFE
Gayle Gennett

Digging through the snow I was lucky enough to find twigs with mint leaves still attached.

Tossing it into the beautiful cocktail glass the earthy effect made me gasp.

Coming to my senses I added the zest of a lime that balanced quietly on the rim of the glass.

I found a silk scarf and magically wrapped it around the decanter to look as if it had always been home to this winning beverage.

The beautiful deep pink liquid poured easily as it filled the ornate glassware and I gingerly topped it off with pink and white foam giving the entire drink a festive appearance.

We're in the home stretch now and it's time to compete. I thought about the Olympics that garnered my attention for the past couple of weeks. One Olympian inspired me to post a photo of my beverage onto the refrigerator as a reminder to stay focused and go for the gold.

Cooking, creating recipes and competition comes to me naturally.

I've been creating culinary delights since the age of five with my first Easy Bake oven.

The competition part came later in life.

When I was older I joined the Girl Scouts only because I heard they had cook outs.

I can still taste the moist Jiffy cake baked in an old coffee can that warmed on the coals for at least an hour.

Who couldn't forget rolling dough around a stick and putting it in the bonfire.

Emeril would be proud to see what delicacies a twelve year old could stuff into that little toasty relic.

Cooking for me has been a way of expressing love and care for others.

My unspoken oath is: "Whenever two or more gather together, food shall be present."

The renewal of old friendships and solidifying new ones is centered on eating out or eating in, stopping for coffee or maybe dessert.

and warmth that went into your creations made by your loving hands.

I am looking forward to next year's contest and the fun and camaraderie that come with it.

Oh, and I almost forgot to tell you, yes, I am proudly standing on my own podium, an old kitchen stool, holding the prize for first place because my eyes never wavered from the gold. If you decide to put your mind to it you can and will accomplish great things.

More or less recounts a fun at the fair

"I'd really like to try that," my husband said last summer, taking a huge bite of his corn dog.

"It looks like fun," I followed his gaze and recoiled in horror.

"The bungee jump?" I stared at Michael and then at the tiny platform atop the tall rickety scaffolding.

"Has the idea of life on earth ceased to hold any allure for you?"

He grinned and took a long pull on the vat of lemonade in his other hand.

"It's perfectly safe," he assured me. "They know what they're doing."

"Based upon what? The fact that they're sanctioned by a carnival?"

"Not a carnival — the State Fair. It's perfectly safe," he repeated, dropping the corn dog stick into a trash can. "But let's get one of those giant cinnamon rolls first."

We headed off toward the food carts while I weighed the probability of this notion ever coming to fruition. Certainly he would drop the idea as soon as he had ingested another pound of sugary dough on top of the countless other snacks he had already consumed. No one would want to fling himself into space tethered by an elastic cord on such a full stomach.

But I hadn't considered his amazing capacity for festival food. As soon as he'd finished licking the icing off of his fingers, he sprang to his feet, ready to make me a widow.

"Let's watch someone else do it first," I suggested. "That way, you'll know what to expect."

"I know what to expect," he said. "I'll fall, I'll bounce and I'll swing around a little bit. I think it will feel like flying. Why don't you try it, too? Maybe they'll let us go together."

"I will never fall, bounce and swing by my feet on purpose," I said. "Not for love or money. I think you're crazy, but I am fond of you and I veto this idea."

He laughed, grabbed my hand, and pulled me along toward the attraction.

A small crowd gathered around two young men in "Cowa-Bungee" tee shirts.

They were explaining the process to the assemblage, none of whom seemed eager to take them up on it.

"I'll go," Michael volunteered, reaching for his wallet. I clutched at his arm.

"Wait, wait, wait..." I stammered. "Wait."

He guided me gently to a row of bleachers and sat me down. He told me that if I really didn't want him to do it, well, then he wouldn't. But he was sure that it was safe, and I was worrying for no reason.

"Don't lie about your weight," I said. "They calculate something important based on your weight."

He kissed me and jogged back to meet his destiny.

Michael entered a small elevator cage with the Cowa-Bungee boys. They ascended slowly until they reached the fenced platform, where they marched Green Mile-style to a gate and began to attach manacles to my husband's ankles.

My eyes drifted to the unforgiving concrete below, interrupted briefly by an above ground swimming pool. What was this for? If the bungee cord broke, was this the safety net?

Would the jumper drop 300 feet like a rock, only to break his neck in four feet of water?

The gate clanked and I saw Michael standing with his back to the opening. I heard a dim chorus of, "One... Two... THREE!"

Launching off of the platform in a perfect back dive, the love of my life arced through the air. The cords attached to his ankles trailed like the tail of a dive-bombing kite.

Down and down he went until the slack was exhausted, and then, at the point where the cord would have snapped, he bounced.

"Yeeeeee-haaaaaa!" he yodeled, swinging like a pendulum over the useless pool.

He was alive! He was flipping like a flounder and hooting like a frat boy, but he was alive. His shirt covered his head and his arms flopped limply beneath the hem. He looked like a rag doll dangling from a string.

As his swinging subsided, the electronic crane whirled and he slowly descended toward earth. The guys took the elevator down, arriving in time to guide him away from a dunking, and depositing him gently on the ground.

"Well?" I asked when he was right side up and tucking in his shirt. "Was it fun?"

"I'm not sure. I was so scared that the whole thing is a blur. Let's get some caramel corn, and I'll do it again."

Express yourself

It's called the "R" word.

Yes, that's right, there are educated, professional adults — people who drive cars and wear ties and walk upright — using the phrase, "the 'R' word" in lieu of the word "Retard."

Oh yes, the "R" word is apparently the new "N" word ... ergo another word you and I are supposedly not allowed to say for fear of emotional and financial reprisal from the tyrannical masses. Just ask Don Imus how free his speech really is.

"Retard" means to move slowly or operate at a slower rate and "retardation" means deceleration, hindrance or lack of normal development. They are both real words.

A recent piece by an unnamed health professional claims the "R word" has been, "misappropriated into a derogatory slang expression conveying stupidity or absentmindedness."

I would agree on part of the point: retard or retardation, in all cases is derogatory — that's because retardation is not a desired condition. Dare say you abhor the thought of suffering with retardation and your twice the soundrel subject to PC pillory.

However, I disagree with the pro's assessment that the word has become inappropriate.

When my brother ran the lawnmower over my Don Juan roses and said, "Oops, I thought they were weeds." He most definitely heard some words and the "R word" was about the nicest among them.

And, when some joker nearly runs me off the road while trying to pass me on a hill, he's most definitely going to hear the "R word."

The big stink arising from this manufactured pile of an argument seemed to waft under the door when the movie "Tropic Thunder" starring Jack Black, Robert Downey Jr. and Ben Stiller had a bit about a severely mentally retarded fictional character named Simple Jack.

In one exchange, Downey's character, an actor, tells Stiller's character, also an actor, that you don't go "full retard" when portraying a mentally handicapped person.

You'd have thought Imus stormed the White House with a megaphone.

Now there is a nationwide campaign to stop the use of the "R word" and eliminate it from the vocabulary.

You read correctly, these irresponsible Nazi beastmasters think molesting the lexicon is going to change human behavior.

If I remember correctly, the term has gone from touched, to retarded to handicapped to mentally challenged to developmentally disabled. It's as if the folks in the PC word business keep changing the titles of certain things they don't like in hopes it will make them go away.

Here's a little hint: Cancer is a bad disease whether you call it "cancer" or a "butterfly and gumdrop deficiency."

Shall we next outlaw "idiot, imbecile, moron, half-wit, changeling, cretin, dummy and dumbbell?" — all words in the dictionary. All pieces, with no greater or less importance than any other word, of the language which allows us to communicate with one another.

The PC pro goes on to state, "Just as kids on a playground don't like to be teased, individuals with developmental disabilities don't like to be referred to by derogatory terms."

It's like an old shopkeeper told me while I was shopping for a new door lock. I asked if it would keep the bad guys out of my house.

Without missing a syllable he said, "It's gonna keep honest people honest."

The same applies here. Bullies will bully and decent people will not — regardless of oppressive PC movements.

"Removing the 'R word' from everyone's vocabulary, one person at a time, can create an attitude (of) change in every Michigan community. This is a perfect time to educate your friends and family on respectful language to use," stated the professional.

"Persons with developmental disabilities already have to work harder to accomplish their goals, often struggling to complete tasks many people take for granted. Let's be sure our own poor word choice will not become one more barrier to their success."

Letting the words of a jerk prevent you from succeeding seems to me to be a bad choice, but luckily we live in a country where you have the freedom to do so.

Let's preserve that freedom for all types of expression.

LETTERS to the editor

MORE TO HEALTH CARE BILL THAN ABORTION

Editor:

Our Bart Stupak has drawn a line in the sand and will not vote for the health care legislation because in his opinion it contains provisions that allow poor women to have insurance that would pay for an abortion.

Should abortion be the lone issue that stands in the way of our nation's health care reform?

That very important moral decision has been legally empowered to the woman and whom ever she decides to bring into the decision with her.

I remember well when we first learned that we were expecting to be parents. We were excited. We were uncertain as to what may lie ahead for the future of the child we were bringing into the world.

We had our faith, we had the support of the community, and we had the love of one another to lead the way for us.

We had health insurance that would pay for quality pre-natal care and the delivery of our bundle of joy. We had a hospital in our community with capable and caring doctors and nurses. Not every woman who learns that she is pregnant is as fortunate as we were.

To ignore everyone's responsibility before and after a baby is born is morally the same as aborting an unborn child. Children need parents and community as much as an unborn child needs a mother, yet that seldom gets brought into the abortion discussion. The way in which we see all of our children live and die is a true measure of our society.

What will happen as more and more hospitals close because people without health insurance can't afford to fund them? How many babies and their mothers will die because of a lack of quality health care? Just think, because of our Mr. Stupak's faulty ideals, more children may die as a result of not having health insurance than would have been aborted by their mothers if they had the support that my wife and I had when we were in those shoes.

Let us put the abortion issue

Brande Dishinger, 11, of St. Marys Catholic School in Charlevoix, shows off her recently made art project now on display in the halls of the school.

St. Mary Annual Student Art Exhibit

After months of hard work, students at St. Marys in Charlevoix are preparing to give the public a glimpse of their creative side.

The St. Mary Annual Student Art Exhibit will be held March 22 through March 29.

"We've been doing this art exhibit for the last six or seven years and it always goes over well with the public. Plus, the students have a lot of fun putting it together, and they all seem to be getting really excited to show off their hard work," said St. Mary Art Teacher, Lori Bolt.

Students from kindergarten through 6th grade will have their work on display.

Bolt has been teaching art for the last 30 years. Her background in a number of artistic styles allows students to really find a medium that calls to them.

"There really is something for everyone," said Bolt. "We have such a variety. There are some paintings, drawings, sculptures, and even some mixed media pieces."

"There really is something for everyone"

Lori Bolt, St. Mary art teacher

The annual exhibit does take a lot of work to put together. Students are currently working to get pieces up and ready for display. And several parents volunteer their time to help make the event a success.

"The students always seem to enjoy putting on the exhibit," said Bolt. "They put a lot of hard work into their pieces they've done throughout the year. There are a lot of different things to see."

The St. Mary Annual Student Art Exhibit will be held March 22 through March 29 at the school.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For more information, call 547-9441.

Bar essay

The Emmet-Charlevoix County Bar Association is pleased to announce its annual Essay Contest for all high school seniors in the Emmet-Charlevoix County School Districts as part of Law Day 2010 celebrations.

The theme of the contest, "Law in the 21st Century", encourages students to understand and appreciate the emerging challenges and enduring traditions of law in the 21st century.

This year's essay question is: Suppose a student creates a Facebook group to insult a teacher. Should a principal be allowed to suspend a student for disrespecting a teacher online?

One winner from each county will receive a $1,000 award. In addition, winners will be invited to the Emmet-

Charlevoix Bar Association Law Day luncheon on May 6, where they will be honored for their achievement.

Students and their parents are encouraged to contact their school principal or guidance counselor for contest rules and deadlines.

Law Day is an annual nationwide event, designated by the U.S. Congress in 1961. Its purpose is to raise public awareness of American law and justice and their valuable impact on our lives. Bar Associations, civic groups, government officials, and educators all over America participate in Law Day activities the week preceding May 1 and during the month of May every year.

OBITUARIES

John E. Donalds II: Feb. 17, 1925 - Mar. 4, 2010

Donalds

John E. Donalds II, 85, passed away peacefully at The Lodge Care Center in Loveland, Ohio, on March 4, 2010.

John was born Feb. 17, 1925 to Helen T. Donalds and John E. Donalds in St. Croix Falls, Wis.

John served in World War II as a pilot in the Army Air Corps. Upon his honorable discharge as 2nd Lieutenant, John received his Bachelor of Science Chemical Engineering degree from the University of Minnesota and his Masters Degree from the Harvard Business School.

John enjoyed a long and illustrious career with Dow Chemical Company in Midland, Mich. He retired in 1985 as the Manager of the Genetics Research Division to become the CEO of Collaborative, Research in Lexington, Mass.

An avid sailor all his life, John officially retired to his homes in Stuart, Florida and Charlevoix, Michigan in 1987.

John is preceded in death by his wife, Amanda Perry Donalds, and daughters Elizabeth Donalds and Linda Voll. John is survived by his daughter, Katherine D. Stone, his son, John E. Donalds III, grandchildren Paul J. Hopkins, Jeffrey R. Hopkins, Stephanie M. Donalds, Christopher J. Donalds, and great grandchild Kerry N. Hopkins.

Services will be held at a later date in Charlevoix, Mich. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to CurePSP, Executive Plaza III, 11350 McCormick Road, Suite 906, Hunt Valley, MD 21031.

Dennis Spence: Died on Mar. 7, 2010

Dennis Spence passed away at home on Sunday March 7, 2010.

He leaves behind his wife, Nancy; and children, Cathy (Michael) Shupert, and Shannon (Katie) Spence; grandchildren, Amanda and Matthew Shupert, and Elizabeth, Jamie and Janessa Spence.

He was an avid fly fisherman and hunter. His main hobby was building bamboo fly fishing rods and anyone who was lucky enough to get one was blessed with the best!

His love for the state of Idaho and the mountains, and the calmness and peace that came over him when there was next only to the love of his family.

Those who passed before him were his parents, Lovell and Kay Spence; son, Steven; and brothers -in-law, Eugene and Dale Drost.

Funeral service will be 1 p.m., Thursday, March 11, at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix, the Reverend Michael Way officiating. Visitation will be at 11 a.m.

Thursday until the time of the funeral.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix, or to the Northern Michigan Regional Hospital Foundation for Cardiac Care.

Arrangements are being handled by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Jeffrey D. Bakker: Nov. 19, 1956 - Mar. 11, 2010

Jeffrey D. Bakker, 53, loving husband, dad and grandpa died peacefully at home on March 11, 2010, following a valiant fight against cancer.

His earthly life is over and his heavenly life has begun. Yea! Jeff was born on November 19, 1956, to Lloyd and Joanne Bakker in Holland, Michigan.

He graduated from West Ottawa High School in 1975 and spent six years in the United States Navy.

During that time he married Karen Kintner of Holland and upon being discharged, they moved to Charlevoix, Mich., where they made their home for the last 28 years.

He worked at Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant as an operator for 22 years and has been a union representative for the Utility Workers Union of America for the past 7 years.

Jeff and Karen were blessed to be the parents of five boys and now have three daughters-in-law, Zachary and Angie (Marietta), Levi and Amanda (Pischner), Tick and Rachel (Neumann), Marshal, and Ezra. They also recently became grandparents to Cullen and Isla. What a joy the kids and grandkids have been!

Jeff is survived by Karen and their kids, his parents, Karen's mother (Marilyn Hall of Free-soil, MI), and a very large and loving family.

Visitation hours will be from 3 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, March 14, at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix. The celebration of Jeff's life will be held at 11 a.m. on Monday, March 15, also at the church.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Community Reformed Church Benevolence Fund. This fund helps those in the community with various needs; Jeff had a heart for helping others and this would be a very fitting tribute to him.

Community Reformed Church is located at 100 Oak St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Arrangements by Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Sentencing guidelines in flux

PRISONERS

were not available, but according to a 2007 study by the PEW Charitable Trusts, there were 50,236 people in Michigan prisons at a cost of $2.063 billion or $41,066.17 per prisoner.

Compare that to various other states in the study:

• Ohio had 50,730 prisoners at a cost of $1.766 billion - $34,812 per prisoner

• Indiana had 26,249 prisoners at a cost of $649 million - $24,725 per prisoner

• Illinois had 45,305 prisoners at a cost of $1.125 billion - $24,832 per prisoner

• Washington had 18,126 prisoners at a cost of $832 million - $45,901 per prisoner

• California had 171,444 prisoners at a cost of $7.95 billion - $51,299 per prisoner

• Texas had 171,790 prisoners at a cost of $3.292 billion - $19,163 per prisoner

• Florida had 97,416 prisoners at a cost of $2.719 billion - $27,911 per prisoner

"The governor recommends $139 million in net savings from the adoption of sentencing reforms that will result in a reduced prisoner population and the closure of department facilities," the budget narrative states. "From fiscal year 2003, through fiscal year 2010, nearly $600 million in reductions have been identified in the department of corrections' budget."

The governor expects additional corrections savings accrued over the next five years of nearly $700 million.

The mechanism the governor hopes will facilitate these prison reforms come in House Bills 4497, 4498 and 4499 which seek to reinstate disciplinary credits — decreased jail time for good behavior — which were outlawed in 1998 when Truth in Sentencing was passed into law.

"When Truth in Sentencing was 'sold' to the public and prosecutors, we were told that a minimum sentence would be the minimum sentence; there would be no more cases of a prisoner being sentenced to 10 years in prison and telling the victim they would be eligible for parole in six years," Jarema said. "The sentencing guidelines were adapted to make it harder for persons to get into prison. That is why it is almost impossible for a drunk driver, third offense with six to seven priors, to even score out as a prison sentence."

He added, "All malicious destruction crimes, embezzlements, driving crimes, excluding death cases, are almost impossible to get the person to prison. Now we are left with the penalties that can't get them to prison — and if they do, they will be out before the minimum, which was the es-save $120 million, forcing more than 4,000 prisoners into facilities elsewhere in the state.

Jarema is urging citizens to contact their legislators and the governor's office.

"The Prosecutor's association is adamantly opposed to this and we are taking a stand, but the public needs to be educated and to voice their opinion," he said. "The problem is the amount of money it costs to house a prisoner, not the amount of prisoners. Their proposal is to reduce the number, but the cost to house each prisoner is the same."

State to state comparison

Comparables for the current corrections cycle spending were not available, but according to a 2007 study by the PEW Charitable Trusts, there were 50,236 people in Michigan prisons at a cost of $2.063 billion.

Compare that to various other states in the study:

sense of Truth in Sentencing."

The bills would also call for reinstatement of the Community Residential Program, which would allow certain offenders to serve prison time outside of prison with an electronic tether.

Also, four to five prisons would close beginning in October 2010 at a net savings of $129 million.

Just last year Michigan closed eight correctional facilities to oner is the same."

Jarema added, "It really is a union wage and collective bargaining argument. It took a long time for the UAW to see the writing on the wall and give concessions on wages and benefits to keep their jobs. Nothing is being proposed, as I am aware, to do the same for the Department of Corrections. This is a dangerous Band-Aid."

Charlevoix helping homeless kids

Longtime Charlevoix Middle School principal Keith Haske, seen working at his desk, also works as the district's homeless liaison for displaced students.

RACHEL BROUGHAM SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Homelessness has no face. That's the message Charlevoix Middle School Principal Keith Haske wants the community to know.

For the last eight years, Haske has been working to help students and their families who have no place to call home.

His dedication ensures that students are clothed, fed and are able to continue their education in the district.

"When I was appointed as Homeless Liaison for Charlevoix schools, it didn't really mean much to me," said Haske. "I would go to a meeting each year in Traverse City. And we really didn't have many homeless students for a few years. But things have really changed."

In 2002, the McKinney-Vento Act was signed into law under the No Child Left Behind Act.

The law is focused at dealing with the education of children and youth experiencing homelessness in public schools.

Part of the plan calls for a Homeless Liaison for each school district.

"For awhile we'd have just two or three homeless students in the district," said Haske. "But with the recent downturn in the economy, we've seen that number rise dramatically."

According to Haske, there are currently 25 students in the Charlevoix Public School District identified as homeless.

"Most of the students stay with relatives in the area," said Haske. "Some may couch surf between friends' houses, or may even live in a car."

Homeless students in the district receive free breakfast and lunch at the school, clothing, and school supplies when needed.

They are also guaranteed transportation to their school through gas cards that are purchased for the family, or by working out a schedule with other area school districts and their bus routes.

A portion of money is set aside each year from the budget to help students in need.

And, the district also received a grant from the Cheboygan-Oshtemo-Presque Isle ESD.

"That grant allowed us to purchase a laptop and a projector, so I've been using it to go around to community groups and service clubs to give presentations to make people aware that we do have a homeless problem here in Charlevoix," said Haske.

Haske credits school secretaries and counselors for noticing students and situations that may need the district's help.

And he hopes that as more people become aware of the problem, students will get the help they need.

"We don't think that we have homeless people in Northern Michigan because we don't always see people struggling," said Haske. "But it's real, and it's impacting families right here in Charlevoix."

Lady attributes positivity to long life

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

At 97-years young, Angie Supernaw doesn't have time to slow down. And, her passion for life can be a lesson for all ages.

With the exceptions of a few winters spent in the south, Supernaw is a life-long Charlevoix resident.

Here, she and her late husband Bill raised two boys, and now she's also a proud grandmother of four.

Many family members still live close by.

"I'm very proud of my family. I think I did pretty well. I mean, I'm not going to have to worry about doing my taxes because three family members are accountants," joked Supernaw.

Anyone who knows Supernaw knows she is a woman with a sense of humor and can bring a smile to anyone.

The Sunnyside Living Center resident is known for making beautiful quilts and other hand sewn items for friends and family. She's an avid computer user. And she's even tried her hand at video games.

"I really believe it's about living your life the way you want to live it, and not complaining about what you don't have," said Supernaw.

Supernaw spent about 30 years working at a local insurance office.

Her late husband, Bill, was a former postmaster.

the Winter Sports Queen of Charlevoix." Supernaw recalled. "And in 1958, I was the Charlevoix Women's Golf Champion."

She still proudly displays her golf trophy. It sits across from her quilting supplies.

"I love making pretty things. I used to knit and made many winter sports sweaters," said Supernaw. "Some people are still wearing them. I used to make my own clothes, and outfits for my boys when they were young."

In addition to quilting, Supernaw enjoys keeping up with family and friends on the computer. She also uses her computer to listen to new music and even uses Facebook. She's also an avid online Bridge player.

"Sometimes there are up to 18-thousand people online playing Bridge at a time," said Supernaw. "But I don't mess around with the beginner level, I'm an intermediate player."

Supernaw has even played the Nintendo Wii. "I played Wii once — didn't like it. It was kind of silly," said Supernaw. "I don't see why some people consider that exercise."

As people close to her know, Supernaw's passion for life can be contagious.

And she believes passion is the key to a happy life.

"I try to enjoy every day and it's paid off because I've had a great life. A very happy life. If I had to do it over again, I'd do the exact same thing," said Supernaw with a smile.

But Supernaw also knew how to have a good time.

SLEEP WELL FOR WELLNESS

Editor:

It happens in the middle of the night once a year, yet may affect you and your children for several days. It is the return of Daylight Saving Time which happens this year at 2 a.m. Sunday, March 14. Good sleep contributes to our health, safety and overall well-being.

Getting a good night's sleep impacts every aspect of our lives: at home, at work and even behind the wheel of our car.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center once again is proud to be a participant in the 12th annual health promotion campaign, National Sleep Awareness Week, sponsored by the National Sleep Foundation. This year's campaign is March 7 through March 13.

As always, it leads up to the return to Daylight Saving Time, when many of us who are already sleep deprived will choose to lose another hour of much needed sleep.

Getting a good night's sleep is as important to our bodies and minds as a good diet and exercise.

Sleep experts say that most adults need between seven and nine hours of sleep each night for optimum health, safety and performance. But according to the National Sleep Foundation, nearly one quarter of America's adults, or 47 million people, will not get even the minimum amount of sleep they need to be alert the next day.

For those patients diagnosed with Obstructive Sleep Apnea and using PAP therapy, here's a reminder to "PAP when you nap."

Please use your CPAP/BIPAP whenever you sleep, not just a night.

We at Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center urge everyone in our community to make it a regular habit to get the amount of sleep you need for a bright and productive tomorrow.

For more information, go to the NSF Web site at www.sleepfoundation.org.

Or, contact the Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center at 547-8905.

Sleep well tonight for a better tomorrow.

Connie Saltonstall to challenge Bart Stupak in Democratic primary

Democrats in Michigan's First Congressional District will now have a choice in the August Primary.

Connie Saltonstall has announced she will challenge Bart Stupak for the Democratic Nomination for United States Representative.

This week supporters of Saltonstall launched a petition drive to collect the 1,000 signatures required to place her name on the August primary ballot.

Saltonstall, a life long Charlevoix resident, declared that one of her top priorities is to work for affordable, accessible healthcare for all Americans and to support what the Supreme Court has ruled as a woman's right to privacy.

Saltonstall states, "Our Congressman has let us down. Bart Stupak has threatened to block healthcare reform unless the Amendment that bears his name is included in the final bill. I believe that he has a right to his personal, religious views, but to deprive his constituents of needed healthcare reform because of those views is reprehensible."

Saltonstall has heard from Democrats throughout the First District who are outraged by Stupak's hard line on this important issue and demand a candidate who will support real healthcare reform.

Saltonstall ran for State Representative in the 105th District in 2008 and served as a Charlevoix County Commissioner in 2006. A graduate of Charlevoix High School and the University of Michigan, Saltonstall has a background in both education and business. She taught fourth grade in the Charlevoix Schools.

In 1978 she was elected to the Charlevoix Board of Education, was appointed to the Michigan Association of School Boards Taxation Committee, and recently completed a three-year term on the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

She also founded and was Vice President of a small but nationally known research and consulting firm, with clients including Viacom, ABC, ESPN, The Weather Channel, and CBS. Currently she is a mediator and board member with Northern Community Mediation and serves as board president of Hospice of Northwest Michigan. She is well known for her tireless work on behalf of the Charlevoix

Public Library.

Saltonstall believes that voters in Michigan's First District will support a candidate who will work for them on the important issues of job creation, health care, education, infrastructure maintenance and improvements, and protecting the environment of our precious Great Lakes.

"Michigan and the First District are facing enormous challenges and we cannot afford to sacrifice solutions for individual agendas. Stupak is co-chair of the Pro-Life Caucus and is putting their interests above those of his district," she said. "No federal funds have been used for abortions since 1977, and that provision will stay in effect without his amendment. In my opinion, Bart Stupak has shown that he is willing to block important legislation to support his own agenda at the expense of those he is elected to represent."

Man's best friend can improve mental health

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Northern Sky Obedience Academy is expanding their training services to include psychiatric service dogs.

"In the context of mental health, a service dog can help an owner to calm Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, Obsessive Compulsive Disorder, anxiety, panic attacks, as well as other mental health disorders such as depression," said Gaye Amick, owner and trainer at Northern Sky. "They also do the other things like a regular service dog, allow the owner to brace themselves on the dog or pick up the car keys if the owner drops them."

Psychiatric service dogs are able to accompany their owners into public places allowing an owner with disorders that would leave them vulnerable and force them to avoid public places a sense of calm and safety.

Depending on the need, dogs can be trained to conduct home searches, allowing owners to be assured there is no danger, turn on lights, lead distressed owners to safety, alert to seizures and interrupt OCD behaviors.

According to the National Institute of Mental Health's web site, "An estimated 26.2 percent of Americans ages 18 and older — about one in four adults — suffer from a diagnosable mental disorder in a given year."

Amick said the program is not new they just didn't offer it before.

The program requires a minimum of four months training with the dog followed by training for both the dog and owner and consistent follow ups with the owner to make sure the dog is functioning properly.

"Psychiatric Service Dogs are becoming more wide spread because of the things they do, they are trained differently than assistance dogs," said Amick. "I'm hoping Charlevoix accepts it well, so I can take the dogs downtown into the stores. They have a lot of training under their belt before we do that."

Amick has been training dogs for 30 years and has been running Northern Sky for six years.

Northern Sky offers Puppy Preschool, Basic and Advanced obedience, off-leash, tracking, retrieval, scent detection and personal protection training.

Amick is certified by the National Canine Association in Columbus, Ohio. She is also a mentor for the Animal Behavior College in California, a member of the International Association of Canine Professionals and National Canine Trainers Association.

Put Your Tax Refund to Work

Benjamin Muladore
Financial Advisor

It's Tax Refund Season again. This year, if you're going to get a check from your Uncle Sam, why not put it to work to help you meet your financial goals?

Last year, the average tax refund was more than $2,700, according to the IRS. The size of your refund, or whether you will get one at all, depends on your individual circumstances. But if you are going to get a refund, plan ahead for what you'll do with it. Here are a few possibilities:

• Pay down some debts. In these difficult economic times, you may be carrying a higher debt load than usual. If so, you may want to use some of your refund to pay down some of these debts. The lower your debt payments, the better your cash flow and the more money you'll have to invest for the future.

• Build an emergency fund. If you don't already have an emergency fund containing six to 12 months' worth of living expenses, you could use your tax refund to start one. Without such a fund, you may find yourself constantly dipping into your long-term investments to pay for unexpected costs, such as a new furnace or an expensive car repair. Keep your emergency fund in a liquid account — one that you don't draw on for your day-to-day expenses.

• Help fund your IRA. In 2010, you can put in up to $5,000 to your IRA. Consequently, if you received a $2,700 refund, you'd have more than half of what you need to fully fund your IRA for the year. (If you're 50 or older, however, you can contribute up to $6,000 per year.) You might not think that your $2,700 would make much of a difference in the long run. But by investing your refund and giving it many years of growth potential, you could end up with a sizable amount.

Consider the following: If you put $2,700 in your IRA, and you earned, on average, seven percent a year for 30 years, you'd end up with about $20,000, even if you never invested another dime. If you put $2,700 every year in that same IRA, again earning an average seven percent annual return, you'd end up with more than $270,000 after thirty years. (These examples are hypothetical illustrations and do not represent any currently available investments.)

You'd eventually have to pay taxes on your earnings, typically when you make withdrawals at retirement. And if you qualified for a Roth IRA, you'd never have to pay taxes on your earnings, as long as you had your account for at least five years and didn't start taking withdrawals until you were at least 59-1/2.

• Contribute to a Section 529 plan. If you have children or grandchildren, you may want to establish Section 529 plans to help them pay for college. You can contribute virtually any amount, and the earnings grow tax-free, provided the money is used for higher education expenses. (Withdrawals used for expenses other than qualified education expenses may be subject to federal, state and penalty taxes. Contributions are tax-deductible in certain states for residents who participate in their own state's plan. Please note that a 529 college savings plan could impact a beneficiary's ability to qualify for financial aid.)

You may be tempted to spend your tax refund on things you want today — but, with a little planning, you can use it for things you need tomorrow.

To our friends and neighbors,

Thank you for the overwhelming support for Fox Charlevoix to retain the General Motors franchise.

I was notified last week that General Motors has changed their position and will retain the Fox Charlevoix location. The many cards and letters were very touching to me and I believe influenced GM to change course.

We couldn't have done it without you.

Special meeting on fire/EMS issue

Only one township takes city's plan

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Charlevoix City Council will convene at 5 p.m. on Wednesday March 24, to decide how it will proceed with fire/EMS services.

The special meeting comes nearly a year after council initially approached the five townships it serves with a proposal to increase fees citing that Charlevoix City taxpayers subsidize the cost by nearly $100,000 annually and that the city could no longer cover the expenditure.

"There appears to be little movement towards agreement on fire/EMS contracts. In fact, methodology used to pay for fire/EMS services that was agreed upon collectively by the group is now being misleadingly packaged 'as mandated by the city' by a township official," the narrative in the special meeting agenda stated. "Although there is some minor requests to change language in the proposed contract that could be resolved, the main reluctance seems to be an unwillingness to pay increases in fees. From a fiscal perspective, it appears that, if the city cannot get participation from the townships on at least EMS services, the city will have to make cuts."

The city pays $394,127 currently for its own fire and EMS. Charlevoix Township pays $18,198 for EMS only.

Eveline pays $30,400, Norwood pays $24,700 and Marion pays $41,345.

ACLU questions school lockdown

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

When Charlevoix High School staff discovered vandalism on May 21, 2008, at the school, the police were contacted and students were told to stay put.

Over what the Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) claims to be a three-hour period, nearly 400 students had their hands and feet inspected for signs of paint in connection with damage done to the school's building and trades modular home project—in addition to allegedly having their constitutional rights violated.

"We are very troubled by the actions of school officials and law enforcement personnel," attorneys for the ACLU stated in a March 16 letter to both Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik and Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider. "These events raise serious constitutional and policy concerns regarding the rights of students and the role of law enforcement in our schools."

The group added, "We urge you to take appropriate steps to ensure that a similar incident does not happen again."

According to Janik and Schneider, the ACLU's four-page letter is rife with misinformation. However, aside from saying the "event" did not last three hours, neither would say which points were incorrect.

"I'll argue there was not a lockdown. There was an unfortunate criminal act in May of 2008 on school property and, by law, we must report it to the proper authorities," Janik said. "The sheriff's (office) ... was involved. They did an investigation and the case is still ongoing."

The ACLU cited a violation of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, which is supposed to prevent unreasonable search and seizures for all people.

According to the ACLU's opinion, school officials must have "reasonable suspicion" that

PI ACCIDENT

On March 6, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office was dispatched to Charlevoix Area Hospital for a private property injury accident involving a snowmobile and five year old child. Thomas Edward Hart III (5) of Boyne City was being treated for an injury to his left eyelid. According to the grandfather Thomas Hart Sr. (52) of East Jordan, the child was driving the family's Yard-Man Snow Cub youth snowmobile when he collided with the rear of his grandfather's pickup truck parked in the driveway.

The child was wearing a helmet and the injury was not serious. The accident occurred in the drive of 8420 Rogers Road. Family members transported the child to the hospital.

Welfare cheats beware

GOP introduces bills to combat food stamp fraud

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

It may look like an average credit card, but the Michigan Bridge Card has replaced paper checks and traditional food stamps for Michigan welfare recipients with the intent of a more secure, efficient emergency aid system for the poor.

However, of the nearly $2.2 billion in food assistance to Michiganders each year nearly $300 million of that is illegally spent on alcohol, tobacco and other unqualified items through bridge card abuse.

"My caucus is leading the charge to secure an audit ... on the bridge card system (and) I've met with the auditor general. Their funding level is such that they do not have the manpower to complete an audit," said Michigan State House of Representatives leader and 105th District Rep. Kevin Elsenheimer (R-Bellaire). "However, they've told me it is high on their list of audits they would like to complete."

Nearly 1.6 million people in Michigan, according to the Department of Human Services, receive bridge card assistance yet the department investigates only 5,000 claims of fraud and abuse annually.

One of the major crimes surrounding the program is food assistance trafficking: when bridge cards are sold for cash, generally for less than the value of the card.

Claims of food assistance trafficking may be reported to the office of inspector general (800) 222-8558.

Citing recent busts of welfare cheats in Detroit and dwindling state reserves, especially for waste, a handful of Republican lawmakers are looking to combat the fraud with a package of seven bills and further measures to stem misuse of the program.

HB 5293 - Seeks to have cardholders' respective images and signatures placed on bridge cards.

HB 5940 - Would ensure noncustodial parents who owe child support payments to their spouse are not eligible for food assistance.

HB 5941 - College students being claimed as dependents on their parents' tax returns may not qualify for food assistance.

HB 5942 - The Michigan State Department will have access to electronic prisoner biographies to ensure incarcerated persons are not receiving food or cash assistance while in jail or prison.

HB 5943 - Michigan Bridge Cards are prohibited from being used for cash withdrawals from ATMs, tobacco products, alcohol and lottery tickets. However, the bridge cards may be used for housing costs, personal toiletries, food, clothing and child care services.

HB 5944 - Clerks must verify the identity of bridge card users and only allow users listed on the card to purchase items or face a $50 fine per infraction. Bridge card users must produce a driver license, state ID card or other qualified picture ID.

HB 5945 - Random drug testing will commence as a condition of assistance. Persons who test positive for illicit drugs will lose their assistance for at least 180 days and test negative before having assistance reinstated.

"I support these statutes because we clearly have abuse in the bridge card system," Elsenheimer said. "The problem is those who abuse the system, in essence, make it more difficult and/or take money away from people who need bridge cards.

It's a real problem that's costing taxpayers money.

Elsenheimer said the GOP is often and unfairly cited as anti-social programs and that he and his colleagues are simply seeking to eliminate as much waste in the program as possible.

"We believe in supporting programs for people who are truly in need, but we are also very concerned that government programs tend to grow and not be watched carefully and can result in fraud," he said. "We're really concerned about the people who are truly in need and those are the people who are supposed to be served by this program."

Elsenheimer added, "I think this (bills) are a good start and we need to be looking into some additional controls on kinds of purchases that can be made."

Elsenheimer cited the Women, Infants and Children program known as WIC. WIC dictates exactly what types of foods can be purchased with government-issued coupons.

Figures are from 2002, USDA

- The federal food stamp program was developed in the 1960s
- More than $18.2 billion in federal funds is annually used for food stamps
- Approximately 19 million people receive food stamps
- More than half of recipients are younger than 17
- The average family receiving food stamps has 3.3 children
- Nearly 30 percent of food stamp households have a disabled family member
- More than 1.7 million senior citizens are on the food stamp program
- Nearly half of those who get food stamps do so for fewer than nine months
- Food stamp recipients, on average, receive them for nearly two years

"Just ask any store clerk in Northern Michigan and they can tell you about the abuses of the bridge card program," Elsenheimer said. "We're seeing some foods purchased that has low nutritional value and we've received complaints of people buying luxury items with bridge cards - and that might be looked at as well."

Michigan misses out on 'Race' funding

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Washington D.C. schools and those of 15 states have been named as finalists for their share of the $4.35 billion Race to the Top grant program.

However, Michigan was not one of them.

"I wasn't completely surprised that Michigan wasn't in the first wave of funding," said Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Chet Janik. "There were obviously competitive processes to go through and not every state was successful."

Race to the Top is the education reform portion of President Barack Obama's American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009, more commonly known as the "federal stimulus plan."

Michigan had applied for a one-time lump sum grant of $400 million back on Jan. 19.

In its rush to comply with federal requirements for the grant, Michigan hurriedly passed numerous educational reforms which were then and now being questioned by officials.

"My concerns and the other districts' concerns are what financial implications will this have on our budgets?" Janik said. "For example: Our estimated revenue was supposed to be $60,000, a one-time allotment. But, what will the reforms cost us? Reforms that will last not just one year, but how much will we have to allocate to these reforms year after year?"

According to a U.S. Department of Education news release, "states competing for Race to the Top funds were asked to document past education reform successes, as well as outline plans to: extend reforms using college and career-ready standards and assessments; build a workforce of highly effective educators; create educational data systems to support student achievement; and turn around their lowest-performing schools."

The winning states were Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Tennessee.

"These states are an example for the country of what is possible when adults come together to do the right thing for children," said education secretary Arne Duncan. "Everyone that applied for Race to the Top is charting a path for education reform in America. I salute all of the applicants for their hard work. And I encourage non-finalists to reapply for phase 2."

Applications for phase 2 of the grant process are due on June 1.

The finalists will be announced in August, with winners to be announced in September.

The duty of the faithful

Whenever disaster strikes, I feel proud of the people of the United States.

Whether it is a hurricane in Louisiana, a tsunami in Malaysia, or a ground-shaking earthquake in Haiti, it is America, of all the nations of the world, who gets there first and brings along the most food, equipment, and cash.

As difficult as things are for the average American right now, charitable donations are down a bit overall.

Still, an innate desire to help seems to be part of what it means to be an American. We are compassionate by our nature, a people inclined to give of ourselves.

Consider the Haiti disaster, and you see a people willing to do whatever it takes with no expectation of praise or repayment, or even a thank-you.

In my opinion — which means, of course, I can't prove it and you can't disprove it — the reason we are this way today is because of the values handed down to us from generations gone by.

And those values came to them by virtue of a Christian heritage that was woven into the fabric of our society.

Yes, although it may be criticized as politically incorrect to say it out loud, we are at our roots a Christian nation. As the land of the free we welcome and accommodate people with a wide range of beliefs, including no beliefs at all, but our heritage has grown out of Biblical teachings and Christian values applied in our homes and throughout our institutions.

Yet even in a land as polarized and divided as ours today, it is still a puzzle to me that Christians are so often held in low regard by much of our society.

We are branded as hypocrites, phonies, and narrow minded twits.

We are stuck with labels like Bible-thumpers and right-wing fanatics.

The Christian point of view is the only voice in society today that can be criticized and dismissed with impunity. When so-called comedians like Bill Maher and Stephen Colbert need material they simply make mockery of beliefs and institutions that have their roots in Christianity. To a whole generation of Americans, the essence of humor is degradation of God and the derision of anyone who seeks to follow Him.

Even though our nation is built on Christian values, those same values are aggressively opposed whenever we venture into the marketplace of ideas.

For example, if I want to set off a flood of angry comments on this column, I need only suggest that evolution is an unproved theory with a lot of scientific holes in it. And maybe, just maybe, there is reason to consider intelligent design.

The same is true for the voice willing to endure the criticism from saying out loud that neither the words nor the concept of "separation of church and state" appear anywhere in the Constitution of the United States.

Likewise, get ready to be criticized by the shrill voices of the secular humanists and atheists who so resent Christianity if you point out that the laws of our land are crafted to ensure freedom of religion, not freedom from religion.

And, if you operate a charitable hospital, as Catholics and other faiths do, you must now defend yourself from those who require you to choose between providing services or violating your beliefs.

But I think there is something more fundamental going on in our society that brings about criticism of our faith.

I think the disdain many feel toward Christianity is the inevitable result of decades in which those of us who professed Jesus Christ talked about heaven on Sundays and lived like hell the rest of the week.

I think for years the world has been watching us get dressed up and put on a good show on Sunday mornings, then conduct ourselves badly in our homes and workplaces. As a result, society has watched us long enough to develop a certain disdain for organized religion.

What I regret most about that widely held perspective is when our critics look at the religion of Christianity as it is practiced today, they dismiss it before they have a chance to meet Jesus.

When they reject that relationship, they miss the blessing.

So, when they consider Christ it is religion, and religiosity, that gets in the way of relationship. Sadly, today it is Christianity itself that turns many people off to Christ.

It would pay for us to keep in mind that a professing Christian is a living, breathing sermon.

The people we brush up against throughout our day are listening and watching, and they are making up their mind about the relevance of Jesus for their lives by observing what He seems to be accomplishing in ours.

Stephen Guthrie directs Christian Counseling Services in Charlevoix. By appointment at 231-675-4682.

They included the telescope, the microscope and the instruments that enabled people to safely and surely travel the world's oceans: sextant, compass and most important, extremely accurate clocks. More recently, radar, satellites circling the earth and even simple detectors of tiny amounts of carbon dioxide are the instruments of discovery.

Both the telescope and microscope were invented near the year 1600 by two Dutch eyeglass makers who have received way too little credit.

Lippershey and Jansen, whose names appear in very few histories of science, knew how to grind lenses from glass and saw the potential for not only easier reading, but also of distant and very close seeing that such lenses allowed.

They did little with their inventions and it fell to Galileo and others a decade later to put them to magnificent use.

Galileo looked at the moon with a telescope. Then he looked at the planet Jupiter and the world was forever changed.

He saw mountains on the surface of the moon and calculated and wallpapered and windows were repaired, calked and painted. The Conservancy enjoyed a beautiful office for 10 years, created seven preserves and worked on conservation projects throughout the county.

It is difficult and expensive to keep up and preserve historic buildings. Be it timing or fate or economics, the support to save this historic home was not there. For the past ten years, the Charlevoix Historical Society was engaged in other critical ventures, the Light House restoration, the Depot restoration, Harsha House and other programs. There was little interest in creating a historical district of the oldest Charlevoix homes and the churches, in part because of fears that future development and parking use would be constrained. There is more pressure for parking than resources for preservation.

We want to thank everyone who loved and repaired and worked to restore this home with us. It was good work. We also want to thank the Charlevoix DDA and Keith Carey for working with the Charlevoix Historical Society and the Charlevoix County Historic Preservation Society in the salvage and reuse of doors, windows and other historic materials in the home.

Thank you again to the Charlevoix DDA and City of Charlevoix for sharing the 108 Park Ave. home with us.

"The Lion and the Mouse" characters missing the mouse are Collin Davis, Collin Smith, Ralga Novotny, Naomi Batdorf, and Aaliyah Pearsall. These students will appear in the upcoming Charlevoix Public Schools spring musical.

Time for Charlevoix's annual Spring Musical

BY ALEXANDRA BALLENTINE
CHARLEVOIX HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT JOURNALIST

The students chatter excitedly as the next song comes up on the overhead. Some students climb out of the bleachers and walk in front of the audience to play their special part.

Today the audience is just fourth graders, but on March 24 the audience will consist of the many friends and family members of the third and fourth graders for the annual elementary school Spring Musical.

Only third and fourth-graders are in the show, "Because that's all we can fit," said Mrs. Jodie Thompson, the music teacher and director of the spring musical.

"Also, the third and fourth graders are older and can handle more," Thompson added.

The organization and planning for these musicals starts a year ahead of time.

Thompson orders the items she needs in May the year before the musical is held.

She has a book full of plays in which she chooses the play for the next year.

The book has songs for each play but she also chooses extra songs that go along with the theme. The theme is decided by the play she chooses.

Thompson tries to include drama, singing, choreography and instruments in the play. The students are taught the songs once a week during music class. Two weeks before the show, the students are brought down everyday for rehearsal. Students with special parts have to come in for separate rehearsal.

This year's theme is in the "Jungle" and focuses mainly on friendship.

While the cost of each musical varies, depending on the costumes and design, Thompson covers the expense with funds from the learn and serve grant and the PTO (Parent Teacher Organization). The grant pays for costumes, fabric, paint supplies and more. Thompson is required to invite members of the community because the grant requires they serve the community.

This year they have invited the senior center and the Bergmann center.

When Thompson is picking students for the special parts, she holds auditions for the parts in January. Students interested come and try out for the part.

"It feels good to know people are watching," Fourth-grader Aaliyah Pearsall said.

Pearsall likes rehearsals because she gets to go in after lunch and it helps them, so no mistakes will be made during the show. Pearsall was selected to play Maliki the lion, King of the Jungle.

Fourth grader Collin Davis was selected to have a speaking part with Pearsall. Davis said he likes to do the play because he likes to be with his friends.

Several students were selected to narrate the story. One student was Savhana McCullough.

Though she sometimes gets nervous when she's talking in front of the audience, she likes having a special part. McCullough agrees with Pearsall that practices are good because they help the students learn their parts.

The musical will be at 7 p.m. on March 24 at in the high school auditorium. Alex is a sophomore at Charlevoix High School. She is the daughter of Amy and Roger Vanniman.

Joseph Dan Horon, age 57 years, passed away Tuesday, March 16, 2010 at Bay Regional Medical Center after a lengthy illness. He was born on October 24, 1952 in Knox, Indiana. After graduating from Plymouth High school in Indiana, Joe served six years in the U.S. Navy. He married Deborah Bloomquist on June 6, 1981 and was employed for 30 years at Consumers Energy. He volunteered his time with the Charlevoix Little League as its president and as a coach, and also with Habitat for Humanity. Joe was a member of St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Essexville.

Surviving family include his wife, Deborah; son, Matthew, daughter, Laura; his brothers and sister, Robert, Michael and Pam and several beloved nieces, nephews and friends. Joe was preceded in death by his parents, Joseph and Alva.

Funeral Liturgy will be celebrated on Saturday, March 20, 2010 at 11:00 a.m. at the St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church; 614 Pine St. in Essexville. The Rev. Fr. Patrick C. O'Connor presiding. In lieu of flowers, those desiring may make contributions to the Karmanos Cancer Center in Detroit. Funeral arrangements are entrusted to the Penzien-Steele Funeral Home, 608 N. Madison Ave., Bay City, Michigan 48708, (989) 892-8531.

City to discuss fire EMS options

MEETING

Hayes pays $6,030 for EMS alone.

Township officials from the majority of the townships balked at the proposal and city officials held numerous meetings to present progressively less costly options.

Each time the city was refused.

To date, Eveline Township is the only government entity to have signed on for both fire/EMS services.

The latest proposal by the city reduced the package by $71,000 overall, and in mid-February, Charlevoix City officials requested a response from the townships by March 19.

According to the special meeting agenda, the following townships have responded thusly as of March 22:

- Charlevoix Township - Describing on EMS services; possesses its own fire department. • Hayes Township - Declined EMS services due to proposed increase; considering alternatives; will continue to receive fire services from Charlevoix Township.

• Marion Township - Planning to go with Charlevoix Township's fire protection due to proposed price hike. Marion is also looking for other opportunities for its EMS services.

• Norwood Township - Proposing to maintain their currently contracted rate of .5 mills for both fire and EMS services. This would be approximately $6,400 less than what the city proposed. Norwood officials also requested their deal occur regardless of participation of the other townships.

According to the proposal, Hayes is paid through Oct. 31 of this year; Eveline, Norwood and Marion are paid through April 30 for fire services and all are paid through June 7 for EMS. Charlevoix Township is paid through April 30 for the EMS services it receives from the city.

Some of the options city council members will consider at the special meeting include:

- Maintaining the status quo
- no changes to the current contracted pricing and services.

Advantages include keeping what funding there is now.

Disadvantages include continued subsidization of a portion of township services by Charlevoix City taxpayers.

• Notify affected townships that their services are to be terminated at the end of their current contract period.

Advantages - Allows the city to focus fire/EMS services on the city and save money by ending the subsidy.

Disadvantages - Could limit the funding of future fire/EMS services potentially resulting in reduced staff and new equipment purchases.

- Extending deadline to May 1 and then terminating service if no agreement is reached.

Advantages - Retains opportunity to reach an agreement; forces townships to make a decision; shows a good faith effort on the city's part to come to an agreement.

Disadvantages - further delays a decision by the township officials.

"Staff recommends option #3. This will give the townships adequate time to research costs/response times/quality of service issues. Additionally, this approach adheres to contract language and requires officials make a decision. It appears that fire service through the city may not be required any more but EMS services are still in flux," the narrative continued. "With this scenario the city remains open to any last attempts to partner on fire or EMS services."

Benishek announces run for Congress

IRON MOUNTAIN, Michigan, March 15, 2010 – Daniel J. Benishek, M.D. announced today that he is running as a Republican against Bari Stupak for Michigan's 1st District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

At high noon, from the steps of the historic Dickinson County Courthouse, Benishek told a crowd of supporters that he has collected the 1,000 signatures needed to put his name on the August 3 primary ballot.

"I chose Dickinson County for my announcement," said Benishek, "because this is where I raised my children and where I have been practicing medicine as a surgeon and small business owner for nearly 30 years ... and because I wanted to announce in Michigan's newest county my campaign to become Michigan's newest member of Congress."

Benishek is not a lawyer and has never before sought political office. "I feel compelled to seek a position at this time because of disturbing developments in our nation's capitol," said Benishek. "I truly believe the people in our District deserve better."

Benishek is committed to principles of personal responsibility and limited government. He stands firmly with the people of America's heartland, sharing conservative positions on key issues such as private-sector job creation, fiscal responsibility, tax-rate reduction, secure borders, free-market healthcare reform, energy independence, strong national defense, second amendment rights and, most important, sanctity of life from conception to natural death.

"I have received tremendous response from people across our District," Benishek said, "but I will need lots more support in my campaign to restore the American dream."

Benishek was born and raised in Iron River, a small mining town with a rich heritage and strong family values. He and his wife Judy live in Crystal Falls and share five children and two grandchildren.

Review of lockdown policy

a pupil who is detained and searched has violated some law or school rule and that evidence will be obtained from the search and seizure. And, law enforcement must meet the higher standard of the Fourth Amendment that a crime is being committed by the person seized and that evidence of the crime will be found in the place searched, the ACLU continued.

"These standards were not met in this case. First, the lockdown itself was an unreasonable seizure," the ACLU stated. "Not only were students required to remain in their classrooms for several hours, they could not even leave to use the restroom or go to lunch. Furthermore, the seizure was unreasonable because, although a building on school property had been vandalized, there was no reason to believe that the physical safety of anyone on school property was threatened. And, there was surely no probable cause to believe that the entire student body was involved in criminal activity."

The ACLU, citing Tinker v. Des Moines Independent Community School District, 1969, stated that schools are not constitution-free zones. "School children do not shed their constitutional rights at the school house gate," the opinion reads.

Benishek is committed to principles of personal responsibility and limited government. He stands firmly with the people of America's heartland, sharing conservative positions on key issues such as private-sector job creation, fiscal responsibility, tax-rate reduction, secure borders, free-market healthcare reform, energy independence, strong national defense, second amendment rights and, most important, sanctity of life from conception to natural death.

"I have received tremendous response from people across our District," Benishek said, "but I will need lots more support in my campaign to restore the American dream."

Benishek was born and raised in Iron River, a small mining town with a rich heritage and strong family values. He and his wife Judy live in Crystal Falls and share five children and two grandchildren.

A now graduated student, Austin Wilhelm, 21, was charged with the vandalism and a trial on the matter is scheduled for early June.

Franklin A. Morse II, an attorney and member of the

The sheriff said in addition to concern over never having been contacted during the ACLU's investigation into the matter, he fears their actions may work against the individuals involved with the upcoming trial.

"We were contacted by some concerned parents and citizens of Charlevoix ..."

Franklin A. Morse II, an attorney and member of the ACLU

ACLU's Northwestern Branch in Suttons Bay, said in a telephone conversation on Thursday March 17, that the ACLU merely wants school officials to reexamine their school safety policy.

"We were contacted by some concerned parents and citizens of Charlevoix ... sometime last summer," Morse said. "They've given us a lot of materials and we've reviewed that and so forth and our legal counsel in Detroit went over it and we collaborated and decided we would address the matter in the letter."

Janik said he cannot comment on specifics regarding the case because he has been and will likely again be subpoenaed by the prosecutor in the case. Neither would he say if school officials will reexamine their so-called "lockdown" policy.

"I have great respect for students' rights and I have a great deal of respect, historically, for the ACLU, but I have concerns that they never contacted myself or the sheriff's (office). They state numerous allegations as fact that are simply not true."

"Let's let the court decide if anybody's rights were violated. My deputies know they can't violate someone's constitutional rights," he said. "My biggest concern is that somebody is trying to try this crime outside of the court by sending this letter to the media."

The letter was apparently sent to at least one print and television media outlet at the same time it was sent to Janik and Schneider.

Morse said his office received enough information from parents and students to warrant not discussing the matter with Janik or Schneider.

Petoskey resident Dale Hull, who is a friend of the Wilhelm family, is one of the people who initially contacted the ACLU.

"I've gone to just about every board meeting I could go to hoping to hear someone say something positive about what's going to happen in the future and I suggested this to the (school) board early on," Hull said. "It would have been appropriate if someone would have just admitted they made a mistake (in calling for a lockdown) and said it won't happen again because they'll be examining their policy."

Now that the ACLU has claimed the school acted inappropriately, Hull said he hopes school officials will take the opportunity to do the right thing.

"Students need to realize they were treated in a way that was not respectful of their citizenship and ... it has been pointed out that we don't give up our civil rights when we walk into a school," he said. "The best case scenario is the school board will reexamine its policy. They can use this as a teaching tool to make sure their policy is constitutional."

Janik and Schneider are planning to respond to the ACLU's letter, in writing, but they could not say when that would be.

A phone message left at the Wilhelm residence and with Wilhelm attorney, Mary Beth Kur was not returned by press time.

County. Representatives from a variety of agencies and organizations shared their insights on five specific topics of current and future importance to seniors, their caregivers and the community in general.

Board members expressed special gratitude to those who attended the event and gave so generously of their time, interest and ideas. Particular appreciation was extended to those who committed to continuing their involvement in identifying and addressing senior concerns.

This public forum was the second of a series of meetings intended to assist the COA board in identifying needs and raising awareness of problems facing seniors in the community. The information and ideas gathered will be used by the board to advise the county commissioners regarding senior issues and to advocate for plans and actions on behalf of the county's senior population.

Everyone with an interest in learning about the issues and participating in the COA board's outreach effort is encouraged to attend the next community forum to be held in the East Jordan Library at 10:30 am on Monday, April 19. The board hopes to hear again from the agencies as well as members of the public at that time.

Spring a time of sprains and strains

Physical therapists urge caution when engaging in spring activities. FILE PHOTO

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

With the recent warm temperatures, many are looking to get a jump start on yard work or even start a new exercise program. But those who try to do too much too soon may be in for a surprise.

"With spring fever, everybody wants to get out and start doing things," said Damon Whitfield, a physical therapist and athletic trainer with Tim Bondy Physical Therapy. "We see a lot of people in this time of year with sprains and strains from doing a little too much too soon."

Whitfield sees a good number of people coming in this time of year with overuse injuries, many of which aren't necessarily from hard exercise.

"It's surprising, but we see a lot of people in during the spring and early summer with injuries from gardening," said Whitfield.

Whitfield urges those looking to start new exercise programs or begin their yard work or gardening for the season to take it slow and ease into any new activity. Especially after winter, when many people are less active.

There are three basic symptoms of overuse injuries to be aware of when starting any new activity.

Benevolent pain is a normal result of muscle overload.

Benevolent pain is generally present after activity and can usually be relieved by slowing down and doing a proper warm-up.

Semi-harmful pain indicates that you are starting to get into trouble. Semi-harmful pain can sometimes be partially relieved by a warm-up, but if it persists, it usually means you should take a break and cut back on activity.

Harmful pain indicates you are in trouble. During this stage, performance is greatly reduced. Those experiencing ing harmful pain should stop activity and seek medical attention.

Tim Bondy Physical Therapy has programs for those who are looking to get started on a new exercise routine. They also offer a number of classes for people of all ages including Tai Chi, senior exercise classes, and core classes.

Tim Bondy Physical Therapy has three area locations and serves clients from around Northern Michigan. For more information, visit their Web site at www.timbondy.com.

Syrup season comes early

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Maple syrup lovers often refer to the treat as liquid gold. This season, Michigan maple syrup may actually be worth its weight in gold.

While the recent warm temperatures have been welcomed by many, it has been a blow to the state's maple syrup production.

"I don't remember it ever being this warm this soon," said Terri Parsons, owner of Harwood Heritage Gold in Charlevoix. Our syrup production is way down from where it should be. Last year we finished with more than 900 gallons of syrup. We're at 200 gallons right now."

Terri's husband, Dave, is a fourth generation maple syrup maker.

Down the road at Currey Farms, production isn't any better. Jan and her husband Art have been making maple syrup for years, but this is their 5th year of widespread production. In 2009, they produced just over 1,000 gallons.

"We currently have about a quarter of what we produced last year," said Jan Currey. "If the season is going to continue, then there is hope that we'll be able to make more. But really, all syrup producers in Michigan are just shaking their heads in disbelief."

Maple syrup makers need it to be cold during the night so the sap can freeze and expand. Then when temperatures warm during the day, the trees are tapped and the sap is collected.

"We're really hoping it gets cold again before the beginning of April," explained Currey. "If it does get cold again, it will shock the trees back. Just one night would really help."

Michigan isn't the only state struggling with syrup production. Vermont already finished their production for the year and they produced just 40-percent of their usual crop.

"Most people think of Vermont when they think of maple syrup. But Michigan is currently ranked as the 6th largest producer in the country," said Parsons. "But this year, it seems like we're all struggling."

"The truth is, nature is a very strong force," added Currey. "It has a mind of its own; but we're hoping some cold nights will still come."

Both Harwood Heritage Gold and Currey Farms are open to the public.

Later this month, Harwood Heritage Gold will also offer an afternoon of fun for those looking to learn more about maple syrup making. Activities are planned for Sunday, March 28th from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the farm. Maple products will also be available to try.

For more information on Harwood Heritage Farms or Currey Farms, visit their Web sites at www.harwoodgold.com or www.curreyfarms.com.

Behind the scenes of 'The Frontier Boys'

It took dozens of crew members nearly two days to set up for a few hours of shooting on Saturday March 20. The Frontier Boys movie has scenes all over Charlevoix including snowmobile chases on outlying farms, basketball scenes at the Charlevoix Middle School and the climax of the film is expected to be shot at the burning of the 108 Park Ave. house sometime this week.

Key grip Matt Ryan heads to a lighting fixture in need of taping during the set-up phase of the movie shoot last Saturday. Key grips specialize in setting up the electrical needed to run the several thousand watt lights which make filming in dark locations like the Charlevoix Middle School gymnasium possible.

Joe Vogelhelm, a local llacon for The Frontier Boys movie production, sits in the bleachers with former Rayder athlete Scott Friske (right). Friske played on the Charlevoix Rayders basketball team during scenes filmed at Charlevoix Middle School on March 20.

BUSINESS What's new?

Send your business news to the Courier at news@charlevoixcourier.com

Becky Melenon recently started her own home health care business. "Helping your loved ones stay at home" is the motto of Charlevoix's new home care option for elderly and special needs family members.

Nursing home alternative available in Charlevoix

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

Becky Melenon recently started Charlevoix Home Care as a nursing home alternative.

With the numbers of sick and elderly in need of basic nursing care continuing to rise, Melenon saw a need to be filled.

"People can't afford to pay six to eight thousand dollars a month to put their loved ones into a home and if they're not happy in a home it just doesn't make sense," she said.

Melenon performs light housekeeping, runs errand, prepares meals, assists in challenges such as walking or using the restroom, picks up prescriptions, takes clients to appointments or grocery shopping, anything it takes to allow an elderly or special needs person to stay in their home.

"I am not a health care provider, I am a home care provider," said Melenon.

Melenon can attest to the good from allowing people to recover from illness in familiar surroundings.

"If they are in their own home it keeps them going, keeps them thinking and allows the family to know they are being taken care of on their terms," she said. "There is definitely a need for this."

Melenon said it can be difficult for some sick and elderly people to do basic things like run errands or clean up around their home by themselves.

"You have to have stimulation not just be in the house all the time. We go for walks, visit the park or go out for ice cream, if the sun is shining they should be enjoying it," she said. "I treat my clients like family — they are my family."

She added, "I do this job because I love elderly people, I always have."

Charlevoix Home Care is insured and has three employees.

"I screen my people. It takes a special kind of person to do this. Some (clients) have Alzheimer's or Dementia, you can't take it personally," Melenon said. "It's a simple business: we are helpers; we help them do whatever they want to do."

Except for giving her clients their medicine, Melenon and her employees do not dabble in the medical aspects of elderly care.

"Our goal is to keep them happy in their home so they can stay happy and healthy," she said. "I feel (this) is a better way to take care of the people who took care of us."

Charlevoix Home Care, LLC can be reached at (231) 437-3110 or (231) 459-6105.

Copy and paste, a life lesson

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

It's our past experiences in life that really mold us into who we are. But as time passes, we can look back and see things from a whole new perspective.

That's the idea behind "Copy and Paste," a book written by Glenn Wachler of Charlevoix.

"The person who reads this will view their own life and their own experiences," said Wachler. "Ultimately, the story brings you to a point where hopefully you discover something very special in your own life."

Wachler has been writing since he was a teenager. He kept a number of journals which became the inspiration for "Copy and Paste."

"The journals allowed me to write the book because I could look back and see how I perceived experiences throughout my life and see it in a whole new perspective now that time has passed," explained Wachler.

"Copy and Paste" is written as a metaphor to really make an impact on the reader. Wachler hopes the book will allow readers to examine their life and find something beautiful and meaningful.

This is Wachler's first published book. Wachler is known mostly as a jeweler who specializes in meaningful designs. He also has a life coaching business with his brother.

Wachler said reaction to "Copy and Paste" has been extremely positive. And he believes it's really a book for all ages.

"I've shared it with some teachers and they are talking about possibly bringing it into the classroom," said Wachler.

Wachler also offers a set of questions on his Web site for hook clubs interested in reading and discussing "Copy and Paste."

ing and discussing "Copy and Paste."

"It's all about helping people focus on what is important to them," said Wachler. "Stay focused on the now as opposed to what happened in the past or what may happen in the future."

For more information about "Copy and Paste," call (877) 485-8397 or go to www.admoremeaning.com.

Court denies appeal in death case

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

The Michigan State Court of Appeals recently denied Russell Steven Mitchell's appeal in the Eric Dean Perrine wrongful death case.

Now 21, Mitchell was Originally convicted of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated which caused Perrine's Aug. 18 2007, death.

"Defendant claims that his substantial rights were negatively impacted when the prosecutor plainly and erroneously presented incorrect and confusing information concerning gross negligence, and attempted to shift the burden of proof to defendant," the appeals court stated in their March 23 opinion. "After considering the entirety of the arguments made by both parties, we conclude that the prosecutor's statements were responsive to defendant's theory of the case, and were permissible."

Mitchell also there was error in the instructions given to the jury, but the court stated, "Instructions do not create error if they fairly presented the issues for trial and sufficiently protected the defendant's rights."

The justices stated that they were satisfied that the instructions were not confusing and that the defendant's rights were, "sufficiently protected."

Mitchell was found guilty in April 2008 and then sentenced in May of that year after, while intoxicated and driving a pickup truck, pulled out in front of Perrine, then 35, who was riding a

Charlevoix council steadfast on fire/EMS offer

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

Marion, Hayes, Norwood and Charlevoix Townships now have until May 1 to accept the city's fire/EMS proposal.

Council members Lyle Gennett and Greg Stevens were stem in their assessment of the process which has now lasted for nearly a year.

"We've worked on this long enough and this has been stretched out long enough," Gennett said. "They have to decide whether to sign with us or go elsewhere."

Council voted unanimously to immediately send a letter to the townships stating that the city's last offer was its final offer.

The city has been meeting with the townships involved to work out a plan to help recoup what the city says is nearly a $100,000 subsidy funded by city taxpayers on the behalf of the townships involved.

Currently Marion Township receives both fire and EMS services from the city at a cost of $41,345.

Eveline also receives fire and EMS services at an annual cost of $30,400.

Hayes Township receives EMS services only at a cost of $6,030.

Charlevoix Township, which possesses its own fire department, pays $18,198 for EMS services from the City of Charlevoix and provides fire protection for Hayes Township.

The most recent call-based proposal from the City to the townships had a deadline of March 19.

As of earlier this week, all the townships had responded, either verbally or in writing.

Charlevoix Township officials said they were still considering their options for EMS services.

Hayes Township decided to forego city EMS coverage due to the proposed increase and is considering alternatives. It will continue to receive fire services from Charlevoix Township.

Marion Township has decided to go with Charlevoix Township's fire protection due to proposed fee increase and officials are considering an alternative for EMS services.

Norwood Township officials have asked to renew their contract at its current rate of .5 mils for both fire and EMS.

Eveline Township has agreed to the new proposal for both fire and EMS services.

Stevens said he was concerned the townships were dictating to the city how to proceed.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

The following statistics are accumulated by arrests made by this office, the Michigan State Police, Boyne City Police Dept., and East Jordan Police Dept. and were booked into the Charlevoix County Jail. Only seven of these arrests were attributed to the Carnival Days at Boyne Mt.

Arrests: Operating While Intoxicated (7); Possession of Marijuana (5); Felony warrant (2); Minor in Possession (1); Assault & Battery (2); Disorderly Person (3) for a total of 20.

Sheriff is pleased with the job of his officers and reserve officers, assisting law enforcement agencies and Boyne Mt. Security in keeping the arrests down and the weekend primarily safe and orderly.

PHONE SCAM

Sheriff W. D. (Don) Schneider would like to reiterate the importance for citizens to confirm with law enforcement by calling 911 and speaking with an officer to check the need for funds to be sent/wired abroad in case of any type of emergency (i.e. arrest, illness, accident, etc.).

We've had multiple citizens scammed and lost thousands of dollars because they wired funds abroad to help a family member(s) out of some sort of predicament.

Please, in order to be safe, be sure to contact 911 Central Dispatch to have a law enforcement officer check on the validity of the emergency call prior to wiring any money funds.

It's always better to be safe than sorry.

Road fix bid comes in under estimateSTEVE ZUCKER NEWS-REVIEW

The low bid for the first phase of reconstruction work on Boyne City-Charlevoix Road slated for this summer has come in nearly $200,000 less than the engineer's estimate.

Charlevoix County Road Commission Manager Pat Harmon said only two companies bid on the project that will reconstruct 2.75 miles of the county's main east-west route, from Nelson Road to Summer Road.

Payne and Dolan, which has a Gaylord office, submitted the low bid at $874,394. That's $194,000 less than the engineer's $1,069 million estimate and $61,000 less than the other bidder, Reith-Riley, which operates a Bay Shore location.

At Monday's regular semi-monthly meeting, the road commission — absent chairman Doug Way — approved a motion to award the bid to Payne and Dolan contingent upon approval Wednesday by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

The county board must give its approval for expenditure of the money for the project because the money will come from a county-wide 1-mill road millage approved by voters in 2008.

The project is expected to begin around May 1 and be completed by the end of July.

Harmon said the road commission could consider extending the project west by a short distance with the money saved on the lower-than-expected bid. However, he noted that it would probably be better to wait to see how bids come in on a project to reconstruct Peninsula Road. The road commission has been expecting to need a loan of about $170,000 from the county board to cover its match for federal stimulus funds that will pay for most of the Peninsula Road project.

He said even if the Peninsula Road bids come in under estimates, it still would be wise to keep some money set aside for potential overages on either of the two projects.

Harmon went on to note that the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road project could only be extended a short distance west anyway because shortly after Summer Road, the reconstruction will get into an area in which a drainage problem needs to be corrected. That section of the project is not slated until the third phase of the project, which will be at least two to three years from now.

The second phase of the project is expected to take place in 2011 starting from U.S. 31 and working east. A good portion of that phase will be paid for through federal road funds which were allocated to the road commission several years ago in a rotating program of funding.

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr., who has been acting as a liaison between city council and the townships who could receive their respective notice within days.

Hayes is paid up until Oct. 31.

Charlevoix Township, Norwood and Marion are all paid through April 30.

If Hayes refuses the city's offer, the city could give them 30 days notice, send them a refund for the prorated portion and cut their service.

Charlevoix City Manager

Rob Straebel said he understood council's frustration with the process, but felt giving the townships a roughly 40-day extension to make a final determination was in the city's best interest.

"I think there is a right thing to do here," he said. "I have had conversations with some township heads in recent days and they've asked, 'What can we do to make this happen?'"

Straebel added, "I think giving them until May 1 is a good faith measure."

Now the matter is up to the townships who could receive their respective notice within days.

Debunking the Myths of Immigration
An Afternoon with Father Wayne

On Sunday April 25, Father Wayne Dziekan, Director of the Secretariat for Justice and Peace for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Gaylord, will speak on the topic of immigration at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Dziekan

His presentation, titled "Another Point of View: Debunking the Myths of Immigration" will look at the forces that compel people to leave their homes and draw them to the United States, the beneficial economic impact of immigration, and the daily struggles of migrant workers.

Born and raised in Chicago, Father Wayne received his BS in Biological Sciences from the University of Chicago. He received his Master of Divinity from the Sacred Heart School of Theology, and was ordained as a Roman Catholic Priest for the diocese of Gaylord in 1994. He has served as an Associate Pastor, Pastor, and temporary Pastor at several churches in northwest Michigan.

Father Wayne has traveled, studied, and served throughout Latin America. In 2006 he served as temporary Pastor among the indigenous Chiquitano people in San Antonio de Lomerio, Bolivia, the area portrayed in the movie "The Mission," starring Robert De-Niro.

He studied Spanish in San Cristobal de las Casas, Chiapas State, Mexico, and at Cochabamba, Bolivia. He was a member of the official delegation of the Diocese of Gaylord to Matagalpa State, Nicaragua. He has traveled through much of Guatemala, western Bolivia, and southern Peru to focus on the plight of the poor and indigenous cultures. Father Wayne works with coffee farmers in the Yungas area of Bolivia, outside of La Paz, and helps to develop micro-financing programs with the Pro-Agro Coffee Cooperative.

Forced to discontinue their fact-finding trips to the U.S.-Mexican border due to escalating drug violence, Father Wayne and colleague Gladys Munoz began a series of "border immersion" trips to Puerto Rico. There they focus on Catholic social teaching, community organization including a women's cooperative, and the impact of the U.S. military presence at Vieques. They also lead an annual 5-day "Summer Youth Mission Experience," where they provide an opportunity for Northern Michigan youth to learn about migrant workers and their impact on local, state, and U.S. economies.

Father Wayne says, "I really look forward to doing a presentation on immigration with folks from the Charlevoix area. There is so much misinformation and misunderstanding out there on this important issue, and people are literally dying as a result. My hope is to put a bit of a human face on the issues, to help people overcome their fears and begin to look at the real causes of immigration. It is the only path to peace with respect to immigration issues."

This free event will include a video, time for audience questions and participation, and snack breaks. It is sponsored by the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom, and is open to all. For more information, call Jeanne Engstrand at 588-2135.

Defining your purpose in life

We recently celebrated dad's ninety fourth year of life. In between scooping up grandkids and cutting dad's food I took time to contemplate. What attributes did he possess that gave him this wonderful extended warranty on life?

In my twenties and thirties it was easy to pick a direction and push myself to learn about life and the fruits of happiness. Now I am in this chapter referred to as the golden years and it's easy to lose your way.

Once out of the day to day work force you often times lose contact with friends you worked with and though you have more time to spend with others, those others may be on another track in their lives. In my time spent with newly retired individuals I cannot stress enough the importance that you need to continue to feel the purpose in your life.

Retirement is not about sitting on the front porch rocking in a chair, cutting out store coupons and planning your funeral. It's a gift of time to help others with your ability and time to do so. It's time to learn a new activity whether it be a language or learning to play the piano. It's important to remain physical, exercising your body as well as your mind and challenging yourself each day; even if it's to memorize your grocery list.

The key to healthy aging is having a sense of purpose.

Rush University Medical Center in Chicago uses questionnaires to rate the sense of purpose of retired men and women. Those individuals who enjoyed making plans and carrying them out, retirees involved with daily activities and still setting goals lived a healthier life with less risk of dementia.

Dying from any cause was nearly cut in half among men and women who were active later in life. In Japan researchers did a similar study and found evidence of protection from heart attacks and strokes in middle aged men if they stayed active physically and became involved in their community.

Staying engaged with others and finding life meaningful also protects us from depression.

It's good to wring out as much pleasure from everyday life as you can. Doing things you love doing only enhances appreciation for life. Even though it appears narcissistic one needs to focus on themselves occasionally to better help those around them.

Role modeling loving life is infectious, so if you are having a good time doing volunteer work others will follow your lead.

We all have inevitable upsets in life but those are our teachable moments. They give us time to re-examine what's really important. Change is really personal empowerment. Becoming and staying healthy is not a competition to outlive your friends. Life is a gift that can be rescinded at any given moment.

It's enjoying life because you simply can.

Pay checks and wrinkle removers are short lived perks. Spending money on clothes, computers and collections bring us happiness but it is

You are better off spending that money to create memories; like traveling, dinner out or attending a concert.

Happiness is looking at your favorite old pictures and reviewing your journey in life.

Taking a walk and noticing all that is around you as if seeing nature for the first time.

I've found my purpose and since this adventure called life only comes once I'm choosing to make it a long one.

PERRINE CASE Continued from page 1

The crash occurred at the corner of Eddy School and Derceny Roads in Antrim County.

Mitchell was sentenced to serve up to 15 years in prison.

A wrongful death suit was also brought against Mitchell and several settlements were arranged.

The Perrine family received the following dollar amounts in the settlement:

- Father Bryan Perrine — $11,300 for funeral costs; $39,389.98 for loss of society and companionship
- Mother Joan Perrine — $30,079.62 for loss of society and companionship
- Sister Eva Perrine Ferris — $2,148.56 for loss of society and companionship

Mitchell's attorney Darrell M. Amelin of St. Clair Shores could not be reached for a comment by press time.

And, in this era of school shootings the burden on school officials to safeguard your children is heavier than ever. If no other good comes from this event, it may provide an opportunity to examine this dichotomy of liberty and security and further fine tune policies and procedures to help ensure constitutional protection is maintained for all.

LETTERS to the editor

LIFE TRUMPS ALL

I'm responding to Connie Saltonstall's "had enough" comment in the Detroit News, claiming Mr. Stupak's dogmatic insertion of religion almost cost America the Health Care reform. Regardless of his religion, his main concern was for life! I too was dismayed at his final sell-out and wonder if the hundreds of thousands going to his district for airport repairs was part of the deal. Up to Sunday afternoon he portrayed someone we could actually believe in. Unfortunately he fell ill to the sickness Washington seems to spread, affecting Democrats and Republicans alike.

Last week Mr. Keith Obermann touted the Health Care Bill as being all about saving lives, and if not supported people will die! He claimed our Democrats to be the "party of life" and wanting to help the "cries of the pain" from the suffering people. Unfortunately, he failed to mention that those "cries of pain" only apply to people who are 9 months and 1 day old. Those who do not qualify will continue to be burnt, separated, and crushed in utero under the guise of the Democratic Death Panels. Who will respond to their unheard cries? The American people will, regardless of their religious beliefs, because interwoven with life are many other values lacking in Washington at this time. By predicating your candidacy on Mr. Stupak's stance against the reform (namely supporting life) you are ignoring the fact that he at least stood up for his morals. That is what America is looking for. You don't have to be Democrat or Republican, only moral. You have to support life. You have to do what you promised without being bought and sold for a vote. I would say you have already sold out based on your comments. Voters of all religions who treasure morals and life are watching and taking notes; and yes we have had enough! We will no longer accept politics as usual because we've seen it in action over the past year and are sickened. You need to represent all people, not just your Party, because it's the right thing to do and everyone is watching closely to see how life will play out under the sell-outs. A fed up, worried citizen,

THANK YOU OLESON'S MARKET

Thank you so much to Oleson's Markets for their very generous continued support of students through their register receipts program. Through their generosity, hundreds of students through the years have been able to travel to Washington D.C. during their eighth grade year at Charlevoix Middle School.

Students meet early on a Tuesday morning to load a charter bus for our nation's capital. Some of the historical places they get an opportunity to visit are: Washington Monument, The Holocaust Museum, The Smithsonian, Arlington Cemetery, Mt. Vernon, The War Memorials and Vietnam Wall, Ford's Theater, the National Zoo and more before returning on Saturday morning.

The price of this trip is substantial for many families especially during these tough economic times. By collecting Oleson's receipts, students are given a percentage of the points accumulated on the register receipts.

Thank you to all our community members who have dropped off their Oleson's receipts as donations for students who may need assistance in paying for this trip. Your kindness is much appreciated.

Anyone willing to donate receipts to the students of Charlevoix Middle School may drop them off in the school's front office.

Thank you again to Oleson's Markets and to our generous community on behalf of Charlevoix Middle School students and staff.

TO HELL WITH TAXES

The hell with taxes the thieves are the only ones that are benefiting from there collection.

Michigan tax breaks are not working and the proof lies in the recent Scam of $9.1 million dollars to a scam artist without any back ground check. Easy money which belongs to all who resides in the state and pay taxes to the state so they can irresponsibly give it away to the numerous scam artists in wait. What happen to the checks and balances of government? In the state of Michigan it is obvious that it does not occupy the minds of any who reside at the capital and the lames brains that allowed millions to continue to slip in unqualified hands. Why even vote? This constant dysfunctional government is stealing us all blind! It amazes me how the so-called free stimulus monies continue ending up in the hands that need it the least and continues to allow the prolific scholars have predicted that this country is falling into debt that it will never recover from, condemning numerous generations. Without augment reinforcements this country is going in the wrong direction. We are all dumfounded as we smile while the government continues the stimulus enema encouraging one to enjoying and become addicted of being shafted.

I encourage the total eradication of government as we know it today—is necessary for true change.

The people must rule their own destiny! I actually pray for the return of simpler times but that will not happen with bigger and irresponsible consumption as they ask the people to suffer while the top echelon refuses to reel in the spending. The "HELL" with this government of so called ill radical change The only movement that will come from the Obama clan will be one that is forced with over the counter Metamucil as its impetus.

Fourth Amendment violated?

EDITORIAL

To search and seize or not to search and seize — that is the question.

When does a school official's right to protect the student body clash with an individual's right to, as the Fourth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution says, "...be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated..."?

The ACLU, apparently relying on the accounts of parents, students and community members concerned with the events surrounding the May 21 2008, discovery of vandalism and subsequent school administration and police involvement.

While opponents may argue the finer points, here is what we believe to be true based on police reports, court documents and investigation into the matter:

- In the early morning hours the day of the event, paint was splashed and sprayed on numerous walls, floors and other surfaces in a modular home built by the Charlevoix High School building and trades students and located behind the school located at 5200 Marion Center Road.

- The vandalism was discovered by two students during their first hour building and trades class and by 9:30 a.m. law enforcement were at the school inspecting the hands and feet of nearly 400 students.

- This is where things get a little fuzzy.

The Michigan Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, Suttons Bay Northwest Branch, claim a lock down ensued and students were told not to leave their classrooms for nearly three hours forcing some students to miss their lunch hour and denying bathroom use for some students.

School officials claim the event did not last three hours, but would not say how long the event lasted. One school official also said the event was not a lock down and that students were "asked" to stay in their classrooms while police investigated the matter.

Now the ACLU has written to both the Charlevoix County Sheriff Office and the Charlevoix Public Schools administration asking them to reexamine their respective policies on how investigations at the school are handled.

Both entities have said they will soon respond to the letters in writing, but did not say what their communications would contain.

On one hand, the Fourth Amendment does not specify that one must reach a minimum age for Constitutional protection to apply.

On the other hand, school officials must have the ability to respond to perceived threats to school safety.

The further we delve into this matter the more questions are raised.

Did a lock down occur? If not, then what does the school consider a lock down to be?

Was there ever a time when the safety of school property, students or staff was ever in question?

How many students were inspected and detained?

Would it have been reasonable for law enforcement to inspect every student in the school if there was no threat to physical safety.

The bottom line is finding an equitable fit between public safety and the right to privacy may never occur as the two can never completely coexist.

Right or wrong, every time you step on a jet at an American airport, you have given up your Fourth Amendment rights in lieu of the potential for an increase in safety.

And, in this era of school shootings the burden on school officials to safeguard your children is heavier than ever.

If no other good comes from this event, it may provide an opportunity to examine this dichotomy of liberty and security and further fine tune policies and procedures to help ensure constitutional protection is maintained for all.

The Charlevoix Football team successfully defended their title by winning the U.P. Powerlifting Championship this past weekend. Charlevoix's top lifter was Jake McLean with a 925lb total that included a 405lb dead lift. Tanner Catt and Myles Kerr placed first in their weight class. A special thanks to Tom Rankl, Dave Swanson, Keith Carey, Glen Catt, Roger Knoop, and Doug Waha for helping make the trip possible.

U.S. NAVY

M. Riley of Charlevoix, Mich., recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Riley completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor. Riley is a 2008 graduate of Northwest Academy of Charlevoix, Mich.

OBITUARIES

John L. Hagaman: Nov. 24, 1938 - Mar. 24, 2010

John L. Hagaman, 71, of Charlevoix, Michigan passed away Wednesday, March 24, 2010, at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

He was born on November 24, 1938, in Ranger, Texas, the son of Leslie Hillsman and Helen Howdyshehl Hagaman. He grew up in Ranger, Texas, and graduated from Ranger High School in 1957. On July 23, 1960, in Ranger, Texas, he married Nelda Melton. John graduated in 1961, from Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas, receiving a Bachelor's degree in Agricultural Engineering. He continued his relationship with Texas A&M throughout his life and was awarded the 1999, College of Agriculture and Life Sciences Outstanding Alumni Award.

John joined The Dow Chemical Company in 1961. His 38-year career path allowed him to contribute to many aspects of the company around the world. He moved to Hong Kong in 1967 where he served in a number of Agricultural and Specialty Product positions before becoming Business Development Manager for Japan in 1970. He returned to Midland, Michigan in 1973 in Agricultural Products, but assumed an assignment a year later in Hong Kong as a Business Development Manager. In 1978, John moved to Korea where he was appointed Executive Vice President and General Manager of Korea Pacific Chemical Corporation. Two years later he became General Manager of the Korea Region, and in 1982, he was named a Vice President of Dow Pacific. John returned to Midland in early 1983 as Product Director for Commercial Products in the Global Agricultural Products Department. In 1985, he became Vice President of Dow Chemical U.S.A. and General Manager of North America Agricultural Products. In the same year he was named President and General Manager of Global Agricultural Products for The Dow Chemical Company and served in this position until October 31, 1989.

At that time John was named President and Chief Executive Officer of DowElanco, a joint venture between Eli Lilly and Company and The Dow Chemical Company. In 1997, DowElanco became a wholly owned subsidiary of The Dow Chemical Company and changed its name to Dow AgroSciences LLC on January 1, 1998, during his tenure as Chief Executive. John retired as Chief Executive Officer of Dow AgroSciences in 1999. In 2003, John served as an advisor for Olympus Capital in their investment of Arysta LifeSciences. Later he served as an interim Chief Executive Officer for Arysta LifeSciences and in 2004, moved to Chairman of the Arysta Board of Directors. He retired as Chairman of the Arysta Board of Directors in 2008.

John is a past President of the Global Crop Production Federation. He has served as a member of the Boards of Directors for the Indianapolis Zoological Society, Goodwill Industries of Central Indiana and the Indianapolis Convention & Visitors Association. In addition to several other associations, he was a member of the Agricultural Engineering Society, Greater Indianapolis Progress Committee, Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety, Charlevoix Lions Club and volunteered for Big Brothers of America.

John was a prolific reader, enjoyed golf and boating, had an in-depth interest in market strategy and was an avid world traveler, fully absorbing local cultures. He loved people from all walks of life and had an innate ability to connect with them.

He is survived by his wife, Nelda Hagaman of Charlevoix; daughter, Laura (Douglas) Hampton of Ann Arbor; son, Leslie (Jane) Hagaman of Traverse City; grandchildren, Tyler and Melanie Hampton; and sister, Betty Doebbler of Huntsville, Texas. He is preceded in death by his parents and sister, Francis Markham.

A private service will be held on April 2, 2010 at our home with arrangements by the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. An Open House will also be held as a celebration of John's life on Sunday, April 18, 2010 from 2:00 pm until 6:00 pm in our home in Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Helen and Leslie Hagaman Scholarship Fund to support the future dreams of Ranger High School seniors, Ranger Independent School District, 1842 Loop 254 East, Ranger, Texas 76470; 1961 Fund for Excellence, Biological & Agricultural Engineering Department, Texas A&M University, 2117 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-2117; and Good Samaritan Family Services food pantry, P.O. Fashion show to raise cancer awareness

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
EDITOR

You've probably heard her voice on the radio, but what you might not know is how active Mel Majors is in the cancer awareness community.

However, there was a time when the 40-year-old breast cancer survivor and producer of the Vic McCarty Show on AM 1270 WMKT wasn't so familiar with local efforts to fight cancer.

"I didn't do any charity events until about two to three months before I was diagnosed with cancer," she said. "I was working and just picked a charity off a list and it happened to be the Relay 4 Life."

Majors said it wasn't long after working her first cancer fundraiser and awareness event that she found a large lump in her right breast.

"The doctor who did the biopsy was surprised by my diagnosis," she said. "I was young and in great physical shape since I play hockey but when they called with the test results they said, 'How fast can you get down here?'"

Majors said she knew right then that she was positive for cancer.

Lucky for Majors the cancer had not spread to her nodes and following 12 rounds of chemotherapy and 16 rounds of radiation, she was cancer-free.

"It will be year three in September," she said. "After five years they consider you in full remission."

Now well versed in the life

When Mel Majors isn't producing the Vic McCarty Show on AM 1270 WMKT, she spends time working with local groups to raise awareness about the importance of cancer screenings. Majors will be one of the models showing off spring clothing at the Charlevoix Circle of Strength fashion show later in April. Majors lives with her fiancé Douglas Kasischke in Petoskey.

of one who is forced to fight cancer, Majors understands the importance of support groups, awareness raising events and fundraisers.

Kathy Jacobsen, a Registered Nurse and Charlevoix Area Hospital Community Health Education director, invited Majors to participate in this year's fashion show put on by the Circle of Strength, a cancer support group.

"Kathy called me and I said I would do it," Majors said. "Any time I have time for an event like this I try to do it because there was a time when cancer was said with a whisper and nobody wanted to talk about it."

She added, "I feel like, if I can speak about this when other people can't, then maybe someone will get an examination or go for a physical."

Majors also works to raise awareness through her highly rated blog thecancerwarrior.blogspot.com and her podcast at empowerradio.com.

"I didn't feel sick when I was diagnosed," Majors said. "It can strike anyone and that's why it is so important to know the symptoms and get checked."

The fashion show, which will feature hors d'oeuvres and chocolate is scheduled from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday April 24 in the Charlevoix Public Library's community rooms.

Charlevoix residents on a mission

BY RACHEL BROUGHAM
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

While many area students are looking forward to spring break and summer vacation, some are planning to spend a long weekend helping fellow youth who need it most.

Pastor Neil Wilson of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix will head to Indiana in April with a group of students and parents. There, they will lend a helping hand to youth with emotional and behavioral issues.

"This ministry trip was picked out by our confirmation class," explained Wilson. "They really wanted to help others their age and chose this particular organization. It's going to be a great experience for everyone."

The students, along with a few parents, will head to Ft. Wayne, Ind. on April 16.

There, they'll spend a few days with the Crossroad Organization.

The Crossroad Organization is a non-profit treatment center for troubled children, mostly teens.

Counselors, teachers, therapists, and chaplains all work together to provide children with the support they need through therapy, education, and family support services.

"When we're there, we'll probably spend a lot of time doing work in the housing areas. A lot of painting, cleaning, small repairs, that kind of thing," said Wilson.

This is the first year the church will work with Crossroad, but this isn't the first trip for Pastor Wilson and his wife — they've been working with the organization for about 15 years.

"We gave our group of kids several options of places we could go this spring, and they chose Crossroad because they really wanted to help other kids their age," said Wilson. "It will be great to see them helping others their own age."

Money for the trip has been earned through various fundraisers including garage sales, benefit dinners, and donations.

Those looking to donate can still do so, whether by making a monetary donation or through donating items such as toiletries, school supplies, and clothing.

For more on the project and items needed, go to www.crossroad-fwc.org/.

Cleaning up your Windows computer

BY MARK MAYNARD
DR. COMPUTER

Your computer is likely a lot slower now than when you first took it out of the box. Some machines are so slow that the user is considering shelling out the cash for a new one. Make sure that the computer has been given a proper clean-up and memory upgrade before you consider the alternative of a new machine.

Most people use their computer for email and browsing the web. Pictures and music are close seconds. These common applications do not require a great deal of computer power. Even a five year old machine designed for XP is more than adequate if it has a decent amount of memory and is not trashed up with unnecessary programs, viruses and spyware.

A free virus program like AVG will go a long way towards preventing viruses and spyware. Preventing malware infections is much easier than curing a raging infection. Paid subscriptions to computer security software like Norton, McAfee and others are excellent, just don't let the subscription expire unless you plan on uninstalling the expired program and installing a new program. If you want to go from a paid subscription to free protection make sure you uninstall the paid program before installing the new program. My personal preference is AVG Free and it shows up in the top three of most lists of free security software.

It is also extremely important to leave the computer running and connected to a high speed internet connection. This will allow your anti-virus software to perform nightly scans and look for daily updates. It also provides Windows the opportunity to download and install operating system updates. The computers with the worst infections are those that have the most out of date versions of Windows.

If you haven't kept your operating system and anti-virus program up-to-date you are probably infected with some form of computer virus. There are many virus and malware resource available online. I recommend a website called "The Parasite Fight" (put those words into your favorite search engine, it comes up first in Google).

If you suspect that your computer is infected you should download and run programs like Windows Defender, Spybot Search and Destroy, and Ad-Aware SE. These will go a long ways toward clearing out most of the malware. Having more than one anti-virus program actively protecting your computer is a bad thing. That situation by itself will cause dramatic slowdowns.

The next thing is to clean up Internet Explorer (IE). You can delete temporary files and reset Internet Explorer settings in the General and Advanced tabs of the Internet Properties Box (Internet Options from Control Panel). On this point it is advisable to have an alternate browser loaded on your machine. There are many that favor Mozilla Firefox, my personal favorite is Google Chrome.

The free program CCLEANER is useful for these clean-up activities and also contains a registry cleaner, start-up cleaner and program uninstaller. Next get rid of extra tool bars using Add/Remove Programs (XP Control Panel). While you are in there remove any programs that you recognize as no longer needed. "Google" others that you are not sure of. Avoid deleting stuff from Microsoft or the computer manufacturer. Be careful not to delete software associated with your display adapter, sound card, network adapters or other peripherals.

Next you need to get rid of unnecessary Windows Start-up programs. The traditional way to do this is with MSCONFIG, although I prefer CCLEANER as it is much easier to use. After the viruses are gone cleaning up Internet Explorer and Start-up programs are going to make a major difference in the speed of your computer.

After doing your clean-up it is a good idea to run a registry cleaner. Another good thing after the clean-up is to create a restore point. You can find that under Accessories, System Tools, System Restore.

If your computer has less than a gigabyte of RAM and is running XP, an upgrade to two gigabytes will make a major difference. Even going from 256 Megabytes 512 Mb will yield noticeable improvement. With Vista you should be running at least three gigs of RAM, more is better.

Get rid of malware, clean up Internet Explorer, delete unnecessary start-up programs and add some memory if necessary. Keep your virus software and operating system up-to-date. These self maintenance tasks will keep that old XP computer running well enough to continue to serve up email and web pages for a long time to come.

Up in a blaze on Park Street

PHOTOS BY PATTI DIMOND

Patti Dimond of Charlevoix captured these photos of the 108 Park Ave. house as it was burned early Wednesday morning March 24. The house was burned for scenes in the upcoming feature film "The Frontier Boys" which has been primarily shot in and around Charlevoix. Due to several delays, the house fire was not lit until approximately 5:15 a.m. that morning. The house fire also afforded the Charlevoix City Fire Department an opportunity for some needed training. Look for "The Frontier Boys" movie to be released by Grooters Productions sometime in the winter/spring of 2011.

Air Force auxiliary open to new members

BY TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE
COURIER

The Northern Michigan wing of the Civil Air Patrol operates with an emphasis on emergency preparedness services.

The local squadron conducts special training sessions every third Saturday on topics such as flying, aerial photography and search and rescue.

"We work very closely with the Coast Guard and state police," said Nancy Loening, a second Lieutenant of squadron 610 which draws its membership from the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula and the tip of the mitt as far south as Gaylord.

"If someone gets lost in the woods or gets confused we will go out on foot."

Dec. 1, 1941, the Director of Civilian Defense of the United States of America signed an order creating the formal organization of the Civil Air Patrol.

The CAP played a vital role in the discovery and, in two instances, bombing of German submarines along the East Coast of the U.S. during World War II.

Since then civilian pilots, aviation mechanics and enthusiasts have been running search and rescue missions as an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force.

"We've been involved in most of the missions in Northern Michigan," said Lieutenant Colonel Dave Montgomery, Squadron

610 Commander. "Several years ago there were some crashes and we've done damage assessment aerial photos for the National weather service."

The Northern Michigan wing of the CAP includes 45 squadrons in Traverse City, Cadillac, Alpena, Grayling and Gaylord.

Squadron 610 is the northernmost squadron.

"We want people to come see us at a meeting, fill out an application," said Loening. "The meetings happen to be in Gaylord but we are not a Gaylord group."

She added, "We would love to recruit people from Charlevoix, Petoskey, and Boyne City."

The Northern Michigan CAP squadron holds meetings from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on the first and third Thursdays of each month at the Gaylord Regional Airport.

New stylists

The Hair Quarters Salon of Charlevoix has three new stylists, they are Mikki Traverse, Hali Sundellus and Jenni Liotta. Sundellus graduated from the Grand Rapids Chic Empire Beauty School, Traverse graduated from the Traverse City Beauty College and Liotta graduated from the Up North School of Cosmetology of Petoskey.

"I just want to make people feel beautiful," Sundellus said. "It's a big part of today's society."

Liotta added that she has always wanted to work in the beauty field since she was a child.

The Hair Quarters, located at 100 Michigan Ave., is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Fridays and Wednesdays; 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays.

Call 547-0113 for more information.
